SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

The universe seemed whirling around, with her, Shirley Carstone, for its pivotal point. She answered, faintly:

"Mr. Morrison!"

He came and sat down beside her.

She tried to think of something to say. She did say:

"I didn't think you would have known me, Mr. Morrison.

For answer he quoted softly:

"I count myself in nothing else so happy,
As in a soul remembering my good friends."

Then he spoke easily and lightly:

"What in the world are you doing here, Shirley?"

She smiled, with the old gleam of fun in her eyes.

"I am reporting the Psycho-physikethicological Institute for The Morning Herald."

"Don't you think you are a little bit crazy?"

"I'm not sure. But if I be I, which I think I be, then I'm sure some of the members of that institution are."

"What do they do?"

"Oh, they go mooning about over the universal everywhere, and grabble after the infinite."

He smiled with amusement. "Can you understand them," he said.

"Well, sometimes I get tangled up between the actuality of the present and the reality of the possible. But that's all a joke compared to the fundamental archetypes of sociology. That's what really floors me, you know. They just pour out their souls upon the fundamental archetypes of sociology."

"Well, don't stop 'em!"

"I don't intend to. But I would like to choke off their blessed bosh, now and then, if I could. The fun of it is, they fancy they understand one another. If you outside, vox populi, don't understand, then so much the worse for you!"

He laughed again, but said not[illegible] was joy and perfect peace only [illegible] hear her, to hear her voice. It seemed to be a relief from embarrassment for her to run on. She asked him:

"Do you mean to say you are not here to attend the Psycho-physikethicological institute?"

He seemed a little confused.

"No, no," he said; "I am only here for two days, on private business. Let me see the report you make, Shirley; how long is it?"

She smiled merrily and held up the bundle of paper she had covered. "How long is it? All day long."

He would not talk of himself. He only said he had been in the west, and had been busy all these years.

"Tell me what has happened in Linwood," he said. "I have not a heard a word from it since I left. I thought you would have been married long ago, Shirley."

She looked at him a little reproachfully; then suddenly, as the thought of all she had lost since he left her came back, a shadow of grief and pain came over her bright, sweet face. She told him of her father's terrible death, of the loss of her fortune, of how she was in his old place as teacher.

I write for newspapers, too," she said, brightening again. "I condense solemn information from agricultural reports for the readers of The Morning Herald. I can tell you to a dot, too, what effect the new dog tax law is going to have on the politics of the state."

"But why do you not write your poem?"

She flushed slightly. "Mother is an invalid," she said. "We need so many things. I must do all I can to get money. I—I have so much to look after. It seems as though I never get time to commence my poem. But I have not given it up, Mr. Morrison. Don't think that."

Her voice quivered a little.

The master read and perceived.

"I see it all," he said sadly. "You are father and mother and bread winner to them all. I never looked for this for you. My dear girl, my poor Shirley."

He stroked her hair softly, and with infinite tenderness.

Mr. Morrison lingered on from day to day. He seemed not to be able to break the light chains that held him there. Yet he appeared restless and ill at ease. He spoke of going from day to day, though he did not go. He was reserved, and kept apart from the rest.

But he hovered about Shirley always, not oppressively, but just enough. He wrote half her reports for her. He had the fine graceful tact, the polished ease of manner of one who knows just what to do in the right place. He knew and met her every little wish, almost before it was formed. He never seemed to be looking for her, but ever his eyes sought hers with messages of courage and sympathy.

Shirley was in a paradise. It was so strangely sweet to her, the lonely girl, to find somebody who thought she needed help and sympathy. It is the doom of those who spend their lives caring for others, that none ever fancy they themselves need to be taken care of.

Little things are much to a woman, very much.

It was the first time since her father died that anybody had taken a thought of Shirley's happiness and comfort. In six years it had occurred to nobody that she had any little wants or wishes of her own. Therefore was this human sympathy unspeakably sweet to her.

The world shaking deliberations of the Psycho-physikethicologians drew to a close. The last afternoon these phosphoric intellects so far forgot their mission as to have a picnic. One blushes to record it. They amused themselves. Many went on boat excursions over the lake.

"Shirley," said Mr. Morrison, "I want you to come with me this evening. This is the last. Wear your white dress, too, and put a rose in your hair. That is how I wish to remember you. I am to have you all to myself this evening, mind."

He led her to the beach and seated her in a little skiff. He took the oars himself. With a few powerful strokes they shot out into the moonlit lake.

"I have found a place along the lake that I want to show you," he said. "I think it will please you."

In half an hour he tied the boat at the shore in the deep hollow of a tiny crescent bay. A cluster of beautiful trees grew there. Near by a brook tumbled over a cliff, and then gathered itself up and went on again into the lake. The summer wind murmured low among the trees. The miniature waterfall murmured back in music. The drops of water made a million white lights in the moonbeams. All was cool and restful.

Shirley clasped her hands with delight. "How lovely! How lovely this is!"

"I thought you would like it," said the master, quietly.

All that afternoon they had been near each other. In company with two or three of the learned lights, they had gone botanizing, picnicking, naturalisting, and the Lord knows what. It had been, in a way, like the vanished days of Linwood, yet different. Yes, there was a difference now.

Little matter was it that they had not been alone. They were happier, perhaps, on that account. The sweet, subtle sympathy that joined them could well be left unspoken. The silver line stretched between them, invisible to all but themselves.

They found a seat beneath the beautiful trees.

Shirley sat in silence, with her hands softly clasped in her lap, and looked out at the water and moonlight.

"This has been the happiest day of my life," said Mr. Morrison, at length.

"And mine, too," replied Shirley, hardly knowing what she said.

He leaned toward her till his head touched the rose in her hair. Was it the wind, or the brook, or what was it that whispered in tones broken and sweet.

"I fight no more against the tide! Shirley, my star, my lily! Oh, how I love you!"

But they were a kingly pair, these two strong, beautiful ones!

Lower and lower the southern moon dipped; its rays shimmered across the waterfall, but they did not heed it. At last he arose with a start.

"Do you know how late it is, Shirley?"

"No," says Shirley, "and I'm afraid to ask."

They entered the tiny boat hastily. The last rays of the southern moon glinted across the whispering waterfall.

In the cool night silence they went to Shirley's cottage, they two. The swinging lamp yet burned in the porch. They passed in through the hallway.

The room inside was quite deserted. At the threshold Mr. Morrison said good night, with a grave, stately bow. He had taken a step away when Shirley clutched his arm suddenly.

"Look there!" she said.

A face was pressed against the glass outside, staring at them with wild, demoniac eyes. It was waxy white and emaciated. In all her life Shirley never again saw a countenance so frightful, so full of devilish malice as that. She shuddered from head to foot in spite of herself.

An awful look came into Georga Morrison's face. It was as if the frost of a thousand years had suddenly entered his heart.

"I will see what it is at once," he said. "It is nothing, don't mind it, Shirley."

He turned and left her with a bound.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

IMPROVED.—Mr. C. Young has just completed a neat and commodious office in the grist mill.

BASE BALL.—The local ball club is about to be resurrected.

SIDEWALK.—A movement is on foot to build a sidewalk from the canal to the two churches. Too much praise cannot be given to the originators of the scheme, and the REVIEW hopes to see it an accomplished fact. At the same time, to make a complete job of the affair, it should be extended to the school house.

DEER.—Deer were seen playing in Clear Lake on Saturday. Of course they knew it was the close season.

ACCIDENT.—As Mr. Eugene Parquette and a young lady were returning home from Bridgenorth on Monday the horse walked through an air hole in the ice and the occupants quickly vacated the rig. Some Indians lent a hand and rescued the horse from its perilous position.

HONOR ROLL.—The following is the Honor Roll of the school for March:—

Senior IV.—1st Louisa Kearney, 2nd Harry Kearney, 3rd Jennie Kearney, 4th Thos. J. Kearney.

Junior IV.—1st Fred Leonard 2nd Lizzie Costello, 3rd Chleo Godfrey, 4th Maud Scollard.

Class III.—1st Ida E. Kearney, 2nd Jas. J. Walsh, 3rd Amy A. Blewitt, 4th Harriet Northey.

Class II.—1st Lillie Belleghem, 2nd Mary J. Northey, 3rd Margaret Northey, 4th Dan. Costello.

Part II.—1st John Belleghem, 2nd Mary Anglesey, 3rd John G. Ayotte, 4th George Ayotte.

STEAMBOAT.—The Fairy is undergoing a thorough overhauling, in preparation for the season's trade. Between new paint, new cushions, and other new etceteras, the proprietor intends making her the neatest, as she is now the fastest, boat on the back lakes.

CAVAN.

SCHOOL REPORT.—The following is the report of Fair View S. S. No. 14, Cavan, for the month of March, 1887, Miss Beccie Fair, teacher:—

Fifth Class—1st Emma Earl, 2nd Ella Brown.

Sr. Fourth Class—1st Jennie McAllister, 2nd Martha Brown, 3rd Blanche Armstrong.

Jr. Fourth Class—1st Florence Deyell.

Sr. Third Class—1st Walter Burns, 2nd Alice Stuart, 3rd Edith Deyell.

Jr. Third Class—1st Wellington Deyell, 2nd Susie Tucker, 3rd Wilfred Brown.

Second Class—1st Ada Burns and Wilbert Latmer, 2nd Bertie Deyell, 3rd Walter Christie.

Part II Class—1st Erland Armstrong, 2nd Ross Stenson.

Part I Class (A)—1st Fred Strong, 2nd Johnny Doughty.

Part I Class (B)—1st Robert McAllister, 2nd Maggie Berry, Maggie Stuart and Walter Tucker, 3rd Mina Armstrong.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d99

For Children Starving to Death.

On account of their inability to digest ordinary food, Scott's Emulsion can be digested and give strength and flesh when all other food fails. See what Dr. A. H. Peck, Penn. Med. College, Philadelphia, says: "I have used and prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and find it an excellent preparation, agreeing well with the stomach, and its continued use adding greatly to the strength and comfort of the patient." NOTICE.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Indian Supplies," will be received at this office up to noon of SATURDAY, 30th April, 1887, for the delivery of Indian Supplies during the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1888, consisting of Flour, Bacon, Groceries, Ammunition, Twine, Oxen, Cows, Bulls, Agricultural Implements, Tools, &c., duty paid, at various points in Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

Forms of tender containing full particulars relative to the Supplies required, dates of delivery, &c., may be had by applying to the undersigned, or to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, or to the Indian Office, Winnipeg.

Parties may tender for each description of goods (or for any portion of each description of goods) separately or for all the goods called for in the Schedules, and the department reserves to itself the right to reject the whole or any part of a tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Cheque on a Canadian Bank in favour of the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs for at least five per cent. of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into a contract based on such tender when called upon to do so or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

Tenderers must make up in the Money columns in the Schedule the total money value of the goods they offer to supply or their tender will not be entertained.

Each tender must, in addition to the signature of the tenderer, be signed by two sureties acceptable to the department, for the proper performance of the contract.

When implements of a particular make are mentioned it is because the articles so designated suit the department for the purpose required better than others; in such cases the competition between tenderers must, of course, be in the transportation to the place of delivery.

In all cases where transportation may be only partial by rail, contractors must make proper arrangements for supplies to be forwarded at once from railway stations to their destination in the Government Warehouse at the point of delivery.

Tenderers will please note carefully the following conditions:—

1. Supplies will not be paid for until the Department has been assured of the satisfactory delivery of each article for which payment is claimed.
2. No tender for supplies of a description different to that given in the index will be considered, and supplies which are found, on delivery, to be of kind or quality different to those described, will be rejected by the agents of the department; and the contractor and his sureties will be held responsible for any loss entailed on the Department through failure to deliver in accordance with terms of contract.
3. It must be distinctly understood that supplies are to be delivered at the various points[illegible] named in the tender; that no other additional charge for packing or any other account will be entertained, and that an invoice must accompany each separate delivery of supplies. An invoice for each separate delivery must also be sent to the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa, and one to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, if the supplies are for the North-West Territories. When the supplies are for points in the Manitoba Superintendency the triplicate invoice should be sent to E. McColl, Winnipeg.
4. Prices must be given for articles to be delivered at each point of delivery named in the Schedule for each article for which a tender is submitted, and not an average price for each article at all points of delivery; no tender based on a system of averages will be considered.
5. Tenderers should understand that they must bear the cost, not only of sending their samples to the Department of Indian Affairs, but also freight charges incurred in returning such samples to the tenderer.
6. When supplies are to be delivered "equal to sample," tenderers should understand that the sample is to be seen either at the Department of Indian Affairs, at the office of the Indian Commissioner at Regina, at the office of the Inspector in charge at Winnipeg, or at any one of the undermentioned Indian Agencies.

ALL the novelties of the season in Millinery, Mantles, Mantle Cloths, Dress Goods, Trimmings, etc., etc., on display at TURNBULL'S on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

MAYTIME MILLINERY.

A PHANTASMA OF FANTASTIC FANCIES.

Profuse Provision of Floral and Fabric Novelties—Hats and Headgear of all Kinds—The Fashions.

If a person were given to springtime versifying—this is not to say that anyone in Peterborough has that failing—but if anyone had an inclination of that kind he could scarcely go around and visit the millinery rooms just now without lapsing into rhymes. The rooms are all in full bloom. The decorations are superb, profusion of materials of a thousand kinds with garlands of flowers of torrid beauty all being made to the duty so well as artistic hands can make them.

THE FASHIONS.

The most fashionable materials of this season do not differ greatly from those of last season. In hats the crowns are worn high and medium high, the preference being given to the latter. The brims are rolling, at all times narrow, and sometimes turn abruptly and go up the sides of the crown. The brim is disposed of in various and fantastic ways, such as guess work or fancy would be likely to suggest.

In colors, the greys and browns of all shades still hold their places. The new shades are rose de barry, coquilicot, gobelin, eglantine, heliotrope, lilac, and salmon pink. Mauve and electric blue are also fashionable.

There is one thing which is a subject of congratulation in looking over the list of fashionable trimmings, and that is that bird trimmings are no longer in vogue. This barbarous exaction of fashion has been relaxed. Fruits and flowers are used for ornaments. The new flowers are the water lily, the astor, the lilac, the heliotrope, the snow ball and the Manitoba sunflower! Gauze, cord edged ribbons hat pins and mountings of all kinds are also used.

Dolmans and mantles are all much shorter. The dolmanette is the latest. The fashionable dolmans are long in front and short behind.

THE GOLDEN LION.

The first day's opening at the Golden Lion took place on Wednesday, and the opening will continue till Saturday. As usual this establishment is decorated with regal magnificence. From the entrance to the remotest part of the place all is a mass of profusion, showing the latest styles in fabrics and millinery goods. The millinery department is richly and tastefully decorated. Attention has been paid to convenience. The hats and bonnets are ranged on a flange bordering the huge horseshoe formed by the recess of the staircase so that visitors passing around can see each an every shape in the stock. Mirrors artfully placed in the folds of rich drapery reflect the floral decorations and airy gauze of tinsel curtains. The millinery room and carpet department has been decorated by a series of lace drapery, which in the gas light looks exceedingly pretty. The display made by the Golden Lion this season surpasses even that made last spring. Both those in charge, and the elegance of the goods can share in the credit of the handsome display.

J. C. TURNBULL.

J. C. Turnbull's millinery room was opened on Wednesday, and during the afternoon and evening there was a bevy of ladies busily inspecting the well chosen and attractive stock. Though each millinery establishment lays claim to possessing all the novelties, still Turnbull has one novelty which the rest have not. It is a novelty which appeals to hearing, not sight. When going in the tinkling sound of dulcet music is heard, and when arriving at the millinery department selections from Mozart and other masters are being rendered with facility by a musical machine. The department is decorated very artistically.

JAS. ALEXANDER'S

always neat and cosy millinery and mantle room is neater and cosier than ever. It has been newly decorated with tastefully figured paper, and a new stock of the newest goods in the market makes everything look bright. The enchanting little place was the attraction of a large number of ladies on Wednesday evening. The opening continues.

H. S. GRIFFIN & CO'S

opening was a decided success. All of Wednesday evening the millinery room was crowded, and the visitors showed their appreciation of the goods displayed by leaving their orders in a liberal manner. The goods imported by Messrs. Griffin & Co. from London are taking up special attention. The decorations of the room are also interesting to the visitors.

MISS ARMSTRONG

did not advertise an opening day, but her stock is now fully opened and ready for inspection. A large number who visited her room on Wednesday evening pronounced the goods in selection to be equal to any in town. Some very handsome lines of hats are shown and some exceedingly pretty bonnets. Full lines of trimmings, shapes, dolmans, mantles, and everything to be found in a first class millinery store. Miss Armstrong is ready to suppy to her customers. A visit to her store is well worth the while of intending purchasers.

Personal.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"Mr. R. M. Roy was in town on Tuesday and photographed the new second-class yacht which he designed and partially built, and which is now being finished on the island by Mr. W. Stoneburg, for the purchasers, who live in Montreal. The yacht is a pretty one and will be a fast sailer."

The Style—Every Lady should see the Grand Attractions at the Trade Palace this week.

No Issue.

To-morrow being Good Friday the EVENING REVIEW will not be published.

Hot Cross Buns.

As usual Long Brothers are to the front this year with a choice lot of delicious Hot Cross Buns for Good Friday.

Monthly Social.

The monthly member's meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association takes place to-night in their rooms. All members are expected to attend.

Workingmen's Meeting.

A meeting of the workingmen of the town will be held in the Knights' of Labor Hall, Water street, this evening. It is expected that several speakers will address those present. Every workman and mechanic is cordially invited.

A Native Syrian.

It is not every day that a native of Syria visits Peterborough, and lectures in Oriental costume. All should, therefore, avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing the Rev. Goshen Al Howie next Thursday and Friday. Get tickets for both nights, as the lectures will be quite different.

The Division.

The division on Mr. Sproule's motion moved at the Board of Education on Tuesday evening, in reference to the Ross bible expulsion, is as follows:—

YEAS—Messrs. English, Sproule, Burnham, Kendry, Denne, Wrighton and Stevenson.

NAYS—Messrs. Dumble, Rutherford, Errett, Muncaster, Weir, McWilliams and Stratton.

The Temperance Revival.

Another large temperance meeting was held in Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday evening. The speakers were the Rev. J. Judd White, the Rev. J. C. Wilson the Rev. I. Tovell and Mr. Bannel Sawyer. During the evening a vote on the desirability of total abstinance was carried unanimously. A vote on the desirability of maintaining the Scott Act was also carried unanimously. The last meeting of the series will be held this evening in the Opera House. Several speakers are expected to give short addresses.

Imperial Federation.

On Tuesday evening, April 12th, there will be a meeting in Bradburn's Hall at 8 o'clock to discuss the subject of Imperial confederation and to form a branch of the Imperial Federal League. There will be addresses by Mr. Geo. H. Douglas, of Chatham, Ont., Mr. J. C. Hopkins, of Ingersoll, Mr. J. W. Bowes, of Toronto, and other gentlemen. Men of all political parties are invited to consider the subject and to join the League. One of its main principles is that there shall be no interference with the right of local Parliaments as regards local affairs. Mayor Stevenson, M. P. has consented to take the chair.

Mr. Dumble's Remarks.

Owing to the "copy" on which Mr. Dumble's speech at the Board of Education on Tuesday night was reported having been mislaid his speech was not reported in the REVIEW yesterday.

Mr. DUMBLE spoke as follows:—He was sorry that a question of this kind should have come up. There was a savor of politics about it. With regard to defending the making of selections by the Educational Department from the Bible for use in the schools he could point out to the same thing having been done years ago here. The ministers of the town pressed the matter of Bible reading on the Board and the Board asked the ministers to prepare selections. Why did they do this? Because they did not think the teacher experienced enough to select proper passages. Often a teacher in reading the Bible at school had before knowing it got into a passage that would bring the blush to all in the room. Well, these selections were prepared—he thought it was Mr. Bell who prepared them—and they were printed and put in the schools for use. They fell into disuse, not because they were not good, but because the Board had been lax in its duty, and perhaps because the ministers had been lax in theirs. But here was a book of selections of an admirable kind. It was a magnificent book. It was pure scripture from beginning to end. The teacher may open it at any place without the fear of getting into the awkward position of having to stop reading or read of unmentionable vices and impurities before a mixed class. Some parts of the Scriptures were profitable to read and much again was not profitable. But here are the germs of the whole Work of God. It was a book of books and he who assailed it betrayed ignorance—great ignorance—for there was nothing in the book that was not admirable. The only fault with it was that there was no chapter and verse. But there were not in the original text. They were put there by the translators. The fact was that they did not not know which of the books came first in order, and they did not know who were their authors. All they knew was that it was the Word that would never perish. He could say that it was a magnificent book—a book that could be read with great profit. He used it in his own family, and could recommend it. Those who attacked it should first examine it, for he felt that it was nothing but prejudice, bigotry and ignorance that brought on these attacks against this book. Still he would not have the Department say you shall use this book or that book, and that was the reason why he took the position he did.

WHO is the queerest kid in town? Why the KIDD who sells good boots at the lowest price. Men's Long Boots at $1.45, Ladies' Lace Boots 60 cents only.

Return Match.

The return curling match, Grit vs. Tory, will be played at the Charlotte street rink to-morrow, 5 rinks aside, commencing at 9. a. m.

Taken Home for Burial.

Mr. Farley, a young man recently employed in the Lock Works, died on Tuesday from inflammation of the lungs. The body was taken to Connecticut to-day for burial.

Social.

A social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church, will be held in the Sunday School room, on Thursday evening, April 7th, at 7.30 o'clock. Refreshments will be served during the evening, and a very good musical programme provided. Admission 25c.

We May Expect

—Milliners to hold undisputed dominion for the next week or two.

—The ladies to adopt their persuasive recommendations.

—Sunshine and mud.

—Swallows.

—No more temperance meetings of the present series after to-night.

—A sociable social at the St. Paul's Church school room this evening.

—A butcher's big display on Saturday.

—And the supply of eggs in the groceries to take wings on the same day.

KIDD keeps Cowhide, Kip, Cordovan and Kidd Boots that caps the climax. Prices low.

THE ROSS BIBLE GONE

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION DECIDED ON NOT ALLOWING ITS USE.

The Bible to be Restored—A Question of Salaries—Ashburnham Pupils and Their Fees.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday evening. There were present Mr. James Stevenson, chairman, and Messrs. Errett, Dumble, English, Kendry, Wier, Denne, Burnham, McWilliams, Wrighton, Sproule, Stratton and Muncaster.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were presented.

From G. C. Ross stating that the steam boiler in the Central School building had been respected and giving a statement of its condition.—Received.

From the Educational Department, stating that the usual grant amounting to $696 10, for the Collegiate Institute was now available.—Received.

From A. E. Scott, applying for increase of salary.—Received.

From the Whitby Board of Education agitating the formation of a School Trustees Association.—Received.

From the Public School pupils asking for Easter holidays.—Received.

ACCOUNTS.

Salisbury Bros. sent in an account amounting to $6.35, which was ordered to be paid.

ATTENDANCE.

The following statement of school attendance was read.

	On Roll.	Ave. Att.
Collegiate Institute.....	—	163
Central School	658	549
West Ward Schools.....	186	140

Mr. STRATTON, Inspector, reported, stating that having visited all the divisions of the Public Schools since the last meeting, he found the various rooms in as favourable a state as could be expected. The West Ward School was well conducted in all divisions; the primary departments very satisfactory. The South Ward School was not so progressive in the primary divisions, but the teachers were endeavoring to raise the standard. The Central divisions were in about the same state. In the South Ward and Central buildings the rooms are crowded, with two exceptions. Miss Hall's room required a blackboard. He recommended covering the books recently bought by the Board. He also pointed out the necessity of increased accommodation in the Public Schools.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. DUMBLE read the following report:—

To the Chairman and Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—The Committee on Appointments beg leave to report that they recommend that the salaries of the head teachers of the South and West Ward Schools be $600 a year reckoning from Jan. 1 1887. That Mr. Smith, the Principal of the Public Schools, be paid at the rate of $750 a year reckoning from Jan. 1st 1887.

The matter of other applications for increase of salary your Committee recommend should be dealt with when your Committee have before them a list of teachers showing date of employment, present position, salaries and qualifications.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman.

April 5th, 1887.

The report was referred back to the Committee to further discuss the question of salaries.

THE ROSS BIBLE.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. McWILLIAMS—That whereas owing to circumstances arising from recent discussions creating an impression in the minds of some that the Bible in its entirety is excluded from the public schools of this Province, and whereas an impression has been sought to be made that a teacher is liable to a penalty of $10 for using the Bible in preference to the scripture readings, be it resolved that in order to set at rest any shadow of contention that the Department's action tended, or does tend, to exclude the Bible from our schools it hereby instructs all teachers in the schools within the jurisdiction of this Board to use the Bible, or the Scripture selections which were prepared and published by the Department with the approval of the clergymen of the different leading denominations of the Province.

Mr. SPROULE moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. ENGLISH,—That a book known as the Ross bible is now and has been for some time in use in our schools; that the said book was placed in the schools without the knowledge or consent of this Board, and further that it is not compulsory that it should be used in the schools, be it therefore resolved, that the use of the Ross bible be discontinued, and in place thereof the Holy Bible shall be placed in the schools as formerly for Scripture reading.

Mr. STRATTON said that he heard several days ago that this matter was going to be brought up. It had been said that the teacher was liable to a fine of $10 for reading the Bible. By passing his motion they would decide the question. The Scripture selections—

MI. ERRETT—The Ross bible.

Mr. STRATTON—The Ross bible was prepared and approved of by the different denomination throughout the Province. To satisfy the people of this Town and County that there was nothing in the regulations to prevent the use of the Bible he moved this resolution.

Mr. DUMBLE objected. By leaving it optional with the teacher would serve the same end.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS wished to make this a test case.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, as an amendment to the amendment, seconded by Mr. A. Rutherford,—That the reading of the Bible be made optional.

Mr. SPROULE, in support of the amendment, said he was ashamed to see men act in so light a manner about God's Word. It was God's Word or it was not, and the fact was simply this, the attempt to break it in pieces was an insidious attempt of Satan.

Mr DUMBLE—The Devil himself is at the bottom of it.

Mr. SPROULE—Well, Mr. Dumble, you can say what you like, but this is an attempt to destroy the wholeness of the word of God. Every word of God is pure. It was an extraordinary thing that men calling themselves Christians pooh poohed this matter the way they did. For 18 centuries the Bible was the stronghold of whatever was good in the world, and countries that excluded the use of the Bible were soon found to degenerate. He, therefore, in defence of God's Word, would advocate the use of it in its entirety in the school.

Mr. DENNE asked the Chairman who it was that brought these Ross bibles here.

Mr. STRATTON replied that the Education Department had authorized them to be used.

Mr. DENNE—I'm not asking you a question Mr. Stratton. Mr. Chairman, will you let us know what it was the Secretary [illegible] books to the schools?

The CHAIRMAN replied that he supposed it was Mr. Stratton, the inspector, but he did not know.

Mr. WRIGHTON said that before the books were brought in Mr. Stevenson, or some member of the Board should have been told of it.

A dispute arose between Mr. Dumble and Mr. Sproule as to whether there were any thing in the Ross bible which was not in the Bible. Mr. Sproule pointed out a passage in Genesis which was put in the Ross bible in summarized form. Mr. Dumble said that the Ross bible did not quote it as word for word, but a mark of ellipsis was put in.

Mr. DUMBLE said it was not fit to read to girls.

Mr. SPROULE said what was good for his mother and grandmother would do no harm to his daughter.

Mr. DUMBLE—Pyah!!

Mr. SPROULE—But ah! well might John have said that antichrist is already in the world.

Mr. RUTHERFORD thought that the discussion on this Ross bible arose from it being made a political question. The selections were well arranged and an admirable book.

Mr. SPROULE—Which do you think is the best, the Bible or the Ross bible?

Mr. RUHERFORD said that the Ross bible was as good so far as it went. He went on to say that in the Sabbath School lessons and Church of England prayer book selections were used.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS spoke of a sermon he had listened to a few weeks ago and said he never heard such buncombe in his life. The preacher said that the teacher who read the Bible in the schools was liable to a fine of $10. Well he wished to make a test case of this and he would pay all expenses of a teacher who would consent to read the Bible in the schools. He charged the preacher with garbling statements in letters written by Principal Caven, Dr. Nelles and Dr. Dewart.

Mr. MUNCASTER asked Mr. Sproule, in the event of the Bible being introduced in the Schools, whether he would compel the teachers to read all of the Bible.

Mr. SPROULE—Let the Holy Ghost guide the reading of the Word.

Mr. MUNCASTER—It is not the Holy Ghost we are talking about; its teachers.

Mr. SPROULE said teachers were capable of reading good selections.

Mr. MUNCASTER said that Mr. Sproule did not want the book of selections prepared by able theologians but would let a inexperienced teacher do the selecting.

Mr. SPROULE—What theologian prepared it.

Mr. MUNCASTER—The leading theologians of the Province.

Mr. SPROULE—What is a theologian?

Mr. MUNCASTER referred Mr. Sproule to the dictionary. Continuing, he said, he was not championing the Ross Bible, but wished simply to point out the fallacy of Mr. Sproule's argument.

Mr. STRATTON withdrew his motion as Mr. Dumble's would serve the end in view.

Mr. SPROULE denied that either prejudice, bigotry or ignorance—

Mr. DUMBLE—That's only an assertion.

Mr. SPROULE—Had anything to do with bringing up this matter. As to immodesty and all that trash he said he was willing to read any part of the Bible before any audience.

The amendment to the original motion was put and declared a tie. Mr. Dumble's motion was put and declared lost. The Chairman then gave his casting vote in favor of Mr. Sproule's amendment.

YEAS—Messrs. Sproule, English, Wrighton, Denne, Kendry, Burnham and Stevenson.

NAYS—Messrs. McWilliams, Dumble, Weir, Stratton, Errett and A. Rutherford.

ASHBURNHAM.

It was agreed to accept Ashburnham's offer of $150 and to allow pupils to attend the Collegiate Institute on the same terms as Peterborough's.

The Board then adjourned.

Open Late—In order to accommodate their customers, Rowse's Trade Palace will keep open every evening this week.

MONDAY, April 4.—Two private bills received their third reading and a number were passed through committee of the whole.

FORT ROUILLE.

Mr. G. W. ROSS in reply to Mr. Evanturel, said that the Government had not come to a decision in regard to helping to complete the memorial column commenced for the purpose of marking the site of Fort Rouille. As to marking the historical spots of the province, the expenditure of the grant for this service would be made by the Canadian Institute.

IMMORAL PUPILS.

Mr. G. W. ROSS, in reply to Mr. H. E. Clarke, said that the law at present did not seem to give the trustees of schools power to expel for immorality

A SEED COMPANY.

Mr. CHISHOLM moved for a return of a copy of the charter of the Ontario Seed and Grain Company, with names of the incorporators and other information. He thought this company was imposing on the farmers.

After discussion, the motion passed.

MARSH LANDS.

Mr. FREEMAN moved the second reading of a bill providing that marsh lands could be placed under the opertaion of the Trespass Act by erecting posts and warning off intruders.

Mr. PARDEE, in reply to Mr. Meredith, said that the bill was introduced to meet a particular case and would be amended to apply only to the County of Norfolk.

The bill was read the second time.

DISCHARGED.

Mr. McMahon's bill to amend the Act relating to Mutual Fire Insurance Companies was discharged.

FIRE IN HOTELS.

Mr. McKay's bill for the preventing of accidents by fire in hotels was read the second time and referred to a special committee.

GAS AND WATER COMPANIES.

Mr. OSTROM moved the second reading of his bill to extend the limit of the borrowing power of joint stock gas and water companies.

Mr. MOWAT objected, and the order was discharged.

MUNICIPAL LAW.

Three bills amending the Municipal Act were read the second time, and one was held over, and a bill to amend the Assessment Act was read the second time.

THE SCHOOL BILL.

The bill to amend the Act respecting the Public schools was considered in committee of the whole, and a number of clauses passed.

The House adjourned at 6 o'clock.

THE PROPOSED CABLE.

The Imperial Government Promises Nothing, But Invites Opinions.

LONDON, April 5.—Bt the meeting of the Colonial conference yesterday, Sir Henry Holland, Secretary for the Colonies, referred to the prospect of an imperial subsidy to a cable across the Pacific between Canada and Australia, and stated that very strong reasons would have to be shown before a subsidy would be given. Continuing, he said that the question had from time to time been mentioned in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway, but it was first brought formally to the notice of her Majesty's Government on the 29th July, 1886 by a letter from the High Commissioner of Canada. This letter, together with the report made by the Superintendent of Electric Telegraphs in New South Wales, dated 31st March, 1886, were included among the papers before the delegates. The scheme was opposed by the companies which own the existing telegraph lines communicating with Australia, and on the 28th of January he received from Mr. John Pender a letter enclosing copies of letters and memoranda, also included among the conference papers, suggesting that a reduction of the existing tariff of charges might be effected upon a guarantee from the colonies. The promoters of the scheme alluded to by Mr. Pender had not been in communication with Her Majesty's Government, and Mr. Pender's figures appeared but a very rough estimate. They furnished, however, the only information he possessed on the matter. A very strong case would have to be made out. Perhaps Her Majesty's Government would propose that parliaments should provide a subsidy for maintaining the cable in connection with the telegraphic system, which, at any rate, would supply the actual needs of the Imperial Government. At present, he feared, he could only invite the Australasian and Canadian delegates to favor Her Majesty's Government with their views generally upon the scheme of laying a cable across the Pacific from Vancouver to some point in one of the Australasian colonies. The Australasian representative would perhaps further consider and favor her Majesty's Government with his views upon the general proposal of a reduction of existing tariff charges under a guarantee from the colonies. Information was also desired regarding the Pacific islands.

Mr. Beecher's Biography.

NEW YORK, April 5.—It is announced that Mr. Beecher, before his death, largely contributed to the preparation of a biography of himself, which is soon to be completed by Lyman Abbott. Dr. Halliday, Mr. Beecher's assistant pastor, also participated in the work. The book will therefore be somewhat in the nature of an autobiography.

THE CZAR'S POLICY.

BERLIN, April 5.—The National Gazette confirms the report that the Czar positively will not permit Russia to take part in the Paris exhibition of 1889. The Czar, says the Gazette, "knows that the headquarters of the Nihilists have been transferred to Paris, and that the recent anniversary of his father's murder was celebrated by a number of meetings held under the very eyes of the French police."

GERMAN NO LONGER TAUGHT.

BERLIN, April 5.—The Frankford Zeitung has advices from Riga saying that throughout the Baltic provinces the teaching of the Russian language in primary schools is being enforced, and that the German gymnasium has been converted into a Russian institution. At the opening of the Russian gymnasium at Riga, the educational curator, Kapustin, declared that in place of German culture youths must henceforth be taught to study and think in Russian, so that they may grow up with Russian hearts.

THE HANLON CASE.

DUBLIN, April 4.—It is stated that the Crown will enter a nolle prosequi in the case of police inspector Somerville and constable Ward, against whom the coroner's jury at Youghal found an indictment for the murder of Hanlon

REPRESSING ALSACE.

BERLIN, April 5.—Prince Hohenlohe, governor of Alsace-Lorraine, has returned to Stratsbourg. The project for the Reform of the Administration of the Reichsland is completed. Under the new scheme the government under the Staathalter will be divided into three departments, the first comprising commerce and agriculture, the second, justice and public worship, and the third finance, Laws affecting the Reichsland, which itherto have been referred to the Landesausschuss, will henceforth be con to Bundesrath and Reichstag, including land and commonal laws and laws relating to the nomination of mayors. The garrison at Stratsbourg has been reinforced by 3,000 men. The barracks and accommodations for the forces there are crowded and a portion of the troops have been billeted upon the inhabitants. The Empror's returning strength has caused him to intimate his desire to be present at the manœuvres of the first army corps at Koneigsnsburg durthe coming summer.

CANADIAN FISHERIES.

LONDON, April 5.—Sir James Ferguson, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in the House of Commons to-night, said that he will shortly submit a despatch addressed to the United States [illegible] the settlement of the differences [illegible] the Canadian Fisheries. He would not anticipate the papers, but he stated that the proposals were in harmony with the views of Canada on the subject.

CANADIAN JUDGES KNIGHTED.

LONDON, April 5.—The Queen has approved of the honour of Knight-Bachelor conferred upon Chief Justice Matthew Crooks Cameron, of the Common Pleas of Ontario, and Chief Justice Andrew Stuart, of the Superior Court, Quebec. This order of knighthood embraces the English Superior Court Judges and other eminent gentlemen.

THE CRIMES ACT.

LONDON, April 5.—The second reading of the Irish Crimes Act Amendment bill was formally moved in the House of Commons this afternoon by Mr. Balfour. Mr. Samuelson, Gladstonian member for Banbury, moved an amendment that the bill would, if passed, increase disorder for Ireland and endanger the union and the empire and therefore it should be rejected.

SENSATIONAL EXECUTION.

VIENNA, April 5.—A sensational execution has just taken place at Vienna. It was performed by a new hangman, a nobleman named Edler von Seyfried, who wore black gloves during the ceremony. The criminal was Kreliter, who murdered the printer Schlossberg. Kreliter showed the utmost calmness. He asked for a better pair of boots in which to appear before such a fine audience, and grinned contemptuously when on the scaffold. He refused to allow a priest to attend him.

A NOTORIETY HUNTER.

PARIS, April 5.—Pranzini, the supposed murderer of Mme. Regnault, has received a letter and photograph from the daughter of an American banker, who has a dowry of £40,000 and who offers to marry him. The lady became enamored of Pranzini during a visit to Paris, and since she has returned to America she has frequently written to him asking him to come over and marry her.

POLITICAL PLANS.

LONDON, April 5.—It is said that if the Irish Crimes bill, on becoming a law, should be enforced so as to deprive the Irish members of Parliament of the freedom of speech in Ireland, several English Liberal members are prepared to share the fate of the Irishmen who, by the use of outspoken language, may subject themselves to penal consequences. If Englishmen of position are thus arrested for making public speeches in Ireland, a point would be reached in the attempts to absolutely crush Ireland which would result in either ridicule for the British Government or very serious agitation in England. There is a large Gladstonian party in Birmingham, and by it a Home Rule agitation is to be organized in that town with a view to attacking every Unionist Liberal there except John Bright. As it is not likely that the Chamberlian party will look on passively while their enemies are assailing them, lively times may be expected at Birmingham.

NO ANNEXATION.

MR. JAMES YOUNG, of Galt, in a letter to the Toronto Globe ably opposes the cry for a customs union with the United States, and shows the evil consequences that would follow if it were adopted. In a very forcible and convincing manner he exposes the disloyalty of the advocates of this scheme alike to the Crown, the Empire and the Dominion. As he says:—

"Every intelligent person must see that what is proposed is simply a Zollverein, which is not only irreconcilable with our continued connexion with Great Britain, but a sort of half-way house on the road to annexation. Political union has followed commercial union in Germany, and he must be very blind who thinks it would be different on this continent."

In further support of his view he adduces a United States authority as follows:

"Mayor Hewitt, of New York, at the recent Canadian Club dinner, described the proposition as one in which "the United States would make the tariff for Canada." This happy phrase hits off the proposed commercial union exactly, and how long, I ask, would Great Britain continue connected with Canada after the Frys and Ingalls and Blains could fashion the Canadian tariff at their own sweet wills, or how long would we occupy a position of pitiful dependence on Washington legislation, alike harrassing and uncertain, without finding annexation to be the only release from an intolerable position?"

The advocates of disruption of the Empire, who urge this American Zollverein as a first step, may use their favorite argument that these objections are only sentimental, that Canada should only concern herself with her own material interests. Even if this were so, which we do not admit Mr. Young points out no less forcibly the mischief that would arise in this respect. He says:—

"Certainly our rising manufactories would suffer under free competition with the older, larger and richer establishments of the United States, and the hopes entertained that the Maritime Provinces, with their stores of coal and iron, will, ere many years, become the New England of Canada, would be indefinitely postponed."

The people of Canada have no wish to see their industries ruined, and they certainly would not be reconciled to the injury by its being caused by our cutting adrift from the great Empire to which we are proud to be long, and at the same time sacrificing the glorious future which is opening for this Dominion.

SLANDER AGAIN.

Because Mr. Hudspeth is the choice of the people of South Victoria, and in the forlorn hope of disuading them from choosing him again, the Globe is reiterating the vilest abuse of Mr. Hudspeth and of the majority of the electors of the constituency. As he was revising officer of another riding of the same county the Globe seizes the opportunity to accuse him of partizanship in that office, and to charge the majority of the South Victoria electors with preferring partizan revising officers because they chose him as their representative. Now it certainly cannot be denied that the party press and speakers in Victoria are outspoken or that their political contests are hot. Yet there never was a whisper that Mr. Hudspeth was not perfectly impartial, fair and courteous in the performance of his duties as revising officer. After his passing through such an ordeal it is the mere frenzy of a disappointed and unscrupulous partizan to accuse him of partiality and injustice. Locally, and wherever he is known, this slander cannot hurt Mr. Hudspeth. His appointment as revising officer was hailed with general satisfaction. He was the leader of the local bar, a Queen's Counsel, a Bencher, and for some time Deputy Judge. To these professional qualifications he added those of scrupulous honesty and fairness, so that a better choice could not have been made. So, too, the people of South Victoria made an excellent choice in selecting him as their representative in the House of Commons, and they will reaffirm that choice if factious opposition is offered, which is the cause of the Globe's ravings.

MR. MERCIER has proposed to the other Provinces a combined attack upon the Central Government in order to diminish its powers while increasing those of the Provinces. Mr. Mowat has hastened to the support of the Quebec Premier. In their animosity against the Dominion Government, because the people of Canada prefer Conservatives to manage their affairs, these plotters against our constitution should not be too rash. They should learn from the teachings of history. In the United States it was the exaggeration of the doctrine of State rights by the South that led to a terrible civil war followed by a reaction which caused the powers of the Central Government to be largely increased. Our constitution affords a happy medium if ambitious politicians do not tamper with it.

THE Mail suggests that in order to obtain statistics as to farm mortgages the County Registrars should be instructed to prepare statements of all mortgages outstanding in their books, and to make returns of all subsequent mortgages or discharges. This plan would not give the desired information. Very many mortgages are paid off by instalments and these partial payments are not registered. Even when the mortgage is fully satisfied registration of the discharge is often deferred unless there is to be a sale. From these and similar causes it may well happen in an old settled county that not half the amounts of the mortgages in the Registrar's books are really outstanding. Some other plan must be adopted if the statistics are to be trustworthy.

IN a renewed attack upon Confederation the Toronto Globe declares that all the provinces are dissatisfied. This is a characteristic mistake of the Globe caused by shortsightedness or obliquity of vision. The people of all the Provinces and Territories (with the exception of little Prince Edward Island) have just pronounced their satisfaction with Confederation, and with the statesmen who are its trusty friends. It is true that some Grits and Rouges in the different Provinces are dissatisfied with Confederation, because the people of the Dominion are dissatisfied with them. But the Globe people in their silly conceit cannot divest themselves of the idea that they are the people of Canada, though they are no more truly so than the three tailors of Tooley street were the people of Great Britain.

MR. MOWAT does not seem to excite the admiration or even the respect of his political friends by the manner in which he dispenses his patronage as Premier of Ontario. The Reformers of Ottawa were not pleased with him for keeping the Registrarship open for more than a year, during part of which period he had made an appointment which he kept secret. Now some of his political friends in Prescott and Russell are indignant at his indecent haste in appointing Mr. Hagar as Sheriff, before the late Mr. Merrick was buried. There should be some medium between dangling his vacant offices before the eyes of eager expectants for a twelvemonth, and filling the shoes of a dead man before they are cold.

THE Globe says that "Mr. Hudspeth is mainly responsible for putting the people of South Victoria to the trouble of a second election." There is no need for the people of South Victoria to be put to such trouble. If they are it will be through the malice of the Reformers, who, knowing Mr. Hudspeth to be the choice of the people of South Victoria, wish to punish them for so choosing by putting them to trouble. An election by acclamation would cause very little trouble, very little expense and would recognize the choice made by the people.

Charge of Bribery.

The St. John, N. B., Sun thus refers to the charge of bribery against the Hon. John Costigan:—"The announcement was made a few days ago that a true bill for bribery had been found against the Hon. John Costigan, Minister Victorie Albert. The investigation took place at Edmundston. Until the affair was brought into court it was not heard of about that vicinity. Our information is that the evidence submitted against Mr. Costigan refers to a promise said to have been made to a person who had some agricultural implement improvement that if the inventor would go to Ottawa the Minister would do all he could for him. The charge against Albert is understood to be that the latter promised a man with a team two dollars to draw another to the polls election day. It is further stated that the sheriff of the county is a strong Theriault man, and that the grand jury which found the bill comprised twenty-one supporters of Theriault out of the twenty-four. Has the disagreement of Mr. Blair and Mr. Gregory any bearing on this Costigan case? There are in the correspondence sundry allusions to matters hereafter, it appears, to be disclosed, and we are much mistaken if the Attorney-General has not been placed in a position to look into this case in his official capacity. The prosecution seems to be a private one, as Mr. Gregory's friends have been at pains to say that Mr. Gregory conducted the prosecution at the request of the so-called Liberal party of Victoria."

Cardinal Taschereau's Views.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The World prints an interview with a gentleman conversant with Cardinal Taschereau, and who talked with the Cardinal yesterday. The gentleman says the Cardinal has not changed his unfavorable opinion of the Knights of Labor; that the Pope authorized a continuance of the decree against the order in Canada; that this attitude must extend to the order in the United States, as the order is the same, and cannot be approved in one place and disapproved in another; that Cardinal Gibbons' views have had little weight with the Vatican; that there is no possibility of the reinstatement of Dr. McGlynn, there being no sympathy for him at Rome; and that Archbishop Corrigan's course is fully approved of by the Pope.

Effect of the Interstate Law.

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 5.—The interstate commerce law, which come into force yesterday, will have a great effect on St. John trade, changing its channel to the United States, from the New Brunswick Railway to the intercolonial line of steamers, which are not effected by the law. The railway was forced to raise its rates, and thus St. John is deprived of rapid daily freight transit, and must return to tri-weekly steamers.

"Great Oaks From Little Acorns Grow," and great benefits ensue from the use of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets"—tiny sugar-coated granules—which obviate the necessity of choking and "gagging" in the attempt to swallow some huge bolus of uninviting aspect and disagreeable effect. Their cathartic action is thorough, yet perfectly gentle, and unlike other pills, they never react towards constipation. In cases of sick-headache, and as a promoter of digestion, they are unsurpassed. By druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

The three hollow raps were repeated, like a greeting from the spirit world. Being next the door the preacher himself unfastened it. The minister was a man of action. He pulled the door open hastily. A terrible white figure stood there, ghastly and gigantic. It looked as tall as the meeting house steeple. An awful spirit arm waved in the air an instant, a ghostly hand swooped down and clutched the minister's sacred wig and bore it gently away to realms of air. The door was closed silently and suddenly by invisible spirits. The minister was left standing there in sight of all the folk, bald and shiny.

Consternation seized all. Deacon Durham recovered himself first. He made a dash for the door. The spirit hands held it closed on the outside. It was impossible to open it. The Deacon made a dash for the front door. He ran around the outside of the church. All was darkness and silence. Sinful hands had profaned the church back door, and affixed a bolt to the outside.

Over the scene inside the sanctuary meantime the curtain falls.

There was no preaching next Sabbath. The minister was not well, it was said. But it was said, again, by the godless that he had gone to the city to get a new wig.

Yet a fresh profanation of the sanctuary froze with horror the marrow of the devout in Linwood. The children assembled for Sabbath school as usual. The key of the sacred edifice could not be found. Suddenly, when the whole school was waiting, the key was produced, the door was opened, and the teacher and children were admitted. On the pulpit desk—yea, perched upon the very Bible itself—was a sheep's head. Upon the sheep's head, alas the day! was the identical wig clutched from the minister's head by the spirit hand, prayer meeting night.

But to this day the perpetrators of the scandalous outrage are unknown. Its origin remains a matter of mystery. That, too, is where Moses was when the light went out—in the dark.

CHAPTER XII.

A FACE IN THE GLASS.

Shirley was 22.

For six years she had been teacher of the Linwood school. That was something. But she had adopted other means to help on the fortunes of the Carstone family.

It may or may not be credit to a woman to write for newspapers. It depends on what she writes.

The poem in which Shirley's heart was bound up had to be put aside. At times she wrote brief bits of verse as of old, but not often. There was no money in poetry.

The Carstones must have. Shirley wrote short essays and sketches, and got pay for them. So thoroughly were the real and the ideal blended in her nature that her literary work, was pointed especially with strong, practical sense. In truth, she caught the ideal and made it the real. That was her way in all things.

She had no extraordinary and romantic difficulties in getting modest newspaper employment. Her power was recognized there from the first. That much in her life at least was easy. But her existence had fallen into such a humdrum rut that she sighed for change day by day. She was the same strong, bright spirit as of old, ever ready for what her hand found to do. But her life seemed to her to be wearing itself out, like a mill wheel that turns around and around in one spot. She felt it sadly.

One morning, at the beginning of her vacation, Percy brought her a letter from the postoffice. It was from the editor of The Morning Herald, for which she wrote. The letter was an answer to her silent thought. It read:

Dear Miss Carstone:

The Psycho-physikethicological association are to hold a three weeks' convention away off in Langham. They meet day after to-morrow. It is found advisable to print a report of their wisdom in The Morning Herald. Will you go to Langham and report the thing for us, and can you start at once?

ED. MORNING HERALD.

P. S.—The State Insane asylum is at Langham. If some of the inside lunatics escape and get mixed with the outside lunes and go to speechmaking, it will make the convention livelier, but the proceedings will not be any more difficult to understand.

To which she answered:

I will go, and I can start at once.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE.

That afternoon she sped away from Chesterton on the wings of steam. It was the first time she had been away from home since the death of her father, six years before. The frettings of her mother, the troublesome, though well beloved children, the wearing, petty cares indoors and out that harrowed her without ceasing at home, were all left behind. Shirley was happy.

Even the music mad young lady, who sat behind her and trilled to herself for sixty miles out, did not annoy her.

She felt like a bird out of a cage. The not being appealed to a hundred times a day, the not having to plan and decide everything for everybody, gave her an elasticity of spirit that she had not known for many a day. She likened herself to Christian in "Pilgrim's Progress" when the load slipped off his back.

She had a sense of freedom about her work, too, that was very grateful. Hitherto what she wrote had to be done in time snatched from her rest, and at odd minutes between other duties. It was what she had been about evenings, when her mother had complained that she did not look after the boys.

Now at Langham she had her time to herself. She had nothing to do but write, except to listen. For Shirley, listening was easy, though it is not so for everybody. She felicitated herself.

She made herself comfortable. She had a pleasant room on the ground floor of a cottage overlooking a little lake. All was clean and rural and sweet, as Shirley loved to have it.

Her work was not so difficult either, for brain and fingers had been trained to her task.

There was one place where she liked best to write. That was in a corner of the grounds, out under the trees. It was a half hidden nook, where a little table was, and a rustic seat. Hither Shirley hied every afternoon, and put the finishing touches on her manuscripts.

It was midsummer. Sometimes between the tremendous deliberations of the Institute and the thermometer the day was very hot. The institute kindly accepted the aid of the thermometer in making things hot. It fell on such an afternoon as this that Shirley wore a pretty white dress out to her favorite corner under the trees. Shirley liked white dresses. As she went she stole a red rose from a bush beside the walk and fastened it in her hair. Our girl was very beautiful.

A gentleman who had strolled out alone in the grounds, and happened to see her sitting there thought so. He was a handsome, distinguished looking man, with brilliant, dark gray eyes. His face was a masterful one. It bore the stamp of thought, experience and intellect.

He saw the lady sitting there, with the white dress, the red rose fastened in her crown of light brown hair. She did not perceive him. She had finished her writing. She threw her arm, the pencil still in her fingers, carelessly along the twisted back of the rustic seat. Her head was raised and turned slightly to one side. The regal pose, the noble profile, the exquisite rose-tinted cheek were very striking.

The man who stood there spell bound, had he ever seen that face and figure, in just such a pose, the white dress, the red rose and the fair hair? Oh, heaven! There came a sudden physical movement about his heart, as if it would break from his breast. He placed his hand against a tree to steady himself. He needed something to hold fast by. And yet it had been six years!

Well, he would not startle her if he could help it. He crackled a dead branch to make some sound, and kept his face half hidden. The lady heard the noise, and looked about. She saw a man's figure and a half face. The man watched her in side glances. The face, the outlines took for her a look of something well known and loved long ago. He turned now and approached her slowly. Once more, as once in the past, the blood forsook her face and settled back around her heart. Then it came again in great waves and surges to her face. The grief, the care, the weariness of six years rolled away as in a cloud, and left her sitting under the trees with a white dress on and a red rose in her hair, and the master leaning over the rustic seat beside her.

A strong, shapely hand touched her extended arm, a pair of starlike eyes looked intensely down once more into hers. Oh! it was the same, that face with the sweet, half veiled smile she knew so well, the deep, mellow voice, calling her as of old, "Shirley!"

To be Continued.

"Suwanee Ribber."

Once over the bar at its entrance from from the Gulf the Suwanee River holds its way with a deep current, in places of 40 feet, far up through the forests of the best hard pine in the State. It is the Penobscot of Florida. It has some good land upon it where plantations have heretofore been made, but after a while generally abandoned on account of the mosquitoes and malaria. At the main entrance Kingsley Point, channel lumbermen, anglers and intrusive tourists. This dark river has, too, its romance, as being the place which gave rise to a melody which, like "Home, Sweet Home," the affection of the heart will never let go. For it was here that a French family in the time of Louis XIV. came over and settled upon the Suwanee and made a plantation. After a while the father and mother and all died save one daughter, who, disheartened and desolate, returned to France, and there wrote, adopting in part that negro dialect which she had been familiar with on the plantation in her girlhood, a feeling tribute to "the old folks at home "in their graves in the far off country.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d90

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

E. Taurgee, manager of the celebrated New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, says of the above singers:—"I am sure the people of our city cannot but be charmed with the excellence of their singing." Get your tickets now at the book stores. Only 25 cents.

The Cobourg "World."

The first number of the Cobourg Daily World appeared on April 4th. A neat looking paper it is, creditable alike to the publishers and the town. Cobourg has now two good daily papers, and if the people of that town appreciate good things, and do not neglect to prove it, they will succeed.

GENTLEMEN can get Duck & Son's finest boots from R. J. KIDD at Toronto prices. Call and see the goods.

Spaulding's Bay.

Mayor Stevenson, M. P., has a plan for putting at rest the Spaulding's Bay filling up agitation altogether. He has had a plan of the lake drawn, showing Crescent street, a proposed widening of it and the building of an esplanade. The Government dredges have heretofore, when dredging out the lake, simply pulled the deposit in the lake out of the track of the steamboat course. The Mayor proposes to have the lake dredged out and the deposit carried to Spaulding's Bay. He goes to Ottawa this week to lay the project before the proper authorities.

Barnardo Home.

Another party of boys, sixty-five in all, have arrived from England at the Hazle Brae Home. By Tuesday afternoon they they had been all disposed of. The Montreal Witness, of Monday, noticing the arrival of the boys in that city on their way to Peterborough, says:—"These boys certainly behaved in a most becoming manner. They were provided, like the other passengers, with a fine smoking dinner at the 'sheds,' and they seemed to enjoy it to the fullest extent. These boys, together with 240 immigrants for Ontario, were forwarded to their respective destinations on Saturday afternoon."

Y.W.C.T.U.

The regular meeting of the "Y" was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. Hall. Miss Edwards, President, occupied the chair. The meeting was opened in the usual form. The scripture lesson was read by Miss Sanderson. After the minutes had been read and accepted, a new programme committee was appointed to prepare work for the next meeting. A letter from the Woman's Journal was read by Miss Sanderson, containing helpful hints and suggestions as to how to keep up the interest of the Band of Hope, also a request from the W. C. T. U. that the "Y" assist in that department of the work.

ALL the novelties of the season in Millinery, Mantles, Mantle Cloths, Dress Goods, Trimmings, etc., etc., on display at TURNBULL'S on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Sheppard

Opens on Saturday, note the address, 1st door south of Arcade, George street. Good goods cheap.

Church Sale.

The ladies of St. Andrew's Church intend holding a sale of useful and fancy articles on the 21st inst. in St. Andrew's school room. Particulars later.

Coming.

Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, ex-Mayor of that town and a well known speaker, who took part in the famous Dunkin Act campaign here, will deliver two lectures in Peterborough shortly.

DON'T fail to see TURNBULL'S display of Millinery and Fancy Dress Goods on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Social.

A social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church, will be held in the Sunday School room, on Thursday evening, April 7th, at 7.30 o'clock. Refreshments will be served during the evening, and a very good musical programme provided. Admission 25c.

ASK to to see TURNBULL'S 50c. and 75c. Kid Gloves when inspecting Millinery this week.

Sheppard

Opens his store on Saturday, April 2nd, the first door south of Arcade, George street—Dry Goods, Clothing and Hats and Caps. Many lines have been bought at a rate of 60 cents on the dollar to clear. These goods will be slaughtered. It will pay you to look through.

The Temperance Meetings.

The Rev. J. C. Wilson and the Rev. I. Tovell made vigorous speeches at the temperance meeting last night, and the Rev. J. Judd White made some pointed remarks. Several of Mr. White's songs were heartily applauded. Another meeting will be held in the Opera House this evening.

Gone into Business.

Mr. Charles Brown, formerly head clerk at the Town Clock grocery, has purchased Mr. E. Dunford's stock and good will and intends to carry on business on his own account. Mr. Brown has had twenty years' experience in the grocery trade in Peterborough, and no doubt his long connection with the public will gain him a large patronage.

A Family Affair.

Louis Dion, of Trenton, was arrested by Capt. Cooper on Wednesday, on the strength of a message from Trenton. This morning he was brought before the Court charged with neglecting to support his family who are living in Trenton. The prisoner was handed over into the custody of Chief Constable Hinde, who took him to Trenton this afternoon.

Millinery.

Miss E. Delaney's Millinery show rooms are now open, and the ladies of the town are invited to inspect the stock, which comprises all the latest styles of millinery in all branches. Special attention is invited to the dressmaking department. Though it is only a short time since this branch of business was opened, the orders are coming in rapidlyi and stylish outfits are now being shown in the display room.

KIDD keeps Cowhide, Kip, Cordovan and Kidd Boots that caps the climax. Prices low.

Gazetting Members.

The London Advertiser having attacked Mr. Richard Pope, Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, for delay in gazetting the return of members, the London Free Press, a Reform paper, interviewed Mr. Pope and published his statements. During the interview Mr. Pope said:—"The order in which the members have been gazetted is almost entirely accidental. It takes more time to make out the return from the papers I receive than most people imagine. Take the case of the two Peterboroughs for instance. The returning officer for the East Riding sent all his papers but the actual return showing who was elected. I had to send to him for his return. In West Peterborough a recount was held and some delay occurred, but yet the return for West Peterborough reached me before that for East Peterborough."

Grit and Tory.

A match between five rinks a side, Grit vs. Tory, took place at the Charlotte street rink on Tuesday evening. It resulted in a win for the Grit side by 21 shots. The Tories won the match last season. The score is as follows:—

THE SCHOOL LAW.

Resolutions Adopted by the Toronto Ministerial Association.

At a meeting of the Toronto Ministerial Association on Monday a discussion took place on the subject of school education. As a result of the discussion the following resolution was agreed to:—

On motion of Rev. A. C. Courtice, "That as a ministerial association we object to the principle found in the late amendment which treats a class of the citizens prima-facie, as being out of sympathy with the Public school system, and request the Government to return to the regulations prior to 1878; and that the Public schools be opened and closed with the reading of Scripture and prayer."

On motion of Rev. D.J. Macdonnell, "That the Public school law be enforced in every part of the province, and that the English language be taught in all the schools receiving a subsidy of public money; that in this connection the attention of the Minister of Education be called to the fact that in certain schools in the eastern portion of Ontario the books used are not those authorized for use in the Public schools of Ontario, but those authorized by the Council of Public Instruction of the Province of Quebec for the use in "Catholic schools," in which the teachings of the Roman Catholic Church are distinctly set forth. And, further, that in some of said schools there is no adequate provisions made for the teaching of English."

On motion of Rev. G. M. Milligan, "That this association believe in the principle of selections from Scripture for reading in our Public and High schools, and recommends that such selections be indicated by a list of Scripture passages on the school roll or otherwise, said passage to be read from the Bible itself, which should be in the hands of pupils as well as teathers."

Revs. Hugh Johnston, A.F. McGregor, D. J. Macdonnell, G. M. Milligan, A. C. Courtice, S. J. Shorey, W. S. Blackstock and Septimus Jones were appointed a committee to present the foregoing resolutions to the Minister of Education while the House is in session.

Killed by a Fall.

LAMBTON MILLS, Ont., April 5.—Mr. Parker, of Weston, was killed this morning by falling from the New Humber bridge on which he was engaged.

Cardinal Taschereau Home.

QUEBEC, April 5.—Cardinal Taschereau was expected to have arrived here at 2 p. m. and long before that hour every available foothold was packed with people, but about 2.30 the ringing of church bells on the south side of the river announced the landing of his Eminence. Then the city bells rang and the bands played a welcome. Mayor Langelier presented an address to his Eminence and the procession passed on to the cardinalate.

Killed by a Falling Stone.

[illegible], Que., April 5.—[illegible] accident occurred yesterday afternoon by a man named Charles Hamplon, who was working on the foundation wall of the Canada Paper Company's new mill. While raising a large stone the staging on which Hamplon was standing gave way and he fell to the ground followed by the stone, which struck him on the temple, causing instant death. Coroner Woodward held an inquest in the evening, when a verdict of accidental death was returned. Deceased was from England and had no relatives in this country.

Settling with Hayti.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, April 5.—Great Britain has demanded $1,000,000 from Hayti as a settlement in full of old demands. Failing its immediate payment she wants the Tortugas Island. The Haytians were badly frightened when the British fleet, under Admiral Lyon, recently steamed into the harbor of Port au Prince. They though the British were about to take possession of all their islands. The settlement of their claims has been entrusted by the British Government to a special commissioner, Mr. Clement Hill, who is at present on board the war ship Canada, waiting a final adjustment.

A Bank Manager's End.

TORONTO, April 5.—The body of the unkown man found on the railroad track at Andalusia, Pa., on Thursday morning last has been identified as that of Geo. Herchmer, manager of the Central Bank, Brampton. The presence of Mr. Herchmer in the United States is at present unexplainable. Two weeks ago he was suspended from the management of the Central Bank for alleged irregularity of habits. Mr. Herchmer left Brampton yesterday week to visit friends in Belleville, since which time none of his friends there have received any word of his movements. The cause of his death is as yet a mystery. Mr. Herchmer was a son of Colonel Herchmer, of the North-West Mounted Police.

Fire in Trenton.

TRENTON, April 5.—This morning a fire broke out in the stables of the Empey hotel and quickly spread to the adjoining stables and barns of the Daly house. The steamer belonging to the town and also that of Messrs Gilmour & Co. succeeded in stopping the flames at the Daly house, the rear of which is badly gutted. The blocks adjoining on either side, owned by Messrs. Fidlar & Grass, were also damaged. Messrs. Quinley & Perkins, lessees of the Daly House, will be the largest sufferers, nearly all of their effects being badly damaged. J. Craig & Co., and R. P. Fidlar, grocers, adjourning the hotel, suffered a small loss. The bankrupt stock of Graham & Reid, dry goods, was somewhat damaged. Total loss about $5,000.

Smash on the Northern.

BARRIE, April 5.—About 4.30 yesterday afternoon, the North Simcoe train coming south ran into a sand wash near the Minesing grade, caused by the spring floods. The engine ran off the track and rolled off an embankment of 40 feet, bottom uppermost. Brakesman Phillips, Engineer Walker, and Fireman Meeking were on the engine at the time. The two former jumped off, receiving slight injuries, while the latter remained on the engine, and was thrown in the bush without receiving any injury. The train was going at the rate of 18 miles an hour. The flat cars behind, loaded with lumber and wood, ran off the track, and were badly wrecked. Although the passenger cars were considerably jolted, none were damaged, nor were any of the passengers injured. The auxiliary train went up the same night and had the track cleared by this morning.

who will continue the business in the same stand, NO. 2 CLUXTON'S BLOCK.

MR. CORKERY, one of the members of the new firm has been connected with the late firm since 1878, and consequently knows what the public wants.

While thanking my many friends who have so liberally patronized the late firm in the Dry Good Business, for the past twelve years, I trust they will continue to bestow that patronage on my successor.

I desire to state that now I intend confining myself exclusively to the Clothing trade, and will continue to do my utmost to keep only such goods as will be appreciated by the public.

The New Dry Goods Firm

—OF—

SHEEHY & CO.

We take pleasure in announcing that we have formally taken possession of the dry goods business carried on for the past twenty years by

T. DOLAN & CO.

In this, our first announcement, to the public, we wish to say that it is our intention to follow in the footsteps of our predecessors, MESSRS. T. DOLAN & CO. In the first place we intend to keep up the good reputation of our establishment by keeping on our shelves at all seasons at prices that will compete effectually with any house in Central Ontario the newest and best in all lines of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods.

In the second place we intend to adhere to the strictest principle of the firm, by advertising nothing but what we intend doing, and doing everything that we advertise.

Therefore as we wish to make some changes to beautify our store, we offer our new stock from now until MAY 31st, at such figures as will attract the attention of buyers.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION LEAGUE.

THE gentlemen who are making arrangements for the organization of a local branch of the Imperial Federation League, have been asked occasionally if the body has any special reference to Home Rule in Ireland. It has not. One of the leading clauses in its constitution provides "That no scheme of Federation should interfere with the existing rights of Local Parliaments as regards local affairs." The idea is that the colonies should be drawn into closer relationship with each other and the Mother Country, [illegible] for the three Kingdoms to settle their own jurisdiction for themselves in matters effecting them locally. Imperial Federation might assist to bring about local jurisdiction over local affairs in the Three Kingdoms, but the League as a body has nothing to say for or against Home Rule. It invites all to join, without regard to party or creed, who wish to see a United Empire with local management of local affairs.

IN Belmont, Alberta, N. W. T., there was only one Reform vote polled in the recent election. It must be satisfactory to the yeomen of Belmont, Peterborough County, to know that the settlers in Belmont, N. W. T., thus sustain, politically at any rate, the good reputation of the name.

The Churches.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a. m. the second at 8 a. m., and the third at 10.30 a. m. Vespers at 7 p. m.

ST. LUKE'S.— The regular services at St. Luke's Church will be conducted as follows: Morning Prayer, Litany and sermon at 11 a. m., evensong at 7 p. m.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services will be conducted as follows:—Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.; Morning Prayer, Litany sermon and Holy Communion at 11 a.m.; Evening Prayer and sermon at 7 p. m.

ST. PAUL'S.—The communion service will be held in the morning, the Rev. Prof. McLaren, of Toronto, will preach both morning and evening. There will be an anniversary meeting on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in St. Pauls, when addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Prof. McLaren and D. McTavish, of Lindsay.

BAPTIST CHURCH, Murray Street.—The usual services will be held.

METHODIST CHURCH, Charlotte Street.—The Rev. F. H. Wallace will conduct the services.

METHODIST CHURCH, George street.—The Rev. I. Tovell will conduct both morning and evening service. The New Orleans jubilee singers will take part in the evening service. Easter offering to the superannuation fund. Collection morning and evening.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The Rev. Alex. Bell, pastor, will conduct the services.

METHODIST CHURCH, Mark street (Ashburnham)—The Rev. Mr. Wilson will conduct the services.

The Rahway Tragedy.

RAHWAY, N. J., April 6.—The Chief of Police has received a letter from Mrs. August A. Haas, of New York, who says that her husband and herself, last Sunday, both positively identified the body of the murdered girl as that of a young Swedish woman who occupied a stateroom with Mrs. Haas on her passage to America. There is a perfect reign of terror among females here, those living on the outskirts of the town being afraid to venture out of their houses after dark.

EASTER.

The Butchers' Gala Day—Facts for Beef Eaters.

The Peterborough butchers have made unusual afforts this Easter to outdo anything that has ever been previously done in the way of procuring prime beef for the Easter tables.

JOHN J. HOWDEN'S

palatial shop is filled to repletion with all the most fastidious could desire. Both inside and out the tastefully dressed meats are arranged to the best advantage. A corps of accommodating attendants supply the wants of the people. Judicious selection has been made in picking out the animals for slaughter for the occasion. Mr. W. Redmond, of Millbrook, supplied two heifers which weighed 1690 and 1630 pounds respectively. Mr. W. Sutton, of Cavan, contributed two prime steers and two prime heifers. Mr. B. Carter, of Otonabee, brought in two two fine steers and Mr. Pritchet, of Millbrook supplied four young animals in the finest order. W. Shearer, of Otonabee, supplied two more cattle, Mr. Sutton, of Cavan, a calf; A. Fitzgerald, Smith, two calves; D. Sharp, Otonabee, lambs; Mr. Hall, Douro, hogs; and J. Fowler, roasters. A large quantity of fancy meats make up such a display as has never surpassed in Petereorough.

Across the street.

MR. R. WAINWRIGHT

has a fine show. He has doubled the size of his stall but still there is little enough room to hold all the fine array of meats. His specialty is the toothsome beef supplied from the choice of Jos. Redmond's herd of thoroughbreds. The stall is handsomely decorated and attracts much attention.

HARRY WINCH.

Down on the market the stalls are ablaze with decorations and adornments of all sorts. The Scotch poet, Mr. Telford, while walking through the display this morning, became inspired as follows while looking at Winch's display:—

BEHOLD! AND READ.

Both town and country people stand
With outrescched eyes and gaze
Before his decorated stall
And Easter meet display.
His brilliant show of marbled roasts
They cannot be surpassed
Throughout this whole Dominion
From Quebec to the Northwest.

While you behold the gorgeous sight
That only feasts your eyes,
Take home a surloin steak or roast;
They will your taste surprise.

For to-morrow's sumptuous dinner,
Your sharp appetite to quench,
Be wise and leave your order now
In the stall of H. C. Winch.

Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. Winch's fine exhibition. He always has the best that can be got for his Easter and Christmus desplay and now is no exception. An idea of how pretty his stall looked may be had when it is said that "standing room only" was available this morning.

MR. LEPLANTE'S

stall is also attractively filled with Easter cheer. With his usual care he has got together for his customers, and all others who like to come along, the best meets to be had for standard Canadian currency. His Easter desplay this year entitles him to maintain his position as being among the leading butchers.

J. M'NAIRN,

George street, shows an exceptionally fine line of butcher's staples, and a good share of fancy meats. Mr. McNairn is fully competent to hold his customers during the Easter season, as well as being aware of how to attract others.

M. O'BRIEN,

corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, has made more than usual preparations for the festive season, as those who visit his stall will see. Extra fine stock has been purchased, the full benefit of which will be given to those who deal at O'Brien's.

MOORE & CO.,

the new firm of butchers, corner of Aylmer and McDonnell streets, signalize their advent into the trade by making a display which cannot fail to be a good advertisement of their skill as caterers to the public in their line.

JOHN MERVIN

Hunter street, has made an extra show of meats this year. Altogether thirteen cattle were slain. Mr. Giles Brisbin, of Hamilton Plains supplied two steers; Mr. Robert Houchburn, Manvers, two heifers; Mr. J. McKinley, Hamilton Plains, two heifers; Mr. W. A. Hall, Smith, two steers; Mr. Yetts, Smith, a heifer and a steer; Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, two calves; Dr. Kincaid, one calf. Twenty-four Shopshire Down lambs were supplied from Mr. J. Carnegie's fold and twofrom that of Mr. Geo. McKee, Smith. Mr. C. Davidson, Smith, supplied the choice pork for the occasion.

J. BATEMAN,

corner of George and London streets, in his second Easter display has shown much enterprise in procuring none but A-1 material and upon it he has left the mark of a first-class butcher.

MR. POWELL,

Water street north, upon whom devolves the responsibility of catering for the people of the north end, is in no way behind what is required of him. He has an overflowing larder upon which all can draw for dollars and cents.

Advices received by the Haytian legation in Paris from Port-au-Prince say the Haytians are much excited over Great Britian's demand; but deny that they have threatened to massacre foreigners.

THE INDIA AND CHINA MAILS.

Offer Made by the Canadian Pacific Railway for Their Conveyance.

LONDON, April 6.—The contract for the conveyance of the India and China mails with the Peninsular and Oriental Company, which has just been published, contains a Treasury minute, stating that the Canadian Pacific Railway offers sea service between Vanancouver and Hong Kong, with a branch line between Yokohama and Shanghai, at a higher rate of speed than required by the post office; railway service through Canada free, and certain advantages for the conveyance of troops and Government stores, the subsidy asked being £60,000 for a monthly service from May, 1887, April, 1888, and £100,000 for a fortnightly service for the ten following years. This tender is not recommended by Mr. Raikes, the Postmaster General, nor by the Hong Kong Chamber of Commerce. Moreover the payment of this service would be absolutely additional, as the payment of the Peninsular and Oriental Company would remain the same if the China mails were sent by another route, as there is a contract with that company for ten years at the rate of £365,000 per year. In case of a war in Europe the contractors will arrange a mail service to meet the exigencies of the situation. Earl Harrowby will call attention to the contract in the House of Lords on the 29th inst.

THE FISHERIES DISPUTE.

International Questions Discussed by the U. S. Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Cabinet meeting to-day remained in session over three hours. The meeting was devoted almost entirely to consideration of international questions, the most important relating to the Canadian fisheries, the policy of Great Britain in regard to the Island of Hayti, and the seal fisheries of Alaska.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

In regard to the fisheries question, it is understood that information has been received to the effect that England sustains the position taken by the Canadian authorities, and is in nowise disposed to make the concessions requested by this Government. This question was considered by the Cabinet with a view to the advisability of suitable action by the President under the provisions of the Retaliatory Act.

THE ALASKA SEAL FISHERIES.

The Alaska seal fisheries were discussed with a view to their better protection from foreign interference. It is represented that the interests are now threatened by the wanton and wholesale slaughter of seals in the open ocean. It seems that during the day the female seals leave their young on the shores of the islands in charge of the males while they go away in search of food, with which they return at night. Recently a practice has sprung up of catching the female seals while they are in search of food. Their young perish as a matter of course, and the perpetuation of the animals is endangered. The difficulty of controlling this matter arises from the want of jurisdiction beyond the three-mile limit.

Five Seamen Drowned.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 8.—The barquentine Susan, bound from this port to Barbadoes with fish, collided with an iceberg and sank. Capt. Michael Ryan, mate John Gall; seamen Frank Dillion, of St. John's; John Allen, of England, and steward, Thomas Mallard, of Ireland, were drowned. The others were rescued.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, APRIL 9, 1887.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE.

I. That of the seven members of the School Board who voted against Mr. Sproule's motion anent the Bible in the schools, four are the appointees of the Town Council, viz.—Messrs. Stratton, A. Rutherford, Dumble and Wier, and that of these four Mr. Rutherford was rejected at the pools as a candidate for a seat on the Board, before he was appointed thereto by the Council, and that Mr. Stratton, on finding that Mr. English was to be brought out against him at the last school election, withdrew from the contest, and subsequently found his way back through the Town Council; two, Messrs. McWilliams and Errett, were elected by the people before this Bible question came up for discussion, and that the seventh, Mr. Muncaster, is the representative of the Separate School Board.

II. That of the seven who voted for the motion two only, Messrs. Stevenson and Kendry, are the appointees of the Council, the remaining five being the choice of the people, three of them being chosen last January.

III. That as the Board consists of fifteen members (for high school purposes) there was one absent. That one was Mr. Thos. Rutherford, who was elected for Ward No. 4 last January, and who would have voted for Mr. Sproule's motion had he been present. Consequently though not legally passed the motion is as good as passed by a majority of one so far as the High School is concerned and by a majority of two so far as the public schools are concerned.

IV. That of the seven opponents of Mr. Sproule's motion, two were Orangemen—Messrs. McWilliams and Wier, and three were officials of the Ontario Government—Messrs. Dumble, McWilliams and Errett.

BEFORE the London Advertiser undertook to discuss the position of Mr. Hudspeth as candidate in South Victoria it should have made itself acquainted with the law and with the facts. Mr. Hudspeth was Revising Officer for North Victoria and was and is a candidate to represent South Victoria, quite a different constituency. The Advertiser is therefore in error is stating that Mr. Hudspeth was absolutely disqualified by the law because he had been Revising Officer less than two years previously. Such disqualification very properly applies only to the constituency for which he acted. The difficulty arose not under the Franchise Act but under the Independence of Parliament Act, as Mr. Hudspeth held an office of emolument under the Crown in the gift of the Dominion of Canada. The electors of South Victoria were not aware, in spite of what the Advertiser may say, that Mr. Hudspeth was ineligible. They could not tell whether or not he had resigned his office in time and in compliance with all the technicalities. The Advertiser seems to know little law and to care nothing for facts.

MR. FRASER objects to doing away with the principle of "one man, one vote," in the Ontario franchise. But the trouble is that the present law prevents some men from having votes at all, although they may own property in one or more constituencies and even reside, at the time of the election, in property that they have owned for years.

THE REFORM LEADER.

Perhaps the greatest gift which will come to Mr. Blake in the future will be his sorrow over a lost opportunity. Mr. Blake was not born to be a leader of men. Proud of his intellectual superiority, he does not care to have a personal following. But no man of sensibility can accept such a trust as the leadership of a party without feeling the responsibilities of leadership; and no man who feels his responsibility can look back upon disaster without asking to what extent he was blamable for that defeat. In the present case Mr. Blake has led his followers not only to defeat, but to disgrace. He played a game for which success might be an apology, but which the most brilliant victory could never justify. He turned his back on his old former position; he reversed his former utterances; he gave the lie to his former statements; he clasped hands with rebellion and became the apologist for murder. And now it must be clear to him that in this he not only stained his reputation and left a blot upon his name, but committed a tactical error which will leave its effects upon his party for many years.

The opportunity of Mr. Blake's lifetime presented itself to him on his return from Europe in 1885. He might have said that Riel was a criminal deserving of death. He had said that in no measured terms when the rebel's guilt was less and his justification for his crime more substantial. If he had said it people would have given him credit for honesty, and for fairness to his opponents. But he lacked either clearness of vision or honesty of purpose. He failed either to see the opportunity or courage to take advantage of it. He pattered with his conscience, sacrificed his convictions, and was let into the camp of those who affirmed that criminals of French descent must not be punished for crime. Had he remained true to himself, he might not in the late contest have led his party to victory; but he would be right, which is better than to be victorious as it is, he is neither right nor successful. He has not retained his self-respect and he has not even received the price of his dishonor.

Mr. Blake may claim that his party forced him into infamy. Perhaps it did. Perhaps it would have refused to be led into the straight path. In that case it should have preceived the other opportunity—that of resigning the leadership when his party would no longer follow him. Some other man would have led it to defeat, and then Mr. Blake would have been recalled with a reputation for integrity he can never more expect to enjoy.—Hamilton Spectator.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

The Issuing of Warrants and Summonses—Inter-Provincial Accounts—Conditional Sales — Non-Resident Voters—Text Books in Schools.

WEDNESDAY, April 6.—Several bills were introduced and several private bills were read the third time.

A COMPLAINT.

Mr. HESS moved for a return as to the number of warrants and summonses issued in Perth and the distances persons against whom they were issued were required to travel.

Mr. WOOD said that the evil of persons being thus required to go a long distance was not confined to Perth.

Mr. HARDY said that he had condemned the practice and tried to stop it.

After further discussion the motion was withdrawn.

PROVINCIAL ACCOUNTS.

Mr. GIBSON (Huron) moved for copies of correspondence regarding the a counts between Ontario and the Dominion and Quebec.

Mr. A. M. ROSS said that the Ontario Government has several times pressed the Quebec Government for a settlement. He intended to renew the application, and if it had no effect he would take the matter to the courts.

Mr. MEREDITH thought the matter would not be settled until it was referred to arbitration or the courts.

The motion was carried after further discussion.

CONDITIONAL SALES.

Mr. NAIRN moved the second reading of his bill respecting conditional sales of personal property, providing that contracts for the hiring and leasing of goods, and the conditional sale thereof by future payments, shall be made in writing and registered in the Division Court.

After considerable discussion the bill was referred to a special committee, with the understanding that it would not be pushed through this session.

NON RESIDENT VOTERS.

Mr. TOOLEY moved the second reading of his bill intended to place the non-resident voter in the same position as he occupied previous to 1885.

Mr. FRASER opposed returning to the old system, and argued further that, as Mr. Mowat would introduce a bill on the franchise, this one should be withdrawn.

The bill was withdrawn.

LAWYERS AS MAGISTRATES.

Mr. MONK moved the second reading of his bill disqualifying barristers, etc., from being justices of the peace, police magistrate and stipendiary magistrate, but after discussion it was withdrawn.

MUNICIPAL LAW.

Mr. LEY's bill to amend the Municipal Act was referred to the Municipal Committee.

ADVANCED.

A number of private bills were advanced a stage, two bills to amend the Municipal Act were read the second time and bills respecting land surveyors and the public schools were passed through committee.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

The bill amending the Education Department Act was considered in committee.

Mr. MEREDITH said that the number of subjects taught in the public schools and the number of books required were complained of.

Mr. G. W. ROSS said that the curriculum could not be reduced.

Mr. CREIGHTON thought it unfortunate that the lessons on the subject of alcohol had not been included in the new readers so that it would not have been necessary to purchase a new book.

Mr. ROSS said that the text book would only cost 25 cents.

Mr. MEREDITH asked if the instruction respecting narcotics would include tobacco.

Mr. STRATTON attempted to lecture the Opposition on not considering the subject with becoming gravity.

Dr. MCLAUGHLIN thought that instruction should be given on the evil effects of tobacco and opuim.

Mr. WOOD (Hastings) thanked Mr. Stratton for his lecture, which he assured him was highly appreciated. He redicaled the pretention of the gravity of the question being felt on the Reform side of the House, and referred to the contrast between Mr. Stratton's present pretensions and the support he received in his Riding.

The House adjourned 10.15 o'clock.

NEW BILLS.

THURSDAY, April 7.—Several bills were introduced and others were read the third time.

SCOTT ACT MAGISTRATES.

The House went into committee of the whole on the bill respecting the appointment and proceedings of police magistrates in Scott Act counties. (Mr. Mowat.)

Mr. MEREDITH condemned as the vicious the principle of paying these magistrates by fees. He thought the fees should go to the county councils.

Mr. LEES protested against men who had failed in their professions being appointed Scott Act magistrates, and the counties compelled to pay their salaries.

The clause objected to was as follows, and was read as an amendment by the Attorney-General:—

"A police magistrate appointed under this Act, or the Act respecting police magistrates for counties, shall, in addition to his salary, be entitled to receive to his own use the same fees and emoluments as are paid to justices of the peace."

The bill was reported with the amendments of the Attorney-General.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR CREDITORS.

Mr. Mowat's bill respecting assignments for the benefit of creditors was considered in committee and reported with amendments.

The House adjourned at 3 50 p. m. till Tuesday.

Bright Prospects.

Mr. T. H. Hodgson, of Liverpool, writes as follows on March 26:—"Cheese continues in fair request and prices are well sustained. General indications are looked upon as retaining all the promising features previously claimed, and country buyers seem to be making preliminary moves towards a more liberal investment, but various minor influences of a seasonable character have yet to be overcome, and with warmer weather it is confidently expected that the consumptive demand will increase, and that prices will advance. Stocks are in few hands, and held with confidence. I quote finest September, 64s. to 65s.; August, 62s. 6d. to 63s. 6d."

CARTOONS IN COURT.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—There was a very interesting case tried before our local Justice of the Peace on the 24th of March last, and as I have not seen any account of it in your paper, I take the liberty of writing it for you; but in order that you may understand it, I must first give you a short account of the events that culminated in the trial. Some time in October or November, of last year, a series of cartoons were published on our village weighscales, in which Thomas Sanderson, George Berry and David Sayles were very prominent figures, the subject of the cartoons being a dispute about a cow, which Messrs. Berry and Sayles obtained from Sanderson in payment of a debt due them.

The last cartoon published was taken down by Mr. Sayles and, rumor says, taken to Millbrook, with the intention of proceeding against the suspected artists, but for some reason, unknown to us, no action was entered. However, on the 22nd of March last, Sanderson was seen making his way towards Millbrook, and on the 23rd our peaceful little village was honored by a visit from a constable. Who is he after? was the question eagerly asked, but no one could give a satisfactory answer. It subsequently transpired that our village pedagogue, Mr. Marshall, was summoned to appear before the beak, on the following day, to answer to the charge of having made and published certain defamatory libels in the form of cartoons with the intention of villifying and ridiculing one Thomas Sanderson, who verily believed that these pictures had been the means of preventing his getting employment.

The trial was held in the store of Messrs. Berry and Sayles, Berry being, as he styled himself, the judge, and Sayles clerk of the court. As the hour of trial approached the children tolled the scholl-house bell as an expression of sympathy for their beloved teacher, and men and maidens were seen wringing his hand, and bidding him an effectionate farewell. At 2.30 p. m. the trial begun. Thomas Sanderson was called to make his charge, but he had forgotten what it was that he had to complain of; however, with the aid of his Worship and an occasional look at one of the cartoons, he finally succeeded in stating his case.

Cross-questioned by Mr. Marshall's Attorney—he had sought employment for six days without success. Had asked Mr. Bateson to give him a job cutting wood. Mr. Bateson told him to call next day. Had not called. Had asked Mr. Greer to hire him for six months, wanted $17 a month. Mr. Greer thought the wages to high for his services. Had asked Mr. Dawson to hire him but Mr. Dawson had already engaged his help. None of these men had ever mentioned the cartoons to him. None of them had said that they would not hire him because of his picture having been published in Baillieboro.

Here, we expected the case to have been dropped, but his Worship evidently was not satisfied.

Dr. Soden was the first witness called. All the information elicited from him was, that he had heard Marshall and others speak of getting up a cartoon, and had seen one partially completed in Marshall's possession.

John Byers, called: Did not know anything about the case. Had found one of the cartoons on the scales one morning, and had tacked it up. Could not swear to any of the pictures, but thought they represented hard looking cases. Richard Parker and J. D. Perrin knew knothing about the case. Here the evidence closed.

His worship pondered long and carefully over Dr. Soden's evidence, but could not find anything to convict the defendant, he therefore, very lieniently discharged him with a caution. During the trial some scamp turned the tap of a barrel containing a very choice brand of golden syrup, and if report be true that syrup ran for three hours before the trick was discovered.

Yours, etc.,
BUSTIC.

Baillieboro, April 4, 1887.

P.S.—Since writing the above I notice that another cartoon has been published very graphically describing the trial scene, not the trial scene from the Merchant of Venice, but the famous trial of March 24th.

HONOR ROLL.—The following is the honor roll of S.S. No. 11, Smith, of which E. L McDonald is teacher, for March, 1887:—

Fourth Class—1st Laura Northey, 2nd Bertie Allen, 3rd Mary Northey.

Third Class—1st Harry Fitzgerald, 2nd Lizzie Heard, 3rd Mildred Fitzgerald.

Second Class—1st Clara Allen, 2nd Willie Allen, 3rd Mary Rosborough.

Sr. First Class—1st Clarence Fitzgerald, 2nd Ward Boyce, 3rd Willie O'Connell.

CHURCH ORGAN.—The new organ in the church on the 16th Con. of Smith remains silent and has been so for some weeks. Yet there is a lady qualified and willing to act as organist, if the pasotr calls for her services. A question of church membership is supposed to create the difficulty. But when the pecuniary and personal aid of a family in behalf of the church and of its organ is gladly accepted, such an objection is felt to be out of place, if not ungenerous.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met on Monday, March 28th. All the members present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. A By-law to provide for the appropriation and expenditure of $1800 in the general repairs of the Roads and Bridges within the Township, and to appoint Commissioners to superintend the expenditure of the same, passed its several readings and was signed and sealed. The Clerk was authorized to notify the following parties to remove their fences off the road allowance, namely: Stephen Nichols, John Trenium, Josiah Blewett, and to notify William Armstrong that the fence of lot 27, con 17, belonging to the A. T. H. Williams estate, must be removed this spring, as the Reeve has been instructed to take legal proceedings to have the road opened to the full width. The Council then adjourned to meet on the 30th of May as a Court of Revision.

The Andalusia Mystery.

BELLEVILLE, April 6.—Mr C. F. Gildersleeve of Kingston, who went yesterday to Philadelphia to examine the body supposed to be that of his brother-in-law, George S. Herchmer, of Bramnton, telegraphed this afternoon to Mrs. Herchmer, of this city, that the remains are those of her son. Deceased who was born and educated here, was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d90

TURNBULL'S Millinery Opening days are Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

"Great Oaks From Little Acorns Grew," and great benefits ensue from the use of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets"—tiny, sugar-coated granules—which obviate the necessity of choking and "gagging" in the attempt to swallow some huge bolus of uninviting aspect and disagreeable effect. Their cathartic action is thorough, yet perfectly gentle, and unlike other pills, they never react towards constipation. In cases of sick-headache, and as a promoter of digestion, they are unsurpassed. By druggists.

JOSEPH EXALTED.

CRITICAL AND PRACTICAL NOTES BY PROF. SAMUEL I. CURTISS.

Lesson II of the International Series, Second Quarter, for Sunday, April 10. Text of the Lesson, Genesis xli, 38-48. Golden Text, Psalms xxxvii, 5.

At first Joseph was greatly prospered after he went to Egypt. He became overseer of Potiphar's house (Gen. xxxix, 3, 4); but a new trial was needed to fit him for the place which God had ready for him, as well as to introduce him to it. The wife of his master tempted him to sin. Unlike Reuben and Judah, who fell into such disgraceful lusts, he repelled the temptation, refusing to wrong his master and to sin against God (Gen. xxxix, 9).

Through a false accusation he was thrown into prison (vs. 19, 20), and for long years suffered on account of his virtue. There he manifested the same capacity for leadership as in Potiphar's house. He was made superintendent of the prisoners (vs. 22, 23). Among them were two officers of Pharaoh, one his chief butler, the other his chief baker. Through God's help he interpreted the dreams which had occasioned each much disquietude. In accordance with his interpretation, on Pharaoh's birthday the baker was hanged, while the butler was restored to his place. The butler did not leave his prison until Joseph had made him a confidant, and assured him of his innocence, and begged him to intercede for him with Pharaoh (Gen. xl, 14, 15). But that ungrateful official forgot him for two years. God, however, did not forget him. In his plan Joseph was simply biding his time.

In the chapter from which our lesson is taken we find Pharaoh, in his dream, at the bank of the Nile (Gen. xli, 1). Nothing is more true to life in any literature than the entire history of Joseph, which betrays, as the most eminent Egyptologists have shown, a wonderful familiarity with the manners and customs of Egypt at the time indicated. Indeed, objections which were once raised to certain statements in the story of Joseph by distinguished scholars of a former generation (Von Bohlen and Tuch) have been found to be entirely without foundation.

The Pharaoh mentioned here was undoubtedly one of the Hyksos, or shepherd kings, and he is believed by leading Egyptian scholars, in accordance with ancient testimonies (Syncellus) and modern investigations, to have been Apepi (Aphophis), the last of the shepherd kings.

The scene described in the dream has a truly Egyptian color. Since Egypt was the creature of the Nile, which received divine honors, and the various changes in the river were regarded with the utmost anxiety, it was in keeping that the king should be there. In his dream he sees seven sleek kine feeding in the reed grass (Revised Version), which are presently devoured by seven poor kine, which are afterward as lean as ever. He awakes but soon dreams again. This time he sees seven plump ears growing on one stalk. These, however, are devoured by seven blasted ears. The king on awakening from his sleep summons his sacred scribes (Revised Version), but they cannot explain his dreams. It is then that God's time comes. The chief butler remembers Joseph and mentions him to Pharaoh. All the things which seemed to be against Joseph, under God's overruling providence had simply been steps preparatory to that hour. After making his toilet precisely according to the demands of Egyptian etiquette he appears before the king, and under God's guidance explains Pharaoh's two dreams as one, and that their purport is that Egypt is to be visited with plenty for seven years, and then with seven years of famine. Such an event was very rare, but it occurred as late as 1064 to 1071 A. D. And there was a long period of famine under Apepi, the Pharaoh before whom Joseph has been supposed by some at that time to have stood. Joseph not only told the king what was to come to pass, but also suggested an admirable plan for storing up a supply of food during the years of plenty (v. 33-36).

THE LESSON.

God the Source of Joseph's Wisdom (vs. 38, 39).—Neither in Joseph's interpretation of the butler's and baker's dreams nor in his interpretation of Pharaoh's does he claim to make them known through his own wisdom. He rather ascribes all his knowledge to God. Although Pharaoh doubtless did not know the true God, yet like other heathens he was familiar with the idea that God is the source of wisdom. He therefore asks his servants whether they can find such a man in whom the spirit of God is, and without waiting for an answer he says to Joseph that, since God has given him the interpretation of the dreams, and the best plan for providing against the years of famine, there is none "so discreet and wise as thou."

The same thing, however, is true of others as well as of Joseph. The man who is born again though the Spirit is not only wiser in the things of the kingdom, but also in the things of this world (Ps. cxi, 10; Prov. iii, 1-6), besides having at least an implied promise of wisdom for special needs (James i, 5). The men who can serve the nation best in the times of its sorest distress are neither atheists nor infidels, but those who reverently acknowledge their dependence on divine guidance.

The Egyptian scribes, who were learned in all their sacred books, and Joseph, are good examples of the difference between mere human learning and that wisdom which God gives his servants in times of need.

V. 40. The people of Egypt in being ruled by Joseph were thus to be under divine direction. Joseph received almost absolute power. With Oriental exaggeration Pharaoh says the people shall not even kiss (Hebrew) without him. He claims simply the throne as his special prerogative.

Joseph's Investiture (vs. 41-44)—Pharaoh then invests Joseph with his new office. These verses describe as it were the ceremony of his investiture. He first assures him that he has set him over all the land of Egypt. He then takes his signet ring from his hand and puts it on Joseph's, thus conveying to him power to secure the execution of his commands (compare I Kings xxi, 8), for no one would dare to disobey an order which bore the impress of the king's signet (Esther viii, 8). He next arrays him in robes of office made of fine linen, of the same texture doubtless as the priests wore, and put a gold chain about his neck. Afterward he causes him to ride in Egypt, and when the ceremony is complete, again assures him of his absolute power.

Joseph's Virtue Rewarded (v. 45).—Naturally enough he gives him an Egyptian name, Zaphenath-paneah ("governor of the district of the place of life," Brugsch), and then bestows on him a lady of little less than royal rank, Asenath, the daughter of Potipherah, priest of On. Had Joseph yielded to the solicitation of Potiphar's wife, the history of which we now read and this honorable marriage would have been impossible. Thousands barter honor, success and happiness for disgrace, failure and misery, because they have not learned to say in the face of some seductive temptation, "How, then, can I do this great wickedness and sin against God?"

No Short Cut to Success (v. 46).—Joseph came into Pharaoh's presence a poor Hebrew prisoner and slave. He went out the autocrat of Egypt. Pharaoh was but an instrument in God's hands, who had given him all this power. Joseph had been 13 years in God's school. A boy of 17 he left his father's home. His success came only through the severest discipline continued through long years of trial. He did not receive power and was not established in life until he had reached mature years. There is certainly in this fact an impressive lesson for those who wish to take a short and easy cut in their preparation for positions of honor and usefulness. Young men make a great mistake who do not take time to secure a thorough preparation for their life work, whether in a business, a trade or profession, and who enter upon the responsibilities of marriage without the prospect of being able to support the one whom they have sworn to love, honor and protect.

Vs. 47, 48. Joseph's interpretation of Pharaoh's dream was carried out to the letter. The seven years of plenty followed. During these years he laid up the food of the fields surrounding each city in the cities. These cities, as in Palestine, were places occupied by the people at night for the sake of security, who during the day cultivated the fields round about them.

JOSEPH A TYPE OF CHRIST.

Joseph has been a favorite type of Christ among some of the church fathers and the other interpreters. We have in the Bible two representations of Christ as suffering and as reigning. The life of Joseph affords the same contrast. Like Christ, Joseph was betrayed and sold, and suffered humiliation before his exaltation. There are undoubtedly in the Old Testament not only ritual types of Christ, which are brought out so clearly in the book of Hebrews, but also historic types, such as Isaac on Mount Moriah, David and Solomon; but Joseph unites the sufferings and the triumphs of the Messiah, foreshadowed by the two Israelitish kings, in one person.

POINTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

1. The story of Joseph has been found to be true to life in every particular.
2. "Before honor is humility." (Prov. xv, 33.)
3. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." (Ps. cxi, 10.)
4. "If sinners entice thee, consent thou not." (Prov. i, 10.)
5. "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth." (Heb. xii, 6.)—Sunday School World.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday, April 7th.

The local market was at a standstill this week. There was a very scanty offering of either grain or produce, as is to be expected at this time of year. The price of wheat has not fallen off, but on the contrary has advanced still higher. Eighty six cents per bushel was paid for choice seed wheat this afternoon, but from 82 to 83 is the ruling figure for ordinary loads. The delivery of hogs and tub butter has fallen off almost entirely.

The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States is about 3,000,000 bushels larger than it was at this time of the year in 1886, and about 4,000,000 bushels larger than it was in 1885 at this time of the year. The English grain market is depressed, but on this side of the ocean the market is firm, with a tendency to advancing. Fear that the California crop will suffer from drought and that the crop will suffer from frost in more northern wheat growing areas are largely the cause of this firmness.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

GREAT
SALE.
GENUINE .·. BARGAINS
In Each Department.

I have decided to let the whole of my present Stock go at Wholesale Cost Price. In these days people expect Bargains, and feel justified in obtaining all they can for their money.

I will give the inhabitants of Peterboro and surrounding country a chance for once of getting Reliable Goods at prices that will, in truth, be Bargains, of which they are invited to come and judge for themselves.

The Stock consists of the usual Staple Goods besides a large variety of FANCY GOODS not to be had elsewhere in town, viz.:—

Dress Goods, Velveteens, Gloves, Hosiery and Underwear.

Blankets, Quilts, Table Linen, &c.

Small Wares in great variety.

Fancy Goods, such as Desks, Work Boxes, etc.

Fancy Work in Slippers, Cushions, Brackets, Silk and Filoselle Wools, etc.

Mens Underwear in Merino and Wool, and Mens Furnishings generally,

After 23 years' business in Peterborough, I wish to give my old customers and the public generally something unusual in Real Bargains, and will be pleased to see them as quickly as possible, avail themselves of them, for, of course, those coming early will have the largest choice.

SATURDAY, APRIL 9, 1887.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Big Egg Item.

Mr. Wm. Metheral says that Mr. Carver's big egg story is now discounted. He has a pullet, 1 year old, he says, that lays eggs 3¼ ounces in weight. He purchased the bird from Mr. T. E. Bell, Smith.

GENTLEMEN can get R. C. Dack's finest boots from R. J. KIDD at Toronto prices. Call and see the goods.

Young Men's Meetings.

The usual meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-night (Saturday) at eight o'clock, and to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock. The song service at 8.30 o'clock on Sunday evening is open to everybody.

A First Class Troupe.

C. C. Case, of Chicago, the celebrated composer, says: "I recommend the New Orleans University Singers to the public as a first-class troupe." They will sing in the George Street Methodist Church, by kind permission of the trustees, on Monday evening next. Tickets, 25 cents; for sale at the book stores.

Imperial Federation.

At the meeting in Bradburn's Hall on Tuesday evening for a discussion on the subject of Imperial Federation place will be reserved in the gallery for those ladies who may not wish to seat themselves in the body of the hall. All are invited to attend and hear the interesting addresses that will be delivered by the gentlemen visiting our town for that purpose.

DON'T fail to see TURNBULL'S display of Millinery and Fancy Dress Goods on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Social.

A social was given in St. Paul's Church school room on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The attendance was fairly large. The musical and literary programme prepared by Mr. Parker was largely appreciated. Those who took part were: Messrs. Parker and Jaques, Miss Cameron, the Misses Roper, Miss A. Hall, Miss Hall, Mr. John Millar (mind reading) and Mr. J. C. Brown (a reading). At nine o'clock refreshments were served, ater which the programme was finished, and the singing of the National Anthem brought the entertainment to a close. Miss Vair and Miss Ellsworth contributed vocal solos. About $40 was realized.

The Style—Every Lady should see the Grand Attractions at the Trade Palace this week.

ASK to to see TURNBULL'S 50c. and 75c. Kid Gloves when inspecting Millinery this eek.

The Rev. Ghosn Al Howie, M.A., whose portrait is given above, is a native of Mount Lebanon, Syria, the place where Solomon had his 30,000 lumbermen employed. He belongs to the Jews by nationality, but was a member of the Greek Church, his grandfather and other of his relations being clergymen in that church. About ten years ago he commenced his studies in Edinburgh University, but by the growth of cataract he was left completely blind. He returned home, but three years later resumed his University course, and took his degree, together with four prizes. For the last couple of years he has been preaching and lecturing in Canada, mostly in the Lower Provinces. The testimonials from many sources as to the interesting nature and eloquence of his lectures are very strong. He will lecture on behalf of the Young Men's Christian Association in the George Street Church School Room on Thursday evening next, April 14th, and in St. Paul's on Friday evening. The lectures will be quite different, though both bearing on the manners and customs of the East. In order that no one may be debarred from attendance, the price of admission has been placed very low. Single tickets 15 cents, 2 for 25 cents, 3 for 35 cents, 4 for 40 cents. Children, 10 cents. Doors open at 7 o'clock. Lecture to begin at 8.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. Geo. Gumpricht is in town. Orders may be left at Mr. T. Menzies' book store or Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's drug store.

KIDD keeps Cordelo, Kip, Cordovan and Kidd Boots that caps the climax. Prices low.

THURSDAY, April 14.—Mortgage sale of the residence and property of Dr. Sproule, on the premises, Brock street. Sale at 2 p. m.

FRIDAY, April 15.—Annual sale of 100 head of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs of Dr. Kincaid, on his farm, four miles from the town of Peterborough. Sale at 12 a. m. Lunch at noon.

SATURDAY, April 16.—General sale of horses, buggies, furniture, &c., on the market square at 10 a. m.

ALL the novelties of the season in Millinery, Mantles, Mantle Cloths, Dress Goods, Trimmings, etc., etc., on display at TURNBULL'S on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

A Hustler.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"Mr. E. B. Edwards, of Peterborough, left for England on Monday to represent the County in the Grand Junction Railway suit, that has been carried to the Privy Council. Mr. Edwards, as County Solicitor, having charge of this case, has been invariably successful in his defence through the many trials that have been held. In municipal law and acquatic sports Mr. Edwards is a Hustler from Hustlerville, so to speak. Those jolly old legal luminaries at home may rely upon anything Mr. Edwards tells them about Canadian municipal law or canoe sailing, and camping on Stony Lake, as being the correct tip, and will make no common error in betting their wigs on it every time."

Spring Opening—Grand Display of New Goods in every Department at Rowse's Trade Palace.

Good Friday.

Good Friday was observed in the usual quiet way. The church services were conducted as usual. An adoration of the cross service was conducted at St. Peter's Cathedral, the Rev. Father Rudking officiating. In St. John's Church there was three services, one commencing at 11 a. m., one at 1 p. m. and one at 7 p. m. The Rev. J. W. R. Beck officiated. In the George Street Methodist Church a service was held in the evening at which the Rev. I. Tovell was present. In St. Paul's Church a preparatory service to the administration of the sacrament, which will take place tomorrow, was conducted by the Rev. E. F. Torrance in the morning at 11 o'clock. In the evening a service was conducted by the Rev. F. H. Wallace, of Charlotte Street Methodist Church. In the Charlotte Street Church the Rev. F. H. Wallace conducted a service at 11 a. m. Regular services were held in St. Luke's Church. Afternoon services for children were held in St. John's and St. Luke's Churches. No services were held in St. Andrew's Church or the Baptist Church, Murray Street.

Open Late—In order to accommodate their customers, Rowse's Trade Palace will keep open every evening this week.

Sheppard

Opens on Saturday, note the address, 1st door south of Arcade, George street. Good goods cheap.

WHO is the queerest kid in town? Why the Kidd who sells good boots at the lowest price. Men's Long Boots at $1.45, Ladies' Lace Boots 60 cents only.

Prohibition Club.

An important special meeting of the Prohibition Club of this town, will be held tonight in the lecture hall of the Business College at 8 o'clock. All young men are invited to be present.

A Big Change.

The railway companies are evidently endeavoring to give the public of Peterborough cheap wood. Formerly they charged the dealers the uniform figure of one dollar per cord, but this morning a notification came that henceforth the rate will be two dollars and fifty cents.

Manitoba Products.

The car containing Manitoba and Northwest products which is now on its way through Eastern Canada, arrived at the Canada Pacific railway station at noon today. This afternoon it was visited by a large number of people. It will be open to the inspection of townspeople this evening.

Sheppard

Opens his store on Saturday, April 2nd, the first door south of Arcade, George street—Dry Goods, Clothing and Hats and Caps. Many lines have been bought at a rate of 60 cents on the dollar to clear. These goods will be slaughtered. It will pay you to look through.

Fire.

On Thursday evening the Fire Brigade was called out to extinguish a fire which broke out in a house belonging to Mr. Jas. Louden, in the south west part of the town. The services of the brigade availed only to save the adjoining buildings, as the house, a frame one, quickly disappeared. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp. Mrs. Louden was away and Mr. Louden had just left the house a few minutes. He had turned the lamp down low before leaving. The neighbors who discovered the fire found the room in which the lamp was left all ablaze. The loss is about $1,000. There is $500 on the building in the Phœnix, and $400 on the furniture in the Royal.

Fatal Accident.

On Thursday Michael O'Donnel, formerly of Peterborough, suffered an accident at Allandale, on the line of the Northern Railway, which terminated fatally. He was crossing the railway yard in the darkness when he stumbled and fell. Before he regained his feet several cars attached to an approaching train passed over his legs. He was picked up and taken to the station. In about an hour he shook off unconsciousness and told how the accident happened. Shortly after he was put on board a train and conveyed to Toronto. He was taken to the hospital where he died soon after his arrival. The deceased leaves a young widow to mourn his loss. Deceased was a son of Mr. Michael O'Donnel, of this town. He was well known as "Cush." He was an employee of the Oriental Hotel and made quite a mark as a jokey.

ASK to see TURNBULL'S Seamless German Hosery when inspecting Millinery this week.

Arrived.

The McDowell Company arrived in town at noon. "Peril" will be presented at the Opera House this evening.

K. of L.

Another public meeting of workingmen was held in the Knights of Labor Hall on Thursday evening for the purpose of bringing before the workingmen of the town the objects of the Society. Mr. John Irwin took the chair. During the evening short speeches were made by Messrs. Johnston, Hill, Beavis, and W. Millar. There was a fairly large attendance. Another public meeting will be held in the same place on Thursday evening next.

The Temperance Meetings.

The two weeks of temperance meetings conducted by the Rev. J. Judd White, or the three weeks of meetings held under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the Royal Templars of Temperance, came to a close on Thursday night. The last meeting of the series was held on that evening in the Opera House, and was very largely attended, the house being packed. Addresses were given by the Rev. F. H. Wallace, Mr. Bannell Sawyer and the Rev. J. J. White. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. White sang several songs, some of them being favorites which were sung by request. The meetings have been largely attended throughout, and the audiences appeared to be interested in the subject discussed. One result of the meetings has been additions to the membership of the Woman's Union and the Royal Templars.

WEATHER NOTES.—Following February the first morning of March was cold and the three following days fine, then on the morning of the 4th the thermometer dropped to 12 deg. below zero. From that till the 25th as fine weather as could be desired prevailed, with not a very great change of temperature, but on the morning of the 26th it was only 2 degrees above zero, and on the 28th and 29th a keen blizzard was blowing with the thermometer 1 degree below zero; on the 30th at zero, and on the 31st at 10 degrees below zero, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 20 degrees below zero. Rain fell on three days to the depth of 1 inch and 33-100 of an inch. Snow fell on 11 days, but only to the depth of 14 inches, being very light for March. There was only one morning of white fog. On two nights the auroral lights were dancing across the horizon, making it light and pleasant with their presence. Crows made their first appearance on the 1st. Other migrating birds have not yet made their appearance. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, respectively, namely, south-east, 5 days; north-west, 13 days; east, 2 days; west, 3 days; south, 2 days; north, 2 days; south-west, 2 days, and north-east, 2 days.

NORWOOD.

THE VACANCY FILLED.—At a meeting of the ratepayers of this village, held in the Town Hall on Thursday for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of councillor, rendered vacant by the resignation of Mr. J. Harper, Jr., it was moved by MR. Thomas McMullin and seconded by Mr. Thomas Loughridge, that Mr. J. Cumming be a candidate. The time having expired and no further nominations made, the Clerk declared Mr. Cumming duly elected councillor for the balance of the year 1887.

LACROSSE.—At a meeting of the Norwood Lacrosse Club held on Monday evening last the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.—President, J. C. McConkey, Vice-President, A. Eaton, Captain, R. J. Stewart, Field Captain, J. A. Harper, Secretary, W. J. Smith, Treasurer, W. Rutherford, Committee, S. Hendren, W. Stephenson, Lorenzo Wessels.—Register.

CAMPBELLFORD.

TO ASK FOR A REPEAL.—At the meeting of the Council on Monday night last, the following resolution was passed: "Inasmuch as the Scott Act has seriously impaired the revenues of the village, and has not produced the results anticipated by the promoters,—Resolved therefore that this Council do petition Parliament for the repeal of the said Act."

A NEW ELEVATOR.—We are informed that there is a likelihood of Mr. Fowlds, of Hastings, building an elevator at the station in Campbellford, during the coming summer. He has been here a few times lately, looking at the site and considering the matter. He buys a large quantity of grain from the farmers of this locality, every year, through his agent Mr. H. Barwick.—Herald.

BOBCAYGEON.

CANOE CLUB.—A meeting of the Canoe Club is to held, at the boat house, on Wednesday evening, for the purpose of closing last years business, and arranging for the coming season. The annual meeting takes place early in May, and the yearly subscription has to be paid to the Secretary previous to that meeting. Increased interest should be taken in the Club this year as the A. C. A. meet at Stoney Lake will bring to this neighborhood canoemen from all parts of the province, and some portions of the States. The aim of our sailors should be to carry off some of the trophies to be won at the meet.—Independent.

In a Dangerous Position.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 9.—The propeller Myles, while being lifted, listed over on her side, and now lies in a dangerous position. The guiding chain broke, and the shock caused a sliding of the grain, creating the disaster. The coffer dam broke down, and the vacuum below refilled with water. Two sons of Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick were on the vessel when she went over, and narrowly escaped being crushed to death between the wharf and the boat. A man grabbed them as they were slipping downward.

RETALIATION.

President Cleveland's Views of the Purpose of the Bill.

The United States President having received a communication from the American Fisheries Union of Massachusetts, calling attention to the fisheries dispute and suggesting that the retaliatory act, passed by the late Congress, would, in their opinion, be sufficiently executed if the proposed retaliation was confined to the closing of the United States markets to Canadian fish products, he has made the following answer:—

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, April. 7, 1887.

George Steele, Esq., President American Fisheries Union, and others, Gloucester, Mass:—

GENTLEMEN,—I have received your letter lately addressed to me, and have given full consideration to the expression of the views and wishes therein contained, in relation to the existing differences between the Governments of Great Britain and the United States, growing out of the refusal to award to our citizens engaged in fishing enterprises the privileges to which they are entitled, either under treaty stipulations or the guarantees of international comity and neighborly concession. I sincerely trust the apprehension you express, of unjust and unfriendly treatment of American fishermen lawfully found in Canadian waters, will not be realized. But if such apprehension should prove to be well founded, I earnestly hope that no fault or inconsiderate action of any of our citizens will in the least weaken the just position of our Government, or deprive us of the universal sympathy and support to which we should be entitled. The action of this Administration since June, 1885, when the fishery articles of the treaty of 1871 were terminated under notification which had 2 years before been given by our Government, has been fully disclosed by the correspondence between the representatives and the appropriate departments of the respective Governments, with which I am apprised by your letter you are entirely familiar. An examination of this correspondence has doubtless satisfied you that in no case have the rights or privileges of American fishermen been overlooked or neglected, but that, on the contrary, they have been sedulously insisted upon and cared for by every means within the control of the executive branch of the Government. The Act of Congress, approved March 3, 1887, authorizing a course of retaliation through executive action in the event of a continuance on the part of the British American authorities of unfriendly conduct and treaty violations affecting American fishermen, has devolved upon the President of the United States exceedingly grave and solemn responsibilities, comprehending highly important consequences to our national character and dignity and involving extremely valuable commercial intercourse between the British possessions of North America and the people of the United States. I understand the main purpose of your letter is to suggest that in case recourse to the retaliatory measures authorized by this act should be invited by unjust treatment of our fishermen in the future, the object of such retaliation might be fully accomplished by "prohibiting Canadian caught fish from entry into the ports of the United States." The existing controversy is one in which two nations are the parties concerned. The retaliation contemplated by the act of Congress is to be enforced not to protect solely any particular interest, however meritorious or valuable, but to maintain the national honor and thus protect all our people. In this view the violation of American fishery rights, and unjust or unfriendly acts towards a portion of our citizens engaged in this business, is but the occasion for action and constitutes a national affront which gives birth to or may justify retaliation. This measure once resorted to, its effectiveness and value may well depend on the thoroughness and extent of its application and on the performance of international duties, the enforcement of international rights and the protection of our citizens. This Government and the people of the United States must act as a unit, all intent upon attaining the best result of retaliation upon the basis of a maintenance of national honor and duty. A nation seeking by any means to maintain its honor, dignity and integrity, is engaged in protecting the rights of its people; and if in such efforts particular interests are injured and special advantages forfeited, there things should be patriotically born for the public good. An immense volume of population, manufactures and agriculturists, and the marine tonnage and railways to which these have given activity, all largely the result of intercourse between the United States and British America, and the natural growth of a full half century of good neighborhood and friendly communication, form an aggregate of material wealth and incidental relations of a most impressive magnitude. I fully appreciate these things and am not unmindful of the great number of our people who are concerned in such vast and diversified interests. In the performance of the serious duty which the Congress has imposed upon me, and in the exercise upon just occasion of the power conferred under the act referred to I shall deem myself bound to inflict no unnecessary damage or injury upon any portion of our people; but I shall nevertheless be unflinchingly guided by a a sense of what the self respect and dignity of the nation demand. In the maintenance of these, and in the support of the honor of the Government, beneath which every citizen may repose in safety, no sacrifice of personal or private interests shall be considered as against the general welfare.

Yours, very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

Taken to Task.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The Herald's Washington despatch says: "It is thought to be known to the labor organizations that the Gloucester fishing vessel owners, who have just suggested to the President that it will be retaliation enough in their opinion for the Canadian insult if he keeps Canadian fish out of the American markets, habitually employ Canadians at low wages in their vessels in preference to Americans whom they would have to pay better. Nearly two-thirds of the men employed by the Gloucester fishing vessel owners are Canadians. These men are used because they work for low wages for the profit of the vessel owners, who now coolly ask, in addition, for a monopoly for themselves of the American fish market though they are already highly protected. The Knights of Labor and labor unions generally would do well to consider whether capitalists who get rich by protection should any longer cut down the wages of their workingmen by importing aliens."

AN IMPUDENT FABRICATION.

Cardinal Taschereau Repudiates an Alleged Interview.

QUEBEC, April 9.—Cardinal Taschereau, in a letter over his own signature in Le Canadien this morning, stamps as an impudent fabrication, the New York World's report of a pretended interview with him respecting the Knights of Labor. He says that the truth is that he had hardly landed on the wharf at New York when he was accosted by a stranger, who very cavalierly enquired if his trip had been a pleasant one, and if he had anything to communicate. To the first question he replied in the affirmative, to the second in the negative. Later, at New York Central Railway station, the individual, whom he supposes to be a reporter, put the same questions to him and received the same answers. His Eminence adds—Thereupon a whole article was invented. The aforesaid reporter was not happier or more truthful when he pretended to reveal what transpired in the Consistory which, says he, only lasted a few hours and at which Cardinal Gibbons, according to him, was listened to in silence. The fact is that matters of this kind are never treated in the Consistory. He says further that Cardinal Manning's letter made no impression on Cardinal Teachereau. This is true, seeing that the latter has never read it yet. I avail myself of this occasion to place the editors of Canadian newspaper on their guard against all these pretended conversations which reporters invent to deceive the public. When I have anything to say I shall write it myself."

SYSTEMATIC SWINDLING.

Ontario People Victimized by an Ingenious Crook.

A Niagara Falls, Ontario, despatch says: One of the most systematic schemes for swindling the Canadian public was exposed to-day through the arrest of a man giving his name as Charles A. Stevens, at Niagara Falls, N.Y., where he has been living the past month, Detective Young, of the Ontario police, has for some days kept a keen eye on Stevens' movements around the Falls, and finding that he had large business transactions with the postoffice, soon ferreted out his scheme.

Stevens' modus operandi was to get the names of different parties throughout Ontario. Toronto, London, Woodstock and Seaforth seemed to be his principal points. He would notify parties in these places by means of printed forms of the express and railway companies and Custom Department which he has received for the purpose, that a package was held here to their address, and that on receipt of charges naming amounts ranging from $2 up to $10, the package would be forwarded at once. So far as the police have learned some dozen people in Toronto have been victimized in this was by forwarding him the money. His lock box number at Niagara Falls, N. Y., postoffice is 7.

Stevens was brought before the police magistrate at Niagara Falls, N. Y., after Detective Young caused his arrest, when the magistrate considered the evidence strong enough to remand him for trial on the 9th inst., pending the arrival of parties from Toronto and other places who have been victimized as witnesses.

STRANGLED TO DEATH.

A Young Man Rushing to Save His Home Meets His Death.

A telephone message from Gaaden Hill to the Port Hope Times on Saturday says:—This morning a double calamity near the village has aroused for the afflicted family the sympathy of the neighborhood. About nine o'clock the kitchen of the farm house of Mr. John Robb, half a mile north of this village at the head of the mill pond, was discovered to be on fire. Those of the inmates who were within, attempted to extinguish the flames, but they had gained too much headway and all exertions were turned to save what furniture could be carried out. This was not much. The fire spread quickly to the main building of the dwelling, and only a small portion of the contents escaped the conflagration.

Two sons of Mr. Robb, Robert and James, the latter twenty-three years of age, and Robert some older, were chopping in a woods a quarter of a mile from the house. They saw their home being consumed, and dropping their axes dashed out of the woods, over fences and fields, towards the rapidly burning house. Robert out-distanced his brother, and arriving on the scene helped in the work so far as he could. The fire subsided somewhat, but James had not put in an appearance, and enquiries were made. Robert told them he had started for the house with him, and, becoming alarmed, a search was instituted. About fifty rods from the house, in a field that had never been ploughed, the missing man was found. His head was in a hole, and life was almost extinct. He was lifted up and only breathed once or twice.

He probably tripped over a knoll in the uneven ground, and, falling into the hole headforemost, strangled to death.

This lamentable accident, following on the destruction of their home, must be a sad shock to Mr. Robb and the family.

A Nihilist's Opinion.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Leo Hartmann, the Russian Nihilist, thinks that the proposed Russian treaty is an insult to the people of the United States and Russia. It is opposed to the constitution, because, under its provisions, a man can be arrested by the Russian police as easily in the United States as in Russia. He has been elected president of a new league, which is to number 10,000. He gives the present Russian Government five years to exist, but in the meantime thinks that "Every lover of liberty should protest against the ratification by the Senate of Mr. Bayard's infamous treaty."

A Furious Tornado.

WATERTOWN, Dak., April 9.—A severe wind, which culminated in a tornado, drove the prairie fire up to the western limits of the city yesterday, destroying some buildings. During the storm last evening, freight cars were blown out of the north-western yards, and when last heard of were going before the wind down the track. Lumber piles were scattered and light articles strewn about the streets.

RESISTING EVICTION.

DUBLIN, April 10.—At Dunmanaway, County Cork, yesterday, a farmer and his wife resisted eviction for eight hours, hurling stones and other missiles at the police. The attempt to evict them was finally abandoned.

ULSTER LAND COMMITTEE.

DUBLIN, April 10.—The Ulster Land Committee has declared against all the Land bill except the clauses relating to leases. In this Ulster agrees with the National League. An Irish Conservative landowner writes to say that a bill more fatal to the landlords was never drafted than that which the Earl of Cadogan has introduced into the Lords, adding:—"The Government will fail on the Coercion bill, but the Land bill will be a contributory cause."

NEWFOUNDLAND'S APPEAL.

LONDON, April 9.—A letter, signed by members of both branches of the Newfoundland Legislature, appears in the Daily Telegraph, in which they appeal, on the basis of recent despatches of Sir George William Desvoeux, the Governor of Newfoundland, to the British sense of justice for compensation for losses sustained under the disallowance clause of the bill regulating the export of bait, and ask that the operation of the clause be not extended beyond a year, on the grounds that the French had ample notice of the passage of bill, and that the colony has the right to control the fisheries in its own waters.

A DISTURBANCE.

BELFAST, April 10.—A conflict occurred here to-day between a mob and a body of police. During the fight one man was wounded with a bullet. No other casualties were reported. At this hour (midnight) the city is quiet, but it is said that preparations are going on for the renewal of the disturbance to morrow.

SUPPRESSION DEMANDED.

LONDON, April 10.—The Post demands that Monday's anti-coercion meeting in Hyde park be suppressed, saying:—"In the face of the reckless parliamentary minority as an instrument of menace to the supremacy of Parliament, it can only be by some unfortunate technality that such meetings can escape being called treasonable."

GLADSTONE'S MANIFESTO.

A Letter to Workingmen About the Coercion Act.

LONDON, April 9.—The anti-coercion meeting, to be held in Hyde Park on Monday, promises to be the biggest outdoor political meeting ever held in London.

Mr. Gladstone to-day issued to the miners in the north of Great Britain, a majority of whom are enthusiastic followers of him, the following letter which amounts to manifesto: "I cannot refrain from calling your attention to the meeting which is to be held in Hyde Park next Monday and to which I understand thousands of the workingmen of London intend generously to devote their holiday. If ever there was a time when it was to the interest of the English workingman to bethink himself this is the time. It is the first time when a coercion bill, if passed, is to be passed by England's vote alone, against the voices of Scotland, Ireland and Wales. It is the first time that such a bill has been passed under the sanction of the householders at large who were never enfranchised before the last elections in 1885 and 1886. It is the first time coercion has been proposed without any attempt by the ministry to show what we know they cannot show, a state of existing and flagrant or growing crime. If England is to coerce Ireland for crime, Ireland can reply that, relatively to population, she has less crime than England. In my opinion the rejection of the bill is even more needed by England than by Ireland. For Ireland it is a question of suffering, and she knows how to suffer. For England it is a question of shame and dishonor, and to cast away shame and dishonor is the first business of a great nation.

"In 1876 a meeting of London workingmen first gave effectual force to the movement for Bulgaria which brought about the election of 1880. May the meeting of Monday next ring the death-knell of the worst, the most insulting, and the most causeless Coercion bill ever submitted to Parliament."

Destructive Blaze in Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, April 8.—Yeomans' drug store on Front street was completely gutted by fire which broke out about 5.30 this morning. Part of the stock was saved. Mr. Yeomans estimates his loss on stock at $18,000, and on building at about $3,000. His loss on stock will be about $5,000 above the insurance; the building is fully insured. The fire is attributed to spontaneous combustion.

Fairly Outsailed.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Captain Samuels, of the schooner yacht Dauntless, who has arrived from England, says that the story of his disagreement with Mr. Colt was a complete fabrication, and that they parted the best of friends. He says:—"The trip across was the worst I ever experienced. The sailors were not dry a moment from the time we left New York, until after they dropped anchor in Cork harbor." Captain Samuels says the Coronet was much the better boat, and the Dauntless was fairly outsailed.

A Sharp Rejoinder.

We find this not very pleasant glimpse of Macaulay in the recently published biography of Agnes Strickland. The two dined together at the house of the late Duke of Somerset, and at the table a handsome, quiet young man, who faced them, apparently afforded Mr. Macaulay a topic for conversation, for he looked pointedly at him and commenced a tirade of invective on the stupidity of handsome men, by which the Adonis of the party evidently was embarassed and annoyed. Agnes thought the attack unfair, and replied:—"It is a consolation for ugly men to consider them so." He became sulky and they had no further conversation together.—Ex.

THE ELECTION RETURNS.

THE explanation given by Mr. Pope, Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, as to the gazetting of the returns of members elected to the House of Commons, does not satisfy the London Advertiser, which renews its slanders. As a foundation for its calumnies, it gives a pretended list of the returns in the Canada Gazette for March 5th, 12th, 19th and 26th, and April 2nd. On examining this fraudulent list, we find that this unscrupulous organ has dishonestly falsified it in order to bolster up its calumnies of honorable men.

In our County, which was naturally the one we first looked for, Mr. James Stevenson, M. P., for West Peterborough, is called a "Reformer" by the Advertiser, this falsification being adopted to bear out its statement that Conservatives were gazetted early, and also in order to give color to its calumny that such Returning Officers as Mr. Hall and Mr. Morrow, two Reform officials, dishonestly sent in their returns at dates to favor the Conservative Government. Turning next to the adjoining county of Victoria we find the same knavish device. Mr. J. Augustus Barron, the Reform member for North Victoria, is called by the Advertiser a "Tory," to hide the fact, which would tell against its slanderous theory, that he was gazetted before Mr. "David" Hudspeth, as the Advertiser calls him, who was not gazetted till the following week. As to the other counties that border upon Peterborough, in Durham Mr. Blake is gazetted a week earlier than Mr. Ward the Conservative; in Hasting Mr. Burdette, Reformer, is gazetted on the same day as the Hon. Mr. Bowell, Conservative and Cabinet Minister, and if in Northumberland Mr. Guillet, Conservative, was gazetted before Mr. Mallory, Reform, there is the simple explanation that in the latter case there was a re-count.

Having examined this doctored list for our own and the adjoining counties, we need proceed no further in the search among the foul mass. These specimens sufficiently show the criminal efforts made by the Advertiser to manufacture false evidence. In some of these cases within our local knowledge the list does not bear out the slanderous charges of the Advertiser. In two of them, because the facts are against it, this disgrace to journalism resorts to deliberate forgery to support its false accusations.

And this is what one of the leading organs of those Reformers who still follow Mr. Blake, deems fair political opposition; this is the way in which it hopes to prejudice the people of Canada against their chosen and trusted leaders.

THE CARLETON REGISTRARSHIP

MR. THOMAS COFFEY, proprietor of the Catholic Record, has published a denial of the assertion of the Irish Canadian that the Rev. J. F. Coffey made a corrupt bargain with the Mowat Administration for the appointment of Mr. P. J. Coffey to the Registrarship of Carleton. Having published the Irish Canadian's statement, we give equal publicity to Mr. Thomas Coffey's denial. No explanation is given by Mr. Thomas Coffey of the two facts that surprised the Irish Canadian; that Mr. P. J. Coffey was secretly substituted for a gentleman, also a Roman Catholic, who was conducting the office most efficiently and satisfactorily, as Mr. Mowat testifies, against the strenuous protests of the Ottawa Reform leaders; or that the Catholic Record bitterly opposed all the Roman Catholic candidates on the Conservative side.

BECAUSE Mr. Colter showered abuse on the County Judge and Revising officer of Haldimand the Brockville Recorder wants us to condemn that official. If we believed Mr. Colter we would do so, but we are convinced that Mr. Colter is a slanderer, wild with rage at being rejected by the constituency, and anxious to benefit himself pecuniarily by augmentig the collection he is taking up. If Mr. Colter were truthful in the grave charges he brings against Judge Upper, he would know better, especially as he is himself a lawyer, than to indulge in cowardly billingsgate instead of adopting the proper method of punishing such misconduct if it existed. Should he be intending to take such steps, he should not endeavor to excite prejudice before the investigation by public vituperation. We cannot condemn Judge Upper on the unsupported ravings of such an assailant.

The Panama Canal.

Panama canal shareholders and bondholders will not get much comfort out of the report read in London Wednesday night by Civil Engineer Boyd before the Engineers' Society. Mr. Boyd has just returned from the isthmus, where he made a thorough investigation. It is admitted in Panama, he says, that the company will require at least $440,000,000 in addition to the money already spent. As he declares that the work cannot be completed in less than twelve years, and as the annual interest and administration charges are even now $16 000,000, this addition would raise the cost of the canal to something like $820,000,000, while the company's obligations would amount to more than $1,200,000,000, for the last loan caused a debt of $90,000,000 and yielded only $40,000,000 in cash. The entire cost of the Suez canal was less than $100,000,000. M. de Lesseps has explained that the canal at Panama will do three times as much business as the canal at Suez has done. It will soon be necessary for him to revise his estimate. He must have intended to say "eight times as much business," for nothing less will suffice.—N. Y. Times.

THE TRAIN IS HERE

TO TAKE PASSENGERS TO THE CELESTIAL CITY.

The Way to Get a Passage Pointed Out —The Fatal Fruits of Delay—An Offer that May be Withdrawn.

On Sunday Dr. McLaren preached in St. Paul's Church both morning and evening. In the evening he took for his text St. Luke xiii., commencing at the 23rd verse—"Then said one unto Him, Lord, are there few that be saved? and He said unto them, strive to enter in at the straight gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in and shall not be able. When once the master of the house is risen up and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us: and He shall answer and say unto you: I know not whence ye are: Then shall ye begin to say, we have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets. But he shall say, I tell you I know not whence you are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and all the prophets in the Kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out. And they shall come from the east and from the west, and from the north and from the south, and shall sit down in the Kingdom of God, and there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last."

In commencing the preacher pointed out one essential difference between the teaching of the Word of God and that of the most celebrated of earthly wisemen and philosophers. It was this: The object that the Word sought to accomplish was not to satisfy as was that of the earthly philosophers, but to lay down practical guidance for their lives. Its object was not to solve difficult and perplexing problems, but to point out the dangers which hovered near us. And while it did throw light on and clear up more of the questions which bewildered mankind than all other teaching combined, still that was not its main object. This luminating of dark places was merely the scattering of sparks as it passed on to do the great work for which it was sent into the world. No passages in Scripture more clearly set forth the foregoing than those of the text. Here we have three distinct thoughts: 1st, a speculative question; 2nd, a practical answer; and third, a variety of considerations why we are to strive to enter into the City of God.

I. The speculative question. We could not be certain as to the manner in which the question was asked. It might have been put in a captious spirit with the thought that it was impossible to answer: "Lord are there few, that be saved?" It might have been put simply out of idle curiosity; or, it being a question with schoolmen at the time as to how many would be saved, perhaps it was put by a learned Rabbi to see what answer Christ would make. But to him it appeared quite certain that the question was put on the supposition that the teaching of our Lord implied that only a few would be saved. And this supposition might be well taken, for several places in scriptures it seemed to point out that there would be the chosen number to inherit eternal life. The Sermon on the Mount seemed to teach it and so did the text. But it was evident that the terms were employed in a restrictive sense and not with a view to a wide interpretation. Christ spoke of the state of the country in which he moved. In fact Christ was silent when asked if there were few who were to be saved. It was one of the questions which human curiosity asked and Divine wisdom left unanswered. And as God regulated the strength of the sunbeam to our eye, and our eye to the strength of the sun's light, so that we would not be blinded by too much light, might we not believe that he is dealing in regulating the portion of our knowledge of divine things. It was only by degrees that we allowed the flood of instruction to enter the minds of our children in reference to a variety of topics, was it any wonder that God would deal with us as children in letting shine upon our minds the divine things step by step and stage by stage. But though Christ was silent in giving a direct answer, he was not silent in making one answer.

II. He gave a practical answer.

He did not satisfy the speculative thought which mayhap would have liked to have the reply in round numbers, so as to afford room for quibbling and caviling. But he did give a practical answer by saying: "Strive to enter in at the strait gate." What was this strait gate? It was the great moral and spiritual change, which in the Gospel is spoken of as "repentence," "conversion," "faith," "regeneration." People were formed with sinful hearts. It was natural for man to sin, and it was absolutely indespensible to salvation that a regeneration should take place. By the number he saw at the sacrament table to-day he could see that many had shunned the broad way, but if there were some here who had not put away the old nature they were still on the way which leads to destruction. Christ says strive to enter at the strait gate. You perhaps say, "how can I strive?" Well, first of all strive by prayer. God says that whosoever calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. The very word "strive" implied a duty to be done. To be a Christian did not require a person to become a monk and shut himself in a monastary, but there were duties to be done nevertheless. The first duty of the day should be to ask God to watch over you throughout the day, to implore in all trials and difficulties that may beset you. Weakness is strength when in our weakness we avail ourselves of Christ's strength.

III. It is not everyone seeking the straight gate that should be successful, therefore, should we strive hard to enter. Our Lord expressely says it, and the word "strive" implies it. "For many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in and shall not be able." The slothful will not succeed. Depend upon it, a man must be in earnest. Earnestness, however, does not mean violent physical demonstrations, but earnestness will manifest itself in our lives. Still a man may be earnest and not succeed. A man might go to the station intent upon going to Toronto. When there he might step into the train going to Montreal. He may be fully in earnest about going to Toronto, but that earnestness will not prevent him from being borne off in the opposite direction. A man may be in earnest about his religion and yet be unsaved. Jesus Christ can save anybody, but earnestness is not Christ. Neither was morality Christ, nor was zeal in distributing tracts, nor was active work in the outward services of the church. All these things were vain without Christ being in the heart. The means of being saved were very simple—as simple as that by which Naaman was cured of his leprosy. But people were like Naaman, the means were so simple they could not understand them and sought rather in some work of their own to get salvation. Some people who are carelessly confident of them salvation will be surprised when the "I know ye not" is pronounced. Therefore should we strive. People who gave to the missionary cause liberally might be the means of enabling the heathen to attain Heaven but how sad would it be if he himself were left out. "And there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last." Therefore should we strive. The point to be made is that this is no time for idle questions or mere speculation, but that it is a true

FOR ACTION—FOR DECISION.

The opportunity is given for men to enter in at the straight gate. The opportunity slighted and the gate is shut. Observe a man come to a railway station. The bell has rung and the whistle has blown. He madly elbows his way through the crowd, but too late—the train is already in motion and has sped away. Sad and dejected he turns away. He has missed an engagement that is to affect his whole future life. Would it be any consolation for a bystander to say, "That car was only half full, there was plenty of room for you," or "That car was crowded, you couldn't have got a seat anyway." Seat or no seat, he would have gone if his opportunity hadn't been lost. "The train from the City of Destruction is now at this station. It is on the way to the Celestial City. There is room for all. May every one here to-night not slight the opportunity. Amen."

WOLVES AND DEER.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I was back in the Township of Anstruther a few weeks ago and I found the people still enjoying a good old-fashioned winter. Still its a cold day that will cool off some of the electors there, for when G. W. Cs. and the General meet they get pretty hot over it yet. But it is not howling politicians that we want to write about, but howling wolves, for when I was in Apsley there was a good crust on the snow and the wolves taking advantage of it were killing a great many deer, probably more than people were aware of. There has been some agitation about increasing the bounty on wolves, and it can't be done too soon, for if some means are not taken to induce trappers and hunters to catch or poison more of them, the settlers or sportsmen from towns will, in few years, be able to get few, if any, deer, and trappers do care to spend much time trying to catch wolves (as they are hard to get) for the present bounty of $6. But, Mr. Editor, the deer have, if anything, a worse enemy than the wolves. I heard that some of the settlers had been killing deer about the time I was in Apsley—the latter part of March, though to the credit of the majority up there such killing, or more properly speaking slaughtering, is strongly condemned and is little to the credit or honour of the slayer either, as any half grown boy can go where the deer herd, and on snow shoes, murder the poor defenceless deer. There is not only the shame of killing them now, but, sir, they can be little better than carrion at this season of the year and hardly fit for human food. It is well I did not get the names of the party or parties who so far forgot themselves or I might have been tempted to have turned informer. I don't wish you, Mr. Editor, or anyone to think that if a settler wanted a deer for use early in the season, say August or September, he should not get it (if he can) and I think he has some right to it where other fresh meat is scarce. And you know as well as I do about that time a yearling buck is just immense, but just now—faugh!

I commenced this letter to speak about four footed wolves, but I don't think any right minded person will condemn me for writing about another kind that travel on two feet and are even more destructive to deer according to their numbers than their four footed brethren. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space and hoping some settler will speak out if I have written to strongly,

Yours truly,
TRAVELLER.

SOUTH VICTORIA.

Mr. Hudspeth has now freed himself of any disqualification by resigning his offices, and again appeals to the constituency for election. A Liberal convention was held on Wednesday, and Mr. Needlar, of Lindsay, was nominated to contest the seat. This action is entirely a mistake. It may safely be taken for granted that in the recent election both parties did their utmost. Both fought for the seat, when winning it, for ought they knew, might retain or oust the Government. Both candidates were admittedly the strongest men available. It was a square fight to the death, and Mr. Hudspeth fairly won it. Nothing has taken place in the field of politics, since the election to cause any radical change of opinion and the ordinary drift is entirely in favor of Mr. Hudspeth. There is naturally a sympathy for the man who has won a prize, and then has to give it up through some technicality. The Government has an assured majority, and for the Liberals to win the seat would make little or no material difference. To Mr. Needlar not a word of objection can be made. He is a gentleman of shrude business capabilities, and stirling qualifications, and would make a creditable representative. The chances of success, however, are all against him, and under the circumstances it would be more wise of the Liberal party to make a virtue of a hopeless case, and by withdrawing opposition, extend to Mr. Hudspeth the courtesy of allowing him by general consent, to take the seat he fairly won.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream."

And yet it is, when all the marrow is taken out of it by some dreadful disease like consumption, that, neglected, means certain death; catarrh and brochitis both distressing, and often leading to conlumption, or like liver complaints or scrofula, which too often make those afflicted feel that life is empty. But these can all be cured. The use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood, lung and liver remedy, does away with "mournful numbers," brings back lost health, and fills life full of dreams of happiness and prosperity. Druggists sell it.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d90

CHAPTER XIII.

"SHE IS MY WIFE."

What did it mean?

The face vanished in an instant. As quickly as she could collect her senses, Shirley followed Mr. Morrison out the hallway. She went around in the porch to the window where the face had been. The master was nowhere about. No living creature was there. She stepped out upon the lawn beyond, and peered about under the starlight. She saw nothing, heard nothing.

All was night and silence.

So still it was out there, so entirely all nature seemed unconscious of anything unusual, that Shirley could almost have believed nothing unusual had happened, and that she had imagined the face in the glass. There was a dim light inside the room, a brighter light outside in the porch. Might not the optical laws of refraction and reflection, aided by a crooked pane of glass, have twisted the image of some very commonplace object into that distorted, demoniac shape? She had read of such things.

At any rate, Shirley was not one to fret herself unnecessarily. She had had so many real worries in her life that she never went out of her way to hunt up unreal ones. Above all and before all, too, there was the supreme comforting thought, if anything was wrong, he, the master, would set it right. He would see that no harm came to her.

That was the thought in her mind as she went back inside the cottage, and to her own room.

The room, it will be remembered, was upon the ground floor.

The girl sat down beside the low, broad window. She was too restless, too happy to sleep. She said over and again to herself: "Fate has been very good to me, after all. I never believed such joy was to be for me, Shirley Carstone."

The master loved her. He had told her so. That was enough. No vision of guile, of treachery or of trouble crossed her thought. Her noble, innocent nature saw no falseness, no weakness in those she loved. She trusted them wholly. Yea, to the world's end.

Looking down the valley into the years that were to come, Shirley saw only brightness. Perplexities would come perhaps. Her hands would still be full of work, that she knew. Nay, as the world went, it might be long before he could come and claim her. She even thought of that. What then? The master loved her. That knowledge would be a strange, sweet presence that walked beside her day by day to the end, turning her heavy load into lightness. She laughed in the face of storm, of darkness, of the deadly lightning. The sweet, magic presence that walked evermore beside her would touch them and turn all her life into blue sky and rose cloud.

And her poem? The intense girl heart gave a glad bound. Half her inspiration had seemed gone when the master left her under the willows that day long ago. Now it came back. Now she would indeed write her poem. She would prove herself worthy of such a lover. He should be so proud of her, in the blessed years to come!

Rapt in her sweet visions Shirley sat there hour after hour. Morning was at hand. The mysterious thrill of the coming day quivered in the dark air. A timid bird chirped faintly. The breath of lilies swept in at the open window.

Shirley started up, smiled and threw herself upon her bed, dressed as she was. She had spun her web of thought out for the time. In five minutes she was in the land of dreams.

Shirley was a sound sleeper. The fashion of "nervous" young lady was just coming in. Shirley was not of that kind. She had a clear conscience and a good digestion, heaven be praised!

Therefore when a human shape trod catlike over the low window sill and into the room, she did not waken.

The first knowledge Shirley had was an awful consciousness that she was dying of suffocation. A great weight was upon her chest. Something was pressed over her mouth and nostrils, stifling her, swift and deadly. She tried to breathe, she tried to cry out. In vain. She struggled. She was lapped from head to foot in some heavy covering that made it impossible for her to use her hands or arms. She fought blindly a moment or two, and then gave over.

Death was almost there, she knew. The master, would he ever know how she died? In the last gleam of consciousness, a foolish tale of her childhood flashed through her memory. A cat had sat upon a child's breast, it was said, and drawn the breath from its nostrils, and so suffocated it. Was it a cat upon her breast?

Then she remembered no more.

But just in the nick of time, the instant before it would have been too late forever, a man sprang in at the window. The man was Mr. Morrison. With giant strength he seized the creature upon the bed and flung her off. It was a woman, with waxy white face and wild, demoniac eyes. He snatched the pillow and a heavy covering from Shirley's senseless form. He lifted her, he fanned her with his hand, called her his Shirley, his darling, he implored her to speak to him.

The wild woman flew at him like a panther. She tore his face with her nails. She buried her teeth in his hand to the bone.

Once more he mastered her by main strength and dragged her away from the bed. Two strong men had followed hm in through the window. One of them carried a straitjacket. He gave her into their hands. It was with difficulty that even they could hold her.

Shirley opened her eyes. The wild woman saw it, and made as if she would spring at her again. But the two keepers had got her into the straitjacket.

Mr. Morrison motioned them to be gone.

"Take that devil away," he said, "before I crush the life out of her!"

The wild woman snarled at him like a savage beast. The keepers forced her out through the doorway. As she went she gave George Morrison a last look of helpless rage, and muttered:

"I hate you! And you would marry me!"

Shirley heard her say it. She lived over the horror of those few moments in her dreams, sometimes in after years, and would waken to find herself standing upright, shrieking frightfully, her brow wet with drops of cold perspiration.

She had heard the wild woman mutter:

"I hate you! And you could marry me!"

The master stood still by the door with a deathly pale face, and blood dripping from his hand. A streak of blood coursed down his cheeks. Shirley turned her eyes on him. She was quite in her senses now.

"Who is that woman?" she said.

The concentrated gall and wormwood of all humanity was in his voice as he answered:

"She is my wife!"

Then a fearful silence followed. He broke it.

"Well, Shirley, you don't congratulate me on my wedded bliss?"

She gave him a terrible look.

"You have deceived me," she said.

"I have. It is true I saved your life a moment ago, but that is nothing. I have let you believe a falsehood. And my name is not George Morrison. It is Philip Dumoray. Perhaps you will be interested to know it."

The dare devil of his reckless youth was uppermost in him again now. He strode across and stopped beside her with his white, blood streaked face and wounded hand. He stood so close to her that the blood from his hand dropped and stained the sleeve of her white dress. She shrank from him with horror. He went on.

"I have deceived you all along. I am a married man—husband of the angelic creature who so nearly murdered you awhile ago."

The master was the master no longer, not even of himself. A savage oath broke from his lips. Shirley could not speak. She beckoned him feebly to go. He did not heed it, but talked on:

"She almost killed me once, in the same way. They have had her in the mad house, on the hill, for nine years. I come here once a year to see that she is well treated and wants for nothing. That is what I came here for now. Last night she got away. Nobody knew it till you saw her at the window. I gave the alarm and searched for her with two attendants all night after I left you. I was afraid she would do some devilry. I never thought of harm to you, though, good God!"

Then he broke into wild anger again.

"Go, only go!" said Shirley, faintly.

"Well, I will. But I will come back again."

The rose she had worn in her hair lay upon the floor, crushed and trampled. He stooped and picked it up and carried it away with him.

Was not that a morning for them both, after such an evening?

* * * * * *

Shirley had only one thought—to get away, and that quickly and forever. A mad desire to fly to the uttermost parts of the earth, where she would see nobody she ever knew; above all, where Philip Dumoray would never find her again. That was the only wish she was conscious of.

The work which she had come to do was done. The stir and bustle of the morning was on now. All about her she heard it. A train left early which would take her homeward. She was weak and trembling, so that she could scarcely rise, yet she hurried her preparations. She was in feverish haste to be gone. She had been so happy in that cottage, happier than ever in her life before. But now it was hateful to her. Only let her go away, away.

It wanted yet an hour till train time when Shirley was ready for her departure, yet she made haste to be gone. In the cheerless, foggy dawn she had herself taken to the station. How utterly cheerless, how dreary it was! It was a morning to take the stiffening out of a human being.

Shirley waited for the train. She could not restrain her impatience. She walked up and down the platform in the fog. She shivered with cold, she, the warm blooded, merry Shirley. Her knees trembled beneath her with weakness, but her will kept her up. There is nothing so good as a strong will.

Well, at last, in fifteen minutes it would be train time. She looked at her watch. It was very chilly. She disliked to go back into the little waiting room. It was full of giggling girls, smirking youths and stupid women. In the unhappy, unreasonable mind in which she was, how she hated them!

Nevertheless, she was chilled to the bone. She turned to go inside, and came face to face with Philip Dumoray!

He had been to the cottage and had followed on after her. His injured hand was bound up and carried in a sling. His torn, disordered clothing had been replaced by a well made toilet. He would have been neatly attired if he had dressed himself for the scaffold. There was dandy enough about Philip Dumoray for that. His face was still very pale, but firm and composed. He looked reproachfully at Shirley.

"Why did you go away when you knew I wished to see you again?"

"Why did you come here after me when you knew I did not wish to see you?"

"I did not know it," he replied, simply.

"Then you ought to have known it. You saved my life. I ought to thank you for that, I suppose. But I don't. Life will not be so sweet or pleasant to me hereafter that I should cherish a desperate desire to hang to it through thick and thin."

"Shirley," said he, "there is something I have to tell you. It is a wretched story. I ask you to bear with me and listen to it."

"I don't wish to hear it," she answered, coldly.

"But I must tell you," he said.

"My train is coming," said Shirley. "There it is at the curve. Good morning, Mr. Dumoray."

AN EASTER THOUGHT.

Sings the thrush from branches budding
In the first fresh April green;
Gleams the yellow cowslip, studding
All the meads with ruddy sheen;
And the bee in rapture settles,
There the fragrant store to find;
And the wind-flower spreads its petals
To the sunny southern wind.

Oh, while all things are awaking
In this busy world around,
Say, must hearts alone be breaking
For the bliss they have not found?
And must blighted souls' affection
Like dead leaves be cast aside—
Shall it have no resurrection
In a Heavenly Easter-tide?

Surely, He whose power can waken
Life within the leafless tree,
And to woodlands flower-forsaken,
Bring again the bird and bee—
He can wake to life and duty
Human souls inchained by sin,
And bring forth the hidden beauty
Of His image stamped within.

Oh, when broods the dark December
Over blighted tree and flower,
Hopefully we will remember
Beauties waked by sun and shower;
And when mists of shame and sorrow,
And thick darkness round us roll,
We will look for God's to-morrow,
Bringing Easter to the soul!

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

English Literature Class.

The class in the Y.M.C.A. rooms conducted by Mr. Ewen, will not meet to-night. It will be resumed next Monday evening.

GENTLEMEN can get Dack & Son's finest boots from R. J. KIDD at Toronto prices. Call and see the goods.

Jubilee Singers To-night.

In the George St. Methodist Church. Tickets 25 cents. Doors open at seven o'clock. Be early to get a seat.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. Geo. Gumpricht is in town. Orders may be left at Mr. T. Menzies' book store or Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's drug store.

New Orleans Jubilee Singers.

This fine company of colored singers will be in Peterborough to-night only. They are sure to have a large house, as the 1,600 people who heard them last night were delighted.

Death to Dogs.

The civic authorities have given warning that all dogs found on the streets after May 1st without the necessary corporation label will be shot without notice or mercy. The Council have made it a part of the duty of the police to shoot the tagless dogs.

"Peril."

The McDowell Company presented Victorien Sardou's comedy "Peril" at Bradburn's Opera House. It is not necessary to say that it was presented in a very satisfactory manner, as everything the McDowell Company undertakes to do is done well. There was no striving after effect, no ranting, nothing unnatural in the acting, but each one filled a place in telling a story not seldom to be met with in real life. The play is so ingeniously contrived as to possess sustaining interest from the inception of the plot till the last scene in the last act when the happy development is reached. The play is one of a wholesome moral tone, and incidentally it throws satire upon people's pecularities and a condition of false friendship which all know to exist.

Ashburnham Methodist Church.

The Easter services in connection with the Mark Street Methodist Church, Ashburnham, have been of a very interesting character. On the morning of Good Friday a sermon was delivered by the pastor, the Rev. J. C. Wilson, to a good congregation, on "The Trial of Christ." On Sabbath the church was handsomely decorated with floral offerings, the selection and arrangement of the offering reflecting great credit on the young ladies of the congregation. At 11 a. m. a large audience assembled to hear an able discourse on "The Suffering of Christ." At 7 p. m. the subject was "The Resurrection of Our Saviour." The speaker proceeded to show that Christianity was based entirely on this great event. He answered the various objections that have been raised with reference to this fact, and brought out forcibly the evidences of it found in the Word of God. The choir rendered suitable selections on each occasion and added materially to the interest of all the services.

The Style—Every Lady should see the Grand Attractions at the Trade Palace this week.

THE CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Its Progress and Products—Objections to it Being Removed.

On Saturday at noon the exhibition car which is being sent through Ontario to show what the Canadian Northwest, British Columbia and Manitoba can produce, reached Peterborough. This is the third visit which the car has made to this town, but the interest in it was unabated. During the afternoon and evening it was crowded with people, eager to see what the great Northwest is capable of.

The car this season is under the charge of Capt. Allen and two handsome young assistants—Messrs. N. O. Nolin and H. R. Charlton Capt. Allen is a good humored and obliging man. He is rigid enough, however, when anyone commits a breach of the car rules. Besides this he is possessed of very necessary qualifications. He has spent six years in the Canadian Northwest and British Columbia, and knows the "lay" of the whole country. A person has only to tell what he intends to do on going to the Northwest to be told by Capt. Allen where the best place is for his business. Added to these, he is an old journalist.

The car this year is very tastefully decorated and conveniently arranged. All of the contents of the car are placed in such positions as to be easily inspected. The principal new features are: The Douglas fir tree, the cow's head, and the maple leaf. The thin slice from the trunk of one of the gigantic firs is placed on its edge in the centre of the car. It is 8 feet in diameter, and 561 years old. This timber is to be found in great abundance in British Columbia. It is straight in grain, tough and well suited to everything where strong and durable wood is required. It is especially adapted for making masts and spars. The cow's head gives a good idea of what the ranch cattle are like. The maple leaf from British Columbia attracted much notice on account of its immense size. It is 21½ inches across.

Capt. Allen says that the two great objections to the Canadian Northwest are rapidly floating away in thin air. These were: the lack of lumber and fuel. The saw mills of British Columbia are now supplying the whole territory with the very best lumber at low prices. Last year a board was sent to the Colonial Exhibition 14 feet wide and 40 feet long. The Lethbridge coal mines are now in operation and fine samples of coal are delivered all along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway at from $2 to $7.50 a ton. The latter was the price in Winnipeg, after a haul of 700 miles.

The car has been spending the principal part of the winter in the Eastern States. It went as far south as Springfield and as far west as Albany and Troy. It traversed the intervening territory pretty well. Capt. Allen says that he was received very well wherever he went. Much interest was taken in the exhibits. About a month ago the car re-crossed the border, and for the next week will remain in Central Ontario.

The pamphlets distributed give interesting accounts of the progress and various capabilities of the great Northwest.

ANNIVERSARY.

The Salvation Army on its Third Year.

The second anniversary of the attack upon Peterborough by the Salvation Army was celebrated on Saturday and Sunday and the celebration continues.

On Saturday evening the meeting was held in the barracks at which Capt. Williams, Capt. Mills, and Capt. Dyson took prominent parts.

On Sunday afternoon the Opera House was well filled. The meeting was conducted by Capt. Dyson and Capt. Williams. It was opened with prayer, after which there was singing and giving of experiences.

During the meeting Capt. Williams announced that the Salvation Army were about to enter upon a work similar to that of the Prisoners' Aid Association of Toronto and other societies. Their intention was to build a divisional headquarters in Peterborough, and then to lay hold of any prisoners they could that were liberated from gaol and put them on their feet. As it was now prisoners had a hard job to get work when liberated from gaol. This was not a right spirit among the people. When a man has taken a step down the hill it was not the duty of Christians to kick him to the foot, but it was their duty to help him to the top again. They also purposed to make this a kind of a home for drunkards. The Army were contented to be called the moral scavengers of God Almighty. Anyone that no one else would take they were willing to take. They wanted the people of Peterborough to help them in the work they were going to undertake. The new building would cost about $5,000.

This evening a banquet will be held at from 5 to half-past 6. The meeting will be held in the Opera House afterward. It is expected that Messrs. Wm. Gooderham, of Toronto, Geo. A. Cox, the Rev. I. Tovell, Rev. F. H. Wallace, Rev. G. H. Davis, Adj Bolton, Capt. Bertha Smith, and others will be present.

THE FRESHET.

The "Creek" Very High—The Damage Done.

The heat of Saturday and Sunday has induced the spring freshet which those who live along the borders of the "creek" are annually disturbed by.

This year the water has risen unusually high. At the time of the last thaw it was thought that all danger was over. The bed of the creek was cleared of ice and everything looked like plain sailing. ON Saturday, however, the water rapidly rose until three o'clock this morning when it receded. At that hour the water had overflown the bounds of the creek, and several houses were invaded by the water. In Mr. Mr. Logan's yard the water was nearly a foot deep.

During Sunday night a force of men were constantly at work at the various bridges to keep the ice from forming into jams. At Hamilton's foundry considerable difficulty was had. At the Bethune street bridge, where the most difficulty was experienced a few weeks ago, there was scarcely any trouble. But at the Brock and Simcoe street bridges, particularly the latter, it was a constant fight to keep them from being carried off bodily. The Simcoe street bridge was carried away, bit by bit, till this morning there was only a small piece of it left. The eastern end of the Central Iron Works and Lock Factory was in danger of being swept away; also the blacksmith shop of the iron works. Most of the props were taken from under the latter, and it now stands in a precarious condition.

The Hunter street iron bridge has stood the strain without a particle of injury. The Council should consider whether it is, or is not, cheaper in the end to build substantial iron bridges over the creek at Brock and Simcoe streets. The cost of the repairs put on these bridges year after year would soon pay for the construction of substantial iron bridges.

Med. Exams.

The result of the examinations at Trinity Medical School, Toronto, are published. Mr. A. E Yelland, of Peterborough, passed the final examination for the "Fellowship" degree with the highest honors, obtaining the gold medal, and in the examination for the M. D. C. M. he obtained a certificate of honor. Mr. W. D. Scott, of Smith, also passed the final for the "Fellowship" with honors, being second silver medallist, and passed the examination for M. D. C. M. in the first class. We congratulate Messrs. Yelland and Scott on their brilliant record and wish for them a prosperous future. Mr. A. T. Emmerson, of Peterborough, successfully passed the primary examination for his degree, as did also Mr. Geo. K. Mark, of Keene, the latter being awarded a certificate of honor.

Personal.

The Toronto Telegram published on Saturday a long article respecting the Berkeley Street Methodist Church and its pastor, the Rev. J. E. Starr, formerly of Peterborough, together with a very good picture of the church, an interior view that looks like a battered cut of the Montreal ice palace, and a libellous alleged portrait of Mr. Starr. The article, however, is flattering to the pastor, and, after describing him, his mannerisms, his church, and giving a sketch of a sermon and an interview with Mrs. Starr, closes by saying:—"Expressions of regret are heard on all sides that the pastorate at Berkeley street is so soon to close. Mr. Starr's organizing and energizing spirit has put the work into such shape, however, that the future of this church has an assurance of continued success." Mr. Starr has received an invitation to go to Victoria, B. C.

Young wife—"I know very well, mother, that my husband no longer loves me."

Mother—"How do you know it, my daughter?"

"You know he belongs to a fire company?"

"Yes."

"Well, before we were married, when we were courting and the fire-bell rang, he never went to the fire. He said that he would rather pay the fine."

"Well, what does he do now?"

"Why, now, at the very first sound of the bell, he says duty calls him, and he is off and away in three shakes of a sheep's tail."

BIBLE IN THE SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—At the last meeting of the Board of Education, and during the discussion as to whether the now famous "Ross bible" should remain in our schools, or not, opinions were expressed, that is if the report of the meeting is correct, by certain trustees which must have caused pain to all Christians who read these opinions and who have been taught to reverence, from childhood's earliest days, that Book which is "God's Holy Word." Yes, I say pained, because, fellow Christians, we are told by no less a person than that professedly Christian gentleman D. W. Dumble, Esq., that in that Book wherein every record and teaching is inspired of God, the Holy, just and pure God, there are things recorded not fit to be read to pure children. Now, sir, I am astonished at the inconsistency of this gentleman, and yet there ought not to be any ground for astonishment, because Mr. Dumble himself lets the public into a little secret, no doubt committed to him by his hon. friend Mr. Mowat. For in your account of the Board's meeting you report that he informed Mr. Sproule that the "Devil was at the bottom of it." I quite agree with Mr. Dumble, and I am inclined to think that he has been so long out of politics that he is able to judge calmly, &c., and when he makes the statement that his Satanic Majesty inspired the Hon. G. W. Ross to remove the Bible from our schools and supplant it with (to use Mr. Dumble's words) that book of "pure scripture from beginning to end," known as the Ross bible. I have no doubt but that the vast majority of our citizens will agree with him and have pity for him in being moved by the same spirit to applaud the handiwork of Mr. Ross. Mr. Dumble further says: "Some parts of the Scripture were profitable to read, and much again was not profitable." Well, what does the Word of God say? "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness."—II. Tim., 3 and 15. Of course we have now a choice of opinions. For my part I will still be guided by God's Word. I sincerely trust that Mr. Dumble will re-consider the step he has taken and will use his influence to have the children in our Public Schools taught from that Book from which he was not ashamed to teach Sabbath school children.

And now, in conclusion, permit me just to make a suggestion to to Mr. McWilliams. I am given to understand that this gentleman is very particular, that young people, especially young men, should be brought up in virtue's ways, so much so that only a short time ago he refused to attend an oyster supper held in an hotel because he wished to discountenance those suppers held in such places on account of the surrounding temptation. Now, Mr. McWilliams, why are you not consistant? Why not remove that "book," the Bible, which in your opinion contains such vile sayings, from off the "Orange altar" in the lodge room of Lodge 49? Why not take it away from those young men who belong to McWilliams' "True Blues," and in its place put the "Ross Bible"? It seems to me that it must have been an amusing sight to see Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Muncaster voting to keep the Bible from the schools, truly the lion and the lamb have come to lie down together. Surely that which our forefathers of Orangemen bled and died for, the Bible must go from the Protestant schools. Christain citizens let us rally to the support of the School Board who are now determined that the Bible must be placed and taught in our public schools and let us see to it that those members of the Board who think more of party and of Mr. Mowat than they do of the Bible, shall meet with the condemnation they so richly deserve.

Yours truly
BIBLE CHRISTAIN.

THE PROSPECTS GOOD

FOR CHRISTIANIZING THE WORLD —PROGRESS BEING MADE

In the Christian Cause—Statistics by Dr. McLaren—The Rev. Mr. McTavishe's address.

On Monday evening a meeting in the interest of foreign missions was held in the school room of St. Luke's Church at which the Rev. Dr. McLaren, of Toronto, and the Rev. Mr. McTavish, of Lindsay, delivered addresses. The Rev. E. F. Torrance acted as chairman.

The Rev. Mr. McTAVISH, on commencing, asked why we should carry on these missionary enterprises? Because it was our duty as the strong to help the weak. This was the great difference between Christian civilization and barbarbism—in one the strong push the weak to the wall, and in the other the strong sustain and help the weak. He pointed out the advantages that Christian people had over heathens. The mission field was the whole world. Every country on the face of the earth was stretching out its hands. At the beginning of this century it was not so. Three great barriers rose against the spread of the gospel. In China and Japan there was no access to the country, and even then no approach to the people. In the South Sea Islands the people were little better than animals. They had no written language. It was almost impossible to convey any high impressions to their minds. Then there was the barrier of action. Mariners from Christian lands went before the missionaries and taught the natives of different places the dark vices of civilization. These barrers were now almost gone and 800,000,000 of heathen and Mahommedan were ripe to be gathered. In one Province in China one of their missionaries had how many people under their charge? 20,000,000! Five times the number than the population of the whole of Canada.! God bless that missionary! What a vast population China has! If you take every letter in the Bible and make it represent a human being would you number the population of China? No. It would take 80 Bibles stacked one on top of another, each letter representing a human being, to number its people. If the people of China were to begin marching past a given point they would never get past. New generations would rise before the old could get by. He then spoke of the Presbyterian Foreign Missions. There was one in Trinidad, established in 1866; one in the South Sea Islands, established in 1848; one in the Northwest, one in Formosa and one in San Domingo. He urged the people to extend more sympathy to this work and sympathy would beget self sacrifice. The amount given for missionary purposes as compared with that spent in intoxicating liquor was 5 cents to 7 dollars.

Dr. MCLAREN said that the work before the Christian people was very great. At the time of Catherine II. of Russia the eyes of the people of that country had been directed to Constantinople, and from that day to this their gaze had been fixed upon it. Christ in a few words, 1800 years ago, sketched the advancing career of His church. "Ye will be witnesses for Me, both in Jerusalem and Samaria and to the uttermost ends of the earth." Had the Christian Church steadily fixed its gaze on the goal the world would be nearer to universal Christianity than it was to-day. People ask what are the prospects for evangelizing the world? To him it seemed the prospects were good. Some pessemistic persons took it for granted that the world was getting worse and worse and that the gospel was not doing the work which it was credited with and would never do it. Well, he didn't believe one word of that kind of talk. The prospects were getting better every day. It was always that which was out of the regular line of conduct that startles us. Hence it was that crimes, scandals, and such like swiftly went from one to another. If to-night in Peterborough a dreadful crime were committed the particulars would be read to-morrow morning in all the newspapers throughout this continent. But there might be a great deal of excellent conduct and not a word would be said about it. These pessemists perhaps judged of what they read of the world in the papers. No, the most potent forces in nature are not of a blustering sort. They are silent and unobstrusive. What magician was it that quietly took the snow away and caused the flowers to bloom and the buds and leaves to appear? The sunbeam; and, yet there was no noisy heralding of the approach of the sunbeam. And he believed it was so with the gospel. All unheard and unseen it was exerting a mighty influence. A campaign in some wars was often virtually ended before a blow was struck, because the skill and activity of one side had gained all the strategic points. What strategic points were gained by the Christians? It has occupied the Anglo-Saxon and Teutonic people. The rapid increase of the Anglo-Saxon people, it superority in human affairs, its success in acquiring territory, all told that it was the people beyond all doubt that was to control the world. Already Great Britain, the North America Continent, Australia, India, a large part of Africa, and many islands of the sea were under the sway of this people. Then there was the Teutonic people of Germany and Holland also holding the Christian faith. Other forms of Christianity, Romam Catholicism and the Greek church influenced other countries. In fact all the foremost countries of the world were to-day under the sway of Christianity. The Lord had placed in the hands of these Christian people great inventions, which were a great force in their hands. Steam was worth more to Great Britain and the United States than hundreds of millions of slaves. Modern inventions would, by sheer force, make nations now in darkness adopt Christian civilization at least. The people that were in darkness a few years ago were now in the light of Christianity. In the South Sea islands there were at least half a million professing Christians. In Madagascar, where half a million of Christians had suffered martyrdom, the cause of Christ now reigned triumphant. In India the number of Christians was increasing steadily with ever increasing rapidity. But come nearer home, in 1800 the population of the United States was 5,300,000. Among this people 2,650 ministers labored and there was 365,000 communicants. Fifty years of the century passed away and the number of ministers have increased to 25,500 and the number of communicants to 3,500,000. In 1880 the number of ministers is 69,800 and the number of communicants is grown to 10,060,000. In 1884 the ministers number 74.000 and the communicants 11,000,000. In the commencement of the century there was one minister to every 2,000 of the population and in 1884 one to every 700. In the beginning of the Century there was one communicant to every 20 of the population. In 1884 there was one to every 5. This showed a satisfactory state of things at home as well as abroad. The cause of Christ is becoming brighter and brighter. The world would be conquered for Him. His army, vast in number, is led by 125,000 ministers of the gospel. Behind those march 1,000,000 elders, class leaders, Church wardens and other officers. In the rear of these is heard the tread of 1,500,000 Sunday school teachers. Again behind these the sound of 22,000,000 communicants who have vowed fidelity to Christ are heard marching on to victory, and behind still you can hear the lighter foot falls of 12,000,000 Sunday school children who are being trained up to evangelize the world for Christ.

Lansdowne Rowing Club.

A new boating club, the Lansdowne Rowing Club, was organized on Monday evening at a meeting in the club house. The Peterborough Boating Club has divided its two departments, rowing and canoeing, and two new clubs have been organized, the Lansdowne Rowing Club and the Peterborough Canoe Club. The Lansdowne Club retains the use of half of the club building and will fit it up in first-class style with all conveniences for the purposes of the club. It has also secured the boats of the old club, and with a spirited membership, ardent in the pursuit of this manly and healthful sport, it will no doubt be a useful institution, and may, for it has good material, again place Peterborough in the position it once occupied in rowing circles. At the meeting on Monday night a constitution and set of by-laws was adopted, and the following officers were elected:—

HONORARY PRESIDENT—Judge Weller.
PRESIDENT—K. G. Lech.
CAPTAIN—J. Mercer.
SECRETARY-TREASURER—G. Stevenson.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—F. G. Cox, R. Stenson, H. W. Kent, W. Mathews, P. Henry and F. Stenson.

GENTLEMEN can get Dack & Son's finest boots from R. J. KIDD at Toronto prices. Call and see the goods.

Newspapers pasted on walls of poultry houses make excellent lining for the inside.

MR. CHAPLEAU BANQUETTED.

The Secretary of State Entertained at a Banquet in Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 11.—Sixteen months ago the Hon. J. A. Chapleau was burned in effigy on the Camp de Mars in this city by his indignant countrymen. To-night Canada's eloquent and popular Secretary of State has had a splendid revenge. He has, more than any other man, broken down the Riel movement in his native province and again occupies an impregnable position in the affections of his admiring compatriots. The banquet which took place this evening in the Windsor Hotel in honor of the great French Canadian tribune has perhaps never been equalled in numbers and enthusiasm in the entire political history of Lower Canada and if one has any doubt of the hold Mr. Chapleau possesses upon the masses of the Conservative electors of Quebec as represented by our public men to-night, all such illusions must have been forever dispelled. If there ever were divisions in the Conservative party of this province they have certainly ceased to exist, and it is no idle prohecy to say that in the future the members of the Liberal Conservative party in the district have resolved to forget the differences of the past and march with one accord to certain victory.

The Hon. Senator Lacoste presided at the banquet, which was attended by all that is eminent in Quebec, Conservatism, with a splendid representation from every other Province of Canada. On the chairman's right were the guests of the evening, the Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Sir Charles Tupper, the Hon. Thomas White, the Speaker of the Quebec Legislative Council, Sir Donald Smith, A. Gelines, ex-Premier Taillon, J. J. Curran, M. P., Hon. W. W. Lynch and others. To the left were seen Sir Hector L. Langevin, Sir Adolphe Caron, J. S. D. Thompson, Messrs. J. A. Ouimet and F. Vanasse, M. P.'s, L. A. Senecal and a great number of other federal and provincial dignitaries. A number of ladies also occupied seats in the hall. After the menu, which did infinite credit to the Windsor, had been disposed of, the most interesting part of the evening's programme was taken in hand. The usual loyal toasts were honored in a manner whih left no doubt as to the warm feelings Canadians entertain towards Britain's Queen and Canada's Governor-General. The Chairman then proposed amid great cheering "Our Honored Guest." Mr. Chapleau replied in a most eloquent speech. In response to other toasts speches were made by Messrs. T. Chase Casgrain, M. P. P., C. H. Davidson, Q.C., Sir Hector Langevin, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Adolphe Caron, the Hon. Thos. White, the Hon. J. S. D. Thompson, the Hon. Mr. Taillon, and others. It was the most influencial and brilliant political demonstration ever held in Montreal.

INDIAN TROUBLES.

Raids by Canadian Indians in United States Territory.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11.—It is possible that the fisheries may not prove the only complication which may cause the United States serious trouble with Canada. Strong interest, if not a little uneasiness, is manifest at the Indian Bureau over the reported early incursions of the Canadian Bloods into Montana with the intention of wiping out a few old scores now standing against their old enemies the Gros Ventres and Sioux. These same Indians were made the subject of a diplomatic correspondence last summer, in which, however, there was nothing but the utmost good feeling. As long as these Indians devoted themselves to wiping out our Indians and stealing their squaws and ponies the diplomatic sky was serene, and both nations looked on with an interest that was largely bolstered by the hope that the slaughter might be large on both sides. Unfortunately the first news received by the Government of this spring's raid included the reported killing of a settler on the American side and the stampeding of a large amount of stock belonging to white men. Whether the latter were killed or not, the past winter has made stock decidedly valuable in Montana and a claim for damage against the Government which may eventually be referred to the Dominion Government is likely to result in some dignified correspondence, if not a misunderstanding in view of the at present somewhat cold relations. The Indian Bureau acknowledges itself powerless to keep its own Indians at home last year when the Sioux dropped over the border in Assiniboia, and Mr. Pocklington, the Canadian Indian agent, finds it impossible to restrain the Bloods. Another important circumstance is the fact that a large number of Bloods have from time to time come over the border and intermarried with the Blackfeet and Piegans, all of whom show a disposition to join their Canadian relatives upon their raids here. Last year the Piegans raided the Crows twice, breaking up their farm operations, stealing their horses and putting a stop to the entire Indian policy of the Government. The Indian Bureau sees no way out of these difficulties except to remove our Indians further from the border and ask the Canadian Government to do the same with the Bloods. Meantime the matter has been referred to the War Department, but as the Blackfeet reservation lies five hundred miles in length on the northern border, the army can do little to head off raiders from either direction.

COBOURG.

HORSES DROWNED.—Jeremiah Ellinor was driving his fine team of horses from Curtis' Point to Harwood on Wednesday afternoon, and when near the latter place, they broke through the ice, and the horses were drowned, which is a very serious loss to Mr. Ellinor. Their value was $200.

FIRE.—A very serious conflagration took place about 1.30 o'clock Saturday morning by which the residence of Mr. Patrick Quinn, in Corktown, was entirely consumed. The fire was supposed to have originated from a defective chimney, and the sparks which were dropping on the bedding was the first intimation Mr. Quinn had that a fire was in progress. The steamer was soon on the spot, and although it was not in the power of the brigade to save Mr. Quinn's property, the fire had such headway, they succeeded in saving the residence of Mr. John Lavis, which is adjoining. Mr. Quinn carried $300 insurance on the house, $200 on contents in the Phœnix of England. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $700.—Sentinel-Star.

VIENNA, April 11.—Dr. Lenz, the African traveller, was welcomed by numerous savants on his return to this city. Dr. Lenz states that he was prevented from relieving Emin Bey and other explorers by the insufficiency of the means at his disposal.

A NEW OFFICE.

LONDON, April 11.—The position to which Col. King-Harman has just been appointed, that of Parliamentary Under Secretary, is a newly created office to which no salary is attached. A bill will be introduced in Parliament, however, providing an emolument for this office. Sir Redvers Buller is still Under Secretary for Ireland, his successor not having yet been chosen. Sir Wm. Kaye, now assistant Under Secretary, will probably be appointed to the office.

DRAFTING A SCHEME.

LONDON, April 11.—The Daily News believes that Lord Balfour, of Burleigh, and Lord Dunraven are drafting a scheme of local self-government for Ireland, which it is proposed to submit to parliament at the next session.

THE IRISH BISHOPS.

ROME, April 11.—In consequence of England's treatment of Ireland and the attitude of the Irish clergy on the Irish question, the Pope has charged Cardinal Simeoni, Prefect of the Congregation of the Propaganda, to make a thorough inquiry into the whole matter and to draft instructions the Irish Bishops.

A SUSPICIOUS VESSEL.

LONDON, April 11.—It is reported that there is a suspicious vessel lying off the coast of Ireland, near Youghal. A letter from the Rev. Mr. Kennedy appears in the Cork Herald saying that this vessel is the Gulnare, which left an American port ten days ago. He says it is part of a Government plot to treat the people to a scare in order to assist in passing the Coercion bill, and that the vessel will cruise between Queenstown and Youghal and try to entrap men to assist in landing dynamite, when Government agents will be ready to seize them. Mr. Kennedy asserts that the plot was orginated at Dublin Castle.

THE CONGO.

LONDON, April 11.—The contract with Tippoo Tip, made by Henry M. Stanley, the explorer, in behalf of King Leopold, of Belgium, provides that Tippoo Tip shall receive a salary of £360 yearly as Governor of Stanley Falls and shall be allowed to pursue legitimate trade anywhere he likes. He will however have to uphold the authority of the Congo Free State and appoint a deputy to fill his office during his absence from the Falls. This deputy, on the death of Tippoo Tip, shall succeed him as Governor, provided King Leopold approves.

A HEAVY SENTENCE.

ODESSA, April 11.—Lieut. Goroff has been sentenced to eight years' hard labor in the mines of Siberia for distributing revolutionary propaganda. The chief of police here has organized a body of 400 volunteer detectives to watch suspects.

A TRAITOR NEAR.

LONDON, April 11.—The Times' correspondent at St. Petersburg says it is reported that the Czar, before returning to Gatschina on Wednesday, found letters on his writing table in the Winter Palace threatening him with death.

THE ROSS BIBLE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—At the last meeting of the Board of Education the question of retaining that miserable abortion commonly known as the Ross Bible, but which might be termed with greater accuracy the Ross-Lynch bible, or of excluding it from our schools was brought before the trustees. Mr. Sproule, in an excellent speech, moved the expulsion of the book for which Mr. Dumble, in opposing the resolution, accused him of ignorance and bigotry. Now, sir, I maintain that we who oppose the use of the book in question are none of us obnoxious, on that account, to the charge of either ignorance or bigotry, that, on the contrary, it is Mr. Dumble who has laid himself open to an accusation of ignorance in this matter; for he is ignorant of the fact that Protestants object to the book, not on account of what it contains, but on account of what it does not contain. For we believe, if Mr. Dumble does not, in the correctness of the old Latin apothegm that the "suppression of the truth" is as great a sin as the "promulgation of a falsehood."

With respect to Mr. Dumble's charge of "bigotry," all I have to say is that if to endeavour to exclude a book which we regard as anti-Christian for its elimination of vital truths from our Public Schools be "bigotry," I, for one, would glory in the term if applied to myself.

Mr. Dumble informed the Board that he uses the book in question in his own house. Of course he is at liberty to read any book he pleases to his family circle. He can, for instance, substitute the Douay bible for the Protestant Bible; and, indeed, if the Province of Ontario is governed much longer by Attorney-General Mowat and Dr. Lynch, it is probable that the next innovation will be the introduction of that version of the Scriptures printed in France in the 17th century into our schools, with the legend, "By authority," on the title page.

A PROTESTANT.

Peterborough, April 9, 1887.

Hamer's Body Found.

The body of Albert Hamer, the student missing from Montreal, was found in the snow on Sunday about two miles from the place where he was last seen alive, by a party of gentlemen who were out with some hounds, the latter being the means of discovering the body. The body was somewhat swollen, but there were no marks of violence visible. The sum of $94 was found in his pockets.

THE LAW OF IT.

CANNOT the London Advertiser get some young law student, or even a smart lad who sweeps out the office for some London legal firm, to give it some points whenever it has to discuss anything requiring legal knowledge? It is becoming a monotonous task to set the Advertiser right whenever it betrays in a more egregious manner than usual the fact that there is a total ignorance of law in its office.

The latest performance of our lawless contemporary is to lament the Tory wickedness in objecting to that favorite device of the Maritime Grits of running for the House of Commons candidates disqualified as members of a Provincial Legislature. But the Advertiser's greatest grief is that the wicked Tories should under such circumtances claim the seat for their candidate while they will not allow Mr. Hudspeth's seat to his Grit opponent.

If the Advertiser will consult the suggested law student it will find that in the year 1872 the Parliament of Canada passed an Act, Vic. 35, cap. 15, the second and final section of which runs as follows:—

"If any such member of a Provincial Legislature, shall, notwithstanding his disqualification, as in the preceeding section mentioned, receive a majority of votes at any such election, such majority of votes shall be thrown away, and it shall be the duty of the returning office to return the person having the next greatest number of votes, provided he be otherwise eligible."

In the case of Mr. Hudspeth the difficulty arose from his possibly coming under the Independence of Parliament Act as having been Revising Officer in another constituency. In such cases there is no such provision that the votes shall be thrown away and that the candidate with the next largest majority shall be elected. That is the difference, and now the Advertiser knows the law, so that it may cease its silly whining.

ONTARIO surplus, $6 680,339. Dominion deficit, $5,000,000. Will the Peterborough REVIEW make a note of these figures.—Brockville Recorder.

The REVIEW has made a note of the figures and finds that they are not trustworthy. Now, will the Recorder make a note of these facts:—The Ontario Government had a deficit last year of $85,000; the year previous of $93,000; and the year previous to that of $287,000; and that the financial returns for this year for the Dominion up to March 31st show a surplus of over $1,000,000. And will the Recorder please tell us in what years Mr. Mowat accumulated a surplus and how and when it was invested?

THE Newmarket Era, a Reform journal, speaks of Mr. Leys as "the minority member for Toronto who took occasion to cast a slur upon the county and got justly rebuked therefor." It is true that Mr. Leys is merely a bogus member, misrepresenting Conservative Toronto by sitting by statute for its minority. But after all Mr. Leys has a large constituency, representing not only the minority of Toronto, but also the knavery of Mr. Mowat, who for the sole reason that the great majority of the electors of Toronto are Conservative, revenged himself upon them by partially disfranchising them by statute.

IN nearly every Reform journal that we have an opportunity of seeing we find Mr Mowat beslavered with praise because of his tardy and reluctant converson to manhood suffrage. We cannot remember that one of these journals censured Mr. Mowat and his colleagues when they obstinately opposed and flouted Mr. Meredith's motions in favor of manhood suffrage. What change of circumstances, other than Mr. Mowat's sudden change of plans, is there to account for the widely different views of these sycophants in so short a time?

Correct, and if anyone doubts it the Beacon can refer to the Hon. C. F. Fraser's denunciation of manhood suffrage when it was proposed by the Conservative side of the House. It will be interesting to see what kind of manhood suffrage Mr. Mowat will propose and what Mr. Fraser will say about it.

REFORM BY THE SEA.

Mr. Blake's Friends and their Methods Very like his Own.

The Halifax special correspondent of the independent Toronto News says:— The Government is silent on the subject of repeal. That agitation now stands out as one of the worst and most shameless political dodges that ever disgraced Nova Scotia. There are some men who sincerely believe in the severance of this Province from Canada, but some of those who shouted loudest were the first to drop it. On this question and on another, that of abolishing the Council, the Government's record is easily assailed. Instead of taking steps to abolish the Council as was promised they are filling every vacancy with played-out political supporters. One vacancy is filled by appointing J. D. McLeod, who was defeated four times in succession in Pictou; another, by appointing Ray, lately defeated in Annapolis; another, by giving a commission to Leblanc, an illiterate Frenchman, who dared not go back to his constituents in June last. It is not by filling the Council with able bodied and selfish imbecils that it is to be abolished.

It is understood that the Militia Department has no objection to military demonstrations in honor of the Queen's jubilee, but has decided to bear no expense, which must be borne entirely by those cities or towns in which the celebration is held.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

President Cleveland's Letter to the Fishery Union Criticised.

LONDON, April 11.—The Sunday Observer says: "The Canadian fisheries difficulty is still unsolved, and President Cleveland, doubtless with half an eye to the autumn elections, has issued a high and mighty declaration on the subject. The question is a somewhat tangled one, although the legal right of the Canadians is attested by the unwillingness of the American Government to refer the matter to arbitration. Neither nation couldbe so deficient in good sense as to put itself in the wrong by refusing such an invitation."

SLOW IN EXERCISING HIS POWER.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The Tribune says: President Cleveland's letter is criticized unnaturedly in England, as if it were unbecomingly menancing in tone, but British journals would be wiser if they would understand that the President does but haltingly represent public opinion here on the matter in question. The letter is not only sustained and commended to the full for its declaration of intent to defend American rights, but one criticism, which is heard not from demagogues but from sober and Conservative citizens, is that the Executive has been slow in exercising the power entrusted to the President by two successive acts of Congress, and that even now his tone is less resolute and decided than the public opinion which Congress has obeyed. So far as it goes, the letter must certainly be accepted by the British public as entirely and absolutely supported by the people of this country."

NOT SATISFIED.

The Sun says: "The American Fishery Union cannot be pleased with President Cleveland's reception of its letter. The Retaliation act expressly authorizes the President to apply his proclamation to any part or to all of the remedies therein provided. The Fishery Union as the body representing more closely than any other industry suffering from Canadian injustice, accordingly intimated to the President what degree of action under these discretionary powers would satisfy the fishermen and result in adequate protection. In reply the President gives them no assurance that he will do anything more under the present act than under its predecessor, the Dingley Retaliation Act, under which he did absolutely nothing at all. He treats them, instead, to generalities, enlarges on the past diversified commercial interests existing between the United States and British America, declares himself bound to inflict no unnecessary damage or injury upon any portion of our people, and announces that no sacrifice of personal or private interests shall be considered as against the general welfare. He makes the issue of any proclamation whatever purely a matter of hypothesis, and expresses his confidence that no ill-treatment will be experienced by the fishermen sufficient to justify the issuing of the proclamation. Upon the whole, Yankee fishermen must be looking into the immediate future with much misgiving. They have yet to learn what degree of protection, if any, is contemplated for them, and they have very clear evidence in the reply just received from the President that nothing is to be hoped from the negotiations of the past twelve months."

THE RESPONSIBILITY APPRECIATED.

The Times says: "There is in President Cleveland's letter to the President of the American Fishery Union a quiet tone of dignity and firmness which shows that he fully appreciates the responsibility placed in his hands by Congress in providing for retaliation upon Canada for the treatment of our fishing vessels, but is not disposed to shrink from its exercise on any proper occasion. He seems to have no doubt as to the justice of the position assumed by our Government in regards to the rights involved, and no inclination to hesitate in applying the policy of retaliation to whatever extent may be necessary for the vindication o the national dignity."

NO ACTION UNDER THE LAW LIKELY.

The Tribune's correspondent at Washington last night asked Representative Hitt, of Illinois, what he thought of President Cleveland's letter to the New England fishermen. Mr. Hitt said: "Well, I was struck with the similarity between a large portion of it and Mr. Daniels' speech in the debate in the House. You remember that he insisted on the House Bill, which he said embodied the views of the Administration. He wanted that bill because he desired to lift the controversy out of the attitude of a local quarrel, and because he was anxious to have the United States take a firm, manly, broadside position along the whole line."

"Do you infer from the President's letter that any action under the law is likely to be taken?"

"I do not. When the matter was under discussion, I repeatedly heard from men who had means of obtaining correct information that the administration did not desire to do anything; that it was all very well for the Congress to express the sentiment of the country, but that the matter would end with the enactment of the Legislature. Of course I cannot assert that that information was correct, but I am of the opinion that nothing will be done."

Mr. Blaine's Condition.

NEW YORK, April 11.—A despatch to the Tribune from Fort Gibson says: "Mr. Blain is still very ill, but his condition is not considered dangerous. Colonel Coppinger said the physicians had ordered that Mr. Blain should be moved, and the nurses have received specific instructions regarding the admission of friends and relatives to the sick room."

Gentle Preaching.

Bishop Warren, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, does not believe in gentle preaching to rich sinners. He says there are some pastors who go at it in this style: "Brethern, you must repent, as it were, and be converted, in a measure, or you will be damned to some extent."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

New Timber Regulations.

QUEBEC, April 9.—The Official Gazette of to-day contains an order in council to the effect that clause No. 2 of the timber regulations of 1868, which established a uniform ground rent of $2 per square mile for each mile under license for cutting timber, is modified, and the imposition of a fixed rent of $5 per square mile for cutting timber is substituted therefor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

DISCRETION WANTED.

The Ontario Government will have to exercise greater discretion in future in making important appointments than was displayed in the nomination of Mr. Coffey to the Registrarship of Carleton. Liberals as well as Conservatives alike condemn the appointment.—Newmarket Era (Reform.)

CHANGE OF BASE.

A Grit politician says:—If you are talking business, we never were so prosperous as we are now. If you are talking politics, the country is going to ruin—is on the verge of bankruptcy.—London Free Press.

A TIMES OFFICIAL REPORT.

The Hamilton Times says that "the devil already owns" Sir John A. Macdonald. This is intended for wit, but it is something else.—Toronto World (Indep.) ORGANS AND ORGANS.

One of the Globe's twiddle-twaddlers sighs for the advent of the day when every servant girl shall own an organ. Mr. Blake entertains no such appreciation of an organ as his organ does.—Toronto World (Indep.).

AND THE DOMINION.

The miserable, cowardly, factional, spirit of partyism seems bent on destroying the city. A certain clique would like to rule the place; failing to rule it, the little faction desires to ruin it.—Hamilton Spectator.

TOO HIGH A PRICE.

The World has always endeavored to cultivate a spirit of Canadian nationality, and we were never more than now solicitous for a good understanding with our Quebec fellow citizens; but we must meet upon equal terms. We are not prepared to pay the price which the Globe has paid for Mr. Mercier's frendship. We are not prepared to smooth over rebellion, rapine and murder to conciliate any class, or to join in a raid upon the national treasury to the same end. When Mr. Mowat walks into Mr. Mercier's parlor he will do well to take a broom with him.—Toronto World (Indep.)

BADLY INFORMED.

The Halifax Herald says Mr. Jones felt relieved when he heard that Mr. Blake had taken refuge in the South after the Grit defeat of the 22nd February, having been haunted by the suspicion that he was going to Halifax to look after the scalp of the man who telegraphed him that the Grits were certain of carrying sixteen (16) seats in Nova Scotia. Mr. Blake, when he produced the telegram here at the Opera House, did not say who it was from, but the Herald tells that it was Alfred Jones who has slept with a loaded gun by his side ever since he heard that Blake was missing from Toronto.—London Free Press.

GLOBE TEACHING.

Apropos of Mr. Mercier's proposed raid upon the federal treasury, the Globe has the refreshing frigidity to say: "The people of Quebec and the Maritime Provinces have been taught for years to regard the people of Ontario as their enemies. It is time that they were undeceived." And who were their teachers, pray? Up to the day that Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues declared that a criminal's nationality should be no bar to his proper punishment the Globe and its satellites taught the people of Ontario that the French Canadians were vampires who sucked the life-blood of Ontario. They taught that the habitant was an alien in the land that had been watered by the sweat and the blood of his forefathers.—Toronto World (Indep.)

The plans and preparations for the new station of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the west end of Montreal are completed, and contracts will be let and work commenced forthwith.

A circular letter from Cardinal Taschereau, suspending his mandement of February 2nd, 1885, against the Knights of Labor, was read on Sunday in the Roman Catholic churches in Quebec.

The traffic receipts of the Canadian Pacific railway for the week ending March 31st were $273,000, an increase of $24,000 compared with the corresponding week last year.

The contract for the masonry work of the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge at Sault Ste. Marie has been awarded, and the work is to be completed by November 15th. The contract price is $260,000, which, with the ironwork will bring the total cost of bridge up to $4,000,000.

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream."

And yet it is, when all the marrow is taken out of it by some dreadful disease like consumption, that, neglected, means certain death; catarrh and brochitis both distressing, and often leading to coniumption, or like liver complaints or scrofula, which too often make those afflicted feel that life is empty. But these can all be cured. The use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood, lung and liver remedy, does away with "mournful numbers," brings back lost health, and fills life full of dreams of happiness and prosperity. Druggists sell it.

EASTER.

I.

All hail, auspicious morn! all hail, bright sun!
Ye winds of spring that bid the flowers to bloom,
Ye joyous birds that have your hymns begun,
Waft music round the world no more a tomb.
Winter and death have no enduring reign;
The lilies blow, the corn puts forth its ear;
Christ hath arisen, he lives, he is not here—
Death hath no terrors, parting now no pain.

II.

Christ hath arisen—the mystery of the world,
Once fraught with horror, like the mists of morn
Fades 'fore his beams. Confusion's legions, hurled
Back to their den, make man no more their scorn.
Death, the divider, now divides no more.
Love laughs at Death, who over him hath no power.
A kindly mother, Earth, who holds in store
Our vestures safe within her bosom's bower.

III.

Blow soft, ye winds, o'er earth new-robed in beauty,
Bloom brightly, flowers, sing birds in every tree,
Peel forth from reed and string a pean of duty,
Children of God, your souls in melody.
As rose the Son of Man shall men arise,
Earth's noblest flowers, to bloom in fields of heaven;
Hosanna to the victor!—ours the prize,
Life snatched from Death, and joy, and sins forgiven.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

He laid his unwounded hand upon her arm, not very gently, if the truth must be told. The gentle master was not in a gentle mood that morning.

"You shall not go until you hear me," he exclaimed. "Shirley, if you don't stop I'll"——

"You'll what!" she retorted.

"Shirley, your father was my friend. By the memory of your father, grant me this one favor. It is the last request I may ever make of you."

The train stopped, gathered up its passengers, and went on, and Shirley was not among them. She led the way into the railway waiting room.

"Well, what is it you wish to say to me?" she asked. Her manner was as indifferent as if the last night had never been.

"I cannot tell you here," he said.

"Here or not at all," she answered. "Don't ask me to go back to that wretched house."

"So be it then," he replied. He had hoped—the Lord knows what he had hoped. It was true all was over now, all the possibilities he had dreamed of in that brief, mad hour of the night before. Was that a century ago, in some other state of existence?

There was nothing for them now. But if Shirley only knew his history, only could understand how he had struggled against fate, she might be not so hard. There might be a little less suffering for them both. If he could have her alone, and tell her, she would be gentler. Nay, he might even hope to be forgiven at last. But she had willed it that he should speak to her here, and speak he would.

So there, in the wretched waiting room, he narrated his miserable story, not abating one jot. He told her of the fire, of his twin boys, how strangely he had lost them, how he had searched the world over for them. He told her, too, of the devilish suspicion that had been set afloat by his wife's mother, and how at last all men turned against him.

"Wherever my name was heard," he said, "that vile slander followed me, till it drove me to desperation. I went away where no one knew me. I changed my name, in hope to find some peace. I was wrong. I should have stayed there, in that very spot, and faced my enemies, and lived it down, though I died of starvation."

"Yes, that is what you should have done," said Shirley.

"But I did not. There was no one to turn to. I had no friend. I did not know. I came to Linwood. In your happy home I met your father—and you. It was like paradise to me, after the life I had known. I was drawn to you first by your intellectual gifts, greater than I had believed could be in a woman. You liked me, too, you know that. You lingered about me with your light hearted, sunny nature, your sweet, frank ways, month after month. And then before I knew it, heaven forgive me! I loved you. How I loved you, even then!"

"Yet you deceived me," said Shirley, mournfully. "I would have died for you and you deceived me."

"I could not tell you that horrible story—how could I? If you had known it, you, too, might have turned against me. That was exactly what I could not bear. I read you like an open book, Shirley—you, the soul of purity and truth. You could not have disguised your feelings if you had tried. I read that you were beginning to care for me. I knew it, and the knowledge was very sweet to me. Forgive me, Shirley, that I tell you of it now."

"I can forgive anything in a friend, I think, but want of frankness," she replied in a dull tone.

He winced a little and was silent. Presently he went on:

"I thought when I came to Linwood that I had overcome the weakness, the passionateness of my boyhood. So I had—so it would have been if I had never seen you. All was under my feet, I thought. But I met you. Then for the second time in my life I ran away. Only there I was weak; only there I feared to trust myself. In all else I tried to be what you thought me. I suppose a man may be forgiven for being human, Shirley?"

He paused. She did not speak. She was hurt to the soul. He continued, speaking in low, hurried tone:

"Ever since I left you, there is not a day or a night that I have not thought of you. I have dreamed what life might have been to me had I been free. As it was, you have been like a star to me. I have been true to to you in every word and thought. I have striven to keep myself pure and high in thought, to make my life helpful to others. Then, if ever the time was when I should be free, though it were fifty years, I could look honestly into your dear eyes and tell you—I have come to lay my heart at your feet. And so I would have come."

Then there was silence. Nothing broke it save the ticking of the clock in the little station. At last the master said:

"I am going now, Shirley. Good-by."

She held out her hand; it was death cold.

"I think you have broken my heart," she said, "but I forgive you."

That was their parting.

CHAPTER XIV.

LINWOOD TRANSFORMED.

Shirley had sighed for change. Well, she had had it.

"You wanted change, did you?" she said to herself. "How do you like it, now you've got it?"

She laughed at Shirley Carstone, in her bitterness, flying homeward in the train that day. For two weeks she had been as happy as she thought it was given mortal to be.

And now? She said to her other self if there was a human being on earth who thought himself more wretched than she was, she would be willing to change places with him.

An old metaphysical question floated into her mind as she fled homeward still in that dull train. Whether is it better to know great happiness and at the same time take with it the fatal gift of susceptibility to intense suffering, or to jog along moderately comfortable, without ever experiencing the highest height of joy or the deepest depth of misery? In her stunned, broken mental state, Shirley debated the pros and cons of that old question half a day. Finally she said:

"It is better to know neither great joy nor great suffering. There is more pain than pleasure in the world, anyhow. The unimpressionable are the only happy. Thick skinned people don't have half so much bother."

In her blind misery little things the most absurd came into Shirley's mind. Col. Carstone had disliked crying women excessively. Once in her father's lifetime she had seen her mother weeping. Her father had said smilingly:

"My dear, dry your tears. Crying women are an abnormal growth. They are the result of excessive emotional development in the sex since the days when man was monkey. Think how many handkerchiefs have been worn out, how many bright eyes have been spoiled. Yes, think how many classic noses have been reddened through excessive emotional development. My dear, don't do it!"

Her mamma dried her tears instantly. She was always slightly in awe of her strong, merry husband. But the matter seemed to strike Col. Carstone somehow. He thought of it further. Her mother left the room presently, and then he said rather seriously:

"Shirley, don't you ever be one of the sniveling kind. Be a rational, sensible human being. Rely on your brains for happiness, instead of on your emotions. Since the world began, there have always been Byrons to tell the race that man's love is of man's life a part, 'tis woman's whole existence. Women have been told this so often that they begin to think it is a credit to them to break their hearts, so as to display their superior emotional nature. It's rubbish, Shirley. Women make two-thirds of their unhappiness themselves, through sentimental nonsense. It is not their fault, either, so much. The nonsense has been educated into them, and must be educated out. They must learn self control. The coming woman will repress her abnormal emotional development, and put it back into its right place. Then women will no longer be more unhappy than men. Shirley, it would trouble me to the latest day of my life if I thought my daughter would be one of these uncontrolled, emotional women."

Shirley laughed. "Do I look like that, papa?" she said.

"No; thank God!" her father replied, fervently.

"But what a solemn sermon you have preached me," she continued.

"Very well, daughter, lay it away for a rainy Sunday, and then read it," he answered.

Had the rainy Sunday come? Was this what her father meant? Now, after all, had she, Shirley, inherited through ages of mothers that same fatal emotional development her father had warned her against? Was she going to let it wreck her life? How she scorned herself! And yet——

It was a strange psychological experience Shirley passed through at this time. It was such a rude upsetting of all the ways of thought to which she had been accustomed. The faiths and the ideals to which she had clung all her life, had been torn out by the roots. Nights of sleeplessness followed days of fierce mental conflict, till at last she found herself in an odd state of physical exhaustion and mental exaltation.

In the depths of her grief, the most laughable incidents she had known, the most comical stories she had heard, came up before her with perverse persistency, and mocked her like fiends. Weird faces followed her and watched her in the darkness, and finally in the daylight. They were genuine physical images; she saw them plainly with her waking eyes, in her right senses. She could have described the dress they wore, the color of their hair. The same images haunted her day after day. This one had the identical peculiarities of dress, that one grinned at her with his ugly mouth in the same way each time. And these unpleasant images had no connection in the remotest manner with anything in Shirley's life so far as she could trace.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d90

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Easter Sunday.

In response to the appeal of the Rector, a sum amounting in all to over $500, was placed on the collection plates at the various services at St. John's Church on Easter Sunday. Members of the congregation who were prevented from contributing by absence or other cause can still obtain the special envelopes for the Easter offering from the churchwardens or vestry clerk.

Easter Music.

The large congregations that attended both the morning and the evening services at St. John's Church on Easter Sunday doubtless enjoyed the rich musical treat that Mr. L. Seward and his excellent choir had prepared for this occasion. For some time past Mr. Seward has had two rehearsals a week with the choir, and the good effect of it was noticeable on Sunday in the splendid manner in which the bright and beautiful music was rendered. The processional hymn both morning and evening was the ever-popular "Onward Christian Soldiers," the musical arrangement being by Mr. Seward. The Te Deum was by Kotchzmar, the solos being taken by Miss Errett, Mr. A. P. Poussette, Mr. Budden and the duet by Mrs. Seward and Miss Rush. The Jubilate was Concone's, the Kyrie by Seward and the Gloria by Tours. At the Communion service the Gloria in Excelsis was intoned, and while the offertory was being made the Doxology was sung. In the evening, in connection with the beautiful Easter hymns, Tour's Magnificat and Gloria and the Nunc Dimittis (St. George) by Seward were beautifully rendered, the duet in the latter being taken by Mrs. Seward and Mr. A. D. Browne. Then followed Lloyd's anthem "Christ our Passover," the soprano and bass solos being taken by Miss Errett and Mr. Budden. Taken altogether the music was a treat, and Mr. Seward is to be congratulated on his success in training his choir to sing difficult music in the highly creditable manner they do.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Easter Vestry Meeting—Appointments to Office—Financial Statement.

The annual Easter Vestry meeting of St. John's Church was held in the school house on Monday evening, with the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector, in the chair.

The Churchwardens presented their financial statements showing a reduction of $1,500 on the building fund indebtedness, and a surplus revenue of $900 over the current expenditure of the year. The accounts were referred to Messrs. Hammond and Budden to audit and report to the adjourned meeting in a fortnight.

The REV. V. CLEMENTI moved, seconded by JUDGE WELLER, a vote of thanks to the ladies for their successful efforts in paying off their indebtedness on the organ. A vote of thanks was also passed to the organist, Mr. L. Seward, and to the choir for their efficient services.

Dr. Geo. Burnham was appointed Churchwarden by the Rector, and Mr. C. H. Sheffield was elected by the congregation. Messrs. Hammond, Budden and Poussette were appointed on the Music Committee. Judge Weller (Chairman), Messrs. R. A. Morrow, A. P. Poussette and William English, Finance Committee Messrs. H. Charman, Jos. Mills, W. E. Sherwood, Wm. English, H. Long, F. J. Jameson, F. Foot, Jas English, H. A. Hammond and F. E. Bell, sidesmen. Messrs. C. H. Sheffield, R. A. Morrow and W. English, Canvassing Committee for the first ward; Judge Weller, Messrs. R. Fair and Jos. Mills, for the second ward; Messrs. J. H. Long, F. Foote and H. Long for the fourth ward; Dr. Boucher, Dr. Burnham and Mr. F. J. Jamieson for the third ward, and Messrs. W. E. Sherwood and G. W. Hatton for outside the town.

The Vestry then adjourned till Monday evening, April 25th.

A congregational meeting was immediately formed and elected Judge Weller, Dr. Geo. Burnham and Mr. Hammond lay delegates to the Synod.

Joseph Gibson, Esq.

Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, an eloquent andargumentative speaker, will give an address in the Opera House next Sunday evening at 8.30 o'clock on "Is Life Worth Living?" Silver collection at the door. In the same place, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock he will lecture on "Scott Act Enforcement." Admission 10 cents. Attend and be pleased and edified.

Colored Singers.

The University Singers of New Orleans (colored) gave a concert in the George Street Methodist Church on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. There was a large attendance, and the applause and encores showed that the audience was pleased. The chief attractions in the company was the soprano of Miss Tillie Jones and the heavy bass of Mr. Thomas. The latter appeared to be fond—indeed too fond—of startling the audience with the peculiar heavy tones of his voice, sometimes producing a burlesque effect in a melody that was not suited for plays of humor. The duet, "I Heard a Voice in Tranquil Night," was one in which Miss Jones was enabled to display her powers, and she certainly sang well, her high notes being melodious, and the whole song given with good effect. The bass solo "Old Black Joe" was one of the best features of the programme, the soloist's voice being well suited to the song, and the unseen chorus adding beautifully to the effect. The chant which concluded the performance, "The Lord's Prayer," was sung by the Company, and was well rendered. Viewing the whole programme, leaving out the numbers mentioned, and Miss Frankie Linn's solo "When My Rover Comes," and Miss Jones' second solo, "Swanee River," the tone of burlesque was too prominent, and it was unpleasantly made more prominent by the manner in which some melodies were sung. While this company includes good vocalists — and singers not above or scarcely up to the average—there is an apparent lack of reverence in some of the melodies chosen and in their manner of singing them, and a too evident desire to amuse, that grates on those who have listened with nothing but pleasure to the Fiske Jubilee singers.

Open Late—In order to accommodate their customers, Rowse's Trade Palace will keep open every evening this week.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Monday Night Meeting of the Second Anniversary.

The last of the three meetings celebrating the second anniversary of the Salvation Army's attack upon Peterborough was held in the Opera House on Monday evening. In the afternoon a "tea fight" was held in the "deserted billiard room" in the rear of the Opera House. The place was filled with soldiers and adherents of the Army.

In the evening at 8 o'clock after a march out the Army entered the Opera House where addresses were delivered. Besides a large number of soldiers there were on the platform Messrs. Wm. Gooderham, Toronto, Geo. A. Cox, the Rev. Mr. Wallace, Adj. Bolton, Capt. Smith, Capt. Mills, and Capt. and Mrs. Williams.

During his address Mr. Gooderham said that he heartily endorsed the Salvation Army. He knew as much about it as any one outside the ranks and perhaps as much as any within the ranks. He was well acquainted with the work done in Toronto, he had gone over to England, had seen the training schools for both sexes, had seen the Booth family, had visited France and had seen the work being done there, and had no hesitation in commending the army. Through its instrumentality he had been constrained while still a member of the Methodist Church to give up his pipe and tobacco, his glass of beer and his occasional whiskey and water.

Mr. GEO. A. COX was in full sympathy with the work of the Army. Any means of reaching fallen humanity had his fullest sympathy.

The Rev. Mr. WALLACE, while not falling in with all of the army ideas, could still wish an organization doing the work the Salvation Army was doing, God speed.

Several other speakers followed, and the meeting closed with $600 having been subscribed towards building the new divisional headquarters. The proceeds of the banquet were about $200, which will also be added to the building fund.

During the past two years the Salvation Army has succeeded in making between 800 and 900 converts in Peterborough. This may be taken as a sign of their spiritual progress. A sign of temporal progress is seen in the fact that a new divisional headquarters is to be built here.

On November 28th, 1886, the Midland District was elevated into the Peterborough division of the Salvation Army, and Adjutant Bolton was appointed to the charge. Its headquarters being in Peterborough. Since then 7 new stations have been opened. Under Adj. Bolton's command there are now 12 captains, 10 lieutenants and 12 cadets. There are 17 stations in the division.

In Canada there are 20 of such divisions, with 251 stations and 75 outposts, under the charge of 248 captains, 134 lieutenants, and 245 cadets in training—altogether 683 officers. These officers are under the command of 27 commissioners, majors and adjutants.

ST. LUKE'S, ASHBURNHAM.

Easter Vestry — Prosperous Financial Condition—Officials Elected.

The annual vestry meeting of St. Luke's Church was held on Monday evening. The Rector, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, presided.

The statement of accounts for the past year presented by the Churchwardens showed the finances of the Church to be in an extremely satisfactory condition.

A very interesting report of his work for the past year was read by the Rector, and a report from the Lay Superintendent of the Sunday school was also received.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected:—

CHURCHWARDENS—Messrs. J. Burnham and H. T. Strickland.

ASSISTANT CHURCHWARDENS—Messrs. H. C. Rogers and R. Meade.

SIDESMEN—Messrs. A. Ingram, R. W. McFadden, W. Johnston and W. Maniece.

AUDITORS—Messrs. R. Meade and W. Wallbrook.

FINANCE COMMITTEE—Messrs. R. Meade, J. J. Rooney, R. B. Rogers, W. Wallbrook, A. Ingram, E. A. Peck, and Mrs. Orde, Mrs. Jackson, Miss S. R. Burnett and Miss Calcutt.

Resolutions of thanks were passed to Mrs. Mills and family for the handsome memorial window placed in the church, and to the organist and choir for their efficient services.

Messrs. John Burnham, H. C. Rogers and R. Meade were elected lay delegates to the Synod.

Infanticide.

At ten o'clock this forenoon the police were informed that a dead child was lying near the corner of Bethune and Dublin street. P. C. Adams went to the place pointed out and found a new born infant wrapped in cloths under the edge of the sidewalk. He placed it in a small box and brought it to the police station. Dr. Kincaid examined it this afternoon and pronounced it to have been alive at the time of its birth. It was a fully developed male child. An inquest is being held this afternoon.

THE SPEAKER ELECTED.

By C. P. A. Telegraph.

OTTAWA, April 13.—Col. J. A. Ouimet, Conservative member for Laval, was elected Speaker of the House of Commons at the opening this afternoon.

AN APOLOGY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR.—On or about the 30th of December last, I caused to be published in your paper a letter severely censuring John Hull, Esq., of Lakefield for not doing what was right and for not paying me up in full as promised. I now wish to say that I did wrong in publishing that letter as it did not contain the truth. It was written in a wrong spirit and when I was angry. I now wish to apologise for what I have done and do now take back what I said injurious to Mr. Hull's character. In this way confessing my fault as a servant of Christ the Lord.

Yours very truly,
R. PODGER.

Wm. Argue	J. McAndrew
J. McAleer	G. W. Robinson
F. Foote	Michael Fee
R. H. Lithgow	Wm. Mathews

D. Belleghem, Foreman.

After examing the body evidence was taken. Dr. Kincaid was sworn, giving substantially the same opinions as appeared in Tuesday's REVIEW. The inquest was adjourned till Friday at 7.30 p. m.

Seed Annual

We have received from the well-known seed firm of D. M. Ferry & Co., Windsor, Ont., their Illustrated Seed Annual for this year. A house with the national reputation that the above one possesses, and whose name is a household word from one end of the country to the other, needs no further introduction from us. By selling only the purest and best seeds, and by honest and courteous dealing, they are now the peer in their trade, catering annually to over six million people. Their Annual is gotten up in a very artistic manner, and contains such information that every person should have it. By sending your name to the firm they will send you one, postage paid.

Charged with Forgery.

HARTFORD, Ct., April 12.—The hearing in the extradition case of George H. Bacon, who is charged with forgeries amounting $60,000, in Canada, began yesterday before United States Commissioner Marvin. The hearing will probably be finished to-day.

Flood at Ormstown.

ORMSTOWN, Que., April 12.—The Chateauguay river is rising rapidly, the water being now three feet higher than at the same date last year. The new bridge is still standing, but is damaged and in danger. Some buildings are destroyed and one bridge gone. Farm yards are flooded and stocks are in danger. It is reported that the railway bridge at Bryson's has been carried away.

PURSUED BY FLAMES.

Appalling Loss of Life by Prairie Fires in Kansas.

ATCHESON, Kan., April 12.—Reports concerning the destruction of life and property caused by the great prairie fire that swept over the eastern portion of Norton and Graham counties on Saturday night are not yet received, but enough is known to appal the stoutest heart. The fire started in Nicodemus, in Graham county. The wind, which was blowing 40 miles an hour, carried the flames over and through the dry grass at frightful speed. The general destruction of property commenced near Roscoe, in Graham county. Here the fire spread over the country for fully two and a half miles in width, and as the wind carried it north was constantly spreading until it was seven miles wide, where it crossed the north fork of the Solomon river, three miles east of Dinsmore. Thousands of burned fowl and hundreds of hogs with occasional horses and numerous cattle are lying in the track of the flames. It is definitely known that from 13 to 16 lives were lost in the two counties, but the names have not been learned. Four children perished in one family. How far the fire extended north from the Solomon is not known, but it must have travelled a long distance. At the same time another fire swept down the south fork of the Solomon River to a point near Millbrook, sweeping everything in its path and burning six persons to death, father, mother, and 4 children; a number of cattle, horses, hogs and poultry. In one instance a woman prematurely gave birth to a child. When the fire was discovered approaching, her husband took her in his arms and started for the ploughed ground, but before he reached it the woman's clothing was on fire. He succeeded in putting it out and saved her life. The babe, less than an hour old, with the other members of the family were saved, but the house and other property on the farm were destroyed. Hundreds of narrow escapes could be recalled. General rains have fallen to-day in Eastern Kansas and hopes are entertained that they will advance westward.

Recently a cow belonging to Mr. Richard Coad, of South Ekfrid, gave birth to a double-headed calf. The heads are perfect in shape and size, and each had a separate neck which united at the shoulders. There were also two backbones, which united in the centre of the back. At birth the calf weighed 103 pounds.

Mr. John Sanagan, a veteran of the war of 1812, died at St. Thomas recently, at the advanced age of 94 years and five months. Deceased was born in Montreal in 1792. He enlisted in the Canadian volunteers when the Americans invaded Canada in 1812, and secured his discharge in 1815. He took part in the battle at Fort Detroit and Chrysler's farm in 1814, serving under Col. Salisbury, and was awarded a medal for his bravery.

The Yacht Race.

NEW YORK, April 12.—A number of the seamen who handled the yacht Coronet in her race with the Dauntless, returned yesterday. They complain bitterly of the owner, Mr. R. F. Bush, who, they say, did not reward them for the part they took in gaining the victory, and gave them stale salt beef to eat on the voyage.

The Pan-Handle Steal

NEW YORK, April 12.—The Tribune says:—"The wholesale arrests on the Pan-Handle are a sensational development. A gang of one hundred train robbers, composed of railway hands, is something decidedly novel in the history of crime. The public think the submission of the company for three years to the scheme of plunder is only less remarkable than the conspiracy itself. Probably the Pan-Handle managers were waiting to secure evidence. It is significant of good that none of the robbers were members of the Brotherhood of Engineers and Firemen."

TURNBULL'S Millinery Opening days are Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Punished for Libel.

KINGSTON, April 12.—At the assizes today the libel suit of J. J. Whitehead vs. the Ottawa Free Press was tried. The plaintiff was deputy returning officer in the recent Dominion election and marked the names of four voters on as many ballots because one was blind and the remainder were illiterate. He counted the ballots for Mr. Gunn, the Reform candidate, but in the recount they were thrown out. The paper named alluded to the plaintiff as "a Tory returning officer," and closed with saying that trickery sometimes over-reached itself. Judge Rose charged in favour of the plaintiff, and denounced the bitter spirit displayed by politicians in general. Counsel for the plaintiff said that substantial damages were not asked for, but that it was desired to punish the paper. After being out three hours the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff for $5 with full costs.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

TO CONFRONT COERCION.

LONDON, April 12.—Messrs. Labouchere, Conybeare, Broadhurst, Bradlaugh, and other Radicals have agreed to organize a band of English members of Parliament to visit Ireland and confront coercion on the platform there. This action will have the effect of bringing the war to the English side of the channel, and paralyzing the policy of the Government.

A REMINDER TO THE BISHOPS.

LONDON, April 12.—The Chronicle's Rome correspondent says that the propaganda has sent a sharp reminder to the Irish Roman Catholic bishops to avoid political agitation.

AN INFAMOUS SYSTEM.

TANGIERS, April 12.—The expedition sent out by the American consul in furtherance of his efforts to break up the infamous usury system which has grown up in Morocco under the protection of foreign consuls, has returned to Tangiers. They released all the Moors imprisoned at Alcazar and Laresh under American claims, with the exception of three, who had died. They found the prisons in which the men were confined in the foulest condition. The inmates were half starved, ragged and covered with vermin. Some of them had heavy chains fastened to their necks and legs. A notorious usurer named Fergiman, on whose claims a majority of the people were held in prison, was arrested by the Moorish minister, who accompanied the expedition, and sent here in irons for trial for falsely alleging that he was an American portege. The Mohammedans are rejoicing at the turn of affairs.

NONCONFORMIST APPEAL.

LONDON, April 12.—Leading nonconformist ministers, to the number of 120, have appended their names to a circular appealing to their fellow members to assist in getting a memorial to the Government protesting against the policy of coercion in Ireland. They declare it to be their belief that force is no remedy for the discontent prevailing in Ireland, and that the enactment of such a law for one part of the United Kingdom is contrary to sound principle and would be fatal to the maintenance of the union itself.

A PEACEFUL SITUATION.

BERLIN, April 12.—The general political situation here is now looked upon as holding out a prospect of continued peace.

FLOODS IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Queensland, April 12.—Heavy rains have been succeeded by serious floods over a wide section of Queensland. Large proportions of the crops have been destroyed, and it is feared the result will be ruin to many farmers.

CONVOY OF EXILES.

ODESSA, April 12.—A convoy of 480 officers has arrived at Odessa for transportation to the convict colony of Saghalien. They are charged with being implicated in plots against the Czar. They are not Nihilists, but are merely suspected of being in sympathy with the revolutionary party.

REPORTED RESIGNATION.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 12.—It is reported that M. De Giers has resigned the foreign portfolio in consequence of M. Katkoff having resumed his attacks.

NOT TRYING TO TYRANNIZE.

LONDON, April 12.—The Telegraph says:—"Justice must be done to the earnestness of those who took part in the demonstration; but a closer examination of the question could not fail to convince them that the Government is not trying to tyrannise over anybody, but is trying to emancipate honest farmers and tradesmen from a subtle and cowardly form of tyranny."

THE COERCION BILL.

LONDON, April 12.—In the House of Commons this afternoon the Speaker again took his place in the chair. The proceedings at the beginning of the session were dull, a few questions were submitted and the debate then began on the second reading of the Coercion Bill.

A LIBERAL OPINION.

LONDON, April 12.—The Daily News, commenting on the Hyde Park demonstration, says:—"The demonstration shows that the bulk of the working population of London have returned to hearty co-operation with the Liberal party, determined to do justice to Ireland. That is the sufficient and ennobling reason for which they gave up their holiday. They refused to take ease while iniquitous oppression was being done in their name."

ENGLAND AND HAYTI.

LONDON, April 12.—The French Government has offered to mediate between England and Hayti. The Paris Soir thinks the imminence of American intervention gives the question a grave character.

THE KAISER CHEERED.

BERLIN, April 12.—The beautiful weather yesterday brought out great crowds of holiday-makers in Berlin. Unter den Linden was thronged with people, who cheered the Emperor when he presented himself at a window.

DESPATCHES FROM KHARTOUM.

LONDON, April 12.—Advices from Wady Halfa say four envoys have reached there from Khartoum on their way to Cairo with special despatches from Abdullah (successor to El Mahdi) to the Queen, the Khedive and Sultan.

THE CLOSURE.

LNODON, April 12.—Speaker Peel has intimated to Mr. Gladstone that if the head of the Government demands closure after a reasonable period of debate he will always deem it his duty to acquiesce, and that his rule will apply to any Government, Tory or Liberal.

COLLECTING STORES.

LONDON, April 12.—It is reported that the Russians are collecting large commissary and other stores at Penjdeh and Khoja-Salehm on the northern border of Afghanistan.

MUTUAL CONCESSIONS.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 12.—A settlement of the Afghan question has been effected by the Governments of Great Britain and Russia. By the terms of this settlement, England assents to the Russian demand for that branch of the Oxus now held by the Afghans, in exchange for which concessions will be made of territory on the north-west frontier.

THE CREEK.

The damage that has just been done by the swollen waters of the creek that runs through our town urges upon us the wearisome duty of repeating advice that we have often given before. A praiseworthy desire for economy on the part of our civic authorities unfortunately induces them to adopt temporary expedients that, if cheap at the moment, are costly in the long run.

The future method of treatment in regard to the creek should be settled on some definite and intelligent plan. In the first place, instead of maintaining as long as possible wooden bridges, requiring constant repairs that amount to a large expenditure in the aggregate, structures of more permanent material should replace them, perhaps by degrees, but as early as possible. If more expensive to erect, they would in the course of a few years be found to have cost less than the maintenance of the present bridges.

Then the course of the creek and its banks should receive careful attention. Even if no general work should be undertaken at once, a general plan should be drawn and prepared, so that any expenditure may conduce toward the desired result, and that partial operations may not conflict with each other when they have to be connected. In some parts the bed of the creek extends so widely that by properly restricting it a valuable area would be reclaimed. The value of this, the avoiding of constantly recurring damage to public and private property and the saving of the yearly repeated expense for labour, caretaking, locutting, dynamite, etc., would go far to pay the expense of regular and systematic embankment, even if it were undertaken at once. But if a consistent plan were adopted it might be carried out by degrees, if that course were preferred.

If our corporation has not sufficient powers for dealing systematically with the whole question, it should not be difficult to obtain the necessary legislation. There is a town bill now before the House, but probably it is too late now to add new clauses to it. We should be prepared, however, to act next year, and not let the matter sink into forgetfulness till the next destructive freshet calls attention to it.

REFORM BALLOT BOXES.

Under the heading of "Automatic Ballot Boxes" a correspondent of the Toronto Globe:—

SIR,—Verily, "A Drummer" is right. In these days of suborned Returning Officers, partisan judges, and cooked courts, we require some safe simple and thoroughly reliable automatic ballot box. If I remember aright, something of this sort has been exhibited at the Industrial Exhibition.

How would it do for the Reform clubs of this Province, or of the Dominion, to offer a prize for the best arrangements of the kind in question? CLEAR GRIT.

Toronto, April 7th.

The Grit correspondent and Grit journal seem hard to please. What is the matter with the old Grit machinery of ballot box with cupboard, trapdoor and cellar attachments, that was used so successfully to fraudulently elect by bogus Grit votes in Jacques Cartier, Mr. Blake's friend, the Hon. T. A. R. Laflamme, Reform Minister of Justice, who was not in the secret of the patent, but who has confessed that he knew that there was something wrong in the returns in his favor from that particular polling booth? Perhaps "Clear Grit" and the Globe wish to have an improved patent that will prevent the discovery of such Grit frauds, but we think their inventive friends will hardly be able to arrive at such perfection in their handiwork. They will have to continue to be content with transient success as in the Jacques Cartier case, and the chance of sometimes escaping detection.

SOME Reform journals are very indignant at Mr. Blake's return for West Durham being protested, because it will, as they say, prevent him from resigning his seat for South Bruce. Yet they were delighted at the protest against Sir John Macdonald in Kingston, because it would prevent him from resigning Carleton. Now, on the face of things, it is quite as probable that some over zealous and not very scrupulous supporter of Mr. Blake may have offended against the law to secure him votes, as that it should have happened in the case of Sir John Macdonald. Indeed if we take the records of the law courts as a criterion, the chances are against Mr. Blake's friends. Under these circumstances these Reform critics would do well to suspend judgment till the courts have pronounced their decision.

The Royal Canadian Regiment.

"Laclede" in the Montreal Gazette says: "Another Canadian military reminiscence. Our own lady Dufferin has just presented new colors to the 100th Regiment. This body was raised in Canada in 1858, during the Indian mutiny. After a short stay in Malta it remained two years in Canada, returning to England in 1868 and proceeding to Bombay in 1877. It is now incorporated with the 109th Leinster regiment and known as the 100th Prince of Wales Royal Canadians. The first colors were presented by the Prince in 1863. The new colors are in charge of private Dugas, a French Canadian, and the old colors are to be returned to Canada and placed wherever the Government may think best."

William Graveley, who died at Cobourg last week, was born in England in 1812. In 1819 the family came to Canada and settled in Quebec. The deceased settled in Cobourg in 1831, and resided there until his death. He was a mercantile trader until 1863, and in 1868 was appointed Collector of Inland Revenue. During the rebellion of 1837 he served on the Niagara frontier as a private in the Cobourg Rifles. He was a member of the Church of England, and lived a useful and consistent life.

MR. BLAKE AS A BRITISH POLITICIAN.

An esteemed contemporary gives voice to the sentiments of one of its staff regarding the Opposition leader in language more flattering than reasonable. If Mr. Blake had but five years' experience in the British House of Commons, it is asserted, he would be one of the most prominent men in the world. Furthermore, it is said to still be within the range of Mr. Blake's possibilities to become the greatest lawyer, and afterwards the greatest politician, in the empire. Now, it is not to be disputed that Mr. Blake is a preeminent lawyer in Canada, nor that he might win a good professional standing in England; but a wholesale imputation of incapacity is unintentionally thrown upon a score or so of British lawyers, quite as able as our great Grit leader in any of his gifts. As a politician, in Europern sense, it is probable that Mr. Blake would not be a success: at least nothing he has yet done will warrant any optimistic view of his latent diplomatic ability. His inability to provide his party with a separate and distinct policy does not seem to indicate the kind of politician Englishmen have been accustomed to see at the head of either party in the British Parliament. Mr. Blake has little of that great personal ambition of political patriotism such as animated Disraeli, nor has he a great genius for dealing in a masterly fashion with every subject, such as Gladstone possesses. He does not possess the grand inspiration of oratory which Bright has, though he has a greater flow of smaller arguments; nor has he the happy faculty of making warm friends and keeping them, even among his own political associates. Altogether the Idea of Mr. Blake ever becoming the greatest politician in the British Empire is untenable, even as an historical dream.—Arcturus.

THE COFFEY APPOINTMENT.

The following is the full text of the card published by Mr. Thos. Coffey of the Catholic Record in reply to the Irish Canadian:—

Some of our contemporaries, the Irish Canadian prominent among the number, assert that the appointment of Mr. P. J. Coffey to the registrarship of Carleton is result of a corrupt bargain between the Mowat Government and the Rev. J. F. Coffey, who writes for the Catholic Record, and that in consequence of this alleged bargian the Catholic Record used its power and influence against the Conservative party during the late local elections. The undersigned, the proprietor of this journal, gives the most emphatic denial to these assertions, and pronounces them utterly false and calumnious. In the first place the Rev. J. F. Coffey has not the desire or the authority to shape the policy of this journal. Secondly, the course of the Catholic Record during the late provincial elections was directly purely and simply by the consideration of Catholic interests, and under the direct advice and sanction of ecclesiastical authority. Had the leaders of the Conservative party in the local legislature abstained from indentifying themselves with the wicked programme of the Mail against Catholic interests in Canada, the Catholic Record would have observed that strict neutrality which has always distinguished it in purely political contests—which it so strickly observed during the late electoral contest for the Dominion Parliament, and which it is intended to observe in such matters to the end of its career. The only party that the Record knows and labors for is the Catholic Church and its sacred interests in this country.

We have a right to expect that the Irish Canadian and other journals which have been in such hot haste to bear false writings against the Record will have the honesty to publish this card, with a view to a just reparation.

THOS. COFFEY,
Proprietor Catholic Record.

A Priest's Testimony.

The Montreal Post is endeavoring to work up feeling in the country against Lord Lansdowne, and in doing so uses very violent and abusive language. A few days ago it challenged two of its contemporaries to name the Irish Catholic priest who ever said a good word of Lord Lansdowne. The following is an extract from a speech delivered by the Rev. Father Barrett, a Kerry priest, in Aug., 1883, on the occasion of the presentation of prizes to tenants on his Kerry estate who had the best cottages and gardens, published in the Citizen a few weeks after it was delivered:—

"Lord and Lady Lansdowne are doing all that is possible to advance the condition of the people by the encouragement of education, by supplying them with better house accommodation, and by promoting the improvement of their farms. You are all aware of what Lord Lansdowne has done in the way of building and supporting new schools for the instruction of your children in the neighbourhood. Lord Lansdowne has not only built and repaired your houses, but has offered prizes to induce you to keep them in a neat and orderly condition, and to cultivate your gardens to the best advantage. The fine specimens and varieties of vegetables exhibited on the tables show what can be done by industry and application. They should teach a lesson to the whole parish. In promoting theses exhibitions, Lord Lansdowne seeks no other reward but your advancement and benefit, in which he takes a deep interest. I don't know any landlord in Ireland that is doing so much for his tenantry. I am happy to be able to bear testimony to the peaceable and orderly conduct of the people of Tuosist. We are not only free from those outrages and gross crimes which have disgraced the country, and which every right-minded man must deplore, but I am able to say that nothing has occurred since Lord Lansdowne was last among us to give his lordship or Lady Lansdowne any annoyance." — Ottawa Citizen.

Coolness Prevents a Panic.

NEW YORK, April 12.—At the Brooklyn Theatre, last night, while Mme. Sarah Bernhardt was playing "Fedora," an accident occurred which came very near causing a panic among the audience. In the first act "Fedora" enters a room where her lover is lying mortally wounded and the scene is usually intensely dramatic. The door through which Mme Bernhardt entered last night, in swinging back, came in contact with a "bunch" light, and a red ring of fire began eating its way over the canvas. It was first discovered by the audience and Mme. Bernhart, noticing the panicky signs, turned around and saw the creeping fire too. She made a wild rush for it, but it had got beyond her reach, and so she stood and watched a fireman put it out with his hat. The action of the actress quieted the audience to a great extent, and they stayed the play out.

LORD TENNYSON'S JUBILEE ODE.

I.

Fifty times the rose has flower'd and faded,
Fifty times the golden harvest fallen,
Since our Queen assumed the globe, the sceptre.

II.

She, beloved for a kindliness
Rare in fable or history,
Queen, and Empress of India,
Crown'd so long with a diadem
Never worn by a worthier,
Now with prosperous auguries
Comes at last to the bounteous
Crowning year of her Jubilee.

III.

Nothing of the lawless, of the despot,
Nothing of the vulgar, or vainglorious,
All is gracious, gentle, great and queenly.

IV.

You then loyally, all of you,
Deck your houses, illuminate
All your towns for a festival,
And in each let a multitude
Loyal, each to the heart of it,
One full voice of allegiance,
Hail the great ceremonial
Of this year of her Jubilee.

V.

Queen, as true to womanhood as Queenhood,
Glorying in the glories of her people,
Sorrowing with the sorrows of the lowest!

VI.

You, that wanton in affluence,
Spare not now to be bountiful,
Call you poor to regale with you,
Make their neighborhood healthfuller,
Give your gold to the hospital,
Let the weary be comforted,
Let the needy be banqueted,
Let the maim'd in his heart rejoice
At this year of her Jubilee.

VII.

Henry's fifty years are all in a shadow,
Gray with distance Edward's fifty summers,
Ev'n her grandsire's fifty half forgotten.

VIII.

You, the patriot architect,
Shape a stately memorial,
Make it regally gorgeous,
Some Imperial Institute,
Rich in symbol, in ornament,
Which may speak to the centuries,
All the centuries after us,
Of this year of her Jubilee.

IX.

Fifty years of ever-broadening commerce!
Fifty years of ever-brightening science!
Fifty years of ever-widening empire!

X.

You, the mighty, the fortunate,
You, the lord-territorial,
You, the lord-manufacturer,
You, the hardy, laborious,
Patient children of Albion,
You, Canadian, Indian,
Australasian, African,
All your hearts be in harmony,
All your voices in unison,
Singing "Hail to the glorious Golden year of her Jubilee."

XI.

Are there thunders moaning in the distance?
Are there spectres moving in the darkness?
Trust the Lord of Light to guide her people,
Till the thunders pass, the spectres vanish,
And the Light is Victor, and the darkness
Dawns into the Jubilee of the Ages.

WIT AND WISDOM.

Bad books, like intoxicating drinks, are poisons.

It's far easier to put the devil in a good husband than to get him out.

Why is the heart of an oak like the outside end of a bow-wow's tail? Because it is furthest from the bark.

Many a man who imagines that he is a big electric light finds out to his sorrow, that he is only a little tallow dip.

There are three kinds of dead a man may be—dead faint, dead drunk, and dead altogether. Of these the first is the best.

NON-SUITING THE TAILOR.—Macpherson (after getting measured for a suit):—"Ant pe shure ant pit a pocket watch in ta trooser!"

You can't make a good wife by putting a gold ring on her finger, any more than you can make a good joiner by buying him a box of tools.

A writer has discovered that persons in captivity live a very short time. This may be a rule, but we know of some married men who have attained a remarkable age.

A young Irishman, who had just announced his engagement, was asked, "And when did you propose?" "Faith," said he, "by starlight, and I got her answer in a twinkling."

The most eloquent speaker, the most ingenious writer, and the most accomplished statesman, cannot effect so much as the mere presence of a man who tempers his wisdom with humanity.

Inexhaustible good nature is the most precious gift of Heaven, spreading itself, like oil, over the troubled sea of thought, and keeping the mind smooth and equable in roughest weather.

"I see you go to church, Johnny?" "Yes," replied the boy, frankly; "My mither tak's me." "And what do you do when you get there?" asked the lady. "Eat sweeties!" said the cherub.

The snappiest spring bonnet for the forthcomig season is appropriately named "the church-door magnet." It is a nice attractive piece of headgear, warranted to draw mashers, young and old.

In the thirteenth century the use of the organ in divine service was deemed profane and scandalous by the Greek and Latin clergy, just as in the seventeenth century the instrument was called a "squeaking abomination" by the Puritans.

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream."

And yet it is, when all the marrow is taken out of it by some dreadful disease like consumption, that, neglected, means certain death; catarrh and brochitis both distressing, and often leading to consumption, or like liver complaints or scrofula, which too often make those afflicted feel that life is empty. But these can all be cured. The use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood, lung and liver remedy, does away with "mournful numbers," brings back lost health, and fills life full of dreams of happiness and prosperity. Druggists sell it.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

She recognized these figures as the manifestation of disordered nerves, she reasoned about them to herself in cold blood, and yet they tormented her constantly. And all the while she kept wholly shut up within herself. No living creature knew of this storm of feeling that shook her because of "abnormal development of the emotional temperament," as she called it to herself, smiling grimly. No living creature knew she had met Mr. Morrison again. And nobody found it out.

If her father had been living there would have been help for her. He was the one friend of her life who would have understood and sympathized with her, and helped her out of this chaos. But her father was lying in the Carstone graveyard up there on the hill, with the grass of six years above him!

There was no help for her. She must fight it out alone!

If she could have got away from Linwood it would not have been so hard. The bald rusticity and poverty of the lives of those around her never was so hateful to her. Only for her mother and the children she could have turned her back upon this scene. The busy whirl, the excitement of city work have a fascination for the young. Shirley could have plunged into these and found rest. At least she could have found congenial intellectual companionship. Here she was as utterly alone as Robinson Crusoe on his island. But had not her father said—"Take care of your mother, Shirley, take care of them all?"

There was nobody to take care of the children, to have patience with her mother, absolutely nobody but Shirley. Here she was, and here she was to be tied to her country school, correcting the bad grammar of the children, listening alternately to the vulgar neighborhood clack and the peevish complainings of her mother, putting her hands too to work, now with the needle, now in household labor and out in the grounds. That was to be her life forever, hum-drum, like the clicking of a blacksmith beetle. Oh! if she could only get away! But no!

She faced her prospect and saw that the battle must be fought out in Linwood. Fate is hard on women.

Finally Shirley observed that this eating her heart out in silence was beginning to disturb her seriously. How she longed for some break in the dull monotony of fretting!

One morning she found her brother Pet seriously ill of a fever. He became worse through the day. Shirley herself went for the doctor.

Back of the village was a hideous patch of ground of several acres. It was called the "common," possibly from the fact that it was common dumping ground for all miscellaneous rubbish of the town. In the growing season it was covered with weeds.

The summer had been the hottest one in many years. As Shirley passed by the common she saw it was covered with a stagnant, bubbling water. Poisonous exhalations seemed to rise from it and glisten in the sun. She entered the village. Rank weeds fringed the street in front of nearly every house. The stagnant water lay in pools along the roadway, at intervals, through the whole village. She wondered how it was she had never noticed the weeds and decaying water before.

She had scarcely been in the village since her return. But now she was struck with the sickly, greenish-yellow hue on the faces of persons she met. Surely, they did not look like that always. She neared the center of interest in the village, Simpkins' grocery. She saw something unusual had taken place. A huddle of men, sparsely sprinkled with members of the weaker sex, were gathered there. A look of gloom, of fear was in their faces.

An epidemic of fever had broken out in the village. The children and old people were dying. Some of Shirley's best pupils were down with it. Being so wholly taken up with her own griefs, Shirley had not heard of it.

For, something unusual, Deacon Durham was in the throng. Moreover he was talking, and that excitedly. He was in his shirt sleeves, his skeleton arms waving to and fro, his thin, gray locks shaking with excitement as he talked. There was the gleam of fanaticism in his eye.

"The wrath of the Lord is upon Linwood," Shirley heard him say. "This sickness is a judgment upon the people for their sins. The children walk in the ways of the ungodly. They go swimming in waters on the Sabbath day. The women are disobedient to their husbands, setting themselves up on the level of men. They attire themselves in gay apparel, not conducive to the glory of God, yea, wearing bonnets with flowers in them. Whereas sin came into the world by a woman, therefore is the anger of the Lord kindled against this town. These presumptuous females have brought a profane instrument of music into the Sabbath school."

His eye fell on Shirley. The crowd parted slightly. Pointing his skinny finger at her, the deacon continued his fierce denunciation:

"Yea, following the lead of godless female teachers, they have set up the scandalous practice of praising the Lord with fiddles. The Almighty will not hold them guiltless. 'I suffer not a woman to teach.' This people have departed from the straight way. Therefore is the sword of the Lord against them. Therefore I visit them with the pestilence that walketh in darkness, saith the Lord. Woe! woe! woe! to Sodom and Gomorrah!"

"Oh, bother! Deacon Durham," said Shirley, "that's nonsense. There is not a word in the Bible against praising the Lord with fiddles. And as to washing in waters, if the children of this town did it a good deal oftener, they would be better off and healthier. The Lord never said a female should not teach, either. It was a man said that. But I quite agree with you that the Almighty has sent a pestilence on Linwood. You are right that His wrath is kindled against this people for their sins, truly enough. He is visiting His wrath upon them because they are lazy and slovenly. Look at that common out there! It is a blister on the face of a civilized community. That's where the fever comes from mostly. It has rained nearly every day this season. The wind has been from the west. It has brought disease and death upon its wings from that foul, reeking pond over there. Look at these nasty puddles in front of your very doors! Look at these masses of rank, rotten weeds. Two hours' work a week from each gentleman who spends so much leisure time in the grocery would change this dirty, pokey, little town into a garden of Eden. But they don't give it. They let the common lie festering in the sun, month after month, bringing fever and sickness. This is why the wrath of the Almighty is kindled against them, and not because a poor little woman wears a flower in her bonnet. Is it likely the Creator of the universe would be in such small business as that?"

"No, by thunder!" exclaimed Jim Sweet.

Then Shirley got her doctor and her medicines and went home. The sickness raged in earnest. It took off Hughie Carter and Katy Tringle. Mis' Simpkins was left a widow. The gossips said her husband was just too lazy to fight the fever, and so gave up and died. Pet Carstone was very ill. The pestilence attacked old Mme. Frenchy, Mrs. Carstone's nurse. At last it fastened its grisly clutches upon that tough old Christian, Deacon Durham himself. It shook his ancient bones, it scorched his cold inwards. It rattled him soul and body. Plainly here was the wrath of the Lord kindled also against the righteous. It wasn't the fair thing, not at all.

There were weeping and desolation and terror in Linwood. Shirley worked night and day, tending the sick and helping the well in all ways in her power. Three persons were a self-constituted committee of relief. They were the Presbyterian minister, the doctor and Shirley. After the first two the girl came next in authority, by virtue of being the teacher, partly, but especially by virtue of being Shirley. These three worked together with a will. The helpless, ignorant villagers instinctively looked to them to do their thinking for them and to aid them in their distress. And the three had their hands full.

Shirley's sermon had sunk into the minds of one or two who heard it. After the pestilence abated the sermon returned afresh to them. They thought of it and talked. It was strange, but they had never noticed how unsightly the common—that camping ground of geese and pigs—was before.

Once more the three lights of Linwood, the Presbyterian minister, the doctor and Shirley, laid their heads together. A Village Improvement Society, with a big "I" and "S" was formed. Shirley was secretary.

When the town dignitaries came to consult about what should be done with their weeds, their unclean streets, their goose ponds, and, above all, their boss nuisance, the common, they found that their girl secretary knew more than they all put together. It was Shirley who had heard about drainage and tree planting and landscape gardening. She had her father to thank for that again. She had heard him talk of all this many a time. The books he studied were still there.

When the dry weather of late summer set in the Village Improvement people began their task with enthusiasm. The enthusiasm did not lag after the first year, either.

Processes are tedious. They are exceedingly unromantic, therefore not proper for a novel. We skip them, and go on to results.

The hideous common became Linwood park, a thing of beauty. The ground was leveled and filled with solid sweet earth, the plat was drained. The swamp in the center, the most unsightly and unwholesome spot of all, was changed by the magical power of brains and fingers into an exquisite tiny lake, the pearl and soul of the park.

Beautiful evergreen and hard wood forest trees were planted, and clumps of blossoming shrubs. Winding walks were made. Here and there the green was dotted with beds of brilliant flowers.

The Improvement Society with a big I and S did not stop its missionary labors at the park. It invaded the village. The riot act was read to the pigs and geese, and they roamed the highways and the byways at their own sweet will no more. The streets were drained, straightened and laid out regularly. Sidewalks and streets were neatly paved, and in time kept sightly and clean. The patches of weeds in front of the Linwood homes disappeared and their place was taken by brilliant patches of grass and flowering plants. Saplings from the woods were set out in the town, and in time these became noble avenues of trees. Shirley ransacked her brain and her father's books, and rediscovered graceful native vines and beautiful flowering trees.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Y. M. C. A. Conference.

A Conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the Peterborough District was held at Port Hope on Monday and Tuesday. There was a good attendance from the various Associations, and the Conference was a very profitable one. Peterborough was represented by Messrs. Bannel Sawyer, A. Tebb, H. S. Griffin, A. Cooper and Geo. E. Williams. Mr. H. C. Priest of Lakefield was also present and gave an interesting Bible reading.

Broom Factory.

Messrs. Sherwood Bros., commission merchants, have entered upon the manufacture of brooms, their factory being situated on Hunter street, near the Ashburnham bridge. On account of the variable quality of brooms received for sale from outside manufacturers, it gave considerable trouble to them and their customers, and to put an end to this they resolved to make an article that can be relied on. The factory turns out now twenty-five dozen brooms per week, which output will be increased to fifty dozen as soon as additional machinery arrives. There are five grades of brooms manufactured, all good, but No. 1 especially so.

The Port Hope Times says:—"Cobourg and Peterborough base ball clubs have replied to the invitations sent out to the Midland clubs for the formation of a league. They excuse their non-attendance on the pleas, the former that they were not organized, and the latter, having decided that being connected with the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association they cannot go into the league without losing their amateur standing, although the club hopes to meet the Port Hope team on the diamond during the season. In view of the fact that the other Midland clubs were probably absent on Good Friday from unavoidable cause, after a week or so another meeting will be called. Next time we hope the league will be arranged.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION

A MEETING TO ORGANIZE A BRANCH OF THE LEAGUE.

Speeches by Mr. J. H. Long and Others—A Branch of the Imperial Federation League Formed.

On Tuesday even a public meeting was held in Bradburns Opera House for the purpose of considering the advisability of forming a branch of the Imperial Federation League. There were about seventy-five people present.

Mayor STEVENSON occupied the chair. There was to have been several speakers here from a distance but they had been prevented from coming, so that local speakers would be obliged to fill the gap. To-day he had received a telegram from Henry Lyman, Montreal, congratulating Peterborough on the formation of a branch of the League and wishing success. He had not studied this Imperial Federation question but he supposed that it had for its object the uniting the colonies to Britian by sending representatives to Westminister, there to take part in Imperial matters. If such an arrangement could be satisfactorily made it had his entire sympathy. If it was a good thing for the country by all means, he said, let us have it, but if it is not, let us have nothing to do with it.

M. J. H. LONG, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, being called on read letters from Dr. Hopkins, Ingersoll, and Mr. Douglass, Chatham, regretting their inability to be present. These gentlemen were to present the scheme of Imperial Federation this evening, but now that they were not here he thought the best thing they could do now would be to carry on a desultory conversation for a time. For his own part he thought the name of the league ill-chosen. It created in the minds of the people just such an idea as that given out by the Mayor—that of the creation of an Imperial Parliament in which the colonies would be represented, Acts of such Parliament to bind Local Parliaments. Speaking for himself and a large number of others he did not believe in any such scheme. Perhaps in a great many years hence, when means of communication between the various parts of the Empire were perfected, perhaps such a Parliament might be formed. But for the present an advisory council, composed of the commissioners and agents of the different colonies, to give advise in matters relating to the colonies, was all that could be hoped for. The advice of such council should not bind the Imperial Parliament to any course of action, but would be viewed simply as suggestions. It was asked "why is not some definite plan laid down?" As a matter of fact a great many schemes had been formulated. The literature on the subject was voluminous and was increasing. The things most desired throughout the extent of the Empire was allegiance to one sovereign, common citizenship, and common defence, and first and most important the cultivation of a sentiment of loyalty. The fundamental principle of the League was to teach the people of the British Empire that the British Empire was too valuable to be allowed to fall to pieces. It was not, in his opinion, a useless lesson. Here in Canada we are peculiarly situated with reference to this League. The first branch of the League was organized here. It might be well to consider, too, in the event of the disintegration of the Empire how long the Canadian Confederation would survive the example. Besides there was a spirit of disloyalty abroad here which took two forms — annexation and independence. Something was required to offset that sentiment. If this disloyal spirit grew and triumphed—for independence had but the same meaning as annexation—how long would it be before Australia and the Cape would fall away also? Shorn of these three responsibly governed colonies, Great Britain and Ireland would be deprived of half their prestige. He looked on annexation as a dangerous thing—bad for Canadians and Americans alike. The United States had already enough problems to grapple with and had territory enough. It seemed to be taken for granted that just so soon as the majority of the people of Canada declared for annexation or independence the minority were bound to submit. He did not believe in any such thing. This would be another example of the blind rule of the majority. He claimed that the majority had no power over him in two things—religion and allegiance. Allegiance to the British Crown was a Briton's birthright and no majority had a right to deprive him of it. And it would be a great mistake to suppose that the people of this country would quietly submit to either independence or annexation. The minority would be justified in fighting. There could be no change in the relation of this country to the mother country without the shedding of blood. In considering the cultivation of a sentiment of loyalty in Canada it should not be forgotten that we are a dual people. It pained him to hear of what was called French evangelisation. If the Frenchman preferred to remain a French Roman Catholic it was impossible to turn him into a Protestant Englishman and every attempt made was viewed as "English" aggression. The French were as loyal to the Empire as the English were. If this scheme were abandoned people would not hear so much about Roman aggression and French invasion. But if the French did over-step their rights and invade ours we would be in a position to fight them in the legislative halls, courts of justice, and, if necessary, on the field of battle, with clean hands. Information as to the extent and resources of the Empire were necessary to promulgate a sentiment of loyalty. When it is known that Her Gracious Majesty reigns over three hundred and twenty millions of freemen; that the Imperial trade exceeds $5,500,000,000; that three out of every five ships that sail the seas carry the Union Jack, it was sufficient to make the British subject feel proud. (Applause.) This glorious Empire was purchased with the sacrifice of blood, and it was given to us as trustees. We have no right, be the subject English, Irish, Scotch or Canadian, to barter away for a mess of pottage so precious a heritage. (Applause.) He then read the following showing the objects of the League:—

That a society be now formed, to be called "The Imperial Federation League."

That the object of the League be to secure by federation the permanent unity of the Empire.

That no scheme of federation should interfere with the existing rights of Local Parliaments as regards local affairs.

That any scheme of Imperial Federation should combine on an equitable basis the resources of the Empire for the maintenance of common interests, and adequately provide for an organized defence of common rights.

That the League use every constitutional means to bring about the objects for which it is formed, and invite the support of men of all political parties.

That the membership of the League be open to any British subject who accepts the principles of the League, and pays a yearly registration fee of not less than one shilling.

That donations and subscriptions be invited for providing means for conducting the business of the League.

That British subjects throughout the Empire be invited to become members, and to form and organize branches of the League, which may place their representatives on the General Committee.

Mr. Wm. BRUNDRETTE, said that last fall he had correspondence with Mr. Henry Douglass, of Chatham, on the subject of forming a league here. Mr. Douglass had given him such encouragement that he and others went to work to establish it. So far he had met with much success. Branches of the league were springing up all over, and he thought it a good time to establish one in Peterborough. He was anxious to lend his aid to any movement having for its object the cultivation patriotism.

Mr E. J. TOKER was heartily in accord with this movement. Though born in England he had not spent more than two years there in the last 24 years. He had been round the world during that time and at nearly every place he landed he was beneath the flag of the British empire. It made him feel at home wherever he went. At present he had relatives living in England, Ireland, Australia, the West and East Indies and South Africa. It was a pleasing thing to know that all were under the same flag, and this was the case with many families. He hoped this condition of affairs would long continue. Some had the idea that Imperial Federation in Great Britain meant to look on the colonies as fields for growing produce and as markets for English and Scotch manufactures. But if Britain ever had that idea she had given it up now. The leading politicians recognized that Canada and Australia would take no inferior position in regard to manufactues with either England or Scotland. He agreed that an advisory council was the most they could look for in the matter of federal legislation for this century at least. This would be the germ of future growth in that line. It was a necessary thing that the Empire should stand in the interests of all concerned. Canada standing alone would not have the same weight as now with England, Ireland, Scotland and the other colonies at her back. Nor would England, Ireland and Scotland have the same influence with the colonies cut off. It was indeed Canada's best interest to remain a part of the Empire.

The Rev. Mr. BRADSHAW as a loyal subject of Her Gracious Majesty, was in accordance with a movement to solidify her dominions. He came to hear something about the project and not to speak. However he could agree with the remarks made by Mr. Long. It was extremely necessary to disseminate a knowledge of the wonderful capabilities of our mighty empire—the greatest the would had ever seen. There was no denying the fact that there was an independent sentiment abroad. Only a short time ago a who province declared for secession. He was glad to see, however, that it had come come back to its first love. He thought it would be fair for Canada to bear her part of the burden of her defence, as indeed she was now doing. But some people would naturally object to paying taxes for aggressive Imperial war, as he himself should. Canada enjoyed privileges which she should pay for. For instance, she had the whole weight of the Empire at her back in the fisheries dispute. The colonies were thought of more favorably by the British than formerly. The marvellous growth of the colonies and what they have done is creating interest in the Mother Country. Take the Canadian Pacific Railway, for one thing. It was a great credit to Canada, and to the Government which built it and it has contributed not a little to open the eyes of the inhabitants of other parts of the empire to the importance of the Dominion. Concluding he again expressed his concurrence in the idea of more firmly knitting the various parts of the empire together.

Mr. LONG wished to make and explanation. The League was not in favor of involving one colony in a war in which it had not interest. For instance, Canada should not be called on to aid in a war in Afghanistan where India alone was interested. He then gave statistics of the marvellous development of the colonies, showing that during the last thirty years they had far outstripped the United States in progress.

On motion of Mr. Long seconded by Mr. J. Erskine, it was decided to form a branch of the Imperial Federation League.

The branch was then organized and about 40 names were enrolled.

CHANCERY SITTINGS.

The Spring Session—Mr Justice Ferguson Presiding.

The spring chancery sittings opened at the Court House at half-past one o'clock today, Mr. Justice Ferguson presiding.

The docket is a very light one, there being only two cases down for disposal: Robinson vs. Leary, for recovery of land, and Macdonald vs. Macdonald, an alimony case.

The members of the bar present at the opening of the sittings were: Messrs. W. Cassels, Q. C., Toronto; W. Nesbit, Toronto; G. T. Blackstock, Toronto; E. H. D. Hall, D. W. Dumble, E. A. Peck, J. Green, J. O'Meara and Geo. Edmison.

Joseph Gibson, Esq.

Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, an eloquent andargumentative speaker, will give an address in the Opera House next Sunday evening at 8.30 o'clock on "Is Life Worth Living?" Silver collection at the door. In the same place, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock he will lecture on "Scott Act Enforcement." Admission 10 cents. Attend and be pleased and edified.

Serious Riot

KANSAS City, Mo., April 12.—A serious twenty-four hours riot occurred at the Bridges Works at Randolph yesterday. The affray, which was a hand to hand fight with stones, pistols and knives, between the negro and white laborers on the new Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Bridge, resulted in serious wounds to at least thirty-five out of the two hundred engaged in it.

In a Trance.

JOLIET Ill., April 12.—Mrs. Lizzie Herbert aged 35 years, has been lying in a trance for three months. Her eyes cannot be opened and she cannot move. She cannot eat and fluid food has to be forced into her mouth. She is reduced to a skeleton and looks like a corpse.

BURGLARY.

The Safes in the Grand Trunk Station at Millbrook Cracked.

By Telephone to the Rrview.

MILLBROOK, April 14.—A burglary of a character indicating that it was done by men who are well up in that bad business, was committed at the Grand Trunk Railway station some time during last night. The burglars entered the [illegible] by forcing the door. There are two safes in the station, a large one with a combination lock and a smaller one. Both were opened. The larger one was drilled and the combination broken by a punch. The smaller one seems to have been forced by powder. The thieves secured between thirty and forty dollars from the safes. They also opened the express parcels, going through all of them, but fortunately there was none that contained anything of great value, although the thieves carried off some articles. Nothing was known of the burglary until the station agent went to the office this morning. The burglars evidently were not disturbed in their work, for everything was rifled that might contain booty and none of their tools were left on the ground. Fifteen hundred dollars was removed from the safe yesterday, very fortunately as it happened, and escaped the clutches of the thieves. The burglary is thought to have been committed by the men who operated here last year, and it is believed that there is a clue as to who they are.

ROBINSON et al vs. LEARY.—An action for the recovery of land. Mary A. Robinson, Elizabeth R. Winch and Jemima Chamberlen are the executrices of the late Edmund Chamberlen. Among the latter's effects was a deed of a farm in Monaghan. Christopher Leary claims that he gave the deed as security for money advanced. The defendant has been in the possession of the farm for between 18 and 20 years. In 1869 he gave the late Mr. Chamberlen the deed. He now claims that he paid back all the borrowed money and that he is entitled to the land. The plaintiffs claim that the defendant occupied the land as a tenant and paid moneys as rent. The defendant claims that the moneys were re-payment of sums borrowed and not as rent. Judgment was reserved.—Cassels, Q.C., Toronto, and Peck, Peterborough, for plaintiffs; Nesbitt, Toronto, and Edmison, Peterborough, for defendant.

The McDonald vs. McDonald case was withdrawn.

Mr. Sylvester Woods found the tone and was given the $10. The owner was glad to pay the reward and followed after the company on the next train.—Times.

Fatal Fire in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 13.—J. J. McGrath's wall paper house at 106, 108, 110 and 112 Wabash avenue, was destroyed by fire this morning. Pipeman Michael Burns fell into the flames and was cremated; John Heberle, Lieutenant of engine 32, fell to the sidewalk his skull being crushed; Captain Fred. Reese had his leg broken by falling stone. Mr. McGrath declares that the loss will reach half a million dollars. It was probably the largest stock carried by any one firm in America. The insurance will fall short of the loss by $200,000.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

The Governor General's Speech from the Throne—The Colonial Exhibition—Queen's Jubilee—New Department of Trade and Commerce—Senatorial Representation for the Northwest—Other Measures.

By Telegraph to the Review.

OTTAWA, April 14.—The first session of the Sixth Dominion Parliament was formally open this afternoon by the Governor-General with the usual formalities. The numbers of the House of Commons were summoned to the Senate Chamber, when the Governor-General delivered the following

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

It is my pleasing duty on the opening of a new Parliament to congratulate you on the

GENERAL PROSPERITY

of the country, and on the prospect of a coming season of peace and progress.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE.

You will, I am sure, gladly join with the rest of the loyal subjects of the Queen in offering Her Majesty your sincere congratulations on her having reached the fiftieth anniversary of her accession to the throne, and in giving expression to an earnest hope that she may be long spared to reign over her vast domains.

THE COLONIAL EXHIBITION.

The prominent position taken by Canada at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition recently held in London has made the Dominion more widely and favourably known than before, and will, I have no doubt, contribute largely to its material progress, by calling attention to the advantages offered by our country to the agriculturist and by attracting the capital necessary for the development of its great natural resources.

THE FISHERIES DISPUTE.

Negotiations between Her Majesty's Government and that of the United States on the fishery question, with respect to which my Government has been fully informed and consulted, are still in progress, and will, we may be permitted to hope, result in an arrangement honorable and satisfactory to both nations. Meanwhile the necessary provisions have been made for the protection of our inshore fisheries. The papers on this subject will be laid before you.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

Your attention will be invited to the expediency of establishing a Department of Trade and Commerce under the supervision of a responsible Minister.

DEPARTMENTAL IMPROVEMENTS.

You will also be asked to consider the propriety of making such improvements in the organization of the Departments of Justice, Customs and Inland Revenue as will provide greater facilities for the despatch of the large and increasing volume of business with which these Departments are charged.

NORTHWEST REPRESENTATION.

A measure will be submitted to you giving representation in the Senate to the Northwest Territories in addition to that which they now possess in the House of Commons.

IMPORTANT MEASURES PROMISED.

Other measures will be laid before you, and among them will be found bills for the amendment of the Acts relating to Government railways, for providing a better mode of trial of claims against the Crown, for the improvement of the procedure in criminal cases, and for the further amendment of the Chinese Immigration Act.

A NEW SAULT ST. MARIE CANAL.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

You will be asked, in order to provide against the possible interruptions of the navigation of our great inland waters, for an appropriation in aid of the construction of a canal to connect the waters of Lakes Huron and Superior at Sault Ste. Marie.

ACCOUNTS AND ESTIMATES.

The accounts for the past year will be laid before you, as well as the estimates for the ensuing year. They have been prepared with due regard to economy and the requirements of the public service.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I commend these important subjects and the others which may be laid before you to your best consideration, with full confidence in your earnest desire to promote the development and well being of Canada.

A Bank Thief Committed.

HALIFAX, April 13.—Stanley Steele, the desperado who attempted to murder a clerk in order to rob the Merchant's Bank agency at Antigonish a couple of weeks ago, was arraigned and committed for trial for shooting with intent to murder. During the proceedings Steele exhibited remarkable coolness and indifference, even laughing at the most damaging evidence. Robert S. Currie, his intended victim, has recovered from his wounds.

Almost a Daily Occurrence.

HEARNE, Tex., April 13.—A shooting affray occurred here yesterday between Dr. Offutt and O. D. Cannon, in which both were mortally wounded.

LABOR CANDIDATES IN ITALY.

ROME, April 12.—Signors Crispi and Zunardelli, Democrats, will introduce in the Italian Parliament a bill providing for the payment of salaries to members of the Chamber of Deputies, the idea being to facilitate the return of labor candidates.

THAT DYNAMITE HOAX.

LONDON, April 12.—The story about a suspicious ship having been seen off Youghal, Ireland, waiting a chance to land a cargo of dynamite was a hoax.

CHANGED THEIR TACTICS.

LONDON, April 13.—A telegram from Geneva, purporting to come from a Nihilistic source, denies that a notice of a sentence of death has been sent to the Czar. The telegram also says that the Nihilists have changed their tactics; that they have abandoned the dagger and the bomb in favor of a persuasive policy and have formed a committee to unmask the manœuvres of certain agents who spread in the press fictitious Nihilist proclamations.

WHOLESALE DISMISSALS.

LONDON, April 13.—A despatch from Paris to the London Chronicle says:—"Every mayor of other official in Alsace-Lorraine suspected of French sympathies has been dismissed. Even in the schools the same determination is evident to repress all French sentiment."

EXCLUDING FRENCH.

BERLIN, April 13.—It is reported that Prince Bismarck has asked Dr. Von Puttkamer, Prussian Minister of the Interior, to confer with Mgr. Galimberti and try to obtain the Papal consent to the law compelling all the Catholic clergy in the Reichland to preach in the German language, the bishops to print their edicts in German and the teachers and students in seminaries to speak German exclusively.

BANQUET TO COLONIAL DELEGATES.

LONDON, April 13.—The Colonial office will give a banquet on April 29th to the delegates to the Colonial conference. The Prince of Wales will be present.

FIGHT IN ACHEEN.

THE HAGUE, April 13.—Advices from the Dutch East Indies say that the Dutch had an encounter with natives in Acheen on the 4th inst., and that the Achinese fled after a sharp engagement, leaving thirty-three dead. The Dutch loss was twelve killed and twenty-six wounded.

TREVELYAN'S VIEWS.

LONDON, April 13.—Sir George Otto Trevelyan, replying to an invitation to address a Unionist meeting, writes: "I have the greatest objection to the proposal of the Government to enact penal clauses which can be used to suppress the National League and the press. The policy I advocate for Ireland is to draw a distinction between politics and crime. This the bill fails to do. I think it right you should know the lines on which I should speak." As a result the invitation has been cancelled.

MARINE DISASTER.

PARIS, April 13.—A despatch from Dieppe says the packet steamer Victoria is ashore on the rocks near the city. She stranded during a fog. Several of her passengers attached life belts to their bodies and then jumped overboard and were carried out to sea. The others have been safely landed.

BALOON STEERING.

BERLIN, April 3.—The German Government, has purchased for $250,000 an invention for steering balloons.

ITALY'S EYE ON TUNIS.

PARIS, April 13.—A sensation has been caused here by a speech made by M. Ferry in Algiers, in which he said that if the French possessions in Africa had not been extended to the sea by conquest, Tunis would now be threatened by Italy.

TWO NOTED RUSSIANS DEAD.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 13.—M. Samoiloff, a celebrated comedian in the reigns of Nicholas and Alexander II., is dead. The death is also announced of Kramskoi, who was considered the finest portrait painter in Russia.

A COMPLETE DEADLOCK.

BERLIN, April 13.—The Czar continues stubborn concerning the settlement of affairs in Bulgaria, and a complete deadlock continues, but a serious conflict is not feared.

A SHARP CONTROVERSY.

BERLIN, April 13.—Prince Bismarck recently had a sharp controversy with the French ambassador here, and it is to this that the present more pacificatory tone of the French press is attributed.

CHINESE MILITARY ARSENAL.

LONDON, April 13.—The Chinese Government has decided to establish an immense arsenal at Shanghai, making in the chief military depot it the empire.

AGRARIAN CRIMES.

LONDON, April 13.—The official returns of Irish agrarian crimes for the past three years are given as follows:—For 1884, 762; 1885, 944; 1886, 1,056.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S TOUR.

LONDON, April 13.—Mr. Chamberlain started on his tour through Scotland today. Great crowds collected at the railway stations, and there were alternate cheers and hooting. At Kilmarnock the crowd became boisterous and insisted upon a speech. Mr. Chamberlain complied briefly, reaffirming the Union principles, and claiming the right to differ with his former colleagues. The crofters' hostility is growing more demonstrative. Mr. Chamberlain will arrive at Ayr at 5 30 p.m., and will deliver an address there.

PROTESTANT HOME RULERS.

DUBLIN, April 13.—A meeting of the Protestant Home Rule Association was held here yesterday to protest against the Crimes Bill. A letter was read from Mr. Gladstone, in which, referring to the Crimes Bill, he says: "The introduction of the bill is in many respects deplorable, but it is good in the respect that it is doing much to open the eyes of honest men to the true facts of the question. I have placed myself in Parliament to oppose it at every stage. I trust that your meeting will do much to dispel the absurd idea that Irish Protestants as a body fear the consequences of Home Rule to themselves, or are anything like unanimous in opposing it."

THE WESTWARD RUSH.

QUEENSTOWN, April 13.—The arrivals here of emigrants on their way to the United States are enormous. The railways are running special trains to accommodate this class of travel. The number of emigrants waiting steamers to carry them to their destinations is already greater than can be housed in the hotels and lodging houses, and many are camping in the streets. Fifteen hundred embarked yesterday, and three thousand more are expected on Saturday to take steamers here

NEW RUSSIAN LOAN.

BERLIN, April 13.—It is stated that the issue of a new Russian loan for 100,000,000 roubles is imminent.

COMING TO CANADA.

DUBLIN, April 13.—The police have been ordered to resume evictions on the Marquis of Landsdowne's estate next week. This being the case William O'Brien will proceed to Canada immediately to denounce the course of the Marquis in sanctioning the evictions.

THE BUDGET.

BERLIN, April 13.—The Nachtichten says the supplementary budget is not of sensational importance, and that it does not threaten an immediate war. Extra expenditures, the paper says, are rendered necessary by the new army law, and the money will be devoted to strategic railroads, the extension and alteration of fortresses, new artillery and new kits for the troops.

STRONG LANGUAGE.

PARIS, April 13.—Le Paris replying to the strictures of the Berlin Post on France's attitude toward Germany, denounces the German policy as lying, cynical and brutal.

GERMANY AND FRANCE.

BERLIN, April 13.—The Post publishes a spirited article to-day on the relations between Germany and France. Referring to the French cavalry evolutions at Lunenville it says:—"These and similar military preparations along the frontier bear the character of provocations, and appear to proceed entirely from a wish to aggravate and alarm Germany."

AN URGENT WHIP.

LONDON, April 13.—The Parnellites have issued an urgent whip for Monday next, in expectation of a division being taken on that day.

THE COMING DIVISION.

LONDON, April 13.—Lord Hartington will return to London especially to vote for the second reading of the Coercion bill. A division will be taken in the House of Commons on Monday on Sir Bernard Samuelson's amendment to the Crimes bill, to the effect that the bill, if passed, would increase the disorder in Ireland, and endanger the Union and the Empire, and therefore should be rejected. The Opposition will not attempt to prolong the debate on the bill, reserving further discussion for the committee stage, which will probably be reached on the 25th inst. Mr. Morley will speak on the bill to-morrow and Mr. Gladstone on Monday.

THE LATE MR. BEECHER.

LONDON, April 13.—Rev. Jos. Parker, pastor of the City Temple, London, states that he is almost certain he will accept the proffered honor of delivering the eulogy on the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. Dr. Parker will sail in June for New York.

THE AMERICAN EXHIBITION.

LONDON, April 13.—The American Legation has sent a communication to the press saying that the statement published yesterday that President Cleveland would open the American Exhibition by telegraph on May 9, was erroneous, and that neither the President nor the Government of the United States had any connection with the exhibition.

THE JUBILEE ADDRESS

To be Moved to Her Majesty in the Quebec Legislature.

QUEBEC, April 13.—The following is a draft of the address which will be moved by Hon. Mr. Turcotte re the Queen's Jubilee:—

We, your Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, the members of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec in session assembled, eagerly seize the opportunity afforded us by the fiftieth anniversary of your Majesty's accession to the throne to give expression to the feelings of affection, loyalty and devotion of the people of this province.

We deem it our duty to express our gratitude to your Majesty for the improvements effected during your Majesty's reign in the condition of your subjects. We are especially and deeply thankful that under that glorious reign the people of Canada have been granted full constitutional liberty, and we respectfully beg leave to express the hope that ere long all the nations living under the British flag will be equally favored in that respect, and will have the same unvarying assurance of peace and harmony as we ourselves enjoy.

We pray the Almighty to lighten, through the affection and fidelity of your many subjects, your self-imposed labors undertaken for their welfare, and to grant that your Majesty will be spared for many years to preside over the destinies of the great Empire over which for half a century you have so gloriously reigned.

Billiard Match.

CHICAGO, April 13.—The fourteen inch balk line billiard match last night between Schaefer and Slosson for $500 was easily won by Schaefer by 600 to 639. Schaefer's best run was 126 and Slosson's 135.

Five Children Burned.

GREENVILLE, Ala., April 13.—A negro living near here went off at night leaving five children, the oldest eleven years of age, locked up in a house. While he was absent the house caught fire and all the children were burned to death.

Fire at Sing Sing.

SING SING, N. Y., April 13.—A fire broke out in the prison laundry drying room, this morning, and the upper floor and roof were destroyed. The damage to the building was 3,000. The loss of shirts is large. The prisoners behaved splendidly and worked most effectually to put out the fire.

Two Lady Doctors.

TORONTO, April 13.—The convocation of the University of Trinity College for conferring medical degrees was held yesterday afternoon. There were fifty-three graduates, among them being two ladies, Miss A. L. Pickering and Miss A. McLaughlin, the first lady graduates to receive the degree of M.D., C.M. They received an ovation from the other students.

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by all Druggists 50 cents.

NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Messrs. Darling & Curry, the Toronto architects, do not seem disposed to submit quietly to the injustice done them by the Mowat Administration in connection with the new parliament building, the proceedings in regard to which reek with jobbery and maladministration. These gentlemen have published another pamphlet throwing additional light upon the discreditable conduct of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues. It contains two very important documents. The first is a letter signed by Mr. Allan Macdougall, of Toronto, an acknowledged high authority on such subjects, who deals with the plans of Messrs. Darling & Curry as regards drainage, plumbing, heating and ventilation. These were the points to which exception was taken by the Administration on the professed authority of the foreign architect who was allowed to oust our Canadian architects in order to make way for himself. Mr. Macdougall, after careful examination, stakes his professional reputation on the opinion that so far from being defective the plans were exceptionally good as regards all these points, a view which is also endorsed fully by Mr. W. G. Storm who was one of the three experts selected by the Mowat Administration to adjudicate on the plans submitted in competition. The other important document is a petition spontaneously drawn up for presentation to Mr. Mowat and Mr. Fraser by the following Toronto architects, Messrs. Langley & Burke, M. Sheard, Arthur B. Denison, E. J. Lennox, Wm. G. Storm, Joseph Connolly, Smith & Gemmell, Walter R. Strickland, S. H. Townsend, Fred C. Law, D. B. Dick and Macdougall & Gray. These gentlemen protest against the unfair treatment to which Messrs. Darling & Curry have been subjected by the Mowat Government. They give their reasons at too great length for us to reproduce them, but we quote one of especial importance as follows:—

"It is against all precedent to appoint an expert to prepare designs for a building after competitive designs for the same have been submitted to his decision. One reason why it is not considered advisable to appoint an expert who reports on a set of competitive designs is that no temptation may be given him to report unfavorably against the designs so submitted, in the hope that the work may be eventually entrusted to himself."

Yet Mr. Mowat and his colleagues ignored this elementary principle, dictated alike by common honesty and common business precautions, acting as despotically and unworthily in this respect as they did when they set at defiance the limits placed upon their expenditure by the Legislature, and when they deliberately concealed their intentions from the people of Ontario in appealing to them for support last December, a concealment going even to the length of downright falsehood, to hide the fact of their exceeding the appropriation enormously. It is a dirty business from beginning to end and in every aspect.

A GERRYMANDER FRUSTRATED.

Mr. Mercier is evidently anxious to imitate the trickery of his friend Mr. Mowat in so gerrymandering the constituencies as to insure himself a majority of supporters in the House in spite of having only a minority of votes in the country. Fortunately, however, Mr. Mercier will be somewhat hampered in his designs by our constitution. Ottawa and Wolfe and Richmond are two of the constituencies that Mr. Mercier's organ says he proposes to deal with. But they are both on the list of twelve constituencies as to which the British North America Act provides that the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec shall assent to no bill for altering their limits unless the second and third readings shall have been passed with the concurrence of the majority of the members representing all those electoral divisions. As in these twelve constituencies there is an overwhelming majority against Mr. Mercier and his coalition Cabinet, he will be frustrated in his threatened attempts to gerrymander some of them.

The fact that a Conservative member, Col. Ouimet, has been elected Speaker of the House of Commons on the nomination of the Conservative leaders and without a division or even opposition by Mr. Blake and his friends is very significant. It shows how hollow is the pretence of some Reform journals that Sir John Macdodald has not a substantial majority in the House. It also shows that Mr. Blake and his lieutenants, knowing their weakness, are by no means anxious to force an early test vote that would show the true strength of the parties in the popular House of Parliament.

The magnificent reception of Mr. Chapleau at the banquet given in his honor at Montreal shows how fast the Riel mania, against which he stood so firmly, is now subsiding. The presence of Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. Caron completely upset the industriously spread Grit report that there is discord among the French members of the Cabinet.

Wiman's New Pulverizer.

New York, April 12.—Erastus Wiman has purchased from the Raymond Brothers the patent right of their pulverizer which he saw in Montreal recently. It is claimed that by a thin application of a new principle in mechanics the toughest substances like iron slag can be reduced to an impalpable dust. A test made with a half barrel of nails showed that iron could be ground into the finest powder without the aid of tooth, stamp or roller and with nothing but air.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CONSISTENT GRITS.

When Mr. Meredith proposed to give the countrymanhood suffrage, pure and simple, these ardent admirers of the principle had not one word of the commendation which they now heap on Mr. Mowat's half measure. —Toronto News (Indep).

ONE AND THE SAME.

A friend suggests that when Reformers attack the country, belittle its resources, misrepresent its development, falsify the figures as to its debt, pretend that its inhabitants are running away from it, affirm that much property is lying unoccupied, and so on, they do not desire to injure the country; but they wish to hit the Conservative party, and they look upon the country and the Conservative party as one and the same thing. This is about the idea; and there is a good deal of truth in it. Everything the country is it owes to the Conservative party. So that Reformers cannot strike at the party without hitting the country, and they cannot strike at the country without assailing the party. Perhaps these very assaults are the finest compliments ever paid Sir John Macdonald. —Hamilton Spectator.

SCOTLAND.

It is intended to hold a general parade of all the regular and auxiliary forces in Scotland in the Queen's Park, Edinburg, in June.

Lord Rosebery has consented to accept the nomination of the Glasgow University Liberal Club for the Lord Rectorship of the University.

Evening classes at a penny per week, have proved a great success in Airdrie, Lanarkshire, and it is stated that free education will possibly be tried next year.

No cases being set down for trial at the Spring Circuit for the counties of Stirling, Dumbarton, Clackmannan, and Kinross at Stirling on March 22nd, a presentation of white gloves to the presiding judge, Lord Mure, took place. This is the second maiden Court there in three years.

The Arbroath Town Council have agreed to recommend to their townsmen that the Jubilee memorial in connection with Arbroath should take the form of a new higher class school, with proper appliances for technical instruction, and the study of science, art and music, and that it be called the Victoria College.

The Rev. Robert S. Drummond, D. D., is to be proposed for the Moderatorship at the ensuing meeting of the U. P. Synod in May. Dr. Drummond is minister of Bellhaven congregation, Glasgow, and is reputed one of the foremost preachers in the U. P. Church. He is a son of the late Rev. Mr. Drummond, of Irvine.

Mr. Peter Sturrock, ex-Provost of Kilmarnock, and ex-M.P. for the Kilmarnock Burghs, was on March 21st presented with a life-size portrait of himself, in oil, painted by Mr. A. S. Mackay, as a testimonial from present and past members of the Town Council, in recognition of his valuable services to the community during a twelve year's term of office as Chief Magistrate.

The sudden death of Mr. Wm. Denny, of the shipbuilding firm of Denny Bros., Dunbarton, has caused a painful sensation in Glasgow and the West of Scotland. It appears that he has been suffering from depression of spirits arising from overwork, and had gone down to a place at some distance from Buenos Apres to recruit, but the remedy had been sought too late, and his mind becoming unhinged, he shot himself fatally.

A distressing railway accident occurred on March 22nd at the Ibrox station of the Glasgow and Paisley Joint Line, by which four men were instantly killed and a fifth so seriously injured that he died in the course of the evening. The unfortunate men, who were surfacemen, were working along with some others on the up main line, when a Glasgow and South-Western train from Kilmarnock came up unobserved and unheard, dashing into the workmen with the above terrible result.

The trial of Joseph and John Walker, father and son, for the murder of Head-Constable Gardiner and Private Hughes, of the West Surrey Regiment, during the Belfast riots of last July, took place on March 25th at Antrim Assizes. On sentence of 20 years' imprisonment being passed on Joseph Walker, he shouted to the Judge, "Execute me at once and have done with it."

NEWS NOTES.

The Railway Commission on Tuesday concluded its session in Kingston.

For the first time since 1789 Easter Monday was kept as a close holiday in Paris.

The Toronto City Council has fixed Monday, August 15th, as the Civic holiday.

It is expected considerable survey work will be done this season in British Columbia and the North-West Territories.

Hamilton license commissioners have decided to reduce the number of liquor licenses in the city from 105 to about 90.

C. F. Caron, a clerk in the Dominion Patent office, has absconded after confessing the appropriation of about three hundred dollars.

The river at Montreal is slowly rising, and floods are considered probable before the ice breaks up. The water entered a few cellars on Tuesday.

Plans for the town site at Banff Hot Springs, N. W. T., in the Canadian National park, are being prepared at Ottawa, and the site will be placed on the market at an early date.

Four men were committed for trial on Tuesday at Drayton on the charge of brutally beating Constable Hesselline, at Harriston on Wednesday last while serving Scott Act summonses, bail being refused.

It is expected that this year's Wimbledon team will be commanded by an officer from the Martime Provinces, Lieut.-Colonel Ouimet being unable to go on account of his selection as Speaker of the House of Commons.

The Worst Anticipated.

St. Hyacinthe, Que., April 13.—The river is steadily rising and the lower parts of the town are under water. Two bridges have been closed for traffic by carriages. Cote Bros.' shoe factory and one of Duclos & Payan's tanneries are flooded. The worst is anticipated.

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream."

And yet it is, when all the marrow is taken out of it by some dreadful disease like consumption, that, neglected, means certain death; catarrh and brochitis both distressing, and often leading to consumption, or like liver complaints or scrofula, which too often make those afflicted feel that life is empty. But these can all be cured. The use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood, lung and liver remedy, does away with "mournful numbers," brings back lost health, and fills life full of dreams of happiness and prosperity. Druggists sell it.

A. P. POUSSETTE.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

To cure the toothache try a bit of soda in the cavity.

To prevent the door from creaking apply a little soap to the hinges.

WHITING or ammonia in the water is preferable to soap for cleaning windows or paint.

FREE your stoves and flues from soot by throwing a piece of zinc on a bed of hot coal.

IF the saucepan in which milk is to be boiled be first moistened with water it will prevent the milk from burning.

ONE of the most effectual remedies for slimy and greasy drain pipes is copperas dissolved and left to work gradually through the pipe.

WATER should never be used that has been held in a lead pipe all night, and it should be allowed to run freely before any is taken for use.

ALL cooking utensils, including iron pots, should be rinsed after washing and carefully wiped on the outside with a clean, dry cloth. A soapy or greasy dish-cloth should not be used.

GLOSSY STARCH.—Take two ounces of white gum arabic, put it in a pitcher, and pour over it a pint of water, cover to keep from dust, and let it stand all night. In the morning filter carefully into a clean bottle, cork it, and keep for use. One tablespoonful of the gum water to one pint of clear starch, in which a piece of white wax has been melted, will give a fine gloss to shirt bosoms, collars and cuffs, when a polishing iron is used.

TO CLEAN TRIPE.—Empty the tripe and wash it thoroughly at a running pipe. Then put it in a pot with a good lump of washing soda. To an ordinary soup pot use a lump as large as an egg, and plenty of cold water. Heat it quite not, but don't allow it to boil, else it won't clean. Take it off the fire, let it stand till it is nearly cool, when proceed to scrape it. It will scrape quite easily. Wash thoroughly, and let it lie in clean cold water, with a little salt till required. Some chloride of lime added to the water it is put into after it is clean makes it white.

PAINFUL PRESCRIPTIONS.—A doctor who thoroughly believes in hearty suppers goes so far as to say that vigorous adults may eat bread and milk, cold beef, mutton, chicken and bread, and raw oysters all night, without harm. He advises everybody to take a large basin of beef tea immediately before going to bed, and a glass or two of rum and milk just before rising. When he is called in to patients who express any fear that they are pegging out, he insists on them eating bread and dripping, cheesecakes, truffled sausage, or steak and kidney pudding, as the case may be.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Grass seed is not easily killed, and for that reason may be sown as early as may be desired. The main object should be to select clean seed.

A contemporary suggests that a cow can be easily led by a halter which commands her nose, but with difficulty by a rope around her horns.

If the soil for strawberries contain much vegetable matter, bone and ashes will be sufficient as a mixed fertilizer for nearly all kinds of small fruits.

Sulphide of potash is recommended to destroy mildew on roses, chrysanthemums, and some other green-house plants. A quarter of an ounce dissolved in a gallon of water and thrown on the affected foliage will wholly destroy the fungus, and the leaves will not be injured.

No thrifty farmer will permit coarse weeds, thistles, briars or brushes of any kind to grow by the roadside adjoining his fields. One or two day's work each year for two or three years with a stout bush scythe will cause these unprofitable varieties of vegetation to give place to valuable grasses.

Farms in some sections of Pennsylvania maintain the fertility of their soils by applying 100 bushels of slacked lime to the acre once in five years. It is said that fields which have been subjected to this treatment for the past 100 years are as productive now as when the experiment was first tried. This application depends for its value much upon the original character of the soil.

The farmer who owns a good milch cow naturally desires to keep it for milk, if not for breeding, as long as possible. It will even pay to cut feed and mix it with meal for winter, after her feet are so far gone that she cannot masticate harder material. But when the end comes it is often better to sell her for what she will fetch than to fatten her. The amount of valuable feed required to put flesh on the frame of an old cow it given to a good milker would pay much better. The beef from old cows is not of the best quality, though there is a great difference in this respect. That is best which is fattened rapidly, and if it is desirable to fatten an old cow she should be fed all she will eat. Good cows are always voracious feeders, and are less likely to suffer from indigestion than fattening heifers or steers.

GENERAL.

The Duchess of Norfolk is dead.

Cattle are starving in Texas on account of vegetation being killed off by the drought.

Baron Nordenskjold intends making an expedition to the South Pole.

Port Hope photographers are at war and prices are away down in consequence.

Mr. Blaine is reported to be threatened with pneumonia, the result of a severe cold.

The St. Lawrence at Montreal continues to fall gradually, still further lessening the danger of floods at that city.

A large number of employees of the Pan Handle Railway are under arrest on the charge of stealing goods from freight cars.

They were sailing in a little boat together, and and she said:—"Are we running before the wind now, George?" "No, my darling," said he; "our boat is hugging the shore." "Ah!" she exclaimed, "what a beautiful example you have here."

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Tam Gray, once a jolly bachelor, but now a solemn Benedict, sat for a few stolen moments among his friends, and discoursed thus:—"Ay, freens, marriage mak's a great change in folk, as ye say. When I coortit Meg I used tae tak' her aboot everywhere—tae theatres, pic-nics, an' balls, but noo she tak's me, an' the only thing that's no' changed is the fac' that I aye pay for it yet."

Horsford's Acic Phosphate
FOR WOMEN.

Dr. WM. E. JEWETT, Adrian, Mich., says 'I have found it particularly useful in the nervous disorders of women."

Industrial Education of Children.

Industrial education is the foundation, and until it has, in its broadest and deepest sense, become the portion of every child born on American soil, that child has missed its birthright. With the many who accept it, it stands merely as an added capacity to make money, and if taken in its narrowest application this is all that it can do. Were this all, it would simply be an added impulse toward the degeneration that money making for the mere sake of money inevitably brings. But at its best, perfected as it has been by patient effort on the part of a few believers, it is far more than this. Added power to earn comes with it, but there comes also a love of the work itself, such as has had no place since the days when the great guilds gave joyfully their few hours daily to the cathedrals whose stones were laid and cemented in love and hope and a knowledge of the beauty to come, that long ago died out of any work the present knows.

The builders had small book knowledge. They could be talked down by any public school child in the second or third year. But they knew the meaning of beauty and order and law, and this trinity stands to-day and will stand for many a generation to come as an ideal to which we must return, till like causes work again to like ends. The child who could barely read saw beauty on every side, and took in the store of ballad and tradition that gave life to labor. We have parted with all this willfully. To the Puritan all beauty that hand of man could create was of the devil, and thus we represent a consecrated ugliness, any departure from which is even now by some conscientious souls regarded with suspicion.—Helen Campbell.

The Food of "Our Daddies."

"Throw away your cigarettes and eat a good bowl of mush and milk for your breakfast," said the learned doctor, "and you will not need any medicine. Indian corn is essentially an American institution. As the staple food of 'our daddies' it can really be said to have helped to lay the foundation of this great republic. With its product, the hog, it was in the not very remote past the sole food supply of the rural districts, and the dishes that can be prepared from its various forms are of much greater variety than can be prepared from wheat. Like Sambo's rabbit, it is good to roast, to bake or to boil, and can be fermented and turned into whisky, but its stimulating qualities are best procured by making it into a mush. It contains a large amount of nitrogen, has qualities anti-constipating and is easily assimilated. Though originally the poor man's food, it has come to be the rich man's luxury. It is cheap and has great nutritive properties. A course of Indian meal in the shape of johnny cake, hoe cake, corn or pone bread and mush, relieved by copious draughts of pure cows' milk, to which, if inclined to dyspepsia, a little lime water may be added, will make a life near a burden well worth the living, and you need no other treatment to correct your nervousness, brighten your vision and give you sweet and peaceful sleep."—New York Mail and Express.

Beecher's Habits of Labor.

Mr. Beecher's powers of work have been frequently spoken of. Maj. Beecher was saying the other day that he thought them at times unlimited. "Just look at what he did this last year," the major added. "A man of 73, he preached and lectured eighty-three times in the three months he was in England, and then returned to resume his work here without a break. He has preached here twice a week since, and lectured on Fridays and made many public addresses."

Though methodical in his habits of labor he could never work when he did not feel in the humor for it. "I can't work unless the sap flows," was his common remark when urged to finish the "Life of Christ." His correspondence was immense. If away for a few days his table would be covered with letters from all over the world. He was punctual in replying to all that he found worth answering. This was about the only writing he was accustomed to do at night.—New York Tribune.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d90

On account of their inability to digest ordinary food, Scott's Emulsion can be digested and give strength and flesh when all other food fails. See what Dr. A. H. Peck, Penn. Med. College, Peticodiac, says: "I have used and prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and find it an excellent preparation, agreeing well with the stomach, and its continued use adding greatly to the strength and comfort of the patient." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

Golden Medical Discovery

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-Joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating, and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. It promptly cures the severest Coughs.

For Torpid Liver, Billiousness, or "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, it is unequalled as a remedy. Sold by druggists.

NOTICE.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Indian Supplies," will be received at this office up to noon of SATURDAY, 30th April, 1887, for the delivery of Indian Supplies during the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1888, consisting of Flour, Bacon, Groceries, Ammunition, Twine, Oxen, Cows, Bulls, Agricultural Implements, Tools, &c., duty paid, at various points in Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

Forms of tender containing full particulars relative to the Supplies required, dates of delivery, &c., may be had by applying to the undersigned, or to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, or to the Indian Office, Winnipeg.

Parties may tender for each description of goods (or for any portion of each description of goods) separately or for all the goods called for in the Schedules, and the department reserves to itself the right to reject the whole or any part of a tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Cheque on a Canadian Bank in favour of the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs for at least five per cent. of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into a contract based on such tender when called upon to do so or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

Tenderers must make up in the Money columns in the Schedule the total money value of the goods they offer to supply or their tender will not be entertained.

Each tender must, in addition to the signature of the tenderer, be signed by two sureties acceptable to the department, for the proper performance of the contract.

When implements of a particular make are mentioned it is because the articles so designated suit the department for the purpose required better than others; in such cases the competition between tenderers must, of course, be in the transportation to the place of delivery.

In all cases where transportation may be only partial by rail, contractors must make proper arrangements for supplies to be forwarded at once from railway stations to their destination in the Government Warehouse at the point of delivery.

Tenderers will please note carefully the following conditions:—

1. Supplies will not be paid for until the Department has been assured of the satisfactory delivery of each article for which payment is claimed.
2. No tender for supplies of a description different to that given in the index will be considered, and supplies which are found, on delivery, to be of kind or quality different to those described, will be rejected by the agents of the department; and the contractor and his sureties will be held responsible for any loss entailed on the Department through failure to deliver in accordance with terms of contract.
3. It must be distinctly understood that supplies are to be delivered at the various points for the prices named in the tender; that no other additional charge for packing or any other account will be entertained, and that an invoice must accompany each separate delivery of supplies. An invoice for each separate delivery must also be sent to the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa, and one to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, if the supplies are for the North-West Territories. When the supplies are for points in the Manitoba Superintendency the triplicate invoice should be sent to E. McColl, Winnipeg.
4. Prices must be given for articles to be delivered at each point of delivery named in the Schedule for each article, and a single tender is submitted, and not an average price for each article at all points of delivery; no tender based on a system of averages will be considered
5. Tenderers should understand that they must bear the cost, not only of sending their samples to the Department of Indian Affairs, but also freight charges incurred in returning such samples to the tenderer.
6. When supplies are to be delivered "equal to sample," tenderers should understand that the sample is to be seen either at the Department of Indian Affairs, at the office of the Indian Commissioner at Regina, at the office of the Inspector in charge at Winnipeg, or at any one of the undermentioned Indian Agencies.

Personal.

On Wednesday afternoon the presentation of diplomas and other honors took place at Trinity Medical School, Toronto. Dr. Covernton presented Mr. A. E. Yelland with the gold medal, the highest honor of the school. Mr. W. D. Scott was presented with a silver medal. Mr. A. E. Yelland was the valedictorian. The World says.—"The valedictory read by Mr. A. E. Yelland, gold medalist, met with a hearty reception from his fellow students. On behalf of the graduates of 1887 he tendered a hearty farewell to the dean and members of the faculty. It was with mingled sentiments of regret and pleasure that they took leave of those with whom they had so long and so pleasantly been associated. He concluded by wishing prosperity to the school and all connected with it, and complimented the dean on the care and attention he had bestowed and wished him a long and successful career."

PROSPERING.

A Church that has Doubled its Membership Within a Year.

On Wednesday evening the annual meeting of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church congregation was held in the school room. The place was filled with people and the lunch provided by the ladies was duly appreciated. When tea had been dispensed with

Mr. HARRY STEVENS sang a solo, "The Handwriting on the Wall."

The Rev. Mr. WALLACE, the Chairman, said the people of the church ought to feel happy at the prosperity the church enjoyed during the last year. After all the great object was the conversion of souls, and while those who were to read the various reports might give satisfactory statements this remained the central object for which they all labored. They had all reason to thank God for the way he had blessed them. Since the last annual meeting the membership had doubled. For this glorious work he thanked God.

Mr. A. L. DAVIS then read the financial statement, the part in his own charge and also that in Mr. W. Morrow's charge on account of the latter's health not permitting him to be present. One item of satisfaction in it was the paying off of $1,132.65 of old debts. On the whole, however, there was a small deficit. He gave also a statement of the Sunday School work. The average attendance now was 218. The finances were shown to be in a very satisfactory condition and the Sunday School was free from debt.

Mrs. SAWYER read the report of the Ladies' Aid Society, giving an account of the good work accomplished by the Society during the year. The statement she gave was heartily applauded.

The Rev. Mr. WALLACE spoke of the church choir and its course during the year. They all regretted the loss of Mrs. Chambers, who was now singing in a large Presbyterian Church in Montreal. But the choir under Mr. Davis' management had done excellent service to the church at all times. He referred in feeling terms to the death of their organist, Mr. Heathfield. He was glad, however, to say that one of their late organist's pupils was filling the position with great credit. He looked forward to a brilliant career for their present organist.

Miss Brundrette sang a sweet soprano solo.

The Rev. Mr. WALLACE omitted to give one fact and that was the amount of the church's giving. For all purposes the amount was $3,690.44.

Mr. GEO. A. COX, on being called on to make a speech, surprised the people with its brevity. He merely remarked that he thought they should hand over the finances of the Church to the Ladies' Aid Society.

Mr. WM. CLUXTON, being asked to speak, said that the pastor had struck a key upon which he would make a few remarks and that was on the subject of music. He was pleased with the pastors thanks as to the organist. He paid a flattering compliment to Mr. Schneider and prophesied that if Mr. Schneider spent a couple of years in Germany the Charlotte street Church would not be able to retain his service, for he would then command a salary equal to the stipend of the pastor. He then recounted some reminiscences of the church music when he was a member of Church of England and other choirs. In those days they drew a curtain in front of the choir gallery to be opened only while the sermon was going on. This curtain did not tend to assist the people in the choir to their devotions. He remembered one member of the choir Mr. McCarrol, who besides being a good musician was a clever writer, and witty. One Sunday the Rev. Mr. Armour, of Cavan, father of the present Judge Armour, came to preach. He had a very florid face and his hair was very white. Mr. McCarrol amused himself with making verses behind the curtain as the service went on. The first verse went:

Old Armour's head
Mount Ætna shows,
Below are fires,

He told of the first organ brought to town and the trouble they had to persuade the minister to accept it. He also described the first Methodist Church, and caused considerable amusement by telling how the singing was done. Their hymn books were scarce, and so was money to buy them. To meet the emergency the minister gave out two lines of the hymn and they sang that, then he gave out the other two lines, and they sang that. Owing to there being no organ the congregation often got into straits on account of the difficulty of the person starting the tune getting the proper pitch. Sometimes it would be far too high and other times far too low. At one meeting the minister gave out the favorite hymn, "O for a Thousand Tongues to Sing." The brother who started it started it so high that after a few bars he had to come to a full stop. A witty person whispered to him, "Better start it at 500, brother." Speaking of the attractiveness of music he saw by the papers that 1,000 people went to hear the Jubilee Singers to the George Street Church on Sunday. He did not go as he did not favor shows in Church on Sunday or for that matter any other day, especially nigger shows. On Monday evening, however, he attended the so-called concert. He had seen a good many people since then and all were of opinion that it was deplorable that such an exhibition should have taken place in the House of God. He did not say this to interfere with the trustees management of the George Street Church or to condemn them. No doubt they were imposed upon or it would not have taken place. However, this should teach the Charlotte Street Church trustees to avoid making a similar mistake. These Jubilee Singers were a copy, and a bad copy, of the celebrated Fisk Jubilee Singers, a company of musicians who were known throughout the world. It appeared to him and many others that, while a few pieces were fair, the intention of the singers appeared to be to cause laughter, in which they succeeded very well with a portion of the audience. A spirit of burlesque seemed to run through the programme. He disapproved strongly of sacred subjects being treated with levity. It reminded him of the purification of the temple. On two occasions Christ showed that the house of prayer should be used for pure things.

Miss Kila Cox sang a solo in which her rich contralto voice appeared to good advantage.

Mr. J. L. HUGHES in a neat speech, summed up what had been done during the evening, gave expression to some thoughts which had occurred to him, and gave the church members some very good advice.

The meeting closed in the usual manner.

ODDFELLOWS' DEMONSTRATION.

The Sub-Committees Report—An Invitation to the Governor-General.

The Joint Committee recently appointed to make arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the 700 Oddfellows who will pay Peterborough a visit from the 8th to the 12th of August next, met on Wednesday evening, when the sub-committees gave in very satisfactory reports.

The railway committee had not received definite replies from the different railways in detail, but are sanguine from assurances received from the different roads that the rates to Peterborough from London in the west and Brockville in the east will be placed at such a reduced figure that a very large number will avail themselves of paying a visit to the "Plate Glass City" next August. Indeed, Peterborough will probably have visitors for a time to the number of about 20,000.

The reception and entertainment committee reported progress on their extensive programme of events. It is proposed to submit to the public a programme of events that cannot fail to prove a great attraction. The Driving Park and Cricket Grounds have been secured for the 10th of August (Civic Holiday), and there is a good prospect of his Excellency the Governor-General paying Peterborough a visit on that day. An invitation was sent to his Excellency and the following reply received:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE,
OTTAWA, 6th April, 1887.

SIR,—I am desired by His Excellency the Governor-General, to acknowledge the receipt of your letter on the 4th inst., in which, on behalf of the Oddfellows of Peterborough, you are good enough to extend an invitation to him to visit that town on the 10th of August next.

Lord Lansdowne directs me in reply to say that his plans for the ensuing summer have not as yet been formed, and he fears that it is impossible for him to make any engagement for a date so far ahead as that named by you.

His Excellency has, however, noted the request which you have made in case he should hereafter find himself able to comply with it.

I am, Sir,
Your obdt. servant,
HENRY STREATFIELD,
Captain, Gov.-Genl's Secy.

Mr. Andrew McNeil, Peterborough, Ont.

Should His Excellency pay us a visit we bespeak for him a loyal and hearty reception. Invitations have been sent to the different encampments at a distance, and it is expected that the following places will be represented each about 40 strong:—London, Hamilton, Toronto, Newmarket, Barrie, Kingston, Belleville and Brockville. Many of these "Cantons" will be accompanied by bands and will enter into the competition drills for prizes offered by the local members of the Order. Several ladies have already offered to work suitable banners for presentation and the committee are looking out for more. The sight of 300 uniformed Oddfellows with their dashing uniform going through their drill will be a sight long to be remembered.

The undertaking of the committee is a large one, entailing a large amount of expenditure, and it is to be hoped that the citizens will assist them in this praiseworthy action. It is an effort to bring representative men to Peterborough, to show them our town, to inspect our facilities for conducting business, to point out to them that we are not a "back woods" town, as many outsiders suppose, but are enjoying privileges which many places do not possess. Our visitors will find first-class hotel accommodation, unequalled in extent and quality outside of the large cities, at reasonable rates. The hospitality of our people is well known and we are satisfied they will more than sustain their reputation in August next with the Oddfellows at the helm.

FAIRWEATHER'S DISPLAY.

The Large and Attractive Stock of Millinery Novelties.

Fairweather & Co. held their spring millinery opening to-day, and it will continue for the rest of the week.

This spring's display is something rarely seen in Peterborough. The millinery department has been beautifully dealt with by painters and paper hangers and now presents a rich appearance. Added to that the deft hands of millinery artists have been at work until the place has been made to shine with an elegant profusion of decorations.

Attention has been closely paid to every important branch, and to details, but the principal features of the desplay are hats, bonnets and mantle goods. A tastefully arranged variety of the leading shapes trimmed are ready for inspection, making up an attractive feature of the department. A long line of mantle goods, including the latest novelties in that branch, together with all kinds and sorts of trimmings, attract much attention.

In parasols there is a gorgeous display. This season the usual silk lace and satin parasols are in vogue, but the latest out is of hexagon shape with deep concores between the ribs. Over this opening the gossamer folds of different shades of lace falls.

On the whole Fairweather & Co.'s display this spring is considerable ahead of anything done by that establishment for a long time, and that is saying a good deal. It is well worth seeing, even if the visitors don't intent to buy.

WHO is the queerest kid in town? Why the KIDD who sells good boots at the lowest price. Men's Long Boots at $1.45, Ladies' Lace Boots 60 cents only.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

TUESDAY, April 13.—A couple of bills were introduced.

DRAINAGE LOANS.

Mr. A. M. Ross's bill respecting drainage loans was amended so as not to apply to municipalities in arrears to the Province.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

On motion of Mr. Mowat, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays were taken for Government business and a Saturday session, beginning at eleven o'clock, was ordered.

ALGOMA TAXES.

Mr. A. M. Ross's bill respecting the taxation of patented lands in Algoma was read the second time.

LAND TITLES ACT.

The House went into committee on the bill to amend the Land Titles Act.

Mr. MEREDITH said that there seemed to be no indication of the expense a county would incur by adopting the system.

Mr. MOWAT said the Government were considering the matter.

Mr. MEREDITH suggested that registrars be appointed local masters of titles even if they were solicitors and not barristers.

Mr. MOWAT said he would consider the suggestion.

A number of clauses were allowed to stand and the committee reported.

LAW IMPROVEMENT.

The bill for further improving the law was considered in committee and reported with verbal amendments.

UNIVERSITY FEDERATION.

Mr. G. W. Ross moved the second reading of the bill respecting the federation of Toronto University and University College with other universities and colleges. He regarded this as affecting a necessary part of the school system. A democratic system pervaded the whole of the Ontario school system. Taking the system from the Public schools up, it would be found that each part was connected with the other till university was reached. High schools were dependent of the universities for teachers, and the High school master prepared the Public school teacher. This showed the necessity of having the best university training. He thought all were agreed that they should supply a proper, superior education. When the State assumed to provide superior education it should have some relation to the wealth and prosperity of the country. Ontario was a wealthy Province, and the endowment should have some proportion to that wealth. If they assumed the responsibility of maintaining a State university they must see that it supplied the wants of their most ambitious sons. In that university the highest form of intellectual culture must be provided because of the influence upon national life. The trouble with the present universities was that each professor had too many subjects to teach. The classical department needed strengthening and new departments should be provided. The annual revenue of Toronto University was something like $70,000 from its endowment, but that was not sufficient. It was desirable to combine the energies of the whole country in university work. To centralization he objected as a principle, but in this case he preferred centralization and strength to diffusion and weakness. It was objected that this scheme would injure outlying universities, but it was their duty to consider the National institution first. The scheme was accepted by Toronto University, Knox College, St. Michael's, Wycliffe, the Baptist College and Victoria. Trinity and Queen's refused it. The scheme would involve larger endowments, and it was hoped to arrange the funds so that they would increase in years to come. The bill enacted that any university might federate on suspending its degree-conferring power. It was proposed to revive the teaching faculties of medicine and law in the central university. The government of the university would be changed, the Senate to be elected every three years. Any university which federated would be allowed special representation for six years. It was also proposed to abolish scholarships, so far as Provincial funds were concerned; to allow theological schools in affiliation to confer theological degrees. It was hoped to secure the stability of the professoriate as agreed at the conference, and there would be no transfer, except by special Act of the Legislature. The scheme would involve larger endowments to the university, and it was hoped to be able to so arrange it that the professoriate could be doubled, and to arrange the funds so that they would increase in years to come.

Mr. CRAIG advocated the principle of the scheme, and hoped that the Governments would do nothing in opposition to the bill, such as granting a university charter to another college.

Mr. MCLAUGHLIN thought it would require $93,000 a year to equip the university under the new system. The present endowment was $65,000, leaving $28,000 to be provided. He approved of the scheme.

Mr. FIELD did not think the Government should do anything to suppress or obliterate denominational universities. He did not approve of the principle of federation.

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN was afraid that a state university would injure the denominational universities. While providing for the university at Toronto they ought not to forget these other institutions.

Mr. GIBSON (Hamilton) approved of the scheme and opposed giving aid to denominational colleges.

Mr. MEREDITH said that in some respects the House had not been furnished with all the information it was entitled to have before adopting the scheme. The House was asked to commit itself to a scheme which involved large expenditure without the amount of expense being stated or the means of getting the money indicated. So far as the primary object of the bill was concerned, he approved of it.

Mr. HARCOURT supported the scheme. He denied that there was opposition to the University from the industrial classes. The School of Practical Science, which was operated by the University, was specially for the benefit of the industrial classes.

Mr. G. W. ROSS said he hoped to-morrow to bring down a bill for the endowment of the University.

The bill was read a second time and the House adjourned at 11.40 p. m.

MORE BILLS.

WEDNESDAY, April 13.—Several bills were introduced, others read the third time and a number advanced a stage.

A LOYAL SCENE.

Mr. MOWAT moved that an address be presented to her Majesty expressing the heartfelt congratulations of the Legislature at the arrival of the 50th year of her reign. He read the address which he suggested, which was received with loyal applause and adopted by a standing vote.

Mr. GIBSON (Huron) then led the singing of "God Save the Queen," which was delivered with much fervour by the members.

The address was ordered to be engrossed and presented to his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, to be forwarded to the Governor-General.

UNIVERSITY FEDERATION.

The University Federation Bill was considered in committee. A discussion took place on the clause establishing a faculty of medicine, Mr. Meredith objecting to it, but it passed. A few clauses were allowed to stand, the remainder were passed and the committee reported.

THE INSURANCE ACTS.

The bill consolidating the Acts Respecting Insurance Companies was further advanced and amended in committee of the whole and progress reported.

The House adjourned at 11 p.m.

THE LATINS COMBINING.

A Movement in Spain to Unite the Spanish Peoples of the World.

MADRID, April 14.—Leading statesmen and literary men interested are uniting with influential politicians of Central and South America advocating closer commercial and political relations between the Spanish countries on both sides of the Atlantic with the idea of eventually forming a commercial zollverein and alliance to enable the states interested to combat the growing influence of the Anglo-Saxon race, especially in Central America, Mexico and the West Indies, and in order to prevent the Panama canal from falling into the hands of America, as the Spaniards expect that Cuba and Porto Rico will be great gainers by the opening of the canal. Senores Canovas, Del Castello, Castellar and Martos and the Marquis de Savega de Armijo head the movement, which excites much interest and heralds a series of measures tending less to improve the commercial relations between Cuba and America than to forward the foregoing scheme and divert Cuban trade to Europe and the Spanish American Republics.

WINE, BEER AND SPIRITS.

Report of the U. S. Bureau of Statistics —Liquor Consumption.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The quarterly report of the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics shows that, in round numbers, the consumption of distilled spirits, domestic and imported, in this country has increased from 43,000,000 gallons in 1840 to 72,000,000 in 1886, of wines from 4,800,000 gallons to 22,000,000, and of malt liquors from 23,000,000 to 642,000,000. The consumption per captia during the same period decreased as regards spirits from about 2¼ gallons to about 1⅛ gallons, and increased as regards wines from twenty-nine hundredths to thirty-eight hundredths gallons, and malt liquors from less than 1½ to more than 11 gallons. The present average expenditure in this country per annum for malt and spirituous liquors and beer at retail is $700 000 000. The drinking population is estimated to be (in 1886) 14,925,417, making the average expenditure per capita $45.90. Tables covering the 5 years, from 1882 to 1886 inclusive, show that the consumption of spirits is decreasing, while that of beer is increasing, and that there is a reduced consumption of wine as a beverage.

UNSCRUPULOUS MERCIER.

Mr. Mercier does not allow himself to be impeded by adherence to principle or promise. He declared war against the Legislative Council, but when it is shown to be inexpedient for his party to fight it he patches up a peace and is prepared to embrace it if it will only serve him. Mr. Mercier, to please the minority in Quebec, proposed to reform the system of education; his party are against it, and he throws over that plank of his platform with much cheerful alacrity. Mr. Mercier, in opposition, thunders against sinecures; in office he removes Conservative sinecurists and replaces them with Liberals.—Montreal Witness (Reform).

OPPOSED TO COERCION.

BELFAST, April 14.—At the annual conference of the Roman Catholic clergy of Down, Connor and Dromore, yesterday, a resolution was adopted protesting against the Government's Irish policy, and declaring it to be inhuman and unwarranted. At a meeting of the clergy of Clonfert diocese, the bishop and forty priests signed a resolution condemning the Crimes Bill and thanking Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Morley and others for their support of the Irish cause.

SOCIAL REFORMS.

BERLIN, April 14.—The efforts of the German Liberals to induce the party to propose social reform measures have been successful, and a committee, which has been formed to elaborate the proposals, includes Herr Schrader and Dr. Barth. Herr Richter so far somewhat opposes the scheme.

THE KNIGHTS RECOGNIZED.

ROME, April 14.—Cardinal Gibbons will go to London on Monday and remain there a few days to confer with Cardinal Manning on questions affecting the Knights of Labor. The Congregation of the Holy Office has decided in favor of the recognition of the Knights of Labor in accordance with Cardinal Gibbons' report.

AN ALLIANCE REJECTED.

BERLIN, April 14.—The Czar has most decidedly rejected the French proposals of an alliance between France and Russia, whereon the French ambassador at St. Petersburg, M. de Laboulaye, offered to resign. The question of his resignation has not been settled.

LORD SALISBURY AND THE POPE.

LONDON, April 14.—It is reported that Lord Salisbury has asked the Pope to use his influence with the Irish bishops to prevent their encouraging the people in antagonizing the Government. It is said the Pope declined.

THE LIBERAL DIFFERENCES.

EDINBURGH, April 14.—Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, replying to a deputation at Ayr today, referred to the recent assertion made by Sir William Vernon Harcourt that the differences between the Liberals on the Home Rule question were merely secondary. Mr. Chamberlain declared that, on the contrary, these differences were fundamental. If they were only secondary why did not Mr. Gladstone and Sir Vernon Harcourt meet the Liberal-Unionists with concessions.

STANLEY ATTACKED.

BRUSSELS, April 14.—A portion of the Brussels Liberal press violently attacks the arrangement made by Mr. Stanley with [illegible] Tib on behalf of King Leopold. They [illegible] the conduct of Napoleon in employing the famous criminal Vidocq as the head of the Paris secret police, and assert that Tippo Tib is merely nominated Governor of Stanley Falls to supply the Congo Free State with slaves for the construction of a railway.

WOOLLEN MANUFATORY.

DUBLIN, April 14.— Mr. Parnell, Mr. Michael Davitt and a number of other prominent Irishmen are actively engaged in the work of promoting the organization of an Irish Woollen Manufactory and Exporting Company with a capital of $500,000. Mr. Davitt, while in the United States recently, received many promises of assistance from the American importers of woollens. A meeting of those interested in the initial formation of the company will be held in this city to-morrow.

ENGLAND AND HAYTI.

PARIS, April 14.—The Temps says England has assured France that she has no intention of making an attack on Hayti. England, the Temps adds, has reduced the indemnity demanded from Hayti to $160,000, and the French Admiral, who was ordered to proceed to Hayti with his force to protect Europeans, has been ordered to leave Haytien waters.

HYDROPHOBIA.

PARIS, April 14.—Senor Ramon, a Spaniard, who was bitten by a wolf on February 10th, and subsequently treated by M. Pasteur for hydrophobia, died yesterday. This makes the forty-fifth death from hydrophobia after treatment by the French scientist.

MUST STAY HOME.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14.—The Czar has refused to allow M. Katkoff, the editor of the Moscow Gazette, to leave Russia in order to pay a visit to Paris so that he might have a talk with General Boulanger as he had intended.

SPANISH ARMY.

MADRID, April 14.—The Spanish Government has introduced in the Cortes a bill fixing the effective strength of the army at 100,000 men for Spain, 19,000 for Cuba, 3,700 for Porto Rico and 8,000 for the Philippines.

WORKINGMEN FALL OUT.

BRUSSELS, April 14.—The Workingmen's Congress met at Charleroi, to discuss the question of a general strike and other questions of the same kind, but a serious disagreement immediately arose between the most advanced and the more moderate bodies, the majority having decided to expel Defuisseaux, the Socialist pamphleteer, from the party, on the ground that he preached but did not act in the workingmen's interest. All Defuisseaux's friends left the hall under protest, and the congress was unable consequently to come to any decision. It has been adjourned to Whitsunside, when it will meet at Mons. Meanwhile, a good many Belgian workmen, especially the glassblowers, are emigrating to America.

A REGAL PRESENT.

LISBON, April 14.—The King of Portugal has sent a truly regal present to the German Emperor, which is worth all other royal birthday gifts put together. It is a sword of honor with a blade specially made at the Lisbon Arsenal. The exquisitely chiselled hilt is of solid gold, incrusted in every part with diamonds, saphires, rubies, and emeralds. They were set after a design supplied by the Queen.

COLONIAL CONFERENCE.

LONDON, April 14.—The conference reassembled to-day, when both Sir Alexander Campbell and Mr. Sandford Fleming, Canadian representatives, were present. The subjects under discussion were the inability of trustees to invest in Colonial inscribed stock, and the possibility of removing the difficulty by legislation; the hardship of requiring the wills of colonists who die holding shares upon the Colonial register of British companies, to be proved in England, although the deceased had no other interest in the United Kingdom; the composition of stamp duties upon transfers of inscribed Colonial stock, and the large amount of unclaimed dividends upon Colonial stock, and the desire of the Colonies and these shall be treated in precisely the same way as the unclaimed dividends upon consols are now treated. The conference also discussed proposed amendments to the marriage laws. The next formal meeting of the conference will be held on Monday, but a confidential meeting of the South African representatives will be held tomorrow, for the purpose of discussing their own affairs. The results of the conference are not permitted to transpire, but full reports are taken for the private use of the Colonial delegates.

PREPARING FOR POSSIBILITIES.

VIENNA, April 14.—Austria will build six immense cavalry barracks in Galacia for permanent use.

THE INPERIAL INSTITUTE.

LONDON, April 14.—It is reported that Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exechequer, will propose in parliament a grant of $1,000,000 to the imperial institute.

A SENSATION

Caused by Mr. Chamberlain—Charged With Slandering Liberal Leaders.

LONDON, April 14.—The language used by Mr. Chamberlain in speaking at the meetings in Ayr has inflamed the Irish against him and he has received numerous letters informing him that he will not leave Scotland alive. Speaking to an assemblage of 2,500 persons Mr. Ceamberlain said:

"The opponents of the Crimes Bill have made an outcry against the repression of liberty. Liberty to do what? To commit theft, to ruin industrious men, to outrage women. (Hisses mingled with cheers.) What are you hissing, the crime or the punishment?"

Here a man, rising and menacing Mr. Chamberlain, cried "It is not characteristic of the Irish to outrage women."

An attempt was made to turn the man out, but Mr. Chamberlain cried out "Leave him alone." "Then," he continued, "Do you want instances of insult being offered to women?" (Cries of "Outrage you said," "You slander the Irish.") "I do not mean the grossest outrage of all, but personal violence and insults. (Hisses and cheers.) I referred to cases like that of the Curtin family, where the lives of the window and daughters of the murdered man were made intolerable, like that of the widow of another murdered man named Byers who, while accompanying the dead body of her husband, was jeered and howled at along the streets."

Here the speaker was interrupted by cries of "Watch yourself!" hisses and general disorder.

"I am relating," continued Mr. Chamberlain, "facts to which even my opponents might listen in silence of horror and shame. When I refer to assassinations a man here says take care of yourself.' Has the time come when we dare not discuss political matters in this country without being threatened with assassination." [Great cheering.] "This is the spirit of the parties in the convention in Chicago, I am sorry to know that they have any representatives in Scotland. [Cries of "They are not Scotchmen."] That convention besides being attended by delegates honestly in sympathy with Ireland had delegates of another stamp—apostles of outrage and murder who have paid the outrage mongers of England. Mr. Redmond, the delegate of the Irish parliamentary party, explicitly declared before the convention that it was the aim of that party to effect the entire separation of Ireland from England, and that their policy was to make the Government of Ireland by England impossible. This they seek to effect by the most immoral conspiracy ever devised in a civilized land—by contending for liberty to violate every law, human and divine. Do you think it infamous to restrain these men? (Cheers.) Mr. Parnell threatened in the House of Commons, under the specious guise of a warning, that if the Coercion Bill were passed there would be a renewal of outrages, dynamite explosions and attempts to assassinate our statesmen. This grim suggestion may prove the death warrant of some of us. (Cries of "No!" and "Shame!") Well, what happens to individuals is not of much consequence. The danger is to the commonwealth. For the first time in English history our foes have sympathizers within our ancient fortress. Their plan of attack finds encouragement from those who ought to be the strongest defenders of our citadel. This makes our task all the more arduous. But we will not shrink, we will not abate one jot, we will not yield to threats from whatever quarter they come, but we will endeavor to hand down unimpared to our children the unity, strength and honor of the mighty empire our forefathers bequeathed to us."

Mr. Chamberlain's speech excites all parties. The Unionists consider it a declaration of war to the knife with the separatists. The Gladstonians charge Mr. Chamberlaine with slandering and villifying his former colleagues by the insinuation that they sympathise with the perpetrators of outrages in Ireland. It is asserted that during his tour through Scotland Mr. Chamberlain will be attended by a private guard.

John Redmond made a personal explanation in the House with reference to his speech at the Chicago convention. He said Mr. Chamberlain in his speech at Ayr had represented him as saying that the Irish party were now working for the removal of grievances, whereas what he did say was that they were not working solely for the purpose of removing the material grievances of tenants, but to obtain political reform also, and further, when he said that the government of Ireland by England was impossible, his allusion was to the centralized bureaucracy, the Government of Dublin Castle. He believed it possible that settlement could be effected honorable alike to England and to Ireland, such as was offered by Mr. Gladstone's bill. [Cries of "hear, hear."]

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream."

And yet it is, when all the marrow is taken out of it by some dreadful disease like consumption, that, neglected, means certain death; catarrh and bronchitis both distressing, and often leading to coniumption, or like liver complaints or scrofula, which too often make those afflicted feel that life is empty. But these can all be cured. The use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood, lung and liver remedy, does away with "mournful numbers," brings back lost health, and fills life full of dreams of happiness and prosperity. Druggists sell it.

DR. WM. E. JEWETT, Adrian, Mich., says "I have found it particularly useful in the nerveus disorders of women."

FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1887.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

In the Governor-General's speech at the opening of the Canadian Parliament the remarks on the Queen's jubilee, the Colonial exhibition and the general prosperity of the country, are satisfactory and do not call for special comment. The information that negotiations on the fishery question are still continuing with hopes of an arrangement being arrived at, will be received with gratification, and this will be still more the case in regard to the assurance that our fisheries will be protected if necessary. The establishment of a new portfolio of Trade and Commerce will give valuable assistance in carrying our present beneficial tariff system, and the improvements in the organization of other departments will aid in the same direction. One of the most important promises in the speech is that a canal will be constructed at Sault Ste. Marie within Canadian territory. We should not be dependent upon our neighbors for access to our own waters, the inconvenience of which was shown in the refusal to let our troops pass the time of the first Riel rebellion. Besides it is evident that the resources of the present channels of communication with the great North-West will soon be overtaxed. The proposal to give Senatorial representation to the territories is another indication of the expansion of our country. The other measures foreshadowed will be best dealt with when their details are published.

Altogether if not a startling or sensational programme it is one that shows a steady continuance of progress in the lines of that truly National Policy, by which, not only as to our tariff, the Macdonald Administration is so ably promoting the growth and prosperity of our country.

MR. BLAKE AND THE SPEAKER.

To hide the fact that he dared not divide the House on the Speakership, Mr. Blake assented to the election of Col. Ouimet with forced compliments mingled with covert insults, which were the more insulting because deliberate, Mr. Blake having at this early stage of the session had recourse to his practice of giving his speech from a prepared manuscript. The reasons he gave for assenting to Col. Ouimet's election were that they are brother Rielites, and that the Speaker was one of the group of Quebec members who in committee room No. 8 put pressure upon the Government some sessions ago. Thus he claimed Col. Ouimet as an ally.

Mr. Blake, however, while mentioning the points of alliance carefully avoided any reference to the points of difference. Col. Ouimet carried away by a generous, but as we and the great majority of the people of Canada think mistaken sympathy, regretted the execution of Riel, and with his usual frankness expressed his feelings. He, however, did not play the part of a deserter, with a cry of vengeance, nor did he, like the Lauriers and Merciers raise a conflict of race and creeds or level cowardly insults at the constitutional authorities of his country. If mistaken he was honest and respected the law. But Mr. Blake was flagrantly dishonest. He raved against Riel for a first rebellion and one murder to gain power in Ontario. He condemned the punishment of Riel for a repeated rebellion resulting in a sea of blood, in the hope of thereby gaining power in Ottawa. With the morality of a Thug Mr. Blake dealt with men's lives and with the laws of his country with callous indifference to anything but his own aggrandizement.

In regard to the No. 8 "convolutions," as Mr. Blake calls them, there was the same wide difference. Col. Ouimet might be unduly importunate in pressing what he considered the fair claims of his Province. But Mr. Blake, who had been in the constant habit of accusing Sir John Macdonald of being too generous to Quebec, thinking he saw a chance of gaining the votes of the Quebec members, allowed an offer to stand in his name in his organ the Globe, that in return for the Quebec vote he would give them even more than he had censured Sir John for giving. He did not withdraw his offer till the division showed him that it was spurned by the Quebec members.

As to the other point on which Col. Ouimet was opposed to his party leaders, there was the same strong contrast. Col. Ouimet found fault with the Dominion Administration for not punishing more promptly the misconduct of a Lieutenant-Governor in dismissing a Ministry enjoying the support of the Legislature and the Province, to seat in their place his usurping party friends. Mr. Blake blamed the Government for dismissing the official who thus prostituted his high position to give unconstitutional partisan aid to his friends, who were also the friends of Mr Blake.

In all these three cases Col. Ouimet acted as a man of honor might do, even if he were mistaken. In all three Mr. Blake acted like a trickster, ready to stultify himself by assenting to any iniquity, if he could derive advantage from his change of base and a shameful alliance.

Jeers at an honorable, respected and able Speaker come with a very bad grace from Mr. Blake, whose Speaker, when he was in power, was the hireling of his party leaders with his official salary supplemented by a fraudulent grant of our money under the false pretence of the execution of a job which he never did, and never intended to do, and for which the people of Canada had also to pay those to whom the money was rightfully due.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

Mr. Blake a Self-Avowed Rielite—Insulting the New Speaker.

After describing the nomination of Col. Ouimet as Speaker by Sir J. Macdonald seconded by Sir H. Langevin, the independent Toronto World continues:—

There was a moment's pause and Mr. Blake rose. That action settled at once in the minds of all present the question of the leadership of the Opposition. Mr. Blake may have lieutenants, but he will control. He began speaking from carefully prepared notes. At the outset he stated that the Opposition did not intend to oppose the election of the nominee of the Government. The position was one of high distinction, one worthy of the ambition of any among them, and one that required in the person holding it rare qualities and attributes. He described these qualities at considerable length. Then he twitted the Premier with having said in 1878 that the practice in England of the Speaker being nominated by a member other than a Cabinet Minister should obtain in Canada and wanted to know why Sir John did not practice now the precepts he then held to be correct. After that he began to flay Col. Ouimet. Had not that gentleman, he asked, been a leading figure in the convolutions of the figure 8 a couple of sessions ago. Then he took up the Riel question. For the stand he had taken a year ago he had been insulted in the press, from the pulpit and on the platform. He had been called a traitor, a conspirator, a rebel, a law breaker, a knave and a fool. Mr. Ouimet had voted with him on that question and he was now prepared to welcome his fellow traitor, his fellow conspirator, his fellow rebel, his fellow law breaker, the other knave and the other fool to the position of presiding officer in that body. Tell it not on the 12th of July, tell it not in the lodges of the Orangemen, but that day the Conservative leaders had planted the first stone of his (Blake's) vindication.

The above will give but a fair idea of Blake's attack. It was merciless. He had his enemy on the hip and pressed the knife in to the hilt. He was entirely out of order, but the clerk cannot call a member to order and there was no Speaker. He knew there was no reply because there cannot be a discussion without the Speaker is in the chair. The game was in his own hands. He had carefully prepared for it, and it must be admitted that the castigation was administered as brilliantly as it was unsparingly. The Reformers cheered like mad. The Conservatives could only sit and take what was given them. Mr. Blake took an unfair advantage. He was careful to leave unsaid the one fact that overthrows his whole fabric of comparison between his own record and that of Col. Ouimet. He quietly accepted the position of voting for a man he had just so roundly and eloquently denounced, but he did it with a vim, a finish, an ease, and he did it so well and with such completeness that even his opponents to-night admit the cleverness of the manœuvre.

But their will be scalps taken for that speech before the session is over.

LOSS OF THE VICTORIA.

At Least Twenty Lives Lost—Some Heart-Rending Scenes.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The World's London special gives the following particulars of the wreck of the steamer Victoria yesterday near Dieppe. The steamer runs between Dieppe and New Haven, Sussex. At 4.10 yesterday morning, when she was close upon the coast, a dense fog prevailed, and as the fog-horn signal at the lighthouse was not sounded, those on board had no indication of the peril they were in. The fog-horn, indeed, did not sound until some time after the vessel had struck on the rocks off Varengille. Considerable alarm was displayed by the passengers when the first shock was felt. The officers, however, believing that the vessel would be safely carried off by the tide, assured them there was no cause for anxiety. As the time passed, however, and the Victoria remained firmly fixed, the excitement increased and when 5.16 a.m. Capt. Clarke ordered the boats to be lowered, many of the female passengers were in a state of abject panic. The officers did all in their power to allay their fears, but, unfortunately, with only slight success. During the lowering of one of the boats a lady's cloak became entangled in one of the davits, with the result that the boat was almost immediately capsized, and the whole of the occupants thrown headlong into the water. The air was rent with the terrified shrieks of women and children. Every effort to rescue them was made; but, in spite of all that could be done, several were drowned. Three female bodies and that of a child were washed ashore in the evening, but no others have, up to the time of telegraphing, been recovered. The entire number of lost is not yet known, but it is asserted to exceed 20. Two boats containing thirty-seven passengers have reached the camp in safety, and another landed several more at Dieppe where they now remain. Capt. Clarke stood by his vessel till 1 o'clock. He is one of the oldest and best experienced officers in the service. The vessel is a total wreck. The Prefect of the Depantmentof the Seine Inferieure, the English Consul and the Commissionary of Marine are giving all assistance in their power to the survivors. The Dieppe life boat has been for a long time engaged in picking up what language is still floating about, but the greater part of this is lost. None of the names of the passengers lost have been learned. It is reported that a number of Americans, on the way from London to Paris, were on board, among them Mrs. Bram Stoker, wife of Henry Irving's manager. Up to midnight she has not been heard from.

Niagara vs. Vesuvius.

The average American at home or abroad does not take kindly to anything that would seem to cast a shadow of a shade upon his native land. A story told at the Richmond Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, by the Rev. George W. Peck, might be cited in illustration. An Englishman was travelling through Italy with an American friend, and in the course of their sojournings each maintained the superiority of his own country. Finally the grand spectacle of Mount Vesuvius in eruption, throwing its brilliant rays across the bay of Naples, burst upon their astonished gaze. "Now, look at that," chuckled the Englishman; "you haven't got anything in America that can come anywhere near that." "No," moodily replied the Yankee, "it is true we have not got a Vesuvius, but we have got a waterfall that would put that thing out in less than five minutes."—Buffalo Courier.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday evening, April 14.

There has been no material change in prices on the local market during the past week. There is a little doing in wheat, but the price remains at about the same figure. The delivery of grain has steadily fallen off during the past three weeks.

Notwithstanding expectations to the contrary the visible supply of wheat in the United States and Canada increased during the last week by nearly 400,000 bushels. It was confidently predicted that it would decrease from 500,000 bushels to 1,000,000 bushels. The visible supply is within a trifle of 3,000,000 larger new than it was at the beginning of April, 1886. The amount of wheat in sight in Canada and the United States on April 9th was 51,914,116 bushels.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Over Cox & Co.'s Wires.

CHICAGO, April 14.—To-day's, noon, cash quotations are as follows:—Wheat, 79¼; corn, 34¼; oats, 24¾; pork, 20.90; lard, 7 32.

In its weekly report of the British grain trade Dombusch's List of March 25th says: "The weather has been unseasonably cold and severe, and much snow has fallen in the southern half of the Kingdom, but so far few complaints are head of the appearance of the wheat crop, and for the time of the year the prospects are decidedly favorable. The revelation of the unpleasant fact that the Hessian fly in embryo has been found in the screenings of wheat, in the Midland counties, has caused some anxiety to farmers, who are urged by the Agricultural Department to take prompt steps to destroy all traces of this very serious insect, whose ravages in wheat fields cause enormous loss in districts affected by them. The last day or two have been much milder and springlike, with welcome rain in many places."

JOSEPH MADE KNOWN.

CRITICAL AND PRACTICAL NOTES BY PROF. SAMUEL I. CURTISS.

Lesson III of the International Series, Second Quarter, for Sunday, April 17. Text of the Lesson, Genesis xlv, 1-5. Golden Text, Romans xii, 21.

We may regard the famine in Egypt as a part of God's plan for bringing the children of Israel thither. Israel was to be in God's school. Part of Israel's education was to be in Egypt, the university of ancient civilization; part was to be in the wilderness under God's immediate tuition through his appointed servants.

Jacob and his sons were in want of food (Gen. xlii, 1, 2). He sent them to Egypt, but kept back Benjamin, his youngest son. Joseph recognized his brethren, but they did not recognize him. As he did not see Benjamin with them, he might well fear that he too had suffered violence at their hands. He put them therefore to the test in a way common in the east by charging them with being spies (Gen. xlii, 9). The truth came out in regard to the family, that they had a younger brother. Joseph then told them that they should not see his face again unless they brought that brother with them and required them to leave Simeon as a hostage (v. 24). Then it was that they spoke of the wrong that they had done to Joseph in his presence. They departed with a supply of food, but each found to his dismay the money which he had paid in the mouth of his sack. They tell their father the news and he reproaches them for betraying the confidence of the family, and declares that Benjamin shall not go down with them. But at last, constrained by their failing supply of food and the assurances of Judah, he sends them with a present and double money. They are graciously received, are invited to dine with Joseph, who is deeply moved when he sees Benjamin (Gen. xliii, 29, 30). After the feasting they are subjected to one more trial. At Joseph's command their money is returned again and his cup is put in the mouth of Benjamin's sack (Gen. xliv, 1, 2). Soon after they have left they are hotly pursued by Joseph's steward, who reproaches them for having stolen his master's cup. They protest that they are innocent, and declare that whoever of them has the cup shall be Joseph's slave. He examines all the sacks and finds the cup in Benjamin's. They rend their clothes and return. Judah becomes their spokesman. With rare pathos and eloquence he speaks to the heart of Joseph (Gen. xliv, 18-34), who only by the utmost self command (Gen. xlii, 24; xliii, 30, 31) had succeeded in putting them to a test which seems harsh and unfeeling, but which was necessary to show that they are entirely different men from what they once were.

THE LESSON.

Joseph Alone with His Brothers (vs. 1, 2).—Joseph can no longer control his feelings, which have been stirred every time he has met his brothers and which are now raised to the highest pitch. He commands every one to go out but his brethren, and then breaks out in the loud weeping which is characteristic of Orientals (Ex. xii, 30). The sound of his voice even reaches the court of Pharaoh.

V. 3. With a simplicity and tenderness born of true affection, he lays aside every barrier which exists between him and them on account of his exalted position, and says, "I am Joseph; doth my father yet live?" They cannot answer him. The bitter memory of the hour is before them when, twenty years ago, that same Joseph had pleaded for his life and when they had rudely thrust him into the pit. Now they see before them the ruler of Egypt, who has power to put them to death in a moment. They stand therefore utterly confounded before him.

Vs. 4, 5. But Joseph puts himself on the same level with them, bidding them to come near him, and says: "I am Joseph, your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt." He does not remind them of what they have done to cause them pain, but rather to identify himself. In the most generous and comforting way he assures them three times that after all it was God who had sent him to Egypt to preserve life. (Compare vs. 7, 8.)

God Rules (vs. 6-8).—These verses clearly teach two things: 1. God has a plan with regard to the government of this world. 2. That all things are made subservient to the best interests of his people and the progress of his kingdom. The act of Joseph's brethren in selling him was most base, and brought on them much suffering; but God overruled it in such a way that it worked harmoniously with his plan. From a worldly point of view, it was a most insignificant event when the sons of Israel came to Egypt. They were but a mere handful of ignorant shepherds in comparison with the wealthy and learned Egyptians. Joseph might well have considered that his great work was to provide for the Egyptians; but he recognized that he had a higher calling in providing for the people of redemption that was yet to be.

When he speaks of himself as a father to Pharaoh he uses an expression which would be familiar to his brethren as indicating that he was Pharaoh's prime minister, as we should say in modern phrase. It is interesting to see that he occupied relatively the same position with reference to Pharaoh that he had with regard to Potiphar and in the prison, thus showing that the same traits which make a man faithful and successful in a humble position will make him so in an exalted one.

Joseph's Love for his Father (vs. 9-13).—These verses exhibit the tenderest filial love. The thought does not enter his mind that his old father may disgrace him, and that the Egyptians may think less of him because of his relationship to these shepherds, whom they would not regard with favor on account of their occupation (Gen. xlvi, 34). His only thought is to have his father come as soon as possible that he may take care of him in his old age in Goshen, which was in the most fruitful part of Egypt. He alludes to his high position in Egypt, not in any boastful spirit, but because he thinks it will make his father happy to hear of his success.

Love Opens the Way (vs. 14, 15).—First he embraces his own brother, Benjamin, and then kissed all the rest of them, while his tears flow freely in the joy of that hour. His brethren, who until this time have been dumb with fear and amazement, under these demonstrations of affection are now able to speak with him. The perfect love of their brother has cast out fear.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

The Improvement Society proclaimed loud and long the doctrine of mercy to the birds. The Presbyterian minister preached sermons about it from his pulpit. Shirley preached sermons about it in he school. How the birds made the landscape beautiful, how they gladdened the earth with their songs, how they were man's best friend in killing insects that destroyed the fruits and grain for his food, was dinned into all their minds. This gospel was proclaimed alike from the pulpit and the school house till that Linwood child who would have killed a bird would have been a daring criminal indeed.

The teaching bore its good fruit in due season. Bright winged creatures—the red bird, the blue bird and the yellow bird—darted in and out among the leafy trees and played, as much at home as if they had been in their native forest, as indeed they were not far from being. The little winged singers opened their throats and poured forth sound till the air throbbed and thrilled with melody in the very heart of Linwood.

So the wrath of the Lord was averted, and the village was visited no more with epidemics of sickness. Out of the pestilence arose healthfulness, beauty and refinement. Linwood became noted far and wide as a model village.

City people who sighed for rural life were attracted thither in numbers. They brought with them additional wealth, intelligence and taste. The town increased in population. From being what we first knew it, Linwoood became the ideal, beautiful country town.

And it was Shirley, the inspiring and suggestive, who was at the bottom of it all—Shirley, God bless her! the people said.

CHAPTER XV.

THE SILK COLONY.

So at last, as always, though constantly working and thinking for others, calmness of soul came to Shirley.

Was her heart broken? Well, there was much left in life still.

It was her hard fate to be tied in this one little village. Linwood it was to be, for good or ill. She recognized her fate and made the best of it. At length she became more warmly interested than she could have believed in things about her.

The village improvement scheme was only a part of her labors. From long habit of thought her mind still followed the old ideals of her unwritten poem. She found no calm, no time yet to begin the poem. It must be put off still again. But meantime, following the one golden thread of thought, she unconsciously turned to women.

During the fever Shirley had found among the villagers a poverty and an unhappiness that surprised her. Persons who have the sense of respectability, however small, instinctively put the best foot forward. Behind many a neat street garb a hungry stomach sits and howls in secret.

The specter of sickness attacked the households and shook out the hidden specters in plain sight. Shirley perceived constantly a barrenness of the commonest small comforts, a lack even of articles of food that was painful to her. It was the case alike among the overworked farm wives and the idle, gadding village wives. Poverty she herself knew, she thought. But it was that independent poverty which has fertility of resource, the poverty which whets the edge of struggle and aspiration. From this kind of poverty everything that is worth having in the world has come.

But these women? The larger part of the small things which Shirley thought a civilized human being regarded as necessities of life were to them unknown luxuries. In such a hard, stupid poverty as this, what hope?

Could nothing be done to help them? The question haunted Shirley. Could they not somehow be put in the way of helping themselves? Verily there was little that they might even hope for. An untrained grown woman in a village can do nothing to get money. Although there was among them lack of so many of the small things that make life desirable, yea, absolute want now and then, these women had no lack of time on their hands. It was the habit of many of them, women and girls, to sit and gaze idly out the window, hour after hour. A little spasmodic, intermittent effort finished the small work they were obliged to do. For the rest, nothing. They had no knowledge of anything better and no incentive to action. That was all there was in life for them. They had even no appreciation that it was a sin to waste time so. Their idleness and poverty brought with it a poverty of soul that was most hopeless of all.

It was at this period that public attention was first being generally called to the beautiful silk weaving industry in this country. Shirley herself had visited the mills, and been delighted as anybody must be with the exquisite fabrics wrought there.

The workmen showed her the filmy, shining threads from which the splendid fabrics were made. These had all to be brought over seas, they told her. It was certain the mulberry tree could be reared here at home, and the silk cocoons produced. The production of raw silk was an industry scarcely less beautiful than that of weaving the threads, and remunerative too. It was not done in America simply because it was not done.

One day, thinking of the idle, yet poverty stricken women she knew, Shirley happened to recall what she had heard in the silk mills. She put the two together.

Once more, processes are dull to outsiders. Therefore again we skip them. There is enough dullness in this world, Lord knows! even after we get rid of all we can.

No, we will have only results, for the present. The women's silk colony of Linwood—behold—is it not known to every intelligent person in the land? An intelligent person is one who reads newspapers.

Shirley obtained all the information possible. She planted her mulberry shoots, she got her cocoons and learned how to take care of them. Travelers on the now much frequented road past the stone house to the village turned to watch again the noble figure and bent head of the woman who was so intently busy in the grounds. Out there among her silk trees she might well have been taken for the reincarnation of the splendid empress who first introduced silk culture among her grateful people and thence gave it to the world.

Silk culture would have prospered in America more than 200 years ago, only that tobacco rooted it out. It did not do so in Linwood. Shirley experimented with her mulberries and silk worms till she was successful. She taught the secret to the neighbor women. The new and graceful employment spread among them. At length the colony produced annually no inconsiderable quantity of raw silk of an admirable quality.

The women and children did the work. It brought hundreds of dollars to the poor, stingy little neighborhood. Weed patches became mulberry gardens. In truth, there was by and by not a weed left in that region. Linwood became prosperous, handsome and ambitious. Articles of taste, beauty and comfort were added yearly to the humble homes. The hard, poverty stricken lives of the women blossomed out till they became new creatures under the magic of prosperity. They learned how admirable a thing it is for a human being to earn his own money and spend it as he pleases. They tasted the sweets of independence.

The village women sloughed off the idleness of their wasted lives. In the round of healthy, happy, paid work they forgot the idle talkee-talkee of other years. They outgrew the spite, the narrow feminine jealousies. They could no longer spend time from money getting to indulge in these peculiar little amusements.

There was another good result.

The town became a general center of interest. Foreigners visiting the country and tourists from half over the continent came there to see the woman's silk colony. Whether they looked at the handsome, tree embowered village itself, with its clean, smooth streets and tasteful homes, the novel, successful industry that had contributed so greatly to its prosperity, or at the well fed, well dressed girls and children—everything they saw was interesting and pleasing. There came so many that a neat and roomy hotel had to be built to accommodate them. It was kept by our friend Mis' Simpkins. The march of improvement had trodden under foot the show window with the box of blacking and two clothes pins.

The numerous visitors to the silk colony became a source of revenue to the village. It was suddenly discovered, too, by and by, that Linwood had exceptional advantages as a summer resort.

Nor yet was this all. With the advent of good times came better food, gentler ways, and more happiness to Linwood homes. Husbands and sons who had been wont to spend their hours and their earnings too much away from home, waked up gradually to find home had grown attractive before they were aware of it. There was music, there were books and games in their own houses of evenings. They also found pretty maidens and neat, cheerful matrons there. They found themselves exceedingly astonished to discover a remarkable fact—there was more fun at home than anywhere else.

The impulse of the ordinary woman who earns money, is to use it first to adorn her person, next her home. Neither is this a wicked impulse. It is not often an unwholesome one.

Linwood women were ordinary. They were exceedingly ordinary. Therefore they decorated first themselves, then their homes. With the stimulus that money of their own, and communication with minds outside of their own gave them, they, too, waked up to some important facts. They learned how far behind the day they were in their social ways, their housekeeping. They took to improved methods. There had been bitter quarreling and heartburning, family rows, in short, in many a Linwood household before, because of the undoubted preference of the masculine half of the house for the grocery and rum shop.

Know This.

1. God cannot treat us with favor until we give evidence of true repentance, like Joseph's brethren.

2. God loves the sinner while he hates the sin. The stern Judge becomes a loving Father to every returning penitent.

3. He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much.

4. We should treat parents with reverence and affection, although they may occupy an inferior social position.

5. The most ready way to reach men for Christ is first to win their confidence by speaking to their hearts.—Sunday School World.

OVER WORKED Women

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a single end of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Presentation.

At the last regular meeting of Wellington Loyal Orange Lodge No. 457 the members recognized the services rendered them by W. R. King, Past Master, by presenting him with a Past Master's jewel The presentation was made by Mr. John A. Davidson, the present Master, in complimentary terms and suitably acknowledged by Mr. King.

Twenty-Four O'clock.

The Ottawa Journal says:—"The Canadian Pacific Railroad, in their last time table issued this morning, have introduced the 24 hour system in all their trains west of Port Arthur and it is understood that the twenty four hour system will shortly take the place of the present system on all the lines controlled by the C. P. R. Company, and the next time table issued will be on the 24 hour system."

Pensions.

Col. Milligan is in town again distributing Imperial pensions. About thirty of the old veterans met him at the Oriental Hotel and had distributed among them about $1,000. As usual, Col. Milligan performed his duties in a highly satisfactory manner to all. In Belleville there were about one hundred men to pay off, and in Kingston about two hundred. In the latter city Col. Milligan disbursed about $7,000. He leaves town this evening for Lindsay.

Obituary.

The Campbellford Herald says:—"Mr. David Adams, and old resident of Campbellford, passed over to the great majority, at his residence, the Dominion Hotel, on Monday night last. Mr. Adams has been confined to his bed by consumption for several weeks, and during the past two weeks his death was daily expected. The deceased is well known to the people of this neighborhood and county, and to the travelling public, he having been connected with and proprietor of the Queen's Hotel in this village for about twenty years. He gave up possession of it last fall and leased the Dominion Hotel. Mr. Adams was a man with a large heart, and every person who had any acquaintance with "Davey," as he was familiarly known, speaks of him in good terms. His remains were conveyed to Norwood and interred in the family burying ground." The deceased was a brother of P. C. Adams, of this town.

JOPPA TO JERUSALEM.

A Lecture on the Holy Land by the Rev. Ghosn Al Howie.

On Thursday evening the Rev. Ghosn Al Howie, a Syrian, delivered a lecture in the School Room of the George Street Methodist Church, its title being "From Joppa to Jerusalem."

The Rev. L. TOVELL introduced the lecturer.

The Rev. Mr. HOWIE said that it was eight years since he left Jerusalem and came down to Joppa. From Joppa he came over to Egypt and thence to Europe. During these years he had been living among strangers—Europeans and Americans. Since he left his native land he had had the privilege of speaking with many people of all classes and of both sexes, and of so far as he could learn there was almost a universal wish to visit the Holy Land. This had been the case for the last 1800 years. This might be called sentiment and devotional zeal. It was called that. But within the last twenty years that sentimental feeling had given way among educated people to a feeling of a desire for knowledge about Palestine, and out of that desire was born the Palestine Exploration Society. The learned men composing this society were sent to live there, to examine and report. The writings of those men were now printed and there was large demand for the books. He looked forward to the time when a part of the minister's training would be a sojourn in the Holy Land. Nothing he knew of would be of more advantage to the minister and his congregation. He would even go so far as to say that, if no other way was available, the people would do well to shut up the church and let the pastor go for a season. He gave a description of the natural geography of the country. But in case they should send the pastor or go themselves, how would they go? He could recommend a route. Take a steamer at Quebec, go to London or Liverpool, pass over to Paris, thence to Italy, embark at a southern port, sail over to Alexandria, thence proceed across Egypt and the Red sea to the southern portion of Palestine; or, leaving Alexandria, go up the Mediterranean to Joppa. It would cost about £40 for the passage and incidental expenses. It would take five or six weeks to go by the Joppa route, or seven or eight weeks by the Red Sea route. They were now at Joppa. This was the seaport town of Palestine. It had 20,000 inhabitants—Europeans, Americans, Jews and Mohammedans. While in Joppa the traveller would be all right. There was people there who could speak your language and there was good hotel accommodation to be had at $1 a day. But if the person travelled inland he was met with difficulties. There were no Europeans and no hotels. At Joppa an interpreter would have to be engaged. For a party of eight or ten the interpreter furnished mule, horse, provisions, tent, and spoke to the natives for them for 30 shillings per day. While in Joppa the traveller would be surprised at the streets. You stand in the middle of the street, stretch out your arms and you can touch both sides. Inside of these buildings the merchant sits and sells. Most of the goods are manufactured in England or America. The traveller would also wonder at the number of dogs which run at large. The city was fairly invested with them. You ask him who do they belong to? Nobody. Who feeds them? the same man. If Jezabell's body fell to-morrow, it would be as quickly devoured as in the days of old. Though Joppa had changed its population it had not changed its manners and customs. The magistrate sat at the gate dispersing justice (or injustice he would say) as was done hundreds of years ago. Outside the city and the traveller's gaze meets the world famed gardens of Joppa. Here fruits of all kinds abound. The orange is particularly abundant. Five years ago they commenced shipping oranges to England but up to that time there was no way of dispersing of them so abundant are they. He described the vendors of fruits and some of their tricks in an amusing manner. He told what a larger amount of fruit could be had for a trifle. He had bought 80 pounds of of grapes for a half crown. The soil was fertile so much so that wheat, barley and other grains had been sowed and reaped for centuries and there was never a thought of manuring the land. This was indeed a land flowing with milk and honey. Inland, however, the land was a waste, not because the land was not rich but because the Arabs and Turks had the habit (in a purely benevolent and philanthropic way) of relieving the people of what was raised. For instance you had 6 cows, the Arab comes and in kindness relieved you of the trouble of taking care of them. So with grain. You have just threshed, the Arab comes where you have left off and the grain is conveyed away. He then took the audience away from Joppa across the plains on the way to Jerusalem. In the morning and evening waggon trains leave one place for the other. Half way across the plain a stop was made at Rama, where in a high tower a view was had of the surrounding country. Travelling along and climbing the hills we at last have come to Jerusalem. But before arriving at the city gates a curious din is heard and the traveller wonders what it is. He opens his eyes to shudder at the sight. They are a crowd of lepers who beg their bread. From their bodies oozes the pestilet matter. Their limbs are falling from them as the leaves from the trees in the fall. You cannot tell what they say as the disease has affected their vocal organs. You ask are there no physicians in Jerusalem to help the poor people? Yes; there are Jewish doctors, European doctors and American doctors, but they can do nothing with this disease. It baffles all skill. Only one cured that disease. It was Christ. And he that cured the man of physical leprosy was ready and willing now to cure the sinner from the leprosy of his soul.

WHO is the queerest kid in town? Why the KIDD who sells good boots at the lowest price. Men's Long Boots at $1.45, Ladies' Lace Boots 60 cents only.

It May be Remarked.

—That the Rev. Ghosn Al Howie leads one to believe that there's no dog tags issued in Joppa.

—And no truculent bobbies with shot guns.

—That this ought to be an important difference between Joppa and Peterborough after the first of May.

—That the new Street and Bridge Inspector might make considerable popularity for himself if he would keep the crossings clean.

—That the Scott Act party had another "list" this morning.

—That the pensioners being paid feel happy.

—That the usual concomitants will not likely occur owing to the Scott Act.

Killed in Play.

Manifesto from "Judge Lynch."

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 14.—Over the signature of "Judge Lynch," one of the Yorkville lynchers publishes a manifesto to the people of South Carolina, in justification of the recent lynching of five negro murderers at Yorkville, because of lax methods of administering justice to murderers in the State Courts, and threatening further lynchings in the event of jurors failing to perform their duties.

The Overdue Steamer.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The overdue steamship Salerno, of the Wilson line, is reported from London this morning to have been spoken twice during last week, once on April 4 in lat. 45 north and long. 35 west. The vessel reported "All well on board." On April 7 she was spoken again in lat. 47 north and long. 27 west. At that time she was proceeding under sail. Her position on April 7 makes her about 1,200 miles from Liverpool, her destined port.

Not Canadian Bloods.

OTTAWA, Abril 14.—Colonel Herchmer, Commissioner of the Mounted Police, who is at present in the city, denies that a body of Canadian Blood Indians are creating trouble in Northern Dakota, and that there is any fear of international complications over their despredations. He says there are not more than six Blood Indians off their reserve at present, and he is sure the offenders are American Blood Indians.

Lost with all Hands.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 14.—The Schooner Clothilda, of this port, Captain Evans, which sailed from St. John on March 15th, with a cargo of lumber for New York, is believed to have been lost with all hands. The last heard from her was on the 21st of March, when she sailed from Portland. The crew was composed of Capt. Richard Evans, of St. John: Robert Millington, 28, of St. John's, Nfld.; Mate Robert H. Smith, 30, of Sackville: Harry Vaughan, 29, of St. John; and Chas. McCarthy, 36, of St. John, seamen.

Fatal Railway Accident.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 14.—A terrible accident occurred on the Ohio River Railroad on Tuesday night, about 7 o'clock, near Willow Grove. The construction train, with thirty laborers and a full crew, was running on a siding when the engine, tender, caboose and ten cars jumped off the track and went crashing down a steep declivity. The steam pipe burst scalding every one near. John Holden, brakeman, was killed, Joseph Reese was scalded to death, Robert Evans, the engineer, is dying, and several others were seriously injured.

A Schooner Seized.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 14.—The schooner "Scylla" Capt. Nauss, has been seized here on a charge of supplying provisions to a Gloucester fishing schooner. The particulars are that the "Carrie Parsonn," while bound home to Gloucester in October last, ran short of provisions, and the "Scylla" supplied her with a barrel of flour, half a barrel of molasses and a small quantity of tea and coffee. The alleged offence was committed fourteen miles off Cape Maben, C. B. The "Scylla" is now in the hands of the Customs authorities, but it is said will be released, or only a nominal fine imposed upon her.

A New Bust.

A marble bust of Henry Pelham, Duke of Manchester, who was Minister of the Colonies from 1859 to 1864, has been placed in the library of the House. It was presented by Sir Edward Watkin to Sir John Macdonald, and the Premier made it a gift to the library. The bust was executed by the celebrated sculptor Boehm. It is mounted on an elegant pedestal, the work of the sculptor who executed "Asia" and "Africa" at the base of the Albert memorial in Hyde park.

A Suicide.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., April 12.—Mrs. Cross, aged 60, wife of a pensioner, died Sunday morning from the result of injuries inflicted with suicidal intent. She had been suffering from mental aberration and often said she wished to die. She decided to hasten her departure on Saturday, and while her husband was collecting kindling in the yard she thrust a poker down her throat. When he returned he found her on the floor, bleeding from the mouth and black in the face. Medical aid was summoned but could do nothing. The woman lingered till four o'clock on Sunday morning in great agony. Bad rum and grief are said to be the cause of the suicide.

Circumstances Alter Cases.

Omaha Boy: "Say, Sis, you know Mr Nicefellow begged your pardon for steppin' on your dress and tearin a big hole in it?"

Omaha Miss: "Well, what of it?"

"An' you said it didn't matter a bit, an' you was glad of it."

"Yes."

"Cause you like to sew, an' you didn't know what to do with yourself if you hadn't anything to mend?"

"Well, what of it, I say?"

"It wasn't Mr. Nicefellow that stepped on your dress. It was me,"

"Oh! you horrid, awkward, little wretch. I'll skin you alive!"

OPPOSED TO COERCION.

Meeting in Brooklyn—Alexander Sullivan Urges Moderation.

NEW YORK, April 15.—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in Brooklyn last night to enter a protest against the Irish Coercion measures. It was a great success in point of numbers and enthusiasm. Mayor Whitney presided.

CHICAGO, April 15.—In a cablegram to a New York paper, vigorously opposing England's coercive measures in Ireland, Henry Labouchere said a few days ago: "War must be met by war. If the Government uses the arms of despotism to crush out liberty, the people must reply by the use of those means which oppressed nationalities have ever had at their command and have ever used in their struggles for their rights." Referring to this cablegram, Mr. Alexander Sullivan, ex-President of the Irish National League, said last night: "Mr. Labouchere used strong language, but for the present, however, the Irish people have to follow Mr. Parnell. They will take his advice only, and obey his commands while he leads their struggle. The signs are hopeful. Heretofore Ireland has been alone in the fight against coercion. England, Scotland and Wales were united against her. Now Scotland, Wales and the great Liberal masses in England are Ireland's allies. At such a time it would be as unfair as it would be unwise to take any action which would weaken Mr. Parnell and Mr. Gladstone, or strengthen their enemies. If, after a fair and patient trial and a full presentation of the case, England's only answer to Ireland is to give her a choice of the prison or the poor house, neither England nor the rest of the world need be surprised if Ireland takes Mr. Labouchere's advice. The English and not the Irish will then be the beggars for peace."

Queen's University Endowment.

KINGSTON, April 15.—Last night the resident graduates and members of the University Council of Queen's met in the senate-room for the purpose of considering matters affecting the welfare of the institution. The Principal explained that at a previous meeting it had been decided that no further action should be taken to protest against the proposed university legislation, and that in view of the present urgent needs of the University an additional endowment of $250,000 be raised, of which the fair share of Kingston, in view of the great benefits to the city by the college, would be at least $50,000. The Principal then read a circular letter setting forth the present position and needs of the university, which it was proposed to send the members of the University Council and Board of trustees. After some discussion upon the practicability and details of the scheme had taken place, it was decided that the City Council and the Board of Trade be invited to meet with the resident members of the University Council and graduates to confer with them on the position of Queen's University as affected by the proposed legislation. It was agreed also to invite the benefactors to the same meeting. With regard to the scheme submitted by the Principal, it was decided that the circular letter be adopted, and that the Principal be requested to take steps to have it sent forward at once to the members of the university and Board of Trustees.

Diabolical Murder.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 15.—Cherry Scott, a mulatto murderess, was brought in to-day for the murder of her mother in the Choctaw nation. The killing showed diabolical human depravity. Cherry was on a visit to her mother, and became involved in a quarrel with her sister-in-law. Her mother, thinking Cherry was imposing on her sister-in-law, told the latter to kill her. Cherry got very angry, procured a double-barrelled shot gun, and without giving any warning, murdered her mother in cold blood. When asked about the killing, Cherry seemed perfectly indifferent, and said: "Mother told sister-in-law to kill me, and I would kill anybody for that." She says she did not know it was wrong.

GENTLEMEN can get Dack & Son's finest boots from R. J. KIDD at Toronto prices. Call and see the goods.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE.

Opening of the Session—Collapse of the Anti-Norquay Combination.

WINNIPEG, April 14.—The Manitoba Legislature was formerly opened this afternoon. An immense crowd was present in view of the expected political complications. There were the usual formalities. Mr. Murray, the late Speaker, moved and Mr. Norquay seconded the appointment of Mr. Glass as Speaker, which was carried unanimously, no opposition being offered. Afterwards the Speech from the Throne was delivered.

It has been thus early made apparent that the political combination against Mr. Norquay has collapsed. The appointment of Mr. Glass as Speaker weakened the Opposition by one vote, Mr. Murray consenting to forego his claims. Then Mr. Douglass and Mr. Robinson appear to have caved in, leaving Mr. Brown alone. The latter will probably remain with the Opposition, having been practically read out of his own party. It is thought now the Government has sufficient majority to carry through its business, and that an appeal to the country will not be necessary.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL.

Supports the Government and Condemns Mr. Gladstone.

LONDON, April 15.—Lord Randolph Churchill, speaking at Birmingham last night, said that the Government's Irish measure was a broad, intelligent interpretation of the country's mandate, and a redemption of the pledges given by the Government last August. Mr. Gladstone was trying by parliamentary obstruction and outside agitation to bring the House of Commons into disrepute. He wished to paralize and put an end to the present parliament, and with this aim was not scrupulous as to the means he employed. He had deliberately prompted and encouraged movements whose object was to weaken the authority of the Speaker of the House of Commons. A more perfect picture of political incendiary than Mr. Gladstone could not be conceived. The Conservatives and Unionists were compelled by the common danger to unite. They were asked to follow a weird, strange quartette, more fantastic than had ever been imagined, even by Sir Arthur Sullivan, composed of Mr. Gladstone, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Mr. Morley and and Mr. Parnell. Mr. Gladstone hoped that the English democracy would become weary of the struggle, but he (Lord Randolph Churchill) had an abiding faith that the democracy would uphold the union."

RUSSIAN REIGN OF TERROR.

Wholesale Banishments from the Country—Repressive Measures.

The Czar is very severe and sweeping in his punisment of all who were even remotely implicated in the recent attempt upon his life. Besides those secretly executed in prison, whose number is not exactly known, some 482 officers of all grades have been banished to Siberia. Others have just passed through Moscow on their way to the Island of Sanghalien, where only the most dangerous malefactors are interned. To the same cause is attributed the suicide of two high military officers and the disgrace of Col. Sassoulitch. The latter, who is a relative of the notorious Vera Sassoulitch, was in command of the Grenadier Guards, and has just been ordered to Perue, on the Siberian frontier. The attempted suicide of Gen. Gessler was caused by unmerited blame on the part of the Czar in connection with the plot. All of this Cabinet Ministers are demoralized and are vieing with each other in originating repressive measures. The Minister of Finance has just devised regulations which will require each Russian subject to pay a sum of 30 roubles in gold for a permit to travel in foreign countries, and an additional 15 roubles in gold per month during the first twelve months of absence. After the expiration of that length of time a tax of one gold rouble a day is imposed on all Russians abroad. In fact, all the harsh measures of Czar Nicholas are revived with increased intensity.

THE RAID ON THE TREASURY.

Mr. Mowat's Concurrence in the Plot Against our Constitution.

The following is the text of Mr. Mowat's reply to Mr. Mercier's invitation to join in a conference to consider proposed alterations in the constitution of the Dominion of Canada. It was read by the Premier of Quebec in the Legislative of Assembly of that Province:—

To the Hon. H. Mercier, Premier, Quebec:—

DEAR SIR,—I have your letter of the 8th, and it has been considered by my colleagues and myself. I concur with what you say in reference to the Dominion and the provinces, and the importance of resisting encroachments on provincial rights. With regret to financial arrangements this Province was satisfied [Mr. Mercier—'was' not 'is,' Mr Speaker,'] with the provisions of the British North American Act and would still prefer them without any change, if the principles on which they are based were faithfully carried out by the Dominion Parliament for the approval of all the provinces. In view of the financial condition of some of the provinces, and of what has occurred since Confederation, this Government will be glad to consider and discuss any changes which may be proposed by any of the Provinces. We approve of your proposal of a meeting of delegates representing, if possible, all the local governments of the Dominion, with respect to both subjects. The place might be your own city of Quebec, and the time when you are ready.

Yours truly,
OLIVER MOWAT.

A LAMBTON SENSATION.

A Woman Accused of Poisoning Some of Her Relatives.

A despatch from Thedford, Ont., to the Globe on April 14th giv particulars of a sensation in Lambton County. The arrest on Good Friday of Mrs. Martha Jane Ryckman on a charge of poisoning her sister-in-law, a Mrs. Hendricks, has revived the discussion of stories about the suspicious deaths of a number of the prisoner's relatives which had previously been mentioned only with extreme caution. Mrs. Ryckman is a widow about sixty years of age, who has lived at Thedford for a number of years with her children. Last fall her married son, Gray Ryckman, and his wife Laura determined to go to Virginia for the health of the former, who was in consumption. Mrs. Martha Ryckman persuaded her son to let her accompany them. Nothing was heard of the trio for some time after they left Thedford. About December Gray Ryckman wrote to his friends in Thedford from the home of a Major Daniels, Virginia, where they were staying, telling of the sickness and subsequent sudden death of his wife Laura. According to the letters written by Gray, it appears that one day Laura was sick and her mother-in-law prepared for her a dose of salts. Immediately after taking the physic his wife got sick and vomited. His mother, who said she had also taken some of the medicine, took sick and vomited. Gray determined after this to return to Canada as soon as his wife could stand the journey. About a week or two after her first sickness Laura was again taken violently ill. She was found in the yard adjoining Daniel's house lying across a wheel-barrow. She was taken into the house and died in a short time. A doctor who attended her stated that death was CAUSED BY STRYCHNINE OR ARSENIC.

Gray Ryckman and his mother returned from Daniels, who is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Martha Ryckman, to Thedford with the body, and it was interred in the family plot at Arkona on Christmas Day. Gray, who was very weak and low-spirited, continued to live with his mother at Thedford. Soon after his wife's burial he sent for a Mrs. Hendricks, an old lady who lived on a farm near Thedford with her son John Hendricks, and it is stated that Gray Ryckman made a confident of Mrs. Hendricks and told her matters concerning the death of his wife. Three or four days after Mrs. Hendrick's arrival at the Ryckman's she was taken very ill. She vomited and had severe pains about the stomach. A doctor who was called treated her for peritonitis. She died three or four hours after taking sick, the death of Mrs. Hendricks, which was under circumstances somewhat similar to those attending the death of Laura Ryckman, aroused the suspicion of the latter's relatives, and Mr. Kennedy, an uncle of Laura living near Thedford, determined to have the case investigated. An order to exhume the body was secured from the Government and an inquest was commenced. At the inquest it was shown that Mrs. Martha Ryckman had, previous to leaving for Virginia, purchased at Munn & Co.'s drug store in the Thefford eight grains of strychnine and bought an ounce of arsenic at Cornell's. A young man who is employed in Munn & Co.'s store, gave the evidence about the purchase of the poison. Mrs. Ryckman said when she bought the poison she was going to leave it with Mr. Andrew Willoy, of Thedford, to poison rats with. Mr. and Mrs. Willoy state that they knew nothing about the poison. The inquest was adjourned pending the analysis of the contents of the stomach of the deceased by Dr. Ellis, of Toronto.

The inquest was resumed, and a report from Dr Ellis, which was read, stated that he had found traces of arsenic in the contents of Laura Ryckman's stomach. The jury brought in a verdict to the effect that Laura Ryckman's death was caused by arsenic administered to her by Mrs. Martha Ryckman. When the verdict of the inquest on Laura Ryckman's body was known, John Hendricks immediately swore out an information for the arrest of Mrs. Martha Ryckman, charging her with causing the death of his mother, by poisoning. Dr. Cornell, a corner of Thedford, opened an inquest at Arkona on Tuesday last on the body of Mrs. Hendricks, which was also exhumed. The result of the post mortem examination showed that there was no inflammation of the bowels and the organs were in a fairly healthy state, and the stomach was sent to Dr. Ellis for analysis. The inquest has been adjourned till Dr. Ellis' report is received.

Several other members of the Ryckman family have died under suspicious circumstances. In 1876 the prisoner's husband was taken suddenly ill and died. He was not in bed a day during the sickness which caused his death. About three years later a son in-law of Mrs. Martha Ryckman also died under suspicious circumstances. His name was John Hackett. By his death his wife, who was consumptive and did not live long, came into considerable property. Mrs. Hackett, when she died, left the property to the prisoner to use for the benefit of an eighteen-months-old girl she (Mrs. Haskett) left. This child died about eighteen months after its mother, and Mrs Martha Ryckman came into the property. A gentleman in Arkona said to your correspondent to-day:—"There are eight bodies, members or connections of the Ryckman family, buried in the little graveyard on the hill, and it is a significant fact that by the death of each of them Mrs. Martha Ryckman derived some financial benefit."

LONDON, April 15.—Mr. Healy, Nationalist member of Parliament, in a speech at Leicester last night said the coercion bill would make one half of the Irish people bankrupt and other half criminals.

RUSSIAN INTRIGUES.

BERLIN, April 15.—Notwithstanding the bad condition of Russian affairs at home, which have forced the Czar to abandon his journey to the Crimea, Russia has increased her intrigues in Bulgaria. The regency, however, is considered strong enough to supress all further outbreaks.

AGARIAN DISORDERS IN RUSSIA

ST. PETERSBURG, April 15.—General Orsheffxki, chief of the Gendarmerie, has been dismissed from office. Agarian disorders prevail in Russia and Poland. During the month of March four landed proprietors were murdered by peasants, and so far this month three noblemen have also been murdered. In one instance the victim was scalped and beheaded and in another was shot in broad daylight. The murderers have not been arrested.

GLADSTONE AND THE SPEAKER.

LONDON, April 15.—Mr. Gladstone writes: "I am unaware of any law to prevent the public discussing the conduct either of Parliament or of the Speaker. It is but just that the blame be cast where it is justly due, namely, on the Tory and Dissident Liberal majority who forced through the new rule, forcing upon the Speaker a task impossible for him to perform, without stirring up resentment and probably impairing the confidence of one side or the other."

A NEW SULTAN IN THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, April 15.—Advices from Egypt state that several of the Arab tribes have detached themselves from the Mahdi's authority and declared one of their sheiks Sultan, with a residence at Kassala. They have an organized army of 3000 men. The new Sultan has appointed five new governors of provinces. He is disposed to be friendly with Egypt and the British.

LORD LANSDOWNE.

LONDON, April 15.—Lord Landsdowne, Governor-General of the Dominion, cables here from Ottawa in relation to reports that his life in threatened, that he walks and drives openly and fearlessly daily in in discharging his social and political duties at the Canadian capital.

O'BRIEN'S VISIT TO CANADA.

LONDON, April 15.—Sir Henry Holland stated in the House of Commons to-night that he had received no communication from the Canadian Government that they intended placing Mr. William O'Brien under police surveillance if he visited Canada.

MINERS STRIKE.

LONDON, April 15.—The miners of Northumberland have decided by a vote of 4,100 to 3,000 to continue the strike.

SERIOUS DISASTER.

AMSTERDAM, April 15.—Nearly 5000 students last night serenaded King William and the Royal family, who have been here since the recent royal birthday festivities. The King and Queen presented themselves at a window of the palace and acknowledged the tribute. A hotel in the centre of the city, which was crowded with guests who came to join in the festivities in honor of the King's birthday, caught fire last night and was entirely destroyed. Four of the inmates were killed and several sustained injuries of a more or less severe character.

A NEW STEAM FUEL.

LONDON, April 15.—The Northern Echo, one of the most influential papers in the north of England, is authority for the statement that a Durham invention will soon produce a startling economic improvement in the matter of fuel consumption and the heating of steam boilers. Protection has been made for the invention. The cubic bulk of the fuel that henceforth will be required for marine steam engines will be reduced, it is said, by 70 per cent. giving a gain to the extent indicated by that proportion to the storage space for cargo in ocean going steamships. The time for raising steam will be diminished in all steam boilers, stationary or marine, by at least two-thirds. The cost of the fuel consumption will be reduced by more than half, and the production of smoke will be absolutely annihilated. The process has been made the subject of actual expetimental demonstration and every test has been applied. Full details are promised soon.

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream,"
And yet it is, when all the marrow is taken out of it by some dreadful disease like consumption, that, neglected, means certain death; catarrh and brochitis both distressing, and often leading to consumption, or like liver complaints or scrofula, which too often make those afflicted feel that life is empty. But these can all be cured. The use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood, lung and liver remedy, does away with "mournful numbers," brings back lost health, and fills life full of dreams of happiness and prosperity. Druggists sell it.

FLOUTING THE LEGISLATURE

WHEN Mr. Mowat wishes to obtain the benefit of any particularly dirty work, his remarkable honesty prevents him from acting himself, but it is not vigorous enough to prevent him from sanctioning its accomplishment by his less scrupulous lieutenants. Thus when the Legislature was forced to submit to the insult offered to the last House of contemptously disregarding the limit it set to the expenditure on the new parliament buildings, Mr. Mowat prudently absented himself and left his colleagues to act the part of Oliver Cromwell. It may be true that Mr. Mowat was suffering from a trifling indisposition, but under the special circumstances this is no excuse, as he might have been present at the adjourned debate had not the Administration indecently and bullyingly forced a division in the same sitting, though it was prolonged till nearly four o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Fraser as Commissioner of Public Works made a laboured defence for the misconduct of himself and his colleagues. He evaded the point that it was a gross injustice to employ his pet foreign architect to sweep competition out of the way and then to employ him for the job thus left vacant, removing for his benefit the restrictions as to cost imposed upon the Canadian architects.

But what is of even more importance to the country, the Administration had to admit that it had let a contract for the brickwork and masonry, the mere shell of the building, for a sum exceeding the limit fixed by the Legislature for the whole cost of the edifice complete. And the impudent pretence was made that the country had authorized this increase at the last general election, when the truth was carefully concealed from the country by deliberately planned and maintained falsehood. Even yet we are far from knowing the worst, for though Mr. Fraser talked of $300,000 being sufficient to complete the building, it is very certain that three times that sum will not be adequate with such a commencement. It is only a fresh attempt to deceive the people of Ontario by false pretences, followed by an increase of the figures bit by bit. We ask our readers to bear this assertion in mind when the whole extravagant bill for the new Parliament buildings is before them.

Some of our contemporaries are advocating Biennial sessions. They may as well be once in four years if this new improvement on our constitution is to be the rule in future—if the Administration is to spend any money it pleases in defiance of the limits set by the House, is to conceal the truth by gross falsehood on appealing to the country, and is then to ask its slavish supporters to whitewash it.

THE PATENT BALLOT BOX.

THE Kingston Whig has the following editorial note:—

"The Tory paper of Peterborough, in discussing ballot boxes, makes offensive remarks anent the Hon. Mr. Laflamme and the Jacques Cartier election. Our contemporary cannot have heard of what the Mail s facetious treatment of the Laflamme case cost it? A verdict of $20,000 is more than every Tory paper can stand."

We beg to disclaim being "Tory," and to express our regret that our contemporary should be so constituted as to make the truth offensive to it. We knew very well what we were talking about. The proceedings to which the Whig refers established that Mr. Laflamme was not the inventor of the ballot box with patent sideboard trap door and cellar attachments, and that he was not even aware of the particular machinery used to secure his return for Jacques Cartier. It was also then established that Reformers used this device to return by fraud a shining light of the Reform party, a Reform Minister of Justice. It was further established, on the showing of no less a person than the Hon. Toussaint Antoine Rodolphe Laflamme, Q. C., D. C. L., &c., that he knew there was something wrong about his majority at the polling place where his zealous Reform friends had operated their patent ballot box, and that in spite of such knowledge he took his seat in the House till he was turned out of it.

All this is part of the history of our country, and we are acquainted with the facts, offensive as they may be. We therefore indulged in no poetical flights of imagination, but adhered to the sober prose of historical truth. Feeling grateful to the Whig for its amiable solicitude on our behalf we hasten to relieve its anxiety with this assurance that we are in no danger. Read the records of the law courts, dear contemporary, and you will know more about your party.

As we anticipated Mr. Blake withdrew his refusal to continue in the position of leader of the Opposition. At a Reform caucus he was re-elected leader, with the understanding that his labours should be shared by leaders elected from the different provinces.

Mr. WATSON has been elected leader of the Reform members for Manitoba, Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. The peculiarity of his case is that he has not a single follower.

Terrible Gale.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 15.—A terrible gale raged along the coasts of Newfoundland this week. Near Rosebranch two large skiffs went down at their mooring, and five men were drowned. Another ran ashore and was dashed to pieces. The crew were saved with difficulty. Grave fears are entertained for four schooners and a large boat which were out in the storm.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

The New Parliament Building Job—More "Positive Assurances" as to the Cost—The Contract Pushed Through.

THURSDAY, April 14.—Three private bills were read the third time.

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Mr. FRASER moved that the House ratify the contract with Mr. Lionel Yorke for the construction of portions of the new Parliament buildings. He reviewed the history of the proposition to erect the building. In 1880 sixteen architects entered a competition and sent in plans. They were rejected on the recommendation of three experts, the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, W. G. Storm and R. A. Waite. Then plans were received from Darling & Curry, Gordon & Helliwell and the Government called in as an advisory officer, Mr. Waite, who condemned both plans. In 1885 they got the original vote of $500,000 increased to $750,000, and Mr. Waite was entrusted with drawing in the new plans. He was restricted to $750,000 and his fees were to be 5 per cent. on that sum and no more. Two tenders were received for the foundations and bare walls alone, from Mr. Yorke for $752,000 and from Brown & Love for $736,000. Mr. Yorke's tender was accepted. A part of the terms of the contract was that he was that he was to take $81,000 worth of brick from the Central Prison, virtually reducing the contract to $671,000. The contract for the foundations and wall were signed and the House would be asked for an additional appropriation to complete the building. He assured the House that only $300,000 more would be required. He argued that Darling & Currie had been honorably treated and that nothing had ben hid from the public.

Mr. CREIGHTON reminded the House of Mr. Fraser's promise that the appropriation of $250,000 would be sufficient and that one of the two plans furnished by Canadian architects would be accepted. Then the plans were rejected on the opinion of a business rival. Why were not three experts again employed? When members of the House asked for Mr. Waite's report they received the extraordinary reply that it was mostly verbal and where written was confidential. The had testimony from competent authorities as to the merits of Darling & Curre's plans. The Government took the unprecedented course of giving the work without competition to a man who had sat in judgement on the Canadian plans, and no one was asked to examine Mr. Waite's plans, and the House was asked to take it for granted that they were all right. The fees of Mr. Waite were not limited to 5 per cent on $750,000, for that fee was to be calculated on the whole contract cost. When the plans of Canadian architects exceeded the estimates they were rejected for that reason; when Mr. White exceeded the estimate his plan was accepted. At the outset the Commissioner wrote that to have piece-meal tenders would be highly objectionable; with Mr. Waite he swollowed his objections and invited tenders for a portion only. Care was taken to keep the country in the dark as to the nature of the contracts until after the elections. He called on the House to refuse to ratify the contract because the Government had broken faith with it, and because there was no guarantee as to the cost. The Commissioner had assured them the cost would not be more than $300,000 over the appropriation, but he had made similar assurances in the past that the cost would be less.

Mr. AWREY defended the Government and said that he, and the House he believed, would be willing to vote a million and a half if it was found necessary.

Mr. E. F. CLARKE believed the buildings were necessary, but would vote against the motion on account of the way the matter had been treated by the Government.

Mr. GIBSON (Hamilton) defended the Government, Mr. Wood condemned their treatment of the House, Mr. H. E. Clarke also condemned the Government but would vote for the motion as he did not wish delay. The debate was continued by Messrs. Clancy, Tooley, Ingram, Garson, Metcalfe, Hess, Biggar, and Willoughby. The adjournment was moved several times, but was opposed by the Government.

Mr. MEREDITH said the opposition had done everything to facilitate business during session, and it seemed rather unreasonable that an opportunity for discussing this most important matter should be refused.

Mr. FRASER insisted on the House not adjourning.

The debate continued until 3.40 a. m., when a division was taken and the motion carried by a vote of 53 to 31. The House then adjourned.

NORWOOD.

PRESENTATION.—On Thursday, J. Davidson, M.A., Headmaster of the High School, and Mr. Bewell, assistant teacher, were each made the recipient of a handsome gift, accompanied by an address, by the pupils of the school. The school was closed on that day for the Easter vacation.

EXHIBITION BUILDINGS.—At a meeting of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society held here last week it was decided to proceed at once with the erection of the exhibition buildings. The buildings will be situated in the public park, south of King Street, and judging from the plans will be an ornament to our town.

DESERVES A MEDAL.—At the C. P. R. depot the other day a serious runaway was prevented by the plucky action of Mr. J. R. McKelvie. On the approach of the 6.02 p. m. train, the team attached to the bus started off at full speed. Mr. McKelvie, without a moment's hesitation and at the risk of his life, jumped into the vehicle and by almost superhuman exertion prevented a serious runaway. Bravery such as this deserves recognition.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. John Parker, an old and highly respected resident of the township of Dummer, died very suddenly on Friday last. He had just recovered from a slight illness and was in his usual health when on the morning of the day in question he was suddenly stricken down and in five hours was a corpse. Deceased was in his 66th year. We extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved relatives.—Register.

OMEMEE.

ACCIDENT.—On Friday Mr. John Sandy, of Emily met with a painful accident while working a cutting machine on his son's farm, by letting his left hand come in contact with the knives of the machine just as they got through work. Three of the fingers were cut off above the nails, in a slanting direction.—Herald.

CONSTITUTION TINKERING.

We are glad to see that Mr. Chapleau, speaking no doubt for the Government, condemns the proposal to tamper with the constitution of the Dominion for the purpose of readjusting the financial relations of the provinces with the Federal Government. Any scheme devised for effecting the object would be nothing more than a device for robbing Peter to pay Paul, and would be sure to be productive of a plentiful crop of difficulties, disputes and jealousies.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

KEPT HIS PROMISE.

A Dead Body Wheeled Fifty Miles by Hand to Keep a Promise.

Great excitement has been created in the neighborhood of Colchester by the circumstances under which a body was recently wheeled on a hand cart from London to the village of Little Horkesley, a distance of more than 50 miles.

The deceased was a young woman named Amy Carey Dansey. She was brought up by her grandfather and grandmother at their home at Little Horkesley, until old enough to go out to service. Some time ago she was attcked by consumption, and rapidly growing worse she was removed to Brompton hospital where she died early in the present month. Among those who had constantly visited the girl while she was in the hospital were her mother and her stepfather, Joseph Ball, living in London. In answer to her oft repeated desire to be buried in Little Horkesley churchyard, Ball had assured her that she should be buried there; but, as the event proved, the promise was not easy to fulfil. Being a cabinetmaker, Ball was able to make the coffin himself; but the question of the conveyance of the body to Little Horkesley presented great difficulties.

In consequence of an accident, Ball had for nineteen weeks been out of work, and, having a family dependent on him, was in considerable straits. He ascertained that if the coffin were removed by rail to Colchester and thence to Little Horkesley, the cost would be £4 12s., which was more that he could afford. But he remembered his promise, and determined to wheel the body down the road. On Sunday evening following the girl's death he finished the coffin, and having obtained a certificate from the registrar, he placed the coffin on his handcart, and went to fetch the body from the hospital. At first the hospital authorities refused to let him have it, but were reassured and gave their consent. He took the body away at 9.30 that night, and by 5.30 next morning was on the road to Colchester.

Ball thus relates the story of his journey:

"I wheeled the body on the handcart and I brought my second little boy with me aged about 10. He rode on the coffin, down hill and on the level road, but when we had to go up hill he helped me to push a little, because I was so weak and ill. The first day I put up two miles short of Ingatestone, at an inn. On the night of the second day I reached Witham, and put up at the Swan Two men came to me and wanted to know what I had in the coffin. One of them said he was a detective, and he said, 'I demand to look inside.' I said, 'Show me your warrant card,' and he could not do so. We had a bother and he would have forced open the coffin; but my Master is always stronger than the devil, and He gave me strength to struggle with the man and put him out of the house. I then sent my little boy for a policeman, and then the row was over. The inspector of police afterwards came and took my name and address and I showed the certificate of death and answered all his inquiries satisfactorily and truthfully. Next morning I started at 8.30 and arrived at Little Horkesley just after 6 on Wednesday night."

The body was duly buried next day and the newly made grave was decked with flowers.—Essex Tel graph.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

Linwood mothers and daughters made now the astounding discovery that wives and children who are neat, handsome and merry—delicate food, pretty healthful homes, music and jolly yet harmless home amusement, have more attraction for men than even a rum shop. Wives and daughters have the inside track all the time with the average masculine animal, if they only had sense enough to keep it.

Linwood had heard temperance lectures since the time the noble red man gave up and surrendered to the white man. Yet here, right under their noses, was a temperance lecture worth more than all the rest. How odd they had never thought of it before!

So Linwood was transformed, wholly and forever.

It was in very truth Shirley who did all. It was over again what George Morrisor had read to her from the enchanted life of Joan of Arc:

"Daughter of God, all things were under her."

Was it not so?

To accomplish worthy aims, three things are necessary: Unselfishness, singleness of purpose and eternal enthusiasm.

Shirley gave up her village school at length. She gave it into the hands of one of her best pupils. So from the master to Shirley, from Shirley to the favorite pupil, the school was handed down and kept running on worthily in the wise old ways.

Shirley had other work that was more remunerative, and that was forced on her always as the first consideration. With all she had on her hands, it was her steady regret that she found no time to do her best at anything. Night never closed in on her and found her free from a care for the next day. She never had one week to rest.

She had now a modest yet solid distinction as a writer. The ideals in literature that she had set before her as peerless statues when she was 16, were locked away from human sight. Out of the fullness of the practical knowledge she had gained in her years of toil and trial, she wrote now. It was exactly this feature that made her work of especial value for everyday reading. People are glad to read that which helps them practically.

But she wrote no more poetry.

* * * * * *

Linwood had indeed changed since we knew it first. Now it had a railroad. Trains daily went thundering past the old stone house, till its very walls shook. Little regard have iron and steam for beauty in nature. They laugh to scorn sentimental memories. The old mill was pulled down by the railway company. The iron tracks followed the bed of the picturesque mill race. They cut through the heart of the clump of graceful swaying willows, the very willows under which Shirley had sat while the master read to her the marvelous story of Joan of Arc.

Even so the iron had cut through the heart of Shirley's romance. Even so, God help us! the iron pierces the soul of us all, every one.

And one fine morning Shirley waked and remembered she was 30 years old.

The brothers and sisters were nearly all men and women now. Alice, the youngest, was 14. Harry was 17. These two were especially near to Shirley. They had hung about her neck in their helpless babyhood. Fatherless, worse than motherless, they had only this tall, strong sister to cling to.

During these years so many minor incidents had happened in the Carstone family that it has not been possible to keep up with them all. It was well Shirley's worldly prospects had brightened. As the children grew older the need of money to educate them, to start them in life, increased constantly. Shirley worked and planned without ceasing to meet the demand. It gave her steady pride and pleasure that she was able to do so.

The children followed each his natural bent, no two of them alike. Percy, who had been so fond of studying the ways of birds and insects, developed into a naturalist. He was a slender, handsome youth, devoted to his studies with enthusiasm.

Pet, otherwise Master Francis Peyton, surprised the family by saying deliberately one day:

"Shirley, I want to go to West Point. I have made up my mind to it."

His mother looked at him in amazement.

"Great guns! Pet," said Percy, "you're foolin'. You mind when you used to hold your hands over your ears and run and hide your head in the pillows when father was teaching Tom to shoot at a mark? If you went into the army, somebody might fire off a shooting cracker close to your ear on a Fourth of July—what'd you do then?"

"I've made up my mind I want to go to West Point," was all the answer Pet made.

Shirley was the magician who did everything for everybody in the Carstone family. Her brother got his wish. Children develop in unexpected ways, sometimes. Pet, the timid, the delicate "girl boy" of the Carstones, became the soldier. A gallant soldier he made, too. Strangely enough, he was daring to recklessness. Of all the four sons he was the one who in manhood most resembled their brave, dashing father.

With Tom and Brownie Shirley had most trouble. Brownie was a dancing, springing, merry little cricket of a creature, as full of life as a squirrel, as mischievous, too. She was a very pretty girl, with laughing brown eyes, crisply curling black hair, clear, ivory tinted skin, nose faintly "tip-tilted," and lips like a scarlet cherry. She was much admired and sought after.

Given her own way in all things, and Miss Brownie at 18 was the most charming young lady in the world. But given not her own way, she could make the household hum to a degree beyond the supposed capacity of gentle young ladydom.

There was inborn in poor Brownie a passionate fondness for things beautiful and artistic. Had her father lived her tastes would have been gratified, and Brownie would have been happy. As it was, she chafed with bitter impatience against the Carstone poverty. She longed to wear bright jewels and pretty dresses, to get away from Linwood, the mean and the narrow. And being not of the heroic turn, she only stayed there and fretted, instead of trying to work out her wishes for herself.

As Linwood became larger, and wealthy visitors and residents were attracted thither, and Brownie mingled with them, the desire to see the gay world grew on her till she was not an agreeable young lady to live with. Her constant song, daily and nightly, was:

"I wish we could have things like other people."

Her brother Tom made acquaintances that were not good for him. In those soft, green years this was the besetting sin of the honest, blundering fellow. He was perpetually getting into scrapes, and Shirley was perpetually helping him out. When Tom was 22, old enough to have some sense, there came to Linwood a man of the musical name of Wabbnobbs. He had a mean little face and dressed expensively. He had money and spent it lavishly.

Wabbnobbs had been at the hotel some days when one afternoon there passed by Tom Carstone with his beautiful sisters. From that day the stranger sought the acquaintance of Tom. He cultivated him assiduously.

He called at the stone house to take Tom riding. He displayed flashing diamonds, fast horses and elaborate toilets. He talked horse so learnedly that the innocent youth looked up to him as to a demigod.

Mr. Wabbnobbs talked vaguely but magnificently of the west and western mines, till Tom too began to sigh to have things like other people. He was dazzled with the gorgeousness of his new friend. He was aflame with a fever to go west and make his fortune in the mines. The acquaintance progressed rapidly to intimacy, till one day Harry said:

"He's a beauty, no mistake, that new beau of yours, isn't he, Brownie?"

"Who is it now?" asked Shirley.

"Don't you know? It's that new fellow that Tom goes bumming and chumming with. That Mr. Wabbnobbs."

CHAPTER XVI.

Tom made a little journey with his delightful new friend. When they started he had in his care $500 belonging to Mis' Simpkins. It was to make the last payment on a snug property that frugal minded dame had bought. She sent the money to the city by Tom, rather than by the United States mail service, because "it was safer."

At the end of a week's time Tom came home. He looked wretchedly forlorn, somehow, and down at the heel and unhappy. His mother and sisters were sure he must have been sick. They pitied him very much. His nerves seemed out of order.

The day after he came home a lady called to see him on business. It was Mis' Simpkins. He turned pale when he saw her.

"It's curious, but I hain't got the receipts for my $500 yet, Tom," said this business woman. "They'd orter have come by mail the next day."

Then there was a time. After a world of shuffling, stammering and growing red in the face Tom made out to let her know that he had lost her money—had his pocket picked on the train.

Shirley spoke up instantly.

"Don't be uneasy, Mrs. Simpkins; you will not lose anything. It shall all be paid back to you to-morrow, every dollar."

The storm cloud that had been about to burst was blown away. Mis' Simpkins hemmed and hesitated, and finally concluded:

"'Twas my hard airnin's—hard and honest. I reckon you can make it good between ye."

"That we can and will, Mrs. Simpkins," said Shirley.

Mis' Simpkins took her leave right pleasantly. "Now, Tom," said Shirley. Tom looked as if he wished the floor would open and take him in.

Then he made a clean breast of it. He had had to meet his friend Wabbnobbs at a certain place. The friend was late, but there were two men betting on an amusing little game. It was a fascinating game. Tom became intensely interested, and had a chance to win $500. He was about to stake Mis' Simpkins' money. The overwhelming Mr. Wabbnobbs came in at that critical moment. He advised against it.

"Better not do it, Tom," he said; "your women folks at home wouldn't like it."

Though the honest and friendly Mr. Wabbnobbs had dropped this remark to dissuade Tom from betting, it had precisely the opposite effect.

Tom lost all his own money and Mis' Simpkins' too.

He might have run away. Wabbnobbs offered to lend him money, and to stand his friend still. But he had a sense of honor. No Carstone had ever been a coward or a thief. He came home like a man, but a very miserable one.

"I'm going to turn over a new leaf, Shirley," said he; "I'm going to earn my own living, like a man, and help you."

"When?" said his sister. Shirley had grown a little sarcastic of late years.

"Now," replied the young fellow, emphatically. "I want to go west—away west, and not come back till I've made my fortune. I've always wished to go west. All I want is money enough to take me there—not enough to bring me back. I want to know for certain nobody will send me money to come back with. If I know I couldn't get home whenever I felt like it I think it would be better for me."

Shirley meditated.

"Then west it is, Tom, on your own terms," said she at last.

So for the present honest, blundering Tom Carstone disappears from this history. He had his wish. Shirley did all to equip him comfortably and send him away happy. The last words between sister and brother at the parting moment were these:

"I shall rely on you, Tom."

"I will not fail, Shirley."

She had taken on herself additional burden enough in helping Tom through his troubles. But there was Brownie, too. Brownie was as good for nothing a pretty girl as ever made herself a nuisance to a devoted sister. She was more troublesome than any of the boys. She was given to exploiting herself in wild, unheard of ways, "for the fun of it."

Meantime Shirley did her best to get pretty dresses for Brownie, and gratify her expensive whims. She loved this thoughtless, winsome sister, and it hurt her affectionate heart to see the girl unhappy and so discontented. But Brownie grumbled on:

"I wish the time would come when I could spend ten cents without feeling guilty," she said.

For Children Starving to Death.

On account of their inability to digest ordinary food, Scott's Emulsion can be digested and give strength and flesh when all other food fails. See what Dr. A. H. Peck, Penn. Med. College, Petiocdiac, says: "I have used and prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and find it an excellent preparation, agreeing well with the stomach, and its continued use adding greatly to the strength and comfort of the patient." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to take. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by grocers labelled thus:

The Inquest.

The adjourned inquest on the body of the child found on the corner of Dublin and Bethune streets was held on Friday evening at the Police Court. Owing to two of the jurymen being absent the evidence was not taken. Coroner Bell intimated that it would only require a few minutes to conclude the inquest. Dr. Kincaid, who was present to give evidence as to the post mortem examination, said that he examined the lungs of the dead child, and is satisfied that the child never breathed. This being the case the crime will be no worse than concealment of birth.

CALL at TURNBULL'S for Hosiery and Gloves; a choice selection of all kinds always in stock.

From Jerusalem to Bethlehem.

A good audience assembled in St. Paul's Church School Room on Friday evening to hear the second lecture given by the Rev. Ghosn Al Howie, M. A., of Syria. The Rev. Mr. Torrance occupied the chair. Before commencing his lecture, Mr. Howie referred to the loss of his eyesight, a point on which he is very sensitive, thinking, though wrongly we believe, that people ask him questions about it from mere levity. His great loss certainly does not interfere with his usefulness as a lecturer or a preacher, nor does it take from the interesting character of his utterances. The subject of his lecture was "From Jerusalem to Bethlehem." He described the City of David, its walls and gates, its notable buildings, etc., giving many interesting details concerning it and it history. The varied character of its inhabitants was also dwelt upon. From the City to Bethlehem there was no waggon road, and modern tourists took the journey on asses' backs. The fertility and mildness of the climate of this southern country rendered it even more deserving of the title of "the land flowing with milk and honey" than the northern part. The camels and their burdens would here be met with, the drivers chanting in a monotonous manner, of which he gave a most amusing specimen, and also recited in Arabic the first Psalm. Before continuing his lecture he gave an opportunity for the audience to ask questions, and some were asked and answered. The six miles journey to Bethlehem was then completed, and the village, where was born the Saviour of the world, was described. The lecture throughout was most interesting, and the hearty thanks of the audience were tendered the lecturer on motion of Mr. Geo. M. Roger, seconded by Mr. R. J. Lee.

A WILD SCENE

In the English House of Commons—The Lie Direct—Mr. Healy Suspended.

LONDON, April 15.—Continuing the debate on the Coercion Bill in the Commons, Col. Saunderson (Conservative) said that the National League was supported mainly by criminals, dynamiters and murderers across the Atlantic. He did not charge the gentlemen opposite with imbruing their hands in blood, but he did charge them with associating with men whom they knew to be murderers.

Mr. Healy rose to a point of order.

The Speaker replied that Col. Saunderson had made the gravest charges, but that these could be met in debate. He himself was unable to interfere.

Mr. Healy responded that he would say what he thought of Col. Sanderson regardless of consequences. If Col. Sanderson referred to him he had no hesitation in saying that Col. Sanderson was a liar.

This remark was greeted with rousing Parnellite cheers.

The Speaker called upon Mr. Healy to withdraw his expression.

Mr. Healy replied: "I am not entitled to rise until you sit down," when the cheering was renewed.

The Speaker then resumed his chair.

Mr. Healy again took the floor. He said:—"I am only able to meet the charge in one way. If you rule that Col. Saunderson was in order, my expression was equally in order. If you rule him out of order, I shall withdraw my expression."

The Speaker—"That is not so. Mr. Saunderson made a charge of the gravest nature. The responsibility rests entirely with himself. It is his duty to prove it if he can (Cheers.) But I cannot allow the expression you used."

Mr Healy repeated that Col. Saunderson was a liar. A great uproar arose

The Speaker again called upon Mr. Healy to withdraw.

Mr. Healy refused.

The Speaker thereupon named him.

Mr. W. H. Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, moved that Mr. Healy be suspended.

Mr. Redmond jumped up and shouted, "I say he is a liar, too."

The House divided on the motion to suspend Mr. Healy, and it was carried by a vote of 118 to 52.

When the vote was announced, Mr. Healy walked out of the House applauded by all the Parnellites, who stood up waving their hats and raising cheer after cheer.

Mr. Saunderson, upon attempting to resume his speech, was interrupted by loud cries of "Withdraw!" "Withdraw!"

Mr. Sexton, interrupting, asked Col. Saunderson whether he (Col. Saunderson) persisted in his statement or would withdraw it.

Col. Sanderson replied that Sheridan was a member of the Executive Committee of which the member for West Belfast (Mr. Sexton) was also a member. (Loud cries of "Withdraw.")

Mr. Sexton—"Did I know him to be a murderer? Did I ever associate with a man whom I knew to be a murderer?" (Cheer, and a voice, "Withdraw, you murderer!"

Col. Saunderson—"I said that Sheridan was on the committee, and against him a true bill was found for complicity in the Phœnix Park murders. The committee must have known what kind of a man he was."

Mr. Sexton, springing to his feet, shouted, "I say you are a wilful, cowardly liar!"

Then there was another uproar. The Parnellites all rose and cheered frantically, wavin their hats in the air. As soon as there was a chance to be heard,

Mr. Sexton, again, addressing Col. Saunderson, exclaimed, "If I only met you outside the door of this House, I would thrash you within an inch of your life."

The excitement was again renewed.

The Speaker arose and addressed the House, but his voice was inaudible above the din. When quiet had been somewhat restored the Speaker said that unless Mr. Sexton withdrew his expression he would be compelled to name him. He appealed to the House to assist him in his duty, adding that he was willing to do anything in his power to allay bad feeling. (Cheers.) The Speaker then pointedly asked Col. Saunderson whether he chrrged Mr. Sexton with associating with murderers.

Col. Saunderson, after several evasive answers, which were interrupted by loud cries of "Answer," "Answer," "The Speaker's question," etc., eventually witherew the words he had used.

The Speaker then asked Mr. Sexton to withdraw his expression, and at the same time added, "I cannot conceal for myself the fact that the provocation has been very great." (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Sexton then formally withdrew his expression.

Mr. Leake, member for Lancashire, suggested that Mr. Healy be re-called.

The Speaker said that nothing could be done in the matter until the next sitting.

Mr. Sexton thereupon gave notice that at the next sitting of the House he would move that the suspension of Mr. Healy be revoked. (Cheers.)

Mr. Saunderson then resumed his speech. He said that Mr. Sexton was present at the meeting at which Mr. Egan was made secretary of the Clan-na-Gael, which was a murder society of America.

Mr. Sexton rose to a point of order, and the Speaker advised Mr. Saunderson to withdraw the offensive expression.

Another scene of confusion ensued. Mr. Saunderson repeating the words, where upon Mr. Sexton shouted, "The hon. gentleman is again a liar."

The Speaker called upon both members to withdraw their offensive remarks, which they did.

Mr. Sdunderson again resumed his speech and charged the Parnellities with various connections with Egan, Ford and other advocates of murder. At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Saunderson was greeted with cheers from the Conservative benches.

The debate was then adjourned.

Stock Sale.

The annual sale of stock at Dr. Kincaid's farm took place on Friday. The attendance was large and the bidding liberal. There was about $2,000 worth of horses and cattle sold. Messrs. Chas. Stapleton and son conducted the sale.

The Choir.

On Friday evening the members of the George Street Methodist Church Choir were invited to spend the evening at the residence of Mrs. Fife, George street. A very pleasant evening was spent. Choruses, solos, instrumental music and other amusements were the order of the evening. The members of the choir are agreed in saying that Mrs. Fife is the best of hostesses.

By-Laws for a combined Courthouse and City hall and for additions to the Hospital for Sick Children were carried in Toronto on Thursday.

How Many?

The Empress of Germany gives a golden cross to every servant in the Empire who has remained over forty years in her present position, and whose character is good. More than 1,300 have already received the cross, of whom a large number have remained over fifty years in one place. How many servants in this country would get a cross under these conditions?—*N. Y. Over An Embankment.

LINDSAY, Ont., April 16.—Mr. Barron, M.P. and A. Mallon, a prominent citizen of Lindsay, left here last evening to speak at a political meeting in South Victoria for Wm. Needler, the Liberal candidate. The night was intensely dark and when about three miles from O'Neal's school house the horse and carriage went over an embankment fifteen feet high. The bridge of Mallon's nose was broken. With the aid of a lantern Mr. Barron started on foot to fulfil his engagement.

Breaking up a Bad Gang.

MONTREAL, April 15.—A great many robberies have been committed in the suburbs of the city by a gang of strangers known to be staying here, and the detectives have been capturing them by degrees. This morning about four o'clock detectives proceeded to the residence of Oliver Ladurantaye, on William street, and arrested him on a charge of being one of the gang. Lauderantaye appeared before the police magistrate subsequently and stated that he had had a number of pairs of boots and shoes in his possession, and on learning that his brother was arrested he burned them in the store. Prisoner informed the court that he was prepared to give information to the effect that it was his brother who broke open the cars at Vaudreuil and stole the goods. He was remanded for trial. The detectives state that before long they will have several other prisoners.

LINDSAY.

HORSE LOST IN THE SCUGOG.—On Thursday afternoon while Mr. Thos. Coad of Cameron was driving down the Scugog river his team broke through the ice, and were extricated only after much difficulty; but one a fine animal died soon afterwards. Mr. Coad himself had a narrow escape. Only a short time previously, Mr. W. Workman, driving Hon. Thomas White minister of the Interior, and Mr. Hughes to Bobcaygeon had passed over the same place; so telegrams were sent warning them not to return that route. They went to Peterborough via Pigeon, and Chemong lakes.

A LIVING MOOSE.—On Monday morning Joseph McArthur, Esq., of Fenelon Falls, reached Lindsay from the north shore of Lake Superior, with a live moose heifer in charge. The animal is quite tame, being only eight months old, and having been a pet in an Indian camp. Though young the animal is about six feet six inches from the shoulder to the ground. Mr. McArthur destines the moose for the new Fenelon Falls park, which already contains six red deer. Meantime the moose is to browse on the farm of Mr. McArthur in Ops, near Lindsay, so boys and dogs will kindly keep their distance. A bull moose will also soon be added to the park stock.—Warder.

SACRILIGE.—Last Saturday night between the hours of six and eleven some one entered the new English church by the back door and with very muddy feet made straight for the vestry and took from the surplice press a small childs' money box containing $1.25, the Lent savings of the two little girls of the sexton of the church. The money was to have been given the next day to the Sunday school building fund. We doubt whether a meaner and more despicable and sacriligious act has ever before been perpetrated in Lindsay.

LILY LAKE.—The morning express from Peterborough on Monday was treated to a slight taste of excitement, fortunately without any of the serious results that follow attempts to do railroading in a way out of the general run of trains. When the train for Lindsay arrived at the "sink hole" the greater part of the track was found to be submerged. With the general record of this spot in mind the attempt to cross over seemed a hazadous undertaking. Mr. Macklin was on the train and with the road master crossed over the line on a hand-car and took soundings. It was decided to steam ahead slowly, and as the weight of the engine and train began to bear on the track it sunk. At times the water reached nearly to the lower steps of the car platforms, and the curious sight was presented of a train making its way through a perfect lake of water with no track in sight. Considerable uneasiness was manifested by lady passengers at the danger presented. Fortunately by careful handling the train was got over in safety, although had the track been displaced to a much larger extent and the train compelled to stop midway, it might possibly have slipped off the road bed and gone to help to fill up the vacancy known to exist below the surface of the morass.—Post.

COBOURG.

LIGHTNING'S FREAKS.—Nearly everyone who saw the vivid flash, and heard the startling peal of thunder on Friday afternoon, made the remark that the lightning had struck something near. An so it did. It lit upon six telegraph poles on William street, beginning at Colonel Skills' residence, and ending with two poles north of the Roman Catholic Church, and shattered them to splinters. It also struck that old landmark, the willow tree near Col. Skill's, under which many tales of love have been told, and vows plighted, but its secrets are safe now, if it ever were inclined to tell them, for it has been knocked into kindling wood, and scattered to the winds. Many panes of glass in the residence of Colonel Skill were broken from the force of the concussion. During the storm the lightning struck the wires near Newtonville, and the electric fluid ran into the telegraph office there, breaking the instruments to pieces, and scattering them around. It was at first reported that the young lady operator was injured, but this was not correct.—Sentinel-Star.

It is reported that the Russians are moving by slow stages towards Zulficar, which is 140 miles northwest of Herat.

HEALEY'S SUSPENSION.

LONDON, April 16.—The Conservative Irish members of the House of Commons met last night after adjournment and effected an understanding with the government to have the suspension of Mr. Healey rescinded on Monday next. Mr. Healey spent a great deal of time in the House of Commons library to-day searching for precedents covering his case. He declares that the entire Irish party are prepared to follow his example. Ten Liberal Unionists voted with the Tories last night to suspend Mr. Healey, Twenty-seven Gladstone Liberals voted with the Parnellites.

THE CANADIAN FISHERIES.

LONDON, April 15.—The English consul at Boston reports that last year the New England fishermen were unprosperous and unfortunate owing to their exclusion from Canadian waters, the smallness of the catch elsewhere, the low prices and the loss of vessels and men. Canadian competition, whilst injuring the native fishermen by increasing the supply, keeping down prices, advances the interests of the fish merchants, who benefit by large supplies, when ever they come from, and the low purchasing price, which enables them to sell cheap, thus idcreasing the demand and sales at as much profit on a given quantity as when the prices were high.

THE KNIGHTS.

LONDON, April 17.—A despatch te Reuters Telegram Company from Rome says the Pope approves of the course of Cardinal Gibbons, and encourages him in his action with reference to the Knights of Labour. Cardinal Gibbons has secured the adherence of Cardinal Manning, and will appeal to other bishops for support.

VIGOROUS RETALIATION.

LONDON, April 17.—After the Saunderson incident the Parnellites held an informal meeting at which they decided to adopt an attitude of vigorous retaliation during the remainder of the debate on coercion.

THEIR PAYMASTERS.

LONDON, April 17.—The Standard says the scene in Parliament, painful as it was, has served to disclose the novel fact that the colleagues of Egan, Sheridan and Byrne have at least the grace to be ashamed in Parliament of their old friends and present paymasters.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

CORK, April 17.—Magistrate Hegarty, while returning to Mill street from a meeting of the Defence Union to-day, was fired at from behind a hedge and was wounded in the head and shoulders with buckshot. Mr. Hegarty is unpopular, and has been vigorously boycotted. No arrests have been made.

RIOTING.

CORK, April 17.—Collisions took place between soldiers and civilians at Youghal and Cork Hill, and several persons were hurt.

DEMONSTRATION AT LIMERICK.

DUBLIN, April 17.—At Limerick to-day 60,000 persons joined in a demonstration against the Coercion bill. The Mayor presided. A long procession, led by the municipal authorities, marched to the place of meeting. A resolution denouncing the Coercion bill was passed.

SPEEDILY EXECUTED.

BERLIN, April 17.—The Tagblatt says Tichoneff, the man who fired at the Czar recently at the Gatschina palace, was hanged on the same day on which the crime was committed.

DYNAMITE.

MADRID, April 17.—A large dynamite bomb with a burning fuse attached was found Saturday night in a room near the private office of the Minister of Public Works. An employe pluckily quenched the fuse and there was no explosion.

THE KAISAR.

BERLIN, April 17.—Emperor William has outlined the way in which he will spend the time until autumn. After his visit in Ems, in June, he will go to Gastein, and thence to the Island of Meinau. On September 2nd he will proceed to Konigsberg, to be present at the grand manœuvres of the army. He will spend the autumn at the Schloss-Badelsberg.

SAUNDERSON'S CHARGE DENIED.

LONDON, April 17.—Karl Spencer, who was Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland under Mr. Gladstone's Administration, in an interview to-day with Mr. Charles Augustus Conybeare, Radical member of Parliament for Cornwall, said he knew from his experience as Viceroy, and nobody could know better, that it was absolutely untrue that any members of the Irish parliamentary party were murderers, or the associates of murderers, as had been charged by Colonel Saunderson in the House of Commons.

FIGHTING IN BURMAH.

CALCUTTA, April 17.—Half the town of Pegu, 58 miles northeast of Rangoon, has been destroyed by fire, presumably of incendiary origin. An extensive plot among the inhabitants of Upper Burmah and the Dacoits to burn the towns of that section of the country, massacre the Europeans and proclaim a new king, has been frustrated by the police and loyal Burmese, who, after three days' fighting, captured the leaders in the conspiracy.

SAUNDERSON ENDORSED.

LONDON, April 17.—Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, upon his arrival at Inverness, was greeted with mingled hoots and cheers. Replying to an address referring to the daily demoralization of Parliament, he said the accusations made by Col. Saunderson against the Irish Nationalists were true. It was high time that the opinion of the Kingdom was made known about these scenes. Mr. Chamberlain's remarks were generally a repetition of his previous speeches.

NAVIGABLE BALLOONS.

BERLIN, April 17.—Successful experiments have been made at Metz with a navigable balloon propelled by an electric motor. The speed of the balloon exceeds that of a railway train, and it may be stopped and directed at will, moving against the wind. Whatever truth there may be in the report, it is certain that the residents of Metz are now nightly startled by an electric illumination hovering at a great height over their houses.

EMIN BEY HEARD FROM.

He is Alive and Well but Virtually a Prisoner.

ZANZIBAR, April 16.—A Somali trader from the Uganda country has arrived here bearing advices from Emin Bey. He was established when the trader left at Wadelai, north of the Albert Nyanza. He had two small steamers plying the White Nile and on the lake. In November, which was four months later than the advices brought by Dr. Junker, Emin Bey visited King Unyoro, who was a six days' journey from Uganda. Emin Bey was accompanied on this journey by Dr. Vita Hassan, ten Egyptian officers, three Greeks and four negroes. Subsequently he asked Mwanga, King of Uganda, to receive him. The king said he would willingly receive him if he came without followers. Emin Bey thereupon went to King Mwanga, accompanied by Dr. Vita and three Greeks. He and his companions remained with the king seventeen days. Emin asked the king for permission to pass through his territory to Zanzibar. The king upon hearing this request ordered the visitors to return the way they came, and declared they would have nothing more to do with Europeans. King Mwanga is a youth 18 years of age only. He has a thousand wives. Some times he wears a Turkish and at other times an Arab costume and often reverts to the native simplicity in the matter of dress. Emin Bey, when the king ordered him to return the way he came, went back to Wadelai and was glad to escape from Mwanga's country. The Somali states that the messengers despatched to Zanzibar to carry information to Emin Bey that Stanley had gone with an expedition by way of the Congo river to effect his rescue were detained in Unpanyembo by the king, who was indisposed to allow them to proceed.

NEWS NOTES.

The water will be drawn off the old Welland Canal next Monday for needed repairs.

Winnipeg's population according to the city assessment roll's show an increase of about two thousand since last year.

Two bills authorizing the construction of railway lines to the boundary were passed on Friday by the Manitoba Legislature.

The Russian Royal family have abandoned their proposed journey to the Crimea, owing to grave reports received from the interior.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk railway for the week ending April 9th were $338,946, an increase of $38,219 compared with the corresponding week last year.

Headache, Billiousness, Dyspepsia and Indigestion relieved and at once by Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. Try it. Samples free.

A deputation from the Hamilton School Board on Friday waited upon the Minister of Education to urge objections against the proposed legislation regarding the training of Kindergarten teachers.

Though no programme has yet been arranged to procure temperance legislation, it is probable Mr. Jamieson, who is identified with the cause in Canada, will introduce a bill for total prohibition.

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by all Druggists 50 cents.

At Ottawa on Thursday the Rideau River rose suddenly and carried away St. Patrick's bridge, Cummings' bridge being considerably damaged and threatened with destruction. New Edinburgh was inundated, many of the inhabitants being forced to desert their homes.

The fact that none of the bolters were present at the Liberal caucus on Thursday is regarded as significant, and the claim is now made that all but two or three will ally themselves with the Government, and that the Ministry will, in consequence, have a majority of forty.

The report of the Indian Department, which was brought down on Friday, shows a vast improvement in the condition of the Indians. On the reserves they number 91,944, and including the nomads they are 128,761 strong. The sum of $1,159,568 was expended upon them last year.

COUNTY BOUNDARIES.

THE Reformers are fond of arguing that Mr. Mowat did not interfere with County boundaries in rearranging the Ontario constituencies and that Sir John Macdonald did, so that the former was not guilty of gerrymandering and the latter was. The leaders of the Reform party, when they assented to the legislation establishing the Dominion of Canada never dreamed that it was criminal to neglect county limits. In the British North American Act, which they accepted as their own, there are the following infractions of this rule, invented after the event.

Our own Riding, West Peterborough, takes the Township of South Monaghan from the County of Northumberland; North Middlesex took the Townships of McGillvray and Biddulph from the County of Huron; the County of Bothwell took the Townships of Sombra, Dawn and Euphemia from the County of Lambton and the Townships of Zone, Oxford and Howard from the County of Kent; The County of Monck took the Townships of Canborough, Moulton and Sherbrooke from the County of Haldimand; the Townships of Caister and Gainsborough from the County of Lincoln and the Townships of Pelham and Wainfleet from the County of Welland; the County of Cardwell took the Townships of Albion and Caledon from the county of Peel, and the townships of Adjala and Mono from County of Simcoe; North Victoria took the townships of Morrison, Muskoka, Monck and Watt from the County of Simcoe. Thus these sticklers for the inviolability of county boundaries were assenting parties to legislation which interfered with the limits of 15 counties and altered the county connection of 24 townships. Of course this supposed rule as to not interfering with county boundaries was a mere after thought when these dishonest critics wished to attack political opponents unfairly. In reality the township unit is of more consequence to its inhabtants than that of the county. It is as a township that they transact most of their public business. And Mr. Mowat was really to blame when for his own ends he cut townships in two and put their severed fragments in different constituencies. But after all the real distinction between the redistributions of Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Mowat is that the former arranged the constituencies so as to more nearly equalize the population, while leaving each party with representation according to its average strength, and the latter expressly tinkered with the constituencies with the deliberate purpose of bring about the fraudulent result of retaining office as Premier of Ontario through a minority of electoral votes giving him a majority in the Legislature.

THE London Advertiser says:—

"No keener speech was ever delivered in the House than that of Mr. Blake on the election of a Speaker. The references to his 'fellow-Rielite,' 'co-conspirator,' 'brother fool and knave,' 'fellow-hypocrite and coward,' 'associate in calumny, treason and rebellion,' were each as the touch of a rapier."

Well, it may have been "keen" in one sense, but the idea of a "rapier" seems rather out of keeping. It was more like a negro barber, enraged at being rejected, slashing with his favorite weapon, a razor, at his worthier and therefore preferred rival.

THE Grit plot in Manitoba to form a coalition with any Conservatives they could gain over by promise of office or otherwise and then to call the new Government a Liberal Administration, has not been so successful as a similar dodge was in Quebec. The Conservative members in Manitoba were not to be caught, they stood firm, Mr. Norquay has a good working majority, and the Grit Opposition, as at Ottawa, did not dare to oppose the election of a Conservative Speaker.

MR. BLAKE is not very grateful to little Prince Edward Island, the only Province that has given him a majority. Almost his first step in the House was to deprive it of representation on the important committee on the official report of the debates.

A GENUINE CYCLONE.

Terrible Havoc Wrought in Ohio and West Virginia.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 15.—The first genuine cyclone ever witnessed in this immediate vicinity was experienced this afternoon, and wrought devastation over a section of country extending faom St. Clairsville, Ohio, ten miles west to a point as far east as this city. Little damage was done here. The storm was first felt at St. Clairsville at 3.35 p. m. It appeased to be travelling from the west in the shape of a funnel-shaped mass of cloud resembling in appearance dense black smoke. The cone was downward, and could be plainly traced over its track by destruction it left. Houses were demolished, trees snapped off like pipestems, horses and cattle prostrated and carried bodily hundreds of yards by the gale, and the sky was darkened with the clouds of flying debris. The storm and its effects showed all the distinguishing characteristics of the Western cyclone. Two person share reported fatally injured and four others more or less seriously injured. The aggregate loss will exceed a million dollars. The loss in St. Clairsville alone will reach $200,000.

The expenditure of the Canadian Post-office Department last year was $3,380,000 and the revenue $2,465,747, consequently the carriage of the mails cost the country $900,000 more than the public paid for the service.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Queens County Election—The Official Debates—The Address Passed Without Division.

FRIDAY, April 15.—The papers in the Queens County, N.B., case were read.

QUEEN'S COUNTY ELECTION.

Mr. WELDON moved that the Returning Officer of Queen's County, N.B., be ordered by telegraph to send the poll books, certificates and other papers. He urged that the majority candidate should have been returned, and quoted an English case to show that if a candidate were once permitted to run the Returning officer could not pass him over, even if he were clearly disqualified.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD cheerfully assented and expressed his conviction that every member would approach the case in a non-partizan spirit.

OFFICIAL DEBATE.

Mr. BOWELL named a committee of thirteen on the official reports of debates, each Province having a representative.

Mr. BLAKE thought more old members should be retained, and that the Opposition should have another, so he moved the substitution of Mr. Scriver for Mr. McIntyre and the addition of Mr. Somerville (Brant).

Mr. BOWELL assented.

THE ADDRESS.

Mr. PORTER moved the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, delivering a good maiden speech, which kept pretty closely to the topics of the speech.

Mr. WILDON (Albert) seconded the address with much ability. He gave particular attention to the Fishery question, urging a firm but courteous maintenance of our rights.

Mr. BLAKE complimented the mover and seconder, but suggested that the members for Queens and Haldimand should have been entrusted with the duty. The speech from the throne was so harmless that he would move no amendment. In regard to the Queen's Jubilee he declared it would be fitting to grant Ireland a government on constitutional rules. He would not express an opinion on the fishery question for want of sufficient information, and he criticised the proposals for a Sault Ste. Marie Canal on Canadian territory and for a Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD rebuked Mr. Blake for displaying the fact that he had prejudged the Queens and Haldimand cases, when he should be prepared like the Conservatives to approach such matters in a judicial spirit. He answered Mr. Blake's criticisms on the Ministry of Trade and Commerce and other matters.

The address was then agreed to, clause by clause, and was ordered to be presented.

THE ROSS BIBLE.

To the Editor of the Review:

DEAR SIR,—Permit me a few words in explanation respecting the stand I took on School Board, and against that abortion commonly known and notoriously famous as the "Ross bible"—but by the enemies of the Truth styled "Scripture Readings." I don't object to what is in the book but to what is left out, to the way in which the pure Word of God is mutilated and the Spirit thereof destroyed to suit to enemies of men's souls, and the enemies of the Christ of God who loves mankind and suffered that they might be free. I consider it the most insideous attempt that ever the devil made to destroy the teaching of the true Spirit of God, for while it pretends to give a bible to the people it attempts under the guise of a giver to play the robber. The chapters that all evangelists love to dwell on, those portions in which the love of God is manifested to lost man, are either entirely left out or so mangled to suit the devil that anyone whose eyes are not deliberately closed to the truth can see it. Its whole object is to pretend to give the Bible and the whole time villianously distroying it to us, in pretense to keep our children pure, luring them on to hell and ruin by giving them the impression that the Bible is impure, making a race of infidels out of our loved and darling children. This is the object of this infamous trick. "The Lord rebuke the Satan."

I take my stand to the death in defence God's pure Word, defying the epithets hurled against me, throwing them off me like hail; they can't hurt me. If they are truthful God will give me grace to bear with becoming humility my just punishment, but if untruthful it must be left with Him. Fearless with Him as my defence I face Satan with the above words, I face man with "The Lord is my helper and I will not fear what man shall do unto me." I am not easily deceived when men with high sounding titles after their names endorse. (I know the titles come from man and are not given them by God.) I will not not blindly follow when it means dishonor to God, but will calmly measure everything with God's Word whether it be so. II Cor. xi, 13, 14, 15 tells me that the devil is transformed into an angel of light, and, therefore, it is no great thing if his ministers be transformed into the ministers of righteousness. (That is not in the Ross bible, nor is 1st Peter v, 1, 2, 3.) Therefore have I launched into an exposure of this emanation of the Evil One and in doing so have fully considered and counted the cost, thankful to God that I am counted worthy by Him in this defence of His holy and pure Word.

I have had difficulty in seeing a copy of the work in question. I could not buy one and knowing that they are shut to the ignorant (?) public I have entered upon the work of placing the thing before the public, earnestly praying that the stronghold of liberty, virtue and true Godliness may be strengthened thereby, and a slumbering public awakened to the terrible danger menacing them, the forerunner of which we have before us, and that the Word of God intact may be read and believed to the glory and honor of Jesus Christ our soon coming Lord, to whom I owe all I am or have and who has said, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life." John, III, 16.

I have the honor, the unspeakable honor, to be His humble servant, and yours for His sake,

G. B. SPROULE.

Worth Remembering.

Every inspiration of the lungs, every pulse-throb of the heart, every sweep of the arm—even our very thoughts as they speed through the brain—all create waste matter that must be constantly removed if there is to be that beautiful harmony of functional effort which constitutes health. Nature's remedy is the sure and eminently wise one, of expelling, by proper purgation, the humors which cause disease, and Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are nature's great ally in the cure of digestive disturbances, and an unfailing remedy for constipation and its pernicious effects.

THE FISHERIES.

Unsoundness of the United States Position—A Chicago Paper's Views.

At the risk of involving two nations, whose material interests are all bound up in peace, in a war of reprisals, Secretary Bayard seems to be indulging in the unstatesmanlike smartness of a shyster. The public has become familiar with the contention of the United States for the free admission of its fishermen within the "territorial" waters of the Dominion of Canada. Although the right to "take, dry or cure fish on or within three marine miles of any of the coasts, bays, creek or harbors of her Britannic majesty's dominions in North America" was expressely renounced by our commissioners by the treaty of 1818, and is not pretended to have been regained even by such a shrewd Maine fisherman as James G. Blaine. Congress has authorized a retaliatory policy to be proclaimed by the President should the Canadian authorities attempt to defend what they consider their own, and what Mr. Blaine has acknowledged is theirs. The whole case of American fishermen seeking to fish in Canadian waters rests upon the construction put upon the three-mariue-mile limit. The British contend for the headland theory, which brings all bays, etc., within "territorial" waters. Along the Atlantic coast Secretary Bayard has been holding to the American theory that the three mile limit follows the sinuosities of the shore, and does not include bays, etc.

It is just here where Secretary Bayard's legal smartness has exposed him to ridicule, if not contempt. The department of state has a fisheries squabble on its hands relating to the killing of seal in Alaskan waters.

Last September some British Columbian schooners were found freighted with seal-skins and seized on the high seas between 60 and 120 miles from land. On a three-mile theory, following the windings of the coasts, the seals could be shot by the crews of British or other vessels, and the seals would soon be driven away. By the treaty of March 30, 1866, pretty nearly all the Northern Pacific ocean was ceded, along with Alaska, by the Emperor of Russia to the United States. The "territorial" waters then acquired include the most of Behring's Sea. Great Britain has never recognized the right of Russia to stake off the Northern Pacific and transfer it to the United States. As the value of the seal fisheries to the Alaska Fur Company are involved, the power of the United States has been invoked to defend a theory on the Pacific coast which it repudiates when applied to the gulfs, straits, bays, etc., of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Quebec and Labrador.

Secretary Bayard is said to have made some very smart points in favor of reserving Behring's Sea from the seal-hunters of British Columbia, which the British diplomatists have been quick to seize upon to uphold her Brittannic Majesty's dominion over the teeming bays of the Atlantic. If this be true Secretary Bayard has acted like a shyster lawyer who never studies the principles of justice and equity, but applies his shrewdness and learning to winning the case at bar, irrespective of how his argument may contradict or nullify what he has erstwhile contended. The shyster lawyer always strives to distort the law to fit the side of any question upon which he may be for the time being employed. Herein is the very antithesis to the serious statesman who seeks to settle all questions upon fundamental principles of right. There cannot be one theory of international law for the Atlantic and another for the Pacific. —Chicago News.

SMITH.

HARMONY.—The paragraph in the REVIEW about the organ in the Methodst Church on the sixteenth concession has excited much attention. The action of the trustees in the matter is not approved by many of the congregation, and perhaps there may be a meeting to discuss the subject. To welcome people's assistance and then to treat them with coldness is not the way to build up a church or to inspire outsiders with respect for religion.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

"Here's ten cents," says Shirley. "Go and spend it now, and don't feel guilty in the least."

"Oh, you know what I meant. What's the use of all this skimping? Other people who are no better off than we are have beautiful things. It makes one feel so mean to be tied down here all summer, when the other girls can have pretty new things and go away for trips and have some pleasure."

"Why, I don't know," said Shirley. "I think it's rather jolly to be saved all that fuss and bother. Nothing is expected of you. You can earn your own money, and you needn't spend it for a carriage and horses because Mrs. Smith has one."

"There you go again," said Brownie. "Why must you always be talking about earning money, and letting people know you work? I'm sure you could buy whatever you wanted to and get trusted for the pay. Then if we were poor nobody would know it."

"What a head there is upon this girl's shoulders, now! But, my child, nobody deceives the world in that way. Murder will out. Father used to say you couldn't make a meal bag stand up when it was empty. You'll have to pass for what you are worth, Brownie."

"Then I won't," spoke up the little sister. "Am I going to let the Frobisher girls know my silk dress is an old one colored and turned and made over on a sham skirt, when they've got new ones all round? Yes, and that I made it myself? I'll die first!"

"I should think you'd be rather proud of it," replied Shirley, simply. "And I'm sure they see through the sham and laugh at you for it. A square out and out poverty that pays its modest way as it goes is ten times more dignified than the poverty that tries to pass for riches."

"Shirley, don't preach. It's unbecoming to you. Why didn't you marry a rich man and help your family on."

"I never saw one I'd have," said Shirley, laughing.

"Then I'm sure it was very ungrateful of you, taking your own head for things in that way. Other girls get rich husbands. I declare it's what I mean to do myself. I won't live on in this mean, stingy poverty. The first rich man that comes along—you mark it!—I'll have him though he's four times a widower and 100 years old, and takes snuff. And I don't care!"

At that Shirley preached in earnest.

"Don't do that, Brownie," she said. If you do you'll be sorry for it all your life. A woman can make no greater mistake than to marry a man she's not in love with. If she does, she's tolerably sure to find somebody she is in love with afterwards. And it won't be her husband. But the true knight will come too late. No, no, Brownie. Never let me hear that again."

"How do you know so much about it, Shirley? You never cared for any man. A man wouldn't dare to make love to you."

Shirley laughed again.

"My prophetic soul tells me," she replied.

That was one sermon Brownie got. Another was preached to her.

Mr. Wabbnobbs did not go westward with his friend Tom. Wabbnobbs lingered. The air of Linwood agreed with him. By and by it could not be denied that he began to hover in an offish way around Brownie. The girl half encouraged him, "for the fun of it." The children, Harry and Alice, made merry immensely over Brownie's lover.

"He makes me think of Mother Goose," said Alice.

A little pig found a fifty dollar note,
And purchased a hat and a very fine coat.

"It's the beauty of him that takes me," said Harry. "His false teeth waltz up and down in his mouth every time he talks. When he gets eloquent, I can't keep my eyes off those teeth. They flip up and down with every word, and fascinate me, like the Ancient Mariner's glittering eye. I'm all of a tremble for fear they'll shoot out into Brownie's lap."

"And he's got sleeve buttons made of Red sea pebbles, that look like pig's eyes," added Alice. "Yes, he's a beauty."

Mis' Simpkins came in at that moment. The children went on with their chaffing. Harry liked to talk learnedly.

Mis' Simpkins took on her business face.

"Tell you what, children, a rich husband ain't to be sneezed at, I can tell you, if he has got store teeth. What else did the Almighty give a girl good looks for, I'd like to know, if twan't to catch a rich man?"

"Hear, hear!" said saucy Harry. "A pretty girl is wasting the gifts of Providence if she doesn't use her good looks to catch a rich husband."

Mis' Simpkins scorned to notice the interruption.

"I knowed Bence Wabbnobbs in his fust wife's time," she continued. "She was a pretty woman, pretty as a pied pony, but they didn't hit it together, somehow. I don't know why. She was a lovin' kind o' person, all for kissin' an' that. She liked bein' made over and petted. He—he wasn't that sort, you know."

"Never do for Brownie," said Alice, mischievously. "Brownie never could get on without the kissing, never!"

"Especially with the waltzing false teeth," put in Harry.

"Yes," says Alice. "How Brownie's heart would ache, to be sure; she'd pine away and die."

"That's what his fust wife did," continued Mis' Simpkins. "She just up and died. He drinked a good deal in them days, though he's quit that now. That made him more 'rritable, I reckon. He's mild-mannered enough now, but he's got pizen in him yit."

"Providence made 'em for one another," exclaimed Alice, fervently. "Brownie's got 'pizen' in her, too."

"But he was always a good pervider," continued Mis' Simpkins. "Give the devil his dues."

"Do!" murmured wicked Harry.

Mis' Simpkins still showed her lofty superiority to these naughty interruptions.

"It ain't well for females to be alone in the world. I know what it is to be a lone woman—not but what it's a good lonesome, sometimes, I will say that."

Alice—Brownie's a fragile flower, too tender too live alone, aren't you Brownie?

"All I've got to say," said Mis' Simpkins, raising her voice, "is that Bence Wabbnobbs ain't to be grinned at by them that's got no teeth."

Harry—Mr. Wabbnobbs has got teeth, anyhow.

"And," continued Mis' Simpkins, fixing him with her glittering eye, "if Brownie's got the gumption I give her credit for, she'll not turn her back on the gifts of Providence when they fly in her face. He ain't han'some, that's a fact. But if a man was a good pervider, and had a plenty, I wouldn't keer if he was humbly as the tongs—I'd take him."

That was Mis' Simpkins sermon.

The children laughed beyond reason, and teased Brownie incessantly about her good pervider. But nobody dreamed of anything serious. In earnest, the Carstones would almost as soon have thought of marrying their sister to Rip the tramp.

Rip was now a distinguished and rising thief and burglar. No influence could reach him. There was a wildness in him that nothing could tame. He was a picturesque looking desperado, too, with tawny hair and flashing white teeth. His frame was well knit; he was lithe and graceful as a panther. When he met Brownie in the village street, he shot a glance at her from his daring yet furtive eyes that made her uncomfortable. She was beginning to be afraid of him, with a nameless dread.

One day the young scamp entered the stone house abruptly. Whether he entered a house by day or night this estimable former acquaintance of ours did not knock at the door first. It was not his way.

Brownie was alone. He asked for something to eat. She gave him some bread and meat.

"I don't want that," said he. "Gimme a piece of pie. I want pie."

"We don't make pie at our house," replied Brownie. "Go away."

He came close to her, so close that she felt his hot breath upon her cheek, and cowered beneath his glowing eyes.

"Don't you be so sassy, or the bad man'll come and carry you off, and hide you in the woods. He wouldn't stop much to do it now."

She was frightened, and showed it. He saw it and laughed. Then he said:

"Don't be skeered. Where's your sister? She'll give me some pie, I know."

She pointed out toward the grounds in silence. She was only too glad to be rid of him. He wheeled in the direction of her finger, and was gone. He was quite respectful and humble to Shirley.

"There's something you ought to know, missis," he began at once. "That there Wabbnobbs—he's a courtin' your sister in earnest. He's got a wife and children now, out there where he's been in the west. I've seen 'em many a time. He's got money, though. How did he get it? He got it by swindling his pardner. Derned if he didn't! He went back on his pard."

Shirley smiled at the solemn enormity which this offence had assumed in the mind of the vagabond.

"I dare say your're right, Rip," she answered, gently. "I believe you. It's kind of you to tell me of it, and I thank you, but there's no danger to Brownie." She wouldn't look at Wabbnobbs."

"There's something else you'd ought to know, too," continued Rip, presently. "I never go back on a friend. But this chap's no friend of mine. I don't associate with a feller that'll steal from his pard," said Rip, with magnificent scorn. "I hate him!" he exclaimed, through his teeth. There was a viciousness about him that seemed uncalled for.

"Well?" asked Shirley.

"'Twas Wabbnobbs took Tom into that club house where he lost Mis' Simkins' $500. Wabbnobbs got half the money."

Now Shirley was interested.

"Is that really true?" she asked.

"I saw 'em make the divvy."

Shirley considered.

"And it looks to me like a feller who will serve that trick on a greeny whose sister he wants to marry, ain't just the feller to have fur a brother-in-law in a high toned family," remarked Rip, virtuously.

"It looks to me exactly that way, too," said Shirley. "I'm glad you told me this. But really there is nothing in that about Brownie, nothing at all."

Rip was only half satisfied. He shook his head.

"I don't know about that, missis. Anyway, if I was you, I'd look a leetle out. Things that seems to be in fun often turns out to be in earnest."

He started to go. Then he came back.

"You won't say anything to—to your sister that I told you this? She might think I was meddlin'."

Shirley looked at him curiously.

"Why, certainly not, Rip. But what do you care for the ill will of a girl like that?"

"Oh, well, I dunno," he said confusedly. "A feller don't jist like to have a gal down on him." Then he disappeared in the bushes in an instant.

Still the children chaffed Brownie; still Shirley was sure there was nothing in it. And still Brownie fumed and fretted because she could not have beautiful silk stockings and fresh gloves every day, and because this and that. The fine old stone house, with its deep, embowered windows, and faded, though solid furnishings, looked very mean to her in the midst of the pretentious mansions that began to rise around it. One day in a mood of burning discontent she went out to grumble by herself. She thought not at all of the good she had. All that seemed to her worth having was the good she had not. She brooded bitterly. At last she exclaimed:

"Why can't we have things like other people?" I would sell my soul to Old Nick for $50,000."

"Old Nick would get the best of the bargain," said a voice near her, very coolly."

It was Wabbnobbs who spoke. He looked at her keenly.

"See here, Miss Brownie," said he, in a slow, significant tone, "suppose the devil had heard you make that remark and should come and take you at your word?"

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep, by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Opened his store on Saturday, April 2nd, the first door south of Arcade, George street—Dry Goods, Clothing and Hats and Caps. Many lines have been bought at a rate of 60 cents on the dollar to clear. These goods will be slaughtered. It will pay you to look through.

Locating the Line.

Mr. F. R. Hewson has received instructions from the Grand Trunk Railway to proceed with the survey to locate the line joining the Midland and Grand Junction branches by way of the locks. Mr. Hewson is also commissioned to arrange with the owners of property through which the line is to pass and settle the amount of the claims.

CALL at TURNBULL'S for Hosiery and Gloves; a choice selection of all kinds always in stock.

Proposed Railway.

A correspondent of the Cobourg Sentinel-Star advocates the building of a railway from Cobourg through Campbellford to the Canadian Pacific Railway at Havelock or Blairton. He prefers Blairton as the terminal point as it is "the location of the old iron mines, where there are yet inexhaustible supply of ore, and which will, sooner or later, be worked on a large scale. The fact that they did not pay when worked before, is chiefly due to two reasons, viz: the difficult and roundabout way of transportation, and the existence of sulphur in the ore. The latter now amounts to nothing, an apparatus having since been invented in England, which in smelting removes every trace of sulphur without the slightest difficulty. The former would be obviated by the building of the proposed line on which the ore could be shipped direct from the mines to Cobourg, instead of as formerly by train to the narrows, then transferred to scows to be taken to Harwood, where it had all to be transferred to the train again to be brought into Cobourg and thence conveyed to the United States."

An Incendiary Fire.

SCHOMBERG, Ont., April 16.—At 10 p m Tracey's hotel and stables were burned; loss $3,000. Two horses and five hogs were lost. The fire was set by an incendiary.

Killed by a Cave-in.

GUELPH, Ont., April 16.—While a number of laborers were excavating for the foundation of the new Catholic church here this morning the earth caved in on them burying Fred King, aged 21, crushing him so badly that when extricated life was found to be extinct.

FOR a neat fitting Jersey, heavy enough for street wear, go to TURNBULL'S.

LEADERSHIP IN COMMISSION.

Mr. Blake the Head of the Board a Temporary Expedient.

The following circular from Mr. Blake shows how he withdrew his refusal to retain the leadership of the Dominion Opposition, on the conditions, however, that the arrangement should be temporary and he should be only one of a committee retaining a nominal lead:—

TORONTO, March 28, 1887.

MY DEAR SIR,—I am sorry that time and strength do not allow of my replying separately to the friends who have answered my secret letter of March 3. I am very grateful for the kindness of their words and have anxiously considered their views. I remain of the opinion that, for personal reasons, my long-desired retirement is now not only justifiable from a personal but also expedient from a party standpoint. These reasons I would here have summarized, but they are necessarily confidential, and it is better to avoid the possibility of the recurrence of the accident which, doubtless, led to my former letter being made public. I therefore ask you to allow me to reserve what I can for personal conference, and this I do the more freely because, having regard to the strong opinions expressed, I see no alternative save to yield as far as possible to the final determination of my friends. I am sorry that the qualification is very considerable. My health will not allow me either to prepare for or to discharge the work of the session as in former years. It has been suggested that the work should be largely done by a committee, I retaining a nominal lead. I believe this plan will be unsatisfactory as a make-shift, while as a permanency it would be intolerable. Yet it is the only possible alternative. I hope that on consideration you will agree that a new arrangement is preferable, but while I should be thankful for such a decision, and while I feel doubly averse to a condition which must put the forbearance of my friends to still severer tests than before, I shall submit myself for this session to the general judgment which may be reached. It seems to be the view that the sessions should be vigorously opened. This requires previous preparation, and I earnestly hope you will be able to comply with my former request by reaching Ottawa early and ready for immediate action on all points open for attack.

I remain, sir, with regrets for the trouble I have unavoidably caused,

Yours faithfully,
EDWARD BLAKE.

BOBCAYGEON.

CAME BACK.—Mr. Burke left here some little time since to settle in Dakota. He gave that country a fair trial, and would have settled there if the circumstances had been encouraging. But they were not and he returned to Haliburton last week.

ACCIDENT.—Master William Robinson, son of J. T. Robinson, met with a serious accident, on Saturday morning. Together with a few companions they were investigating a circular straw cutter, when by some means his left hand was caught under the blades, and in a moment his three fingers were nipped off near the middle joint. The maimed hand is progressing favorably and with good care he has suffered very little pain.

CATTLE.—The thorough bred Polled Angus herd of the Big Island Stock Farm, is becoming famed throughout the American Continent. Until the present some of the finest animals of the best families have been procured, and the herd has been allowed to increase and accumulate. It is now admitted by competent judges to be one of the best if not the best this side of the Atlantic. Such care has been taken in procuring the finest animals as the parent stock, that the entire herd ranks in the first class, having no second quality. The herd has reached such a size as to permit of sales being made and two good sales have been closed within the last few days to leading breeders in the States. Mr. B. R. Pearse, of Creston, Illinois, has taken away five cows and a bull, and Mr. Garranger of Washington, C. H. Ohio, has purchased eleven young bulls. The prices were satisfactory which means that any one of the cows was worth sixteen ordinary cows, and the young bulls each brought the value of seventeen ordinary animals of the same age. Mr. Garranger scarcely expected to find so much winter, leaving home as he did, in the the slack time between the spring work and the ploughing for corn. It is certain that we have as much winter in our weather as the most ardent lover of the chilly could desire, but it is equally certain that we can raise cattle to compete with the best known stock and at a profit to the raiser.—Independent.

FENELON FALLS.

PUBLIC WORKS.—Mr. John Aylmer, Government engineer, who resided at the Falls while the canal was being built, came last Wednesday from Peterborough, where he is now stationed, to see how the work on the lock gates is progressing, and left again on Thursday morning. He and Mr. Wynn, the contractor, both tell us that the gates will be up in the course of about a month, and that the swing bridges will then be commenced. In accordance with an arrangement with the Government, the railway bridge is to be built by the Grand Trunk Co., and will be a very substantial structure, all of iron. Strange as it appears the new bridge can be erected on the site of the old one without delaying the traffic for more than a few hours.—Gazette.

A CYCLONE'S BIRTH.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 16.—The origin of the whirlwind which devastated a large section of Belmont County, Ohio, yesterday afternoon has been definitely fixed. A farmer living just north of Lloydsville, 16 miles west of this city, saw the column of dust and leaves rise where there were two depressions in the rolling ground, which allowed two currents of wind to cross at right angles. A little eddy started, sucking up leaves and dirt and momentarily increasing in size until it formed a column from the earth apparently to the sky, which advanced with fearful velocity through an erratic course in an easterly direction. The larger and upper end kept a nearly straight course, the lower end lashing about striking a house here and there and demolishing it, and then not touching the earth for perhaps a hundred yards. When the whirlwind struck St. Clairsville it was split into two ascending and whirling columns united in a great mass of black clouds in the heavens. No adequate idea of can be conveyed in words of the scene of ruin and desolation when the tornado struck. Nearly fifty families have no shelter except what is afforded by a skating rink placed at their disposal.

TURNBULL is showing a good unlaundried White Shirt at 40c. each.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—As there seems to be little or no move on the part of our citizens towards celebrating the Queen's jubilee I would like to make a suggestion. Now, sir, I would like to see all the musical talent of Peterborough together for the occasion, and have one grand musical festival on that day. Say all the choirs of the different churches, the band and all the singers outside the church choirs. I think we ought to raise about 200 singers. What a grand effect that would have! This would be something Peterborough has never had before. I am sure if our church choirs and their leaders would think favourably of it, and go into it with a will, we might have something on that day that would be a credit to our town. I would like to see this accomplished, and the concert given on the Court House Park so that everyone could enjoy it, and everybody join in singing our National Anthem, "God Save our Queen." I would also suggest the following pieces be taken up by the band and singers:

Gloria.....12th Mass..... Mozart
But the Lord is Mindful of His Own .....St. Paul ..... Mendelsohn
Hallelujah.....Messiah ..... Handel

The Band could fill up the programme. I would like to hear from other musicians of the town on the matter.

I remain yours,
F. W. MILLER,
Bandmaster.

Burned At Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—The barque City of Papeete arrived to-day from Tahiti bringing the captain and crew of the German steamer Raiates, which was burned at sea Feb. 13th. The fire of the steamer was so sudden that no one was able to save anything. The ship's boats were always kept provisioned, otherwise those who escaped in them would have been starved. There was intense suffering from the heat and lack of water. When all were nearly dead from exhaustion after five days' exposure in the open boats Remgiro Island, one of the Loumutu group, was sighted Here the refugees remained for 12 days, being kindly cared for by the natives. Thence in a small cutter the party reached Tahiti. J. D. Priel, one of the passengers, died the day after the boats left the burning vessel. His death resulted from injuries received in being pulled through the bulls eye of the vessel while being rescued.

TO BUILD THE BRIDGES

PERMANENT STRUCTURES ON SIMCOE AND BROCK STREETS.

The Locks Bridge Renewal—Cribbing Crescent Street—$25,000 Required for the Proposed Improvements—Another Scott Act Debate—Other Matters.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening. There were present: His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Kendry, Menzies, Douglass, Moore, Yelland. Stenson, McNeil, Kelly, Cahill, Davidson, McNaughton and Hartley.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The MAYOR explained that the special reason why he had called them together was to consider what was to be done with the recently damaged bridges. In reference to the Scott Act fines he said that he asked the Minister of Justice what his interpretation of the Order-in-Council was. He required an official inquiry from the County or Town Council. He was in possession of the official inquiry and the next time he went to Ottawa he would lay the matter before the Minister of Justice.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were then read:—

From Geo. Howard offering for sale a street sweeping machine—Street and Bridge Committee.

From E. C. Hill asking a refund of fine.

From J. C. Turnbull and 15 others asking street improvements—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Wm. Bell asking street improvements—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Wm. Beavis asking refund of dog tax—Court of Revision.

From Thos. Beavis threatening to sue the Town for the action of the Fire Department in pulling down a chimney—Finance Committee.

From H. Evans applying for street improvements—Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

From Mr. Bolton and 12 others asking street improvements—Street and Bridge Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented:

Western Assurance Co.	30 50
John Halpin, sharpening picks	11 40

The accounts were all referred to the Finance Committee, with the exception of the insurance accounts.

FINANCE.

Councillor DAVIDSON read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

Mary Ritchie		$ 6 00

Peterborough Water Co., breaking hydrants		9 00

Your Committee would authorize the Clerk to notify the Peterborough Water Co. to discontinue the use of the hydrant on London, between George and Aylmer streets, at the expiration of the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

Peterborough, April 18th, 1887.

A protracted discussion took place on the last clause of the report in which the chairman of the committee and Councillors Kendry and Moore took part. The latter two councillors urged that the hydrant should be retained. Councillor Davidson argued that there was an unequal distribution of hydrants. An amendment was moved to refer back the question to the committee. It was voted down on the casting vote of the Mayor, who voted for the report.

STREETS AND BRIDGES.

Councillor CAHILL read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Town Council:

GENTLEMEN,—The Street and Bridge Committee begs leave to report and recommend that authority be obtained to issue debentures to the value of say $25,000 for the purpose of erecting permanent bridges over the creek on the principle thoroughfares of the town, also the locks bridge and cribbing crescent street, such debentures to extend over a period of 25 or 30 years as may be determined upon, and to be issued from time to time as may be required to meet the expenditure of those works.

And for the purpose of carrying out this recommendation, that the Town Solicitor be instructed to prepare a by-law to be submitted to the ratepayers at an early date for their approval.

Your Committee ask the authority of the Council to take such steps as may be necessary to enter into contracts for the erection of bridges on Simcoe street and Brock street during the current year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
THOS. CAHILL,
Chairman.

Council Chamber, April 18, 1887.

Councillor CAHILL supported the report, pointing out that it was not just to the present generation that they should be called on to pay for these permanent improvements and that the true course, in order to prevent high taxes for the current year, would be to issue the debentures.

Councillor MOORE said that at the time of the consolidation of the Town debt it was enjoined by law that there should be no increase of the debt except that it be paid on the ensuing year's roll. The by-law might be submitted, however. He agreed with Councillor Cahill that this was the proper way to make the proposed improvements. He advocated borrowing the necessary money from the Town Commissioners.

The report was passed.

FIRE WATER AND LIGHT.

Councillor MCNEIL read the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and commend that Terrence Smith be awarded the contract to supply one team and man for one year for the sum of six hundred and forty nine dollars, service to commence on May 1st 1887 and terminate on May 1st 1888.

That the petition of the Fire Brigade asking for a fire alarm be granted cost not to exceed $125.

That the offer of J. M. Irwin to purchase the four wheeled hose cart for $30 be accepted.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
A. MCNEIL,
Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN explained that in engaging the extra team and man would not cost the town a cent. The town paid the man who drove the second street watering cart $300 for road work last year. Now, by paying no more the Town would have the services of the extra team all the year round, for drawing snow plough, drawing hose waggon, and other work. In regard to the fire alarm in had been arranged with the manager of the telephone office to have electric alarms put into the houses of each of the firemen for the amount named.

After a short discussion the report was adopted.

MARKET COMMITTEE.

Councillor YELLAND read the report of Market Committee recommending that the market be given to Mr. John Doherty at $800. The report was adopted.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

Councillor MCNEIL introduced a by-law to grant $200 to the Mechanics' Institute—$100 for this year and $100 for last. He explained that the usual grant was not available last year, owing to the formality of passing a by-law not having been gone through. The by-law was read twice and held over for enquiries till next meeting.

SURETIES.

Councillor DAVIDSON introduced a by-law requiring town officials who handled town money to give suitable sureties. It passed its several readings.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Councillor MCNEIL introduced a by-law to grant the Horticultural Society $500 as according to the action of the Council at the last meeting, for the purpose of beautifying the Horticultural Gardens and Central Park. It was passed.

MR. HILL COMPLAINS.

Mr. E. C. HILL addressed the Council. He said that last fall he had been fined for driving a nail in a tree to support a bill board. Well, sir, he knew people who drove spikes in trees to fasten wire fences to but they were not fined—perhaps because they were nabobs and drones. He claimed that the working man should be entitled to fair play. As a citizen he had always tried to advance the town's interests. He took a hold of his present business and tried to do the public service. Before that when the printers had to stick up their own bills on other people's fences the latter (people not fences) shouted "Get out of there, don't you paste bills on my fence." Well, he was doing the public service. It was no fun to take a paste pot and brush and work at it all day, and there wasn't much money it it. If the Council thought there was he would sell out for $400. As an old citizen, as a neighbor, as a workingman he asked the Council to show fair play and not retard progress.

SYSTEM OF SEWERAGE.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor MCNEIL,—That a special committee of this council be appointed for the purpose of taking action in promoting sewerage in this town and the best means to pay for same, the said committee to consist of Messrs. Moore, Menzies, Kendry, McNaughton, McNeil and Douglass, first named to be Chairman of the committee.—Carried.

TO RETIRE THE DEBENTURES.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL, That the Mayor and Treasurer be granted authority to issue debentures to retire those falling due during the first year—Carried.

REPAIRS.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Clerk be instructed to write to Mr. Mashin, engineer G.T.R., requesting him to have the approaches to the M.R. at Wescot and Park street put in proper order at his earliest convenience.—Carried.

SIDEWALK.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor YELLAND,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to have a sidewalk put down on the southwest side of Brook street between George and Water streets.—The motion was left as a notice of motion.

SCOTT ACT.

Councillor YELLAND moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY—That the request of the Scott Act Association reported on at the last sitting of this Council be granted.

Councillor MOORE moved, seconded by Councill DOUGLASS—Resolved, that whereas the Canadian Temperance Act 1878 is in force in the County of Peterborough within which the Town of Peterborough is situated, and a misunderstanding has arisen between the Town and County as to the correct construction to be placed upon the order in council made after passing a memorial to the Governor in General in Council on the subject by this council) respecting the disposition of fines, penalties that have been, or may be, inflicted by the act, the County claiming that it is entitled to all the fines and penalties for breaches of the Act occuring in the County beyond the limit of the town, regardless of whether such fines and penalties are inflicted at a place within or without the town;

The Minister of Justice be and is hereby respectfully requested to inform the Council of this town what is the intention and the true effect of the said Order in Council as to the disposition of the said fines and penalties between the county and town, and that he consider the said memorial in connection therewith, and that a certified copy of this resolution be forwarded to the said Minister.

Councillor YELLAND, in support of his motion, said that had it not been for the Scott Act Association half these fines would never have been made. He thought it only right that their expenses should be paid seeing that the money was given for that purpose.

Councillor MOORE, while agreeing that the Scott Act Association was to be credited with bringing in a large sum of money to the town and deserved consideration for it, thought they should proceed in such a way as not to entangle themselves. It would be better to wait and see just where they stood and what their power was in the disposition of these fines before doing anything.

Councillor DOUGLASS agreed with Councillor Moore. The Scott Act Association had doubtless brought a good bit of money to the town treasury. But it would be better to see if the town could legally give this money out in this way before they took action.

Councillor YELLAND said that he had another motion which he would submit. The Council could pass whichever of them they liked. His second motion was as follows:—

Councillor YELLAND moved, seconded by Councillor STENSON,—That the Town Treasurer is hereby instructed to pay Mr. E. B. Edwards' bill, and Mr. Rossiter's wages, both being for the enforcement of the Canada Temperance Act in the Town of Peterborough.

This would not be breaking any law. This work done by these two men was Scott Act work.

Councillor MCNEIL—What is their bill?

Councillor YELLAND—No odds what it is. It's all for Scott Act work.

Councillor MCNEIL—It might be $5,000.

Councillor YELLAND—No; it's not that much.

Councillor MOORE—What do you pay your men?

Councillor YELLAND—Well, Mr. Rossiter gets $40 a month. That's not too much, is it, Mr. McNeil?

Councillor MCNEIL—No; he ought to get twice that for doing that dirty business.

Councillor YELLAND—That's a matter of opinion. We don't think it's dirty work.

Councillor HARTLEY thought the Council might pay these bills. There was no doubt that Mr. Edwards and Mr. Rossiter did the Scott Act work.

Councillor KENDRY said that the money was given to the town "for the purpose of the enforcement of the Act," and if they liked not a cent of it could be spent for any other purpose. Now he was going to see what done with that money.

Councillor CAHILL said that Mr. Kendry made his position as clear as it could be made without taking his coat off. Because the Council was not spending it to suit him threatened that it should not be spent to suit the Council. There were two sides to this. Legal opinion had been obtained to the effect that the Council might get itself into a box if this money was handed over to private persons.

Councillor MCNEIL—"Mr. Kendry states that he is here to see that the Scott Act Association gets its share of those fines. I am here to see that they don't get a single solitary cent of those fines." Continuing he said the Council had no power whatever to hand over the money to private persons. It was all very well for these people to come here and tell a pathetic story as to what good it had done. He declared that it had not done any good, but stated that it had injured the prosperity of the town and made it worse morally. There were hell holes and shebeens existing now as was never in Peterborough before.

Councillor STENSON quoted from the Police Court record showing a large decrease in the number of convictions, and specially a large falling off in drunk and disorderly cases, since the introduction of the Scott Act as compared with the year previous.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON also stated that there were a large number of shebeens. He offered to show Messrs. Yelland and Stenson around if they would keep it mum. If the Scott Act Association went around like the Salvation Army and reasoned and talked with drunkards and tried to put them on their feet again, it would be the best kind of a temperance society. Why didn't the preachers do that? No; they didn't visit poor people. They went around to houses with fine drawing rooms like His Worship's. (Laughter.) The Salvation Army was doing a great deal of good and he knew it.

After continuing the debate for a time Councillor Moore's motion was passed.

A number of motions were made asking for street improvements. Councillor Douglass, who moved to have a sidewalk on Mill street, was the only one successful.

The Council then adjourned.

The expenditure of the Canadian Post-office Department last year was $3,390,000 and the revenue $2,468,747, consequently the carriage of the mails cost the country $900,000 more than the public paid for the service.

A VERY SERIOUS CHARGE.

Alleged Letter from Mr. Parnell—Irish Members Call it a Forgery.

LONDON, April 18.—The Times, as a proof of its assertion at the conclusion of its articles on "Parnellism and Crime," that it had further documentary evidence, prints a fac simile of a letter signed by Mr. Parnell, and supposed to have been addressed to Mr. Egan, to pacify his subordinates when Mr. Parnell publicly denounced the Phœnix Park murders. The letter fills one side of an ordinary sheet of note paper, and is in a strange handwriting. "Yours very truly, Chas. S. Parnell," in Mr. Parnell's handwriting, is at the top of the other leaf. The Times suggests that the signature was thus written so that it could be torn off if necessary. The letter, which is dated simply "15,5, '82," without an address, is as follows:—

"DEAR SIR,—I am not surprised at your friend's anger, but he and you should know that to denounce the murders was the only course open to us. To do that promptly was plainly our best policy, but you can tell him and all others concerned that though I regret the accident of Lord F. Cavendish's death, I cannot refuse to admit that Burke got no more than his deserts. You are at liberty to show him this, and others whom you can trust also, but let not my address be known. He can write to the House of Commons."

The Times says:—"Mr. Parnell cannot expect that a simple repudiation of the letter will heve any weight with public opinion. He must bring more solid proofs to annul the effect of the disclosure."

LONDON, April 18, 3.30 p. m.—The lobby of the House of Commons is crowded with members eagerly discussing the alleged Parnell letter. The Irish members indignantly declare it to be a forgery. Mr. Cane and Mr. Henry James, both Liberal-Unionists, were observed in animated conversation over the letter. In an interview, today, Mr. Clancy, Parnellite member for Dublin county, branded the letter as an infamious concoction, and declared that it bears internal evidence of forgery. He said also that suspicion was already directed against a certain person as the forger. An Irish member of Parliament departed for Dublin this morning to compare the handwriting in the letter attributed to Mr. Parnell with that of the person suspected. The Globe, commenting on the alleged Parnell letter, says:—"Until the horrible accusation that Mr. Parnell wrote the letter is proved we shall discredit it." The Pall Mall Gazette says:—"Until the authenticity of the letter shall be absolutely proved there will be no need to discuss its contents." The St. James's Gazette says:—"The letter is a grave document that it will not do to regard it as genuine until Mr. Parnell shall be heard from concerning it."

PARNELL'S DISCLAIMER.

LONDON, April 18.—Speaking from his place in the House of Commons to-night Mr. Parnell referred to the "vile, barefaced forgery—[cheers from the Irish members]—printed in the Times obviously for no other purpose than to influence the divisions. He thought he was entitled to have an opportunity to expose this deliberate attempt to blacken his character in time to reach the outside world. There was no chance now. In addition to passing this coercion bill the dice had to be loaded. Great organs of public opinion were to be permitted to pay miserable creatures to produce these calumnies. Who would be safe under such circumstances? When he heard of the concoction in the Times he supposed that some autograph of his had fallen in the hands of a person for whom it was not intended, but when he saw the letter he saw plainly that the signature was an audacious, unblushing fabrication. He failed to understand how the conductors of what used to be a respectable journal could have been so hoaxed and bamboozled into publishing the letter as his. [Cheers.] Members who compared the forgery with his signature would say that only two letters of the forged signature bore any resemblance to his autograph and the Times could have seen the same. He never heard of nor say any such letter until it appeared in the Times. [Parnellite cheers.] Its phraseology was absurd and its purport preposterous and every part of it bore evidence of an absolute and irrefragable want of genuineness. He did not know anything of the conspiracy of the Invincibles, and nobody was more surprised than himself when the blow fell upon their victims. If he had been in Phœnix Park that day he would gladly have stood between Lord Cavendish and the dagger of the assassin, or between the dagger of the assassin and Mr. Burke. [Irish cheers.] He had suffered more than any other man from that terrible deed, and Ireland had suffered more than any other nation. It was absolutely untrue that the National League had any connection with what ever, direct or indirect, with the Fenian organization in America. He never had any dealings with anybody in America in respect to the proceedings or doings of any societies. All his sayings and doings in connection with Irish public life had been open and above board. [Cheers.]

MR. SHEPPARD'S CASE.

Declining to Endorse High Constable Bissonnette's Warrant.

TORONTO, April 18.—Police Magistrate Denison's reasons for declining to endorse High Constable Bissonnette's warrant for the arrest of E. E. Sheppard, of the News, were that the alleged offence had been committed over two years ago, and although Mr. Sheppard had been in Montreal since, he had not been arrested. He was not obliged to endorse the warrants, as the statute says he "may" and in this case he was in doubt as to whether or not it was an attempt to get Mr. Sheppard to Montreal on the warrant and then arrest him on a judgment for $1,000 damages, obtained by Major Dugas, of the 65th. The Magistrate instanced a case where a man was taken from Toronto to England on a trumped up charge, arrested and convicted there on another charge, and afterwards pardoned and sent back to Canada, where it was shown that the proceedings were contrary to the principles of British justice. The Magistrate further said he would endorse the warrant if a mandamus were issued compelling him to do so, but he did not want to be a party to any unjust proceeding. High Constable Bissonnette returned to Montreal on Saturday night. He intends reporting the matter to Attorney-General Mercier, of Quebec, in the hope that he will communicate with the Attorney-General of this Province.

PETTY CRITICS.

THE silly outcry against the Returning Officers at the general election for the Dominion is still being kept up. We read in one Reform journal after another a repetition or an abstract of the falsified lists invented by the London Advertiser to bolster up its childish but vindictive accusation of wrong doing on the part of the Returning Officers in sending in their returns to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery early or late. It was the duty of these officials to send in their returns by a certain date, and we believe that in every case without exception they have punctually fulfilled this duty within the time appointed. They are under no legal or moral objection to anticipate the limit of time within which they are required to act, even if in consequence some egotists are deprived of the pleasure of seeing their name in the Gazette as soon as they would like. It is sheer impertinence for meddlesome individuals to dictate to officials in what manner they shall do their duty, if they do it in strict accordance with the law as has been the case. For instance we would expect to be told to mind our own business, and we would certainly deserve the rebuff, if we were impertinent enough to ask Sheriff Hall and Registrar Morrow, the Returning Officers for West and East Peterborough, why they chose to make their returns on the days or in the order they did, or to grumble at them because they made the return for the Conservative member before that for the Reform member. Though these gentlemen are Reformers appointed to their offices by the Reform Administration of Ontario we are not so small minded as to imagine they acted with partiality. So long as they made their returns to the writs within the required time, as they did, they had a perfect right to consult their own conveniences as to the exact day for doing so. But petty Grit journalists, judging others by themselves, persist in bringing their dirty little charges of partizan unfairness, even though they have to falsify the lists to give them a ground for their calumnies. Such meanness is pitiable.

It is obvious that the policy of the Macdonald Administration is unassailable when its opponents are driven to have recourse to such miserable, quibbling criticisms. They dare not divide the House on the Address, but elevate into a great party question the respective dates of returns made within the proper time. Probably this is the kind of tactics we are to expect from the committee to execute the office of leader of the Opposition—avoidance of practical questions of policy and the employment of petty accusations founded upon falsification.

THE PROJECTED RAID.

THE Maritime Provinces, as is only natural, find their six Houses and three Governments a burden greater than they can bear. Their plan of obtaining relief is to come to the central Government of Canada begging for doles. A more sensible and economical plan would be to unite the three provinces under one Government with one legislature. Even then they would not exceed the other provinces in area, nor some of them in population. Their interests are quite as similar as are those of different portions of Quebec or of Ontario, or those of Vancouver Island and the mainland of British Columbia. Let them resolve upon this change and they need not fear that any obstacle will be thrown in their way by the rest of Canada or by the mother country. The requisite legislation would be cheerfully granted.

The Province of Quebec which is also assuming a mendicant attitude, has a remedy as easily applied. Let the municipalities tax themselves for local purposes, as we do in Ontario, and the Provincial treasury would obtain the required relief from the present too onerous demands upon it.

As to Ontario giving any countenance to the projected raid upon the Dominion Treasury, it is the height of folly. A little judicious economy would be wiser. Mr. Mowat and his friends have been in the habit of complaining that the other Provinces have obtained the lion's share of Dominion funds at the expense of Ontario. Yet they are now giving encouragement to demands which, if successful, can only result in the people of Ontario, as of the rest of Canada, being subjected to additional Dominion taxation. And then, while enjoying the spending of the money, they will renew their grumbling at the central Government for collecting it. It is as if the partners in a business were each to increase their drawings, and then grumble at the larger outgoings of the firm. The people of Ontario are not anxious to contribute more money for Mr. Mowat to squander, in order that he may excite their indignation against Sir John Macdonald for raising the money. They are not so simple as Mr. Mowat thinks.

Not Allowed to Land.

BOSTON, April 18.—Among the passengers on the Cunard steamer Pavonia which arrived on Saturday, were eight English women, who, as alleged, came here under contract with a Providence company to work at velvet weaving. The Collector of the port refused them permission to land as he believed the conditions under which they came were contrary to the Federal statute prohibiting the importation of foreign laborers under contract. The contract, it is said, provides that they shall work for one year at velvet weaving and shall refund $1.25 per week to cover the passage money advanced to them. The women do not consider themselves subject to the law in question as the industry is a new one.

THERE'S MILLIONS IN IT.

A Gigantic Lottery Scheme Introduced by a Nova Scotia Minister.

A Halifax correspondent of the Montreal Gazette says:—A bill introduced in the Nova Scotia Legislature by Hon. Daniel McNeill, a member of the Government, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Nova Scotia Benefit Company," turns out to be a grand lottery scheme. It looks as if some enterprising Yankees were seeking to transfer the Louisiana lottery business to Nova Scotia. This act provides that the incorporators shall be given thirty years' monopoly of the lottery business in Nova Scotia, free from all taxation, in return for which the promoters promise to present the province with sixty thousand dollars a year—four thousand dollars each to the charitable institutions, as follows: The asylum for the blind, Halifax, the Infants' home, the Provincial hospital $2,500 each; the Art school $2,000, and $1,000 each to eighteen high schools and county academies, "to be devoted to the assistance of high education and charitable purpose." The $60,000 is to be divided between Dalhousie college, Acadia college, Mount Allison college, St. Francis Xavier college, King's college, St. Mary's college, the Protestant Orphans' Home and the Catholic Orphanage. The incorporators are Cornelius Beard, Frank B. Weir and Henry Banks. The proposed capital is $1,000,000. The bill is being "lobbyed" by Mr. Nansiooten, famous for his attempt to get a monopoly of Nova Scotia's iron mines. From the fact that the bill was introduced by a Cabinet Minister, it evidently has the support of Premier Fielding and his secession Government.

TERRIBLE MARINE DISASTER.

The Wreck of a Steamer Near Corsica Confirmed.

LONDON, April 18.—Later despatches confirm the report that a steamer has been wrecked off Bonifacio, Corsica. The name of the vessel is the Lanania. Of 250 passengers which she carried fifty have been saved. Help has been sent to the wreck, but the sea is rough and it will be difficult to get near her.

Later.—The steamer ashore off Bonifacio is the Tasmania, and not the Lanania, as at first reported. The Tasmania belongs to the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company and is of 4498 tons. She was bound from Bombay for Marseilles. She stranded on the Monactie rocks, to the south of Corsica. All the women and children among the passengers have been safely landed. The majority of the passengers are still on board. Assistance has gone to the vessel from Ajaccio and Marseilles.

Later despatches state that the Tasmania carried 180 passengers. Of these seventy-four have been landed. Two French steamers are near the stranded vessel, assisting in the work of rescue.

CHAPTER XVII.

DEVOTED TO BROWNIE'S FORTUNE.

Two days afterward, Rip came once more in search of Shirley. He wore a very long face.

"Missiz," said he, "she's went and done it."

"What do you mean?"

"Brownie's run away with Wabbnobbs."

"Oh, no, Rip, she only went down to Linwood an hour ago."

"She took the train into Chesterton. He'll meet her there, and they're going to be married this day. I heard 'em planning it yesterday."

Shirley turned pale at that.

"Is this true?" she asked.

"It's the God's truth I tell you. I'd have come to you last night, but I didn't think she'd have the sand to do it. I thought she'd weaken at the last minute."

Shirley was stunned. For once in her life she was at a loss.

"Oh, what shall I do?" she exclaimed.

"Take the next train and go after her. Here's where you'll find her,"—holding a card. "I know my gentleman's places. Catch her before they are married. Show him this letter from his wife. I stole it from him. Come, shin out lively, now!"

There was no time to lose. Rip's advice was plainly sound. She was off like the wind.

"Say, missiz, you won't give me away?"

"Surely not; I'll do anything for you. If I can only save Brownie!"

"Because," said Rip, "a feller don't jist like to have a gal down on him."

But Shirley was away already.

"Game!" said Rip to himself. "Them Carstones is game to the backbone. But I didn't think t'other one would do it. The little devil! If it hadn't been for his money she wouldn't have wiped her feet on him. No, by goll! She wouldn't have married him no more than she would marry me! S'pose she had gone off with me? She'd have 'loped with a handsome man."

Rip gave a jaunty twist to his old slouch hat, and straightened himself up.

"There aint many worse men than me, I reckon, but I flatter myself there's worse lookin' ones. Now he's t'other way. There may be worse men in the world than him, but I'm goll dinged if I believe there's many worse lookin' ones."

"Goll dinged" was the favorite Linwood swear word.

Rip's bad news was all too true. Brownie had gone. Shirley followed by the next train, her heart in her mouth lest she should be too late.

She went to the place to which Rip had directed her.

Brownie was there alone. She started when she saw Shirley, and made as if to run away. Then she sat still and put on a defiant pout.

"Are you married?" asked Shirley.

"No."

"Thank heaven!" exclaimed Shirley.

"But I'm going to be in half an hour. Don't say a word; it won't do any good."

"You goose, you! The man's got a wife already."

"I don't believe it."

"Here's a letter from her. She tells him the children have the whooping cough. She want's some money. It's regular matrimonial affection, you see; no doubt about it. Or, if you doubt it further, I have seen a man who knows the whole family."

Brownie snatched the letter.

"Let me see!" she exclaimed.

She looked at it and groaned aloud.

"She begins it 'My dear Bill,' and she spells 'dear' d-e-e-r, and she writes 'Bill' with a little 'b'—'My deer bill.'"

"My deer bill" came in at that moment. Brownie glared at him.

"You've got a wife already."

"It's no such thing!"

"But it is. Look here at this letter from her. You really must excuse me, Mr. Wabbnobbs, but I couldn't think of marrying a man whose wife has no more respect for him than to call him Bill with a little b."

Then Shirley spoke. She said only a few words, but they were her kind of words. He wilted under them as if he had been scorched. He even sought to excuse himself.

"She was very willing to go with me," he muttered sulkily. "It was her fault as much as mine. Your sister"——

Brownie whirled on him in a fury.

"Oh, the shame of him!" she exclaimed. "Hear the man! To blame it on a woman! You're mean all through."

And again she exclaimed, rather unreasonably, it must be confessed:

"To blame it on a woman!"

Then under the double fire, like Satan in the old story, "he went his way and was seen no more."

Brownie kept a brave enough front till "deer bill" was out of sight and hearing. Then she gave way to a wild storm of tears, rage and wounded vanity. For an hour she was a very desperately angry and humiliated young lady, till at last Shirley said:

"There now, I'm disgusted with you!"

"It'll be all over town. Oh, Lord!" groaned Brownie. "What will the Frobisher girls say?"

"I've a plan," said her sister. "Only hold your tongue and they'll never know it. Nobody will know it."

"But how?"

"You wanted to go to New Orleans. I'll take you there. It is not convenient, and it's expensive, but we'll go. We will start at once, to-night. Nobody will know then but that was what we came down here for, unless, indeed, you tell it."

"I tell it!"

Thus Brownie was saved from her own folly, saved from a fate which would have been to her, when she came to realize it, worse than death. If she thought of her escape once in the happy after years, she thought of it a thousand times, and shuddered every time, as she remembered how nearly she came to throwing away her life.

"But how did you find out about it?" she asked Shirley once.

"That," replied Shirley, gravely, "is something I will never tell you."

So ended one more of Brownie's exploitations "for the fun of it." After that they said no more about it either way.

Patience, reader! Each trivial episode is a link in the chain of the Carstone history.

The sisters went to the fair south, to a land of magnolias and mocking birds, of roses and oleanders, "a land where it is always afternoon."

They made same pleasant acquaintances. One was an elderly English gentleman who was making a tour of America. He had a fine, high bred manner, and at the same time frank and simple ways that reminded Shirley of her father. The sisters were drawn to him at once, and he to them.

Mr. Edgerly had heard of Shirley's silk colony. He was no less surprised than delighted to find the founder of it in this young and beautiful woman.

On a journey a week counts for six months in making acquaintances. Mr. Edgerly and the sisters felt like friends of a lifetime when the parting came. Between Shirley and Mr. Edgerly there passed at sight that mystic freemasonry of genuine high minded souls which needs no credentials of introduction. The sisters invited the English gentleman to visit Linwood and the silk colony.

He accepted the invitation as frankly and as kindly as it had been given, and spent a week with them. He was charming company. He had traveled up and down the earth, and had a world of novel and thrilling experiences to tell. To Shirley, lonely soul, shut up there apart in Linwood, communing only with her own thoughts, he seemed like a visitant from another world.

Even Mrs. Carstone was roused from her wonted ladylike invalidism by the presence of Mr. Edgerly. At the end of a week he left them. He, on his part, was as pleased with his stay as they were. The pretty village, the women at work with the cobwebby silk fibre, and above all Shirley herself, so strangely beautiful—Shirley, with the brain of a sage, the heart of a child—all this interested him keenly. He had seen all the world, he thought, but here was something new even for him. He declared that here was the best part of his visit to the United States.

With assurances on both sides of friendly remembrances, he went away. Mrs. Carstone spoke of him ever after as "that delightful English gentleman." Brownie called him "that darling old Britisher," and wished the young men were as lovely as the old ones!

Life settled down to its same old jog after his departure. Time wore on without a break, for good or bad, in Shirley's existence.

Three years after Mr. Edgerly's visit she and Brownie waited for the Linwood train one day at Chesterton. While they waited they lunched. At a table near by were a lady and gentleman, also having luncheon.

"What a stuck-up looking young man that is," whispered Brownie.

He was a good looking youth, with a light mustache, fine, frank face and sunny brown hair. There was an air of pride and haughtiness about his mouth and square chin somewhat belied by the look in his merry blue eye. His manner proclaimed to all the world, "I am an Englishman."

"But his clothes are lovely," whispered Brownie, further.

The lady beside him had also a conscious air of being a superior being. She was middle aged and quick and jerky in her movements. She glanced restlessly about her, talked in a rapid, much accenting way, and in a shrill, high keyed voice. She talked much and rather loudly, and used numberless ohs, ahs and indeeds.

The lady gave a sudden displeased sniff. She beckoned to a waiter and pointed to a window in a far corner. A man was smoking a cigar in blissful peace there.

"Is smoking allowed in this room?" asked she, in her shrill, rapid, tones. She paralyzed the unhappy attendant with the glance of her eye.

He was obliged to admit that smoking was not wholly forbidden.

"I can not have it," said the much accenting lady. "Will you go to that gentleman and tell him I can not have him smoking in here."

Involuntarily the merry British blue eyes at the one table and the merry American brown eyes at the other table met in a half smile.

Shirley and Brownie came home. Shirley found there a letter from their friend, the English gentleman of three years before. It read:

"MY DEAR MISS CARSTONE—May I commend to the tender mercies of yourself and your sister my son, Robert Edgerly? He is now in the United States and wishes, of course, to see Linwood and certain ladies whom his old father remembers more vividly and esteems more highly than anybody else he met in America.

"You will find Robert not a bad sort of young man, except that he fancies he is very wise. I trust to the Linwood ladies to cure him of that. He will probably present himself in person soon.

"Yours, very sincerely,

"JOHN EDGERLY."

Which he did.

A Munificent Gift.

Sir George Stephen and Sir Donald A. Smith have given $500,000 each, a million dollars in all, to the City of Montreal to build an hospital as a Jubilee memorial, the hospital to be open to all without distinction of race or creed. The City is asked to give the site for the hospital, and the Council unanimously resolved to thank, in the name of the people of Montreal, the generous donors, and to co-operate in the undertaking.

Fatal Water Tank Burst.

PALATINE, Ill., April 18.—A water tank, containing one hundred thousand gallons, burst yesterday afternoon, killing six men and wounding many others. A collection of freight trains had taken place near the spot in the morning and it is supposed that this loosened the bands of the tank which afterwards gave way under the pressure. Those killed were:—Edward Wenke, Wm. Gann, Louis Meyer, Wm. Meyer, Fred. Boyer and John Asmoset. Charles Sterns was one of the fatally injured.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Billiousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

WHO is the queerest kid in town? Why the KIDD who sells good boots at the lowest price. Men's Long Boots at $1.45, Ladies' Lace Boots 60 cents only.

The Verdict.

The adjourned inquest on the child found dead on the 13th of April was held in the Police Court on Monday night. The members of the jury were all present. Coroner Bell took the evidence of three boys in regard to the finding of the infant. Dr. Kincaid gave his testimony as to the post mortem examination which he made. In his evidence he stated that the body was 17 inches in length; 3 pounds in weight, and that the birth took place about 48 hours before he saw the body. It was impossible that it could have been frozen and covered with snow. On examination of the lungs it was perfectly plain to him that the child never breathed after delivery. The jury brought in the following verdict:—"That the said unknown male child was still born in a place unknown to this jury on or about April 10th or 11th. That we strongly urge upon the authorities to investigate the concealment of birth and bring the guilty parties to justice."

Well, well! Kidd's kid boots are really kid and not shoddy.

FOUR HUNDRED

Taken in Scott Act Fines at the Court This Morning.

At the Police Court this morning Inspector Darling had the county hotel men "on the list." He presented the following programme for the consideration of His Worship:—

Queen vs. Ray.
Queen vs. Glynn (Wm.).
Queen vs. Glynn (F. C.).
Queen vs. Frost.
Queen vs. Kennealy.
Queen vs. Gall.

The first is an Ashburnham case, the two next Havelock ones, and the three last Keene cases. All pleaded guilty, and all were fined $50 and costs, with the exception of F. C. Glynn, who was fined $100.

Mr. Dunn's case came up this morning. A plea of guilty having been entered a fine of $50 and costs was imposed.

—The festive smell of whitewash.

Entertained

A pleasant and very enjoyable evening was spent by the members of St. John's Church choir and a few others at the residence of Mr. L. Seward, the organist and choirmaster of the church, on Monday evening. The evening was spent in social talk, singing and partaking of the good things provided by the kind host and hostess, and the party broke up about 11.30, after one all voting Mr. and Mrs. Seward hearty thanks for the "at home."

Piles of slippers at Kidd's from 30 cents a pair up.

Personal.

Mr. Louis B. Stewart, who recently passed his examination as Dominion Topographical surveyor at Ottawa, is now visiting his friends in Peterborough, after which he will return to Banff, where he has been engaged during the last twelve months in surveying the National Park for the Dominion Government, under the direction of his father, Mr. Geo. A. Stewart, formerly of Peterborough, now Superintendent of the National Park.

The Grand Superintendent will visit Corinthian R. A. Chapter officially to-night, accompanied by several visiting companions.

BOYS' Clothing in new patterns, all sizes, cheap at TURNBULL'S.

Election Expenses.

Complaints have been made that the Dominion Returning officer has not yet received the payment for himself, his deputies, clerks, &c., for the election held on February 22nd. The grumblers should be honest enough to state that neither has the Provincial Returning officer received payment for the election held on the December 28th, nearly two months earlier. The Returning officers' accounts have to be checked and in the case of the elections for the House of Commons one office has to do this for the whole Dominion, while for the Provincial Legislature the one office has to deal with Ontario only. The unfairness of the attack upon the Dominion officials for asserted dilatoriness is therefore evident.

TURNBULL is showing a good unlaundried White Shirt at 40c. each.

Eight Lives Sacrificed.

PALANTINE, Ill., April 17.—While viewing the wreck of a freight train on the Chicago and North-Western Railway near the city to-day six persons were killed by the bursting of a large water tank. The accident occurred at five o'clock this afternoon, and it is supposed that the collision of the freight trains in the immediate vicinity in the morning had jarred the immense tank, containing one hundred thousand gallons of water, and loosened or cracked the hoops, which gave way while a large crowd of country people were standing immediately under the structure. When it collapsed and fell it buried the people under the wreckage and water. Two boys and four men were killed outright, two other men were fatally and a number seriously injured.

Death of an Aged Missionary Laborer

Eliza Barnes, second wife of the late Rev. Wm. Case, passed to her long rest on Saturday night at Belleville, at the ripe age of 91 years. The deceased, says the Intelligencer, was born at Boston, Mass., Nov. 11th, 1796. When in the vigor of her womanhood she came to Canada, and labored for 8 or 10 years among the Indians of Grape Island as a pioneer missionary. On the 28th of August, 1833, she was united in marriage to the Rev. Wm. Case, at the residence of Billa Flint, Belleville. Mr. Case was one of the first missionaries among the Indians in Canada. They labored together for a short time, when they moved to the Aldershot Mission, where they remained for several years. Finally Mr. Case built the house in West Belleville on Moira St., owned and occupied for many years by Capt. Makintosh. Just as he was ready to move into it he was thrown from his horse at Aldersville, and fractured his thigh, which resulted in his death.

EXPULSIONS FROM ALSACE.

BERLIN, April 18.—It is rumored that the Alsatian Government will expel M. L'Alliance, deputy for Mulhouse, from the Reichstag, and deprive M. Jaunez of the mayoralty of Sarguemines.

THE AMEER'S DANGER.

LONDON, April 18.—The Ameer of Afghanistan, in refusing to comply with a request from the Governor of Badakshan for 15,000 troops fearing a Russian attack, says that he must concentrate every soldier in the army around Herat, where a surprise is expected daily. He says English help may come too late or not at all, as the British Government may select Candahar as the first place to stop the Russian advance.

TO VISIT ROME.

BERLIN, April 18.—The Princess Frederick Charles of Prussia, at the desire of the Emperor William, is about to visit the Pope to thank him for sending Mgr. Galimberti to Berlin on the occasion of the Emperor's birthday anniversary.

SUMMARILY PUNISHED.

BOMBAY, April 18.—The Khan of Bokhara has discovered that his Ministers have been plotting against him for encouraging the Russians to advance southward, contrary to his father's wishes. He has accordingly beheaded several of the Ministers and the others have fled to Balkh.

RUSSIA SPY ARRESTED.

BOMOAY, April 18.—A Russian spy has been arrested at Mery, where he was sojourning disguised as a Mussulman.

AGAINST THE REBELS.

BOMBAY, April 18.—The Ameer of Afghanistan has sent a battery of artillery, two regiments of calvery and two regiments of infantry to attack the Jaghoree, Ghilzais, the Shilgaris and the Wardakes, all of whom have sworn to fight against him to the death.

SECOND READING CARRIED.

LONDON, April 18.—The debate on the Crimes Bill was continued by Mr. Sexton, Lord Hartington, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Balfour and Mr. Parnell. Sir Bernhard Samuelson's amendment, to the effect that the bill, if passed, would increase the disorder in Ireland and endanger the Union and the Empire and therefore should be rejected, was defeated in the House of Commons to-night by a vote of 370 to 269, and the second reading of the Crimes Bill was agreed to without a division. The result of the division on the amendment was received with cheers, but there was little excitement. Sir Henry Hussey Vivian and Messrs. Talbot and Winterbotham, Unionist members, voted with the minority on the amendment.

MR. HEALEY'S SUSPENSION

The Government Decline Moving to Rescind the Suspension.

LONDON, April 18.—In the House of Commons to-night Mr. Sexton asked whether the Government would consent to rescind the suspension of Mr. Healy.

Mr. W. H. Smith replied for the Government that the duty they had to perform on Friday night was most disagreeable. The Government were sorry that they were forced to ask that Mr. Healy be named for transgressing the orders of the House. It would be utterly out of the question, however, when no apology had been given for the breach of the deciencies of debate, to rescind the suspension. No motion that might be made to that effect could be entertained without the general concurrence of the House.

Mr. Sexton inquired if it was competent for him to move the rescinding of Mr. Healy's suspension.

Mr. Speaker Peel replied that no motion would be competent unless it appeared on the papers of the House.

Mr. Sexton continuing said that in the absence of Mr. Healy he was authorized for him to say that if Major Saunderson withdrew the offensive charges to which Mr. Healy's language was in reply, Mr. Healy would withdraw the expressions deemed by the House offensive.

Mr. Jacob Bright asked why it was when two members of the House committed the same offence, one of them was suspended while the other was not.

Mr. Speaker said that in ordinary circumstances he would decline to answer that question or any question implying that his action was not impartial, but in the present circumstances he would explain that in the second instance in which the breach of the rules of the House had been committed (that of Mr. Sexton) an apology had followed the withdrawal of the expression causing the breach.

Mr. Sexton moved that Mr. Healy be heard at the bar of the House.

Mr. Speaker declared that that could not be done.

Mr. Sexton thereupon asked Col. Saunderson to withdraw his assertions regarding Mr. Healy, and which had exasperated him into making the responses for which he was suspended.

Col. Saunderson remaining silent,

Mr. Gladstone put to him direct the question whether he was prepared to render the House any assistance by the withdrawal of his offensive expressions.

The Conservatives cried out—"No," "No." "Don't," "Don't."

Col. Saunderson arose and said he had never alluded to Mr. Healy directly or indirectly, because he had felt, as regards Mr. Healy, that he was unable to substantiate the charges so as to bring conviction to the minds of members of the House. (Cries of "Hear, hear.") The matter was then dropped.

FOR a neat fitting Jersey, heavy enough for street wear, go to TURNBULL'S.

Penetrated the Brain.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 18.—John F. Fernandez and Henry Bernard were engaged in a fencing bout at the Creole Club on Saturday night. Fernandez was much the better man of the two and disarmed his opponent several times. Bernard grew excited and made a vigorous lunge at Fernandez, who parried it, but in doing so the point of the foil entered his eye and penetrated the brain. The wounded man lived a few hours only. Bernard is locked up charged with murder. The young men had been indulging freely in champagne.

Worth Remembering.

Every inspiration of the lungs, every pulse-throb of the heart, every sweep of the arm—even our very thoughts as they speed through the brain—all create waste matter that must be constantly removed if there is to be that beautiful harmony of functional effort which constitutes health. Nature's remedy is the sure and eminently wise one, of expelling, by proper purgation, the humors which cause disease, and Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are nature's great ally in the cure of digestive disturbances, and an unfailing remedy for constipation and its pernicious effects.

CREATURES OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

THE action of the Mowat Administration with regard to the Universities affords another proof of the fact that it has no settled policy—no regard for principles. Its course is guided solely by the consideration of how it may best for the moment secure votes and strengthen itself in power. Thus Mr. Mowat bitterly opposed manhood suffrage when advocated by Mr. Meredith, and now he yields manhood suffrage (in the indefinite future) because he finds that Mr. Meredith's proposal is in favour with the people of Ontario. In neither case was he actuated by principle. In his refusal he was influenced by his dread of the judgment of the people, and he yields simply because he fears to face the condemnation he has incurred. And so it is throughout. He and his colleagues have with much difficulty and by the use of much pressure secured the affiliation of one University and now they are busily employed in giving University powers to new bodies. If they sincerely thought that the wise policy was to allow only one University in the Province, why did they erect McMaster Uuiversity? Is it not obvious that they yielded to the impertinent and unauthorized threat of one of the promoters of the measure that the Baptists would go "solid" against Mr. Mowat if he dared to refuse, just as it was obvious that they previously strove for confederation in order to centralize power in their own hands? And these craven and charlatans wish to be taken for statesmen.

EXPLODED PRETENSIONS.

AFTER the general election for the House of Commons the Reform journals while figuring up bogus majorities for Mr. Blake, accused the Conservatives of making unfounded claims of support for the Government. We were then told that as soon as Parliament met the superior strength of the Reform party would be manifested. They would carry their candidate for the Speakership against that of the Government. They would move and carry an amendment to the address. Well, Parliament has met, and they have not ventured any attempt to keep their promises. They have not dared to propose a Reform Speaker. They have not dared to move an amendment to the address. They shrink from the test of a division that would prove how false were their claims. Their bragging is now silenced, and they have tacitly to admit their defeat to be so crushing as to make any straightforward resistance a hopeless trial for them. They can only abide their time in the hope that by some trick—some catch motion, they may gain a few adherents for the moment only, and so have some ground for cries about a slender Ministerial majority. A manly acknowledgment of their defeat might have gained them respect, but unwarranted claims, followed by a shrinking from putting their assertions to the test, have made them a public laughing stock.

A USEFUL GIFT.

NEXT to his own splendid abilities and his patriotic exertions for the benefit of his country, nothing has contributed so much to establish Sir John Macdonald in his proud position as the foremost statesman in Canada, as the keen insight into men which has guided so unfailingly his judgment in selecting those who might aid him in his great work. He has just given a fresh instance of this power, so useful for a leader. Among all the crowd of new members he selected Mr. Porter, M. P. for West Huron, and Mr. Weldon, M. P. for Albert, to move and second the address in response to the Speech from the Throne. They acquitted themselves so well that the general verdict of the newspaper correspondents at Ottawa is that their maiden speeches on this occasion far excel any that have been delivered for a long time past. It is evident that in these two gentlemen there is a valuable addition to the debating talent, in which the Conservative benches were already so strong. They will no doubt render good service to their country.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

MONDAY, April 18.—Petitions were presented for manhood suffrage, enforcement of Employees Liability Act, etc.

N. W. LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

Mr. DAVIN introduced a bill respecting North-West local government.

BLUE BOOKS.

Reports of the Auditor General, Public Works and Interior were presented.

PUBLIC DEBT.

SIR CHAS. TUPPER, in answer to the enquiries of Mr. Charlton, said the gross public debt on March 31st last was $270,340,146, and the net debt on the same date was $225,865,831.

DOMINION LANDS.

M. THOS. WHITE, in answer to an enquiry of Sir Richard Cartwright, said that the revenue from the sale of Dominion lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories for the past years was as follows:—From homesteads, pre-emptions and sales, $509,341, and for leases, $136 618. The revenue from the same sources from the same sources from the present year to April was: homesteads, $93,873, and leases, $26,179.

HOME RULE.

Mr. Curran postponed his Home Rule motion till Thursday at Sir John Macdonald's suggestion, as a number of members were absent.

A CHILD'S WONDERFUL GIFT.

Her Knowledge of Scripture, Chronology and Modern Language.

Mr. John M. Cameron, of Rockland, County of Russell, Ont., was in town last week visiting some friends. He has a bright little four-year-old daughter named Mary Ellen Cameron, who bids fair to possess a phenominal memory if indeed she has not already got it. She can tell the history of the fall of our first parents and their subsequent expulsion from Eden without hesitation, as well as relate all the principal events connected with their subsequent history, the murder of Cain for instance. But more wonderful than this, the little one can unhesitatingly give the name of all the patriarchs from Adam to Noah, give ther exact age and every other matter that concerns them. She knows the story of the flood, its duration and the principal events and can as well detail incidents without number relating to New Testament history. That it is not a mere power of parrot-like repetition is evidenced by the fact that the child has a fair smattering of Gaelic, French and Indian, most of which has been but recently acquired, and her knowledge of English is large for one so young. There is no doubt should she continue developing the qualities she now so strikingly exhibits, she may become a marvel of linguistic erudition.—Pembroke Observer.

THE MONTREAL STRIKE.

Constables Use Their Revolvers—The Trouble Ended.

MONTREAL, April 19.—The teamster's strike has assumed quite a serious aspect. Early this morning one hundred strikers congregated at the stables, and when the men engaged to replace the strikers attempted to drive the teams out of the yards, they rushed upon them and forced them back. A detachment of police, who have been guarding the stables since Saturday attempted to check any acts of violence on the part of the strikers, and a regular hand to hand bombat ensued, the policemen firing at the strikers but without wounding any. When the men saw they were getting the worst of it they retracted and commenced to throw stones at the officers, cutting and bruising several of them seriously. During the melee a striker called Dufour received a blow from a policeman's baton which injured him to such an extent that he had to be removed to the hospital. The new teamsters were finally allowed to do their work without any molestation, but each waggon is accompanied by a policeman. Three arrests have been made at noon. The men decided to send a deputation to their employers to devise some means of arriving at an understanding.

The strike of the teamsters is now (3.30) over, as both companies have granted them an increase in their wages.

We have just opened out a direct shipment of Ellwood's London Hats at Fairweather's Hat Store.

A Fatal Land Slide.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 19.—The Western express on the Central Hudson River Railway, due in this city at 2 o'clock a.m., ran into a landslide. The engine lunged sideways, broke her couplings with the train and rolled down into the Mohawk. The train, consisting of two baggage cars, three sleeping and five ordinary coaches, kept the track though most of them were damaged. Edward Kennah, the engineer, was instantly killed, and Eugene Wiley, fireman, sustained a broken leg. It is expected that by five o'clock this afternoon the tracks will be cleared and trains running as usual. Passenger trains are now using the freight tracks in passing the slide which detains them from thirty minutes to one hour.

The Queen's Jubilee.

TORONTO, April 19.—British Army and Navy pensioners in Toronto have decided to join along with their sons in any jubilee procession that may take place. $5,500 have been subscribed towards the formation of a citizen's band, and arrangements have been made so that the band will be ready for service by the time of the jubilee celebration.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

APPEAL FOR JUSTICE.

LONDON, April 19.—The Pall Mall Gazette says:—"Mr. Parnell is an Irishman, therefore the Times is allowed to insult and libel him with impunity. We earnestly appeal to the members of the House of Commons on both sides to do Mr. Parnell justice and commit the editor of the Times to the clock tower for a breach of privilege."

MR. HEALY.

LONDON, April 19.—Mr. Healy sat in the stranger's gallery during last night's proceedings in the House of Commons. He will go to Ireland to-day, and will be qualified to return to Parliament on Monday in time for the committee stage of the Crimes Bill.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY.

BERLIN, April 18.—The North German Gazette, referring to the report that the Czar is about to confer upon M. de Giers the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Vladimir, says the proposed action reaffirms the policy of M. de Giers. It says:—"The foreign press, especially the French press, is mistaken if it supposes the views of M. Katkoff represents the policy of Russia. The Czar and M. de Giers alone conduct the Russian policy, which is pacific, possibly indifferent, toward Germany, and certainly is nowise hostile. The French Revanchieurs cherish the hope of a war between Russia and Germany, but it will be a disadvantage to France if the press succeeds in establishing this wrong idea in the minds of the French."

A POET'S FUNERAL.

CRACON, April 19.—Six thousand persons from all parts of Europe attended the funeral to-day of Kroszewski, the Polish poet, who died at Geneva, March 20. Eight hundred wreaths were laid on the catafalque. At the Cathedral of St. Mary a requiem mass was celebrated. Black flags are displayed throughout the city, lamps are swathed in crape, and dense crowds throng the streets.

THE "TIMES" DEFIANT.

LONDON, April 19.—The Times says: "We pay no attention whatever to Mr. Parnell's ig words. If he proceeds to apply the only test by which the truth can be brought plainly before the world we are quite prepared to meet him."

THE NEW MAHDI.

CAIRO, April 19.—The delegates of the new Mahdi had an audience, yesterday, with the Khedive, to whom they presented letters from the Mahdi to the Khedive, the Queen of England and the Sultan of Turkey. In the latter the Mahdi says:—"If you will recognize me as the true Mahdi you will be saved and we will be friends; otherwise I will march forward and the same fate will befall you as overtook your generals." The Mahdi addresses Queen Victoria as "the favorite of the people."

INCREASED ACTIVITY.

BERLIN, April 19.—The North German Gazette, commenting upon the resignation of M. Deroulede from the French Patriotic League, says: "We may expect increased activity on the part of his companion Boulanger."

BAD BAYONETS.

LONDON, April 19.—The War Office has ordered a trial test of all weapons served to the volunteers owing to the complaints received about the new sword bayonets. In practical use these weapons bent like tin. At recent tests in London the volunteers were ordered to run their bayonets into masses of cotton waste inclosed in trusses of straw. The bayonets curled up like bill hooks when they struck the cotton waste, and could then be easily straightened out with the hands. Further enquiries proved for ten years the weapons issued to the volunteers have been about as useful as so many lath swords.

THE WRECKED TASMANIA.

LONDON, April 19.—A later despatch concerning the wrecked steamer Tasmania, says the captain, two officers and 22 Lascar stokers were drowned. The remainder of the crew and passengers are believed to be safe.

DEATH OF A NOBLEMAN.

LONDON, April 19.—The Earl of Longford is dead.

THE CONFESSION OF FAITH.

LONDON, April 19.—The Committee of the Presbyterian Church of England are preparing a revision of the Confession of Faith, to be submitted at the coming meeting of the Synod. It is reported that the changes recommended will amount to a reconstruction of the creed, and will be sure to lead to profound agitation among the Presbyterians throughout the world. A similar movement for the revision of the standards of the Free Church of Scotland has been postponed, to be resumed after the English Synod has finished its deliberations upon the committee's report.

SPEAKING FOR HOME RULE.

LONDON, April 19.—Mr. Molloy, member for Kings County, has just returned from a provincial tour in behalf of the cause of Ireland. He has addressed as many as two and three meetings a day, and he reports that public opinion is fast ripening in favor of Home Rule. At Belper, in Derbyshire, he says, the Conservatives scattered cayenne pepper over the hall, and in result there was much sneezing and coughing during the proceedings.

SAUNDERSON AGAIN.

LONDON, April 19.—Major Saunderson, speaking at Tunbridge this evening, reiterated his charges against the Parnellities and challenged them to adopt the means of vindication at their disposal.

A COMMITTEE ASKED FOR.

LONDON, April 19.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Mr. Caldwel, Liberal Unionist, gave notice that he would move for the appointment of a select committee to investigate the charges made by the Times against Mr. Parnell and other Irish leaders in connection with crime in Ireland.

MR. PARNELL.

LONDON, April 19.—Mr. Parnell has gone to Dublin to endeavor to sift the matter of letter published by the Times.

THE AFGHAN REBELLION.

BOMBAY, April 19.—Parwana Khan, the Afghan commander, who was sent by the Ameer with 5000 men to avenge the recent massacre of Gholam-Haider Khan, the Governor of Maraf, by the Ghilzais, was met on the route south of Ghuzni by the rebels. The Khan of Dhir has rebelled against the Ameer. He has attacked and defeated the Khan of Rodshira and captured two of the latter's villages and a quantity of breach-loading rifles.

THE LANSDOWNE ESTATE.

DUBLIN, April 19.—According to prearranged plans the evictions of Lord Lansdowne's tenants at Luggacurren were commenced to-day, and to protect the civil officers a large military force was despatched to the scene of action. Their arrival created intense excitement. It is hoped that that the presence of the soldiers will prevent the serious disturbance that is threatened. Messrs. O'Brien, of United Ireland, and Kilbride, will sail for Canada on Sunday to denounce Lord Lansdowne's course.

GLADSTONE'S INCONSISTENCY.

LONDON, April 19.—Lord Randolph Churchill, speaking this evening at Nottingham, said that for 45 years Mr. Gladstone had not wavered in his resistance to the Irish revolutionary party. It would be difficult to calculate how many persons had been executed or imprisoned during that time. He did not envy the feelings of Mr. Gladstone, when the latter remembered the number of persons whose lives he had contributed to sacrifice, because they advocated the same principle he himself was now advocating.

AN EXPERT CALLED IN.

LONDON, April 19.—Mr. Netherclift, an eminent chrographic expert, has compared the signature attached to the Times' Parnell letter with two of Mr. Parnell's signatures, but declines to express an opinion in the absence of further examples. He says there are disparities between the signatures of the Times' letter and the two others and that there are also disparities between the latter two. He thinks the fairest comparison would be with signatures of the same date as that of the Times, not with signatures recently written for a test. He says the signature given by the Times, if false, is a very good imitation, but that it would be unfair to give an opinion based upon two signatures written for the purpose of comparison.

SALISBURY AND COERCION.

DUBLIN, April 19.—At a primrose meeting to-day a letter was read from Lord Salisbury, in which he said the Government's policy was based to a great extent upon their sense of the primary duty of protecting from pillage and oppression a section of people who are warmly attached to their British connection, and who have run great risk on account of that attachment.

PRIMROSE DAY.

LONDON, April 19.—Primrose Day, the anniversary of the death of Lord Beaconsfield, was generally observed by the Conservatives. The statute of Lord Beaconsfield was handsomely decorated.

CHURCHILL'S OPINION.

LONDON, April 19.—Lord Randolph Churchill, speaking this evening at Nottingham, said that if the Parnellites chose to bring an action against the London Times they need not trust an English jury, because they can take proceedings against the paper in Ireland or Scotland. He would not make himself a party to the accusation, but it might be necessary for the House of Commons, independently of the Parnellites, to take action to clear itself as a body of the grave charges made against a section of its members.

C. P. R. Traffic Returns.

MONTREAL, April 19.—The traffic returns of the Canadian Pacific railway for last week were $188,000, against $187,000 for the corresponding week of last year, showing an increase of $1,000 for this year.

Manslaughter.

QUEBEC, April 19.—The jury in the St. Sylvestre murder case returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter against the prisoner Fortier. The victim was killed during a quarrel about trespass in the condemned man's field last July.

Barracks Burned.

LISTOWELL, Ont., April 19.—The Salvation Army barracks here, known as the old Methodist Church, was burnt to the ground yesterday. The loss is $500; no insurance. The fire was without doubt the work of an incendiary.

A Fatal Fall.

OTTAWA, April 19.—Ivano Tache, a clerk in the journals office in the Senate side, was seized with a fit of apoplexy about six o'clock this evening and in falling struck his head on the stone floor so severely as to produce concussion of the brain. He is not expected to live until morning.

Crushed to Death.

MONTREAL, April 19.—Charles Dugal, son of the late Capt. Dugal of Quebec, died here to-day, after meeting with a frightful accident. He was engaged in the Canadian Pacific freight yard, tried to jump on to a shunting engine, slipped and fell under the wheels of the locomotive and was crushed to death.

Protesting Against the Crucifix.

Montreal, April 19.—Over one hundred ministers, representing the Protestant Ministeral association, at a meeting this morning drafted a petition protesting vigorously against the Crucifix bill, as an outrage and an insult to Protestants. Strong language was used and the feeling was very bitter.

The Death-Dealing Cyclone.

SUFFOLK, Va., April 19.—Last night a cyclone visited Manzemond County with fatal and destructive effects. Its track was about one hundred yards wide. The house of John Wright, six miles north of suffolk, was completely demolished. Wright and his wife, and young sister, and James Luke were in the house at the time. Mrs. Wright and Luke were killed, the young girl fatally injured, and Mr. Wright seriously hurt.

Accidentally Shot.

WINNIPEG, Man., 19.—A fatal accident occurred at Maple Creek yesterday by which Miss Sarah Lawrence, aged 17, daughter of John Lawrence, a settler, lost her life. While unpacking her trunk she handed her father a revolver which was discharged in some unaccountable manner, neither of them being aware it was loaded. The ball entered the young lady's right side. She died shortly after the accident.

The expenditure of the Canadian Post-office Department last year was $3,380,000 and the revenue $2,468,747, consequently the carriage of the mails cost the country $900,000 more than the public paid for the service.

ONTARIO LEGISATURLE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

The Bible in the Schools—Amendments to the Regulations Proposed—The Bible vs. the Book of Selections.

MONDAY, April 18.—One bill was introduced and three read the third time.

THE BIBLE IN THE SCHOOLS.

Mr. G. W. Ross moved the third reading of the bill to amend the Act respecting the Education Department.

Mr. MEREDITH said that during the recent election campaign attempts were made to fasten on the Conservatives a position of hostility towards the Roman Catholic Church. He had before repudiated the charge that his side of the House had ever attacked the Roman Catholic Church or the Separate schools. He now repeated the repudiation. Those who knew the law knew it was it was impossible to abolish the Separate schools by action of the Legislature. He might regret both for the sake of the Protestants and Roman Catholics that there were Separate schools, but he would be the last to advocate an interference with them. When the Separate schools were adopted, the principle was laid down that the support of the ratepayers must be entirely voluntarily. Legislation had been since passed giving instructions to the assessors, with the object of rendering it easier for municipal clerks, to decide who were supporters and who were not supporters of the Separate schools. It had been charged against this amendment that it violated the voluntary principle. Another provision had been added to the law, providing that the tenant of property should decide to which schools the taxes should be applied, and that no agreement between him and his landlord could affect this Province. In Manitoba the provision in the law was exactly the opposite. It seemed to him a fair compromise would be that the religion of the tenant should determine the direction of the taxes, but that nothing should prevent an agreement to the contrary between tenant and landlord. Another objection made to the law during the campaign was the right given the Roman Catholics to send representatives to the High School Board. It seemed to him that this provision was quite unjustifiable, and the arguments advanced had been that the rights of the Roman Catholic minority had been ignored. On enquiry he found that Roman Catholics had been elected in several sections to the High School Board previous to the passing of this enactment. The next point was in regard to text books in the schools. There should be no tampering with the principle that the State was supreme in this matter, and had the right to say what text books should be used. He insisted also that in Ontario the English language should be the language of the schools to which public moneys were devoted or over which the Legislature had control. There might be exceptional circumstances requiring a liberal interpretation of the rules, but subject to this limitation English should be insisted upon. He then proceeded to refer to the subject of religious instruction in the schools, in regard to which he intended to move a resolution. He would not say a word to hurt the feelings of anybody, but would confine his remarks to main principles. During the campaign the Government admitted that their book of scripture readings was not what they would like, but pleaded there were 50,000 Roman Catholic children in the schools, and it was important not to have anything distasteful to them which would deprive them of the advantages of these selections. While this plea was before the country, the department issued a circular practically excluded the Roman Catholic children from attending during the time these selections were used. Then the Minister of Education said the school trustees could have either the Scripture or the selections used. But in the regulations issued in the department it was stated there should be used in the schools only the passages of Scripture or selections authorized by the department. He thought the matter of deciding which should be used should be left to school trustees. The unfortunate result of the selections, and of the arguments based on them, was to lead the country to think there were portions of the Holy Scriptures unfit to be read by children. He proposed now that the Legislature plainly formulate the principle that the readings shall be from the Bible itself in the Public schools every day. (Applause.) He believed that the motion he would propose was founded on the principle of right and justice, and that his record and principles were too well known for any charge of bigotry which might be raised against him to have any effect. He firmly adhered to the principle of equal rights and justice to all classes of the community. (Cheers.) He moved;—

That the said bill be not now read the third time, but be forthwith referred back to the committee of the whole House with instructions to amend the same by adding thereto the following section:—

2. All regulations of the Education Department relating to the subject of religious instruction in the Public and High schools are hereby repealed.

3. Every Public and High school shall be opened with the Lord's Prayer and the reading of the Scriptures, and shall be closed with the Lord's Prayer or the prayer now sanctioned by the said regulations.

4. If the trustees see fit they may direct that the reading of the Scriptures shall take place in closing instead of in opening the school, and they may prescribe the portions of the scriptures to be read on each or any day.

5. No pupil shall be required to take part in the exercises referred to in the third and fourth sections against the wish of his parent or guardian expressed in writing to the master of the school.

6. When required by the trustees the Ten Commandments shall be repeated at least once a week.

7. The trustees shall place a copy of the Scriptures in each department of the Public and High Schools under their jurisdiction.

8. Where a teacher claims to have conscientious scruples against opening and closing the schools as herein provided he shall notify the trustees to that effect in writing.

10. The portions of the scriptures read shall be read without comment or explanation.

9. The clergymen of any denomination or their authorized representatives shall have the right to give religious instruction to the pupils of their own denomination in each schoolhouse at least once a week, after the hour of closing the school in the afternoon, and if the clergymen of more than one denomination apply to give religious instruction in the same schoolhouse the trustees shall decide on what day of the week the schoolhouse shall be at the disposal of the clergymen of each denomination, at the time hereinbefore stated, but it shall be lawful for the trustees and clergymen of any denomination to agree on any hour of the day at which a clergyman or his authorized representative may give religious instruction to the pupils of his own church, provided in be not during the regular hours of the school. The clergymen of several denominations may unite in giving religious instruction to the pupils of all such denominations.

He concluded by saying that by making these regulations a statutory enactment they would be finally removed from theregion of doubt.

Mr. G.W. Ross expressed pleasure because the Opposition leader had spoken in a moderate tone. He held Mr. Meredith, he said, responsible for the utterances of the Mail and for a campaign sheet printed in Mail type. He argued that the Opposition were equally responsible for changes in the law and regulations. Any ratepayer could, by giving notice, be rated as a public school supporter, and if by default he was placed on the Seperate school list he could appeal. He defended the law regardin tenants and the Separate school representation on the High school boards, claiming that it gave no special privileges. There were only 21 schools in Glengarry, Russell and Prescott in which the English was not taught. In 1886 he issued regulations for giving instruction in Model schools to those French teachers who had not a proper knowledge of the English language, and the catechism was only taught in French schools after school hours. He defended the book of selections. There was no garbling, no mutilation, and no adaption except in the story of Joseph. The circular affecting the absenting of pupils merely left it optional for Roman Catholic children to retire. The Government were revising their regulations, and he thought the revision would be found satisfactory. The House would rather leave the matter in the hands of the Government. The country had declared its confidence in the Department.

Mr. WOOD (Hastings) said the Opposition leader had always repudiated for himself and his party anything calculated to excite sectarian prejudice. There was a time when the Mail echoed the fellings of the Conservative party, but the time came when it ceased to represent the party. There were people, however, who believed there were influences over the Government In his village the Roman Catholic priest told his congregation to vote for the Mowat Ghvernment. Such an occurance would lead people to think there was such an influence behind the Government. He never attacked the Separate schools, yet Bishop Cleary in his mandate charged him with having attacked those schools. This action of the Roman Catholic bishops caused the return of the Government, and not the decision of the people on any particular question. The question was whether such things should be ordered by the head of the Department or be passed by the House like other legislation.

Mr. MOWAT accused the Opposition of trying to make capital and with a show of zeal. He moved in amendment to the amendment that as the Government had announced their intention of introducing regulations to provide that the public and high schools should be opened by the Lord's Prayer and closed by prayer and Scripture reading either from the Bible or book of selections, as may be determined by the trustees; that the Bible shall be read daily and systematically as the trustees may direct, or may be read by teachers and pupils together; that before the commencement of the religious exercises an interval must be allowed for the retirement of pupils who have not the consent of parents to remain; and that the regulations having almost the force of statutes there was no necessity for their introduction and passage as statutes.

Mr. H. E. CLARKE said that, while Mr. Ross admitted that the amendment was tolerant, he refused to accept it. The Government had, in the elections, only gained two seats, a poor return for thirty-five gerrymandered seats and the loss of self-respect.

Mr. MCLAUGHLIN eulogized the book of selections and the regulations.

Mr. STRATTON said the opposition was inconsistent, and that they wanted the whole Bible while, he believed, many of them could not repeat the Lord's prayer. He approved of the course of the Minister of Education.

Mr. CREIGHTON said that Mr. Ross and the other speakers on the Reform side had tried to raise sectarian prejudice. The book of selections had been imposed on the schools without the knowledge of the masters. The book was to be condemned on account of its omissions, and he referred to examples in I Peter, ii., where the 21st verse was called the 13th.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Chamberlain, French, Gibson, (Huron) and Sprague.

Mr. FRASER said that the speech of Mr. Meredith had been conciliatory and fairly tolerant. He then spent considerable time in arguing that the Opposition were responsible for the utterances of the Mail and certain pamplets, and said that in his address Mr. Meredith had only indulged in generalities. He defended the changes in the law regarding the assessment, the landlord and tenent, and Separate school representation on the High school boards, the the last change having been made at his suggestion, but he was willing to sacrifice it rather than afford a pretext for a sectional cry. He also defended the regulations.

Mr. LEES moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House adjourned at 1.45 a. m.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

The reader has already perceived that he was the young man with the merry blue eye, whom the sisters had seen at Chesterton. He was a youth of sincere, strong nature, with the most graceful, winning ways, when he chose, also when he chose, the reverse of agreeable.

He had an intense pride of family, of race and nation. In this respect indeed he out Englished even his countrymen.

Like his father, Robert Edgerly was interested in what he saw at Linwood, though not perhaps in precisely the same matters. Unlike his father, however, he lingered on in Linwood for weeks. Then he went away and came back. In truth Brownie fascinated him more than he was willing to admit to himself.

He was not popular in Linwood, however, as Mr. Webbnobbs had been before him.

The villagers resented his haughty, reserved ways. He made it so extremely plain to them that in his opinion the "laboring classes" could not by any possibility be gentle folk. He did not take any pains to make a show of this opinion. It just bubbled out of itself. Shirley did not like it.

"These young working people used to be pupils of mine at school," she told him. "I taught them that if a man is really a gentleman he will be a gentleman whether his hands are white or brown. Look at the girls in Linwood church on a Sunday. See if, from their dress, their speech or their manner, you can tell which young woman works for a living and which does not."

"Ah, I dare say," replied young Edgerly, languidly, "I suppose you'll be telling me next that American gentlemen black their own boots. I've heard that said since I've been in this country," continued the youth.

"Well, they do—when they can't help it," answered Brownie. "My brothers black their shoes; so do I mine, if I can't get out of it. But I'm free to say I don't like it."

"Well, I am free to say that I wouldn't live in a country where I had to black my own shoes."

"You might do worse," said Brownie.

He looked into her eyes.

"Do you think so?" he said, in a low voice.

Brownie flushed faintly, but did not answer.

He kept on teasing.

"You mayn't believe it," he went on, "but American ladies impress an Englishman very oddly. I've heard young ladies in this country take part in an argument, and express their opinions as freely as if they could possibly know anything about it. Now, in England a properly brought up girl listens but does not talk in general society. Women there defer to the opinions of men, and yield, as a matter of course, to their superior judgment."

"I know one woman like that—just one," answered Brownie in a very solemn tone. "She deferred always to men's opinions and yielded to their superior judgment."

"And where is she now?"

"She's dead."

* * * * * * *

We will peep over Robert Edgerly's shoulder, and read part of a letter he wrote to his father that night. There was such fullness of confidence between them that they were together more like brothers than like father and son. Indeed, in some ways the father was the more boyish of the two. Robert Edgerly wrote:

"MY DEAR PATER—I'm at Linwood, the home of the adorable sisters. They're all you painted them, and more. I don't wonder you bow down and worship the elder one. All the world must, I think. The younger one is a little witch. She is the only American girl I ever saw who doesn't bite her lips. They are very pretty, these women in the states, but they have a habit of biting their lips and stretching their mouths incessantly which is not pleasant. Eight women out of every ten whom you meet in the streets of an American city will be biting their lips. It is singular. I have a memorandum of it in my book. The adorable sisters, however, are very good form. I quite approve of your taste.

"No more does the little one say 'real nice time,' thanks to the influence and example of her incomparable elder sister. I wrote you that if I could find an American girl who didn't say 'real nice time,' I would marry her. What do you say?"

To which the pater wrote in answer:

"MY DEAR SON—I don't believe she would have you. If it was only your father, now!"

But long before that, Brownie, with her merry spirits and pretty, dainty, birdlike ways, had the English youth completely entangled in her silken net. In short, he was as blindly and as hopelessly gone as ever a tall, honest, soft hearted young fellow was in a first love, since the world began.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Robert lingered on. He said he was studying American character. So he was.

He mingled freely in the green tea and lemonade dissipations of the country side. He partook of the mild refreshments and amusements that were the proper thing. At all these scenes of strictly moral gayety he was the hero. He carried off the honors in a lazy, half cynical way that made him the adored of young ladies, the envied of young men. Everywhere he wore the same air of holding himself a little apart from the rest, of being absent minded and slightly bored. This air succeeded to a charm. It is to be recommended to young men and maidens seeking to make an impression.

At an autumn picnic in the woods he seemed more than usually indifferent. He leaned idly against a tree with his feet crossed, his head thrown back, his eyes gazing widely off into the nowhere. It made not a bad picture, the tall figure there against the tree, in the midst of the blazing gold and crimson woodlands.

"Thinking on your sins?" asked Brownie. "You ought to be."

"No," says he, "I'm thinking on other people's sins."

"Whose, may I ask?"

"Yours."

"I have no sins to be forgiven. At any rate, if I have, I will bring you a sin offering which will atone for all the crimes I ever did or ever shall commit, past or future. I bring you a cut of southern fried chicken and a Yankee doughnut."

"I fear the Greeks bringing gifts," said the young man, rather stupidly.

"But I'm not at all dangerous," answered Brownie, quite as stupidly.

"There you are mistaken. You are the most dangerous person I know. And wicked! You will never get forgiveness unless you come with me down this path over the hill, and confess your sins in private, one by one."

"Yes, I know," said she gayly. "You want to take me out there in the woods and murder me, and hide my dead body for the birds to come and cover me up with leaves."

"You're rather large for a babe in the woods, I'm afraid. And nothing like innocent enough."

The path led away from the rest of the party, out of sight.

"Isn't it something new for you to wear rings?" asked Brownie. She was sure he had not had that one on when the party started.

"Well, y-e-s-s. This is too small for me, however," taking it off. "It was made for slenderer fingers than mine. Don't you think it is rather a quaint bit of workmanship?" said he, carelessly.

"Yes, but very pretty. I never saw a ring like it before, just a plain circle of turquoise forget-me-nots, with pearl hearts. It's old, is'nt it?"

"Yes, older than I am. It's an heirloom in our family, and——

The laziness and indifference suddenly died out of his manner. His voice was earnest enough then, and trembling and passionate, as he said:

"I had it from my mother. She told me never to part with it till I placed it upon my wife's finger. My mother is dead. Will you wear it?"

* * * * * * *

So it was over. But hidden from them by a clump of undergrowth, a man was watching them. He made no sound, but his face, his very figure was so distorted with rage and passion and hate, that he looked a wild beast instead of a man. It was Rip the Tramp.

* * * * * * *

"I reckon life'll be all peaches and cream for Brownie now," remarked Mrs. Simpkin's.

Life was very bright and sweet to Brownie then. A bird sang in her heart all day long and softly trilled a whispered music in her dreams by night. When did ever maiden have a more royal lover, or more devoted, in his way!

They were to be married at Christmas. The elder Mr. Edgerly wrote, hastening the wedding. He wanted Robert's American girl over there in his English home, he wrote. Brownie was to leave her native shores a bride.

That was all very well so far. But Brownie was a teasing, tantalizing sprite still. Sure of her tall adorer, she could not help experimenting on him. There were little tiffs now and then that were quite something else than the merry sparring of the days of their first acquaintance.

"I'm going to leave you for a week, Brownie," he told her one day early in December. "But I shall be back a week from to-day."

A gay party of young people was made up for the evening that Robert was to come back. Brownie was asked to join them, and consented. She thought she would like to see what Robert would say.

She found out.

He came in the evening. Brownie was dressed charmingly in cream color and scarlet, all ready for the party. She looked an enchanting little witch. Robert's eye outlined her admiringly, from head to foot.

"I'm awfully sorry," said she little hypocrite, "but some people made me promise to go out with them to-night. They just made me go, whether I would or not."

"Ah!" remarked the Englishman, indifferently. "Well, that will do. I had some letters to answer to-night, and I shall have time to write them now."

He went away with a languid adieu. Brownie frowned with vexation. That was not just the kind of scene she had expected. Shirley laughed.

"He knows how to manage you, doesn't he, Brownie? I've no fears for your happiness now!"

If Robert had left well enough alone, it would have been well enough. But he did not do that. He was put out by Brownie's behavior and he could not hide it entirely. He went a little way toward the village and then turned upon his heel and came back.

"I forgot," said he, "I brought out a new book for Shirley. I want to see what she says of it. You don't care for such things anyway. I think I'll stay and read it to Shirley this evening while you are gone."

"So glad to see you!" Brownie murmured sarcastically.

He drew out his book, and unwrapped it lazily, commenting the while on its lofty intellectual character.

"By the way, Brownie," he asked, "where is it you are going to-night?"

"I don't believe I'll tell you. My amusements are not sufficiently intellectual to interest you."

"Oh, well," said he, "it's of no consequence."

Brownie was provoked. "I'll make him angry, or die in the attempt," she vowed to herself.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

The Organ Recital.

The organ recital in the George Street Methodist Church to-night will be conducted by Dr. Davies, the brilliant organist of St. Albans's Church, Ottawa. Mr. Edward J. Lyle, of Toronto, will assist and sing several vocal solos during the evening. Time 8 o'clock Don't fail to get there early. Admission by silver collection at the door.

Personal.

The Elmira, N. Y., Telegram, of the 17th inst., has the following in reference to Mr. Geo. A. Perry, a former employee of the REVIEW:—"George A. Perry, formerly quite prominent in local labor circles, who has been in Austin, Texas, for the past year, is now on his way north to renew his residence here. Mr. E. Harrington accompanies him."

The Hon. J. S. D. Thompson, Minister of Justice, was in town for a couple of hours this forenoon. He spoke at Lindsay last night. He went on to the capital on the noon train.

Well, well! Kidd's kid boots are really kid and not shoddy.

Lacrosse.

A meeting of all those interested in Lacrosse will be held at the Hub Resturant to-morrow, Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock. Special business.

This Spring and Last.

The Rev. V. Clementi informs us that on April 19th, 1886, the theomometer registered 81 degrees in the shade, while on Tuesday (April 19th, 1887,) it registered 40 degrees. The lateness of this spring as compared with the season last year is thus shown.

We have just received another lot of Christy's Celebrated Zephyr Hats at Fairweather's Hat Store.

Matrimonial.

On Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock Mr. Montague A. Anderson, of Ottawa, son of the Rev. Canon Anderson, of Montreal, was united in marriage to Ellen S., daughter of Mr. T. S. Rubidge, C. E., Peterborough, at St. John's Church. At that hour the church was well filled with people. The groom, and Mr. C. Anderson, groomsman, and the wedding guests arrived shortly before four o'clock and occupied the seats facing the chancel. At the hour appointed for the ceremony the bride, bridesmaid, and the bride's father drove up to the church. The bride, with a boquet in her hand and leaning on her father's arm, was conducted to the altar. The bridesmaid, Miss McDonald, of Ottawa, followed also bearing a large boquet. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Vincent Clementi, assisted by Canon Pettit, of Cornwall, and the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector of Peterborough. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left town on their wedding trip for New York by way of Niagara Falls.

Real Estate.

The executors of the James Howden estate have announced the sale of the valuable property comprising the homestead and several park lots situated at the southern part of the town and just beyond the boundary. The sale will take place on April 28th., Mr. John Haggart in charge.

Dismissed.

There were two Scott Act cases before the court this morning, Cochrane vs Londerville (Mrs.) and Cochrane vs Laualette, both defendants being from Burleigh. Several witnesses were examined in each case, but there being no evidence they were both dismissed.

Arrived.

We see that Dr. Davies, organist of St. Alban's Church, Ottawa, and M. E. J. Lyle, of Toronto, have both arrived. There will therefore be no disappointment on this occasion. We can promise our friends a recherche entertainment. The only disappointed ones will be those who fail to attend. The organ recital commences at 8 o'clock sharp. We understand the young ladies will perform the pleasing duties of taking the admission fee in the shape of a silver collection at the door.

Call and inspect Turnbull's Table and Grass Linen. See those Linen Table Cloths he is selling at 40 cents each.

SECESSION.

The Question Re-Opened in the Nova Scotia Legislature.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 19.—After the Local Legislature being in session six weeks, and goarded on by his own followers, Premier Fielding to-day brought down a series of resolutions enunciating his policy on the secession question. These recapitulate at length the historical facts from an anti-confederation standpoint in regard to the Union and Nova Scotia's efforts for repeal. It reviews the appeal to the country in June last, the return of a large majority of the Legislature in favor of secession, the fact that nothing could be done while a majority of Unionists sat in the Federal Parliament, that at the recent Dominion elections Nova Scotia again returned a majority of Unionists, and continues:—

"That in view of such recent action by the people of the province, an application to the Imperial Government and Parliament for the release of Nova Scotia from the Canadian Confederation could not be favourably received by the Imperial authorities, and it is at present inexpedient to make such an application. That this House strongly reaffirms the declaration of the last House that Nova Scotia suffers great disadvantage in the Union, and declares its opinion that unless a material change takes pace in financial affairs and commercial relations whereby the position of the province is improved the discontent in Nova Scotia will continue and increase, and it will be necessary to again submit the question of separation from Canada to the people of this province for their decision."

For choice Millinery and stylish Mantles call at Turnbull's. New shapes arriving daily.

MR. GLADSTONE'S SPEECH.

The "Times'" Charges Against the Parnellites—The Coercion Bill.

LONDON, April 19.—Mr. Gladstone spoke at the dinner given by the Eighty Club this evening. He said the time had arrived it was necessary to measure his own position and the position of the Unionists. He never entertained a suspicion that the Parnellites associated themselves with crime, and his official knowledge was at least as good as that of Lord Hartington. The burden of proof lay upon the accusers, not upon the accused. Unless the accusers showed a rational probability of the truth of their charges they were worthless calumniators, and should be shunned as pests of society.

Continuing, Mr Gladstone said he hoped the Liberal-Unionists who had abstained from voting on the second reading of the Crimes bill, would ultimately rally against coercion. Nothing has occurred to make the prospects of Home Rule more hopeless than it was twelve or even six months ago. As to Mr. Chamberlain's statement that the round table conference had collapsed because he (Mr. Gladstone) would not deviate from the provisions of his original bill, it was utterly untrue that he had tried to induce the Unionists to work with the Home Rule Liberals for party purposes outside of the Irish question; but he had failed in his endeavours. But the bitterest of all was the sight of the Liberals supporting the Coercion bill. He had hoped that a considerable number of the Liberals who had voted in favor of the Crimes Bill would eventually refuse to accept the measure unless they were assured that there would be combined with it a bill for the relief of Ireland.

For that reason he asked, in the House of Commons yesterday, the question would the Government stand or fall by its Relief bill as by its Coercion bill. The evasive answer he received showed that the Government meant to force through the Coercion bill and let the Relief bill take its chances. He briefly critized the purposes and alleged necessity of the bill, and said that the question should be referred to the judgment of the nation. He did not wish an early dissolution of Parliament, but they must arouse reflection on the part of the electors, and he believed a dissolution would produce that effect. Mr. Gladstone spoke for an hour.

Gent's Tweed Hats made to order on the premises at Fairweather's Hat Store.

A Sunday Bill Burked.

HALIFAX, N S., April 19.—The Sunday Observance Bill after a protracted discussion in the Legislature, was given the three months' hoist last evening by a vote of 23 to 14. The clergymen who promoted the bill are indignant.

Worth Remembering.

Every inspiration of the lungs, every pulse-throb of the heart, every sweep of the arm—even our very thoughts as they speed through the brain—all create waste matter that must be constantly removed if there is to be that beautiful harmony of functional effort which constitutes health. Nature's remedy is the sure and eminently wise one, of expelling, by proper purgation, the humors which cause disease, and Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are nature's great ally in the cure of digestive disturbances, and an unfailing remedy for constipation and its pernicious effects.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowlede of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette."

CUSTOM WORK

OUR CUSTOM WORK will still keep its high rank. Fit, Style and Finish is our hobby. Mr. DRESSER, the cutter, is as painstaking and exact as ever, and we undertake to turn out suits equal to any in the Dominion. SUITS MADE UP TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

READY-MADE CLOTHING

I can now show a Stock which has the Style and Finish of Ordered Clothing, in Men's, Boys and Youth's Suits, and at prices that will astonish you. For example: TWEED SUITS at $5.00, $7.00 and $9.00; WORSTED SUITS at $10.00 and $12.00; BOYS' SUITS actually as low as $2.00. If you don't understand how we can do this, and give a good article, too, come in and see for yourselves. The precentage on all our clothing is close, to be sure, but our facilities for buying at lowest market prices are unsurpassed by any in trade. Bear in mind, too, that our Clothing is all good. Undergrade Clothing may be offered to buyers elsewhere, but not at the City Clothing Store.

SOUTH VICTORIA.

THE re-election of Mr. Hudspeth, on Wednesday, for South Victoria was a result that everyone fully expected. The impotent vindictiveness of the Opposition was displayed by this factious and hopeless contest carried on by them to harrass Mr. Hudspeth, cause trouble and loss of time to the electors of the constituency and expense to the country, in order to punish them for being Conservative. It was also another flagrant proof of the hypocrisy of their pretence that they object to any technality interfering with the choice of the electors. Mr. Hudspeth, at the general election, was deliberately chosen as their representative by the people of South Victoria, and if he had not formally completed his resignation of an office, which a strained interpretation, as to the correctness of which legal authorities differ, brought within the meaning of the Independence of Parliament Act, a re-election by acclamation would have satisfied legal doubts and carried out the will of the electors, if the Opposition really respected it. But the truth is that they seize with avidity upon any quibble against a Conservative while demanding the widest license for their own party.

But perhaps the worst feature of this vindictive contest was the deliberate falsehood they invented and circulated by word of mouth and i their journals, from the Globe downwards or upwards, that Mr. Hudspeth was disqualified by an informality in his nomination paper. This trumpery falsehood would be beneath notice were it not for the fact that they put up this very small peg in order to hang upon it the gross and injurious calumny that Mr. Hudspeth was ignorant of the law, was careless of the convenience of the electors, and was, therefore, unfitted to receive their votes. Mr. Hudspeth had complied, not only with the spirit, but with the very letter of the law, in regard to his nomination papers. His slanderers knew this—knew that they were inventing and circulating a deliberate falsehood, but they did it deliberately, in the hope of deluding the electors into the belief that Mr. Hudspeth was unworthy of their support. In this, as in so many other cases, they underrated the intelligence of the people and their vile plot failed.

THE LATE JOHN EDMISON.

WHEN the late John Edmison, of Smith, passed away last Tuesday morning we believe we are correct in saying that there then departed the last of those who had trod the site of the present town of Peterborough when it was but a wilderness, and of those who had been an eye-witness of its transformation from the forest into clearance, from clearance into village, and from village into what it is to-day—the best town in the Province of Ontario.

Mr. Edmison was born in the County of Northumberland, England, on the 13th of June, 1794. He had consequently reached his majority before the battle of Waterloo was fought, and had therefore nearly completed his 93rd year at the time of his death. In 1818 he came to Canada, and drew a lot in Smith, on the Communication road, which will be known to many as the old Isaac Milburn farm. In May, 1819, he, with Chas. Fothingill, at one time M. P. P. for Durham; Thomas Ward, for some time Clerk of the Peace of the District; John Farrelly, surveyor; Adam Scott, millwright, and Barnabas Fletcher, formed a party who came up the river Otonabee in a skiff, for the purpose of selecting a mill site and otherwise prospecting the "new" townships—the survey of the township of Smith having been completed, and a few settlers having gone in there in the autumn of the preceding year. Up to the year 1812 Mr. Edmison continued to reside in and about what is now Port Hope. In that year he returned to the Old Country, and remained there for six years. While there he married the wife who only predeceased him in November, 1885, at the advanced age of 83. In 1822 he returned to Canada, bringing his wife and first born child with him, and remained in the neighborhood of Port Hope until 1832, when he located in Smith on the lot upon which he died, and which happens to be only a few rods distant from the lot which he drew in the first instance. From that time down till the time when advancing years rendered rest from active work desirable, and a well earned competence rendered further toil unnecessary, Mr. Edmison devoted his energies to the cultivation of his farm and the up bringing and setting out in life of the ten children with whom the Almighty had blessed him, and to advancing the interests of the Presbyterian Church to which he was much attached.

It was in 1833 that the late Rev. J. M Roger came to Peterborough to minister to the spiritual wants of those of the Presbyterian faith and he found in Mr. Edmison a zealous co worker. Mr. Edmison was the first Precentor of Mr. Roger's congregation and took an active part in the erection of the old St. Andrew's Church, which was pulled down a few months ago to make room for one more in accordance with modern ideas, and upon its completion and the proper organization of the congregation Mr. Edmision was appointed a member of the session, and continued a member of St. Andrew's session down to the day of his death—he being one of the few in this locality who stood by the "Auld Kirk" at the time of the disruption.

Mr. Edmison's experience as a husband and a father of a large family, living long after the allotted space of three score and ten, has been unique Every one of the five sons and five daughters born to him survive him, and although all of these are married, most of them for many years, yet he was never called upon to mourn the loss of a son-in-law or daughter-in-law, and at the time of his death his descendants are numerous, extending into the third generation.

We need scarcely add that Mr Edmison looked forward to his summons hence, in full confidence in, and simple reliance upon the atoning merits of the Saviour whom he had endeavoured to serve throughout the long life which the Almighty had been pleased to grant him.

A QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Is it going to be any benefit to the inhabitants of our village to have the boys, "and not boys alone, but some who class themselves young men," acting as they have for the past while. Since Mr. Cochrane resigned being constable they have had full fling and it is something disgraceful the manner these parties are getting head-way, a lady cannot walk past where these roughs are congregated, without being insulted by some slang speech or incident remark, and they will often follow ladies on the street making speeches not at all nice, but still we have to bear it. I ask what is it going to benefit to do without a constable? In a very short time no lady, either young or old, will venture out after dark as it is now the sidewalks are often fixed with sticks or stones laid across to trip or injure as the case may be, and these scapegraces hid close by awaiting the fun, as they call it. And may I remark still farther, I am not a Salvationist and very seldom attend the meetings, but the shameful way in which these parties get on around the doors and all the noise possible inside is anything but a credit to anyone. And if parents are not capable of training their boys to act with a little more respect I for one would suggest that our Reeve or Council would place it in the hands of some one who at least can force them to do so and let the lockup be their shelter for a few nights instead of some poor tramp who might happen to pass here, and we will soon have peace. If steps are taken, our once quiet respectable little village will still retain the good name it bore in the past.

Thanking you, dear sir, for your trouble.

I remain,
A VILLAGER.

THE DOG TAGS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In anticipation of the opening of the dog-shooting season on the 1st day of May, I have purchased a new dog tag. The Town Clerk on handing me the tag was good enough to inform me that the device, this year, was a beaver. On opening the envelope I discovered, contained therein, the large image of a monstrosity with a round head, a bloated body, a fish's tail, and no legs, looking more like a dropsical seal than a beaver; it is a good deal uglier and clumsier than even the last year's maple leaf.

Mr. W. H. Banfield "Machinist and Die Maker," of Toronto, must entertain a very mean of opinion of the taste of the Dog-tag Committee of our Town Council, or he would scarcely have had the impudence to send such a specimen of his workmanship to Peterborough.

My poor dog, when the article is attached to his collar, will, I fear, be unable to hold up his head or tail again until he has rubbed it off against a stick of cordwood and buried it, cat-like, in the garden.

The inventor has been careful to have his name and calling printed on every envelope in which those tags are enclosed, which will have the useful effect of preventing our applying to him should we require an article connected with his craft.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Government Grants—Rewards for the North-West Campaign—The Experimental Farms—The Fishery Question.

TUESDAY, April 19.—A number of questions were put to Ministers and were answered.

GOVERNMENT WORKS.

Mr. POPE, answering Sir Richard Cartwright, said the Government has assumed liabilities for subsidies to railways by entering into contracts to the amount of $3,268,000. Besides this there are annual subsidies amounting to about a quarter of a million. About two millions will be required to complete the work now in progress.

MOUNTED POLICE.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Davin, said the Government had under consideration the question of granting pensions to members of the North-West Mounted Police after a certain term of service.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

Mr CARLING, answering Mr. Davin, said the Government had under consideration the establishment of an experimental farm in the North-West Territory this year.

NORTHWEST VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. DAVIN moved for returns of rewards to volunteers in the North-West, and urged the claims of the Regina Company.

Sir A. CARON said his department had done all it could under the Militia Act, the scope of which the House could enlarge if it saw fit.

Mr. SPROULE advocated the cause of Macdonald's scouts, Moosejaw, and Mr. Weldon of the volunteers who were called out but not sent forward.

THE FISHERY QUESTION.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Blake, said the fishery papers would be brought down in a day or two.

BLUE BOOK.

The report of the Minister of Justice was brought down.

THE ENGLISH PREMIER.

Lord Salisbury Speaks on the Crimes Bill and Other Subjects.

LONDON, April 20.—Lord Salisbury, in an address before the Primrose League at Albert Palace last night, said the hollow agitation carried on during the Easter holidays by the Opposition had failed and the Government's cause was the country's. The Government stood in Ireland facing a vast machine, producing terrorism and crime, against which the Government intended to struggle with all the powers Parliament would grant. Mr. Gladstone's imagination deceived him when he attempted to prove that his party's prospects were very bright. The Irish Crimes Bill would not compare in stringency with Gladstone's bill of 1881. Under the latter measure people were imprisoned without trial. This could not be done under the present bill The suppression of crime in Ireland did not mean the suppression of liberty. The policemen in arresting Bill Sykes did not interfere with liberty. Yet Mr. Gladstone condemned the Repression Bill. A danger of the present day lay in catch words. Mr. Gladstone, who had spent his life in changing his opinions, mentioned those who separated from him in the tone of a father lecturing his children. He preached at and almost prayed for them, but it never occurred to Mr. Gladstone that perhaps they had something to complain of. They were unable to change their opinions in a night as he could. Lord Salisbury prophecized that Mr. Gladstone would find it difficult to gather around him any new recruits. His present adherents had gone too far to recede. What had Mr. Gladstone gained? He gained the eighty six very devoted followers of Mr. Parnell, who had been charged with having approved murder and who had refused, or whose friends had refused for him, to enter the witness box and deny the charge, and this course Mr. Gladstone approved. Mr. Parnell had been assisted with funds subscribed by men who advocated murder. When a man was accused in such a manner it was not open to him to put the accusation aside with the copious use of the elegant vocabulary his friends had introduced into the House of Commons. He was bound to enter the witness box and deny the charges against him most solemnly. How could Mr. Gladstone go before the country associated with men who refused to submit such a question to the judgment of an English jury? Lord Salisbury did not believe in the Gladstone horoscope. The victory Mr. Gladstone obtained in 1880 was won by a fund of misrepresentation that could not be repeated. The Conservatives were now an organized party, powerful enough to refute falsehood and disseminate the truth. This condition of the party was largely due to the work of the Primrose League. The present Government would, when it left office, hand down unimpared to their successors the great trust of the Empire committed to ther care. [Cheers.]

Increasing Stock.

NEW YORK, April 20.—A certificate has been fyled with the Secretary of State at Albany, N.Y., declaring that by a two thirds vote of the directorate the capital stock of the Western Union Telegraph Company has been increased by $1,200,000. It now totals $31,200,000.

Looks Like Murder.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Lena Keick, 41 years old, a Hungarian woman, was found about midnight lying in the hall of a tenament house in Norfolk street with her throat cut from ear to ear. Adolph, a tailor and her husband, has been arrested. Blood stains were found on his clothing.

The License Question.

CHICAGO, April 20.—Municipal elections were held in a large number of Illinois cities and towns yesterday. The Question of license was the principal feature. The majority of the cities declared for license, but in the smaller places the anti-license ticket was uniformly successful.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

SENTENCED.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 20.—Six of the men arrested for complicity in the plot to assassinate the Czar, which was to have been carried out on the 13th of March, have been sentenced to death. The other conspirators have been sentenced to imprisonment for life.

KNIGHTED.

LONDON, April 20.—Five of the delegates attending the Colonial Conference in London have been created by the Queen, Knights of St. Michael and St. George, viz. R. Thorburn, Premier of Newfoundland; J. W. Donnor, Premier of South Australia; T. Upington, Attorney-General of the Cape of Good Hope; J. Lormer, Minister of Colonial Defences for Victoria, and R. Wisdom, of South Wales.

TRIAL OF NIHILISTS.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 20.—The trial of the prisoners implicated in the plot to kill the Czar on March 13th will begin at St. Petersburg on the 27th inst.

CONCILIATION.

LONDON, April 20.—England's attitude towards the United States in regard to the fishery question is becoming more conciliatory. Lord Salisbury, in a despatch dated March 24th, offers, as proof of the good will of Her Majesty's Government, and its anxiety to settle the fishery dispute, to revert during the coming fishery season and for a further term, to the condition of things existing under the Treaty of Washington, without a suggestion of pecuniary indemnity. He proposes that, in the meantime, a mixed commission be appointed to arrange a settlement, and that the American fishermen conform to the provisions of the treaty of 1818, pending such settlement. The opinion here is that Lord Salisbury is over-generous.

MR. BIGGAR TAKES ACTION.

LONDON, April 20.—Mr. Biggar will sue the Times for libel, and make that paper's articles on "Parnellism and Crime," of the series of which the Parnell letter was the culminating part, the basis of the action.

THE EVICTION CAMPAIGN.

DUBLIN, April 20.—Nine tenants on Lord Lansdown's Luggacurren estate were evicted to day. The onlookers groaned, but no resistance was offered.

THREATS.

DUBLIN, April 20.—Last evening placards bearing representations of crosses and coffins were posted in Listowel threatening with violence any man who should take a farm from which the tenant had been evicted.

DEGRADED AND DISMISSED.

LONDON, April 20.—An Irish non-commissioned officer of artillery, who had for some time been employed in an confidential capacity in the Ordnance Office at Woolwich Arsenal, has been degraded in rank and dismissed from his position without trial on cnarge of having sold secrets of the office. A civilian accomplice was also dismissed.

THE EPSOM SPRING MEETING.

LONDON, April 20.—The city and suburban handicap race of 1,000 sovereigns was run to-day at the Epsom spring meeting, and was won by T. L. Wardle's Merry Duchess, Mr. Somer's Carlton second, and W. J. Anson's Castor third. There were nine starters.

The Quebec "Bolters."

The Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Star says:—"The 'Bolters' appear to be falling into line under their old leader, with the exception of Col. Amyot. They have all sent in their names to Sir John Macdonald to be placed on the Standing Committees on his nomination, and they all refused to attend the Liberal caucus. Col. Amyot wanted to go but was deterred by the others. Mr. Bergeron admitted that he had sent in his name to the Government to have placed it on the standing committees. He said: I had to adopt one of two courses. to send it to Sir John or to Mr. Blake. Being a Conservative in principle, I chose the former. However, had I given it to Mr. Blake he would have been dissatisfied if my vote on certain occasions go with the Government. I do not think the issues of last session will come up again, and have been induced to take this stand, as it seems to be the wish of my constituents to support the Government. It is said these are the views of all the Nationalists, except Col. Amyot."

A Leap for Liberty.

MONTREAL, April 19.—Joseph Grenier convicted at Aylmer for burglary, was being brought to the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary yesterday by Constable MAX HOLDEN, when he effected his escape in a most daring manner. He asked to go to the closet and the constable unlocked his handcuffs. He opened the window and jumped out while the train was moving at the rate of 30 miles an hour. The train was stopped at once but Grenier could not be found.

Foul Play Suspected.

Montreal, April 19.—The coroner's inquest yesterday on the body of an unknown man found killed on the railway track at Pointe Claire Sunday, was adjourned till this afternoon, the jury being strongly of the opinion that deceased met his death by foul play. He was dressed like a sailor and had his arms and breast tatooed with fanciful figures and the word "India" on his left wrist.

The Rahway Tragedy.

RAHWAY, N. J., April 20.—William Rubeck, a young man who lives in Milton and who was the first person to see the body of the murdered girl, was placed under arrest last night by order of the coroner. Rubeck was a witness before the coroner's jury and his testimony created the impression that he knew more about the crime than he cared to tell.

The expenditure of the Canadian Postoffice Department last year was $3,380,000 and the revenue $2,468,747, consequently the carriage of the mails cost the country $900,000 more than the public paid for the service.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, APRIL 21, 1887.

WINNIPEG AND DISALLOWANCE.

THE Manitoba Provincial Legislature and the Manitoba members in the House of Commons are agitating for a discontinuance of the policy of disallowance of measures chartering railways within the old limits of the Province to connect with the railway system of the United States.

In so doing it seems to us that they lose sight altogether of one very important consideration. Quite apart from the question of the fairness of encouraging too early competition with the C. P. R., after it has so energetically served the North-West by affording it means of communication, and the similar question of the wisdom of making the western portion of the C. P. R., built at the expense of the Dominion, a mere feeder for the railways and ports of the United States, there remains a third question of great moment from a local point of view. The movement against disallowance has its headquarters in Winnipeg, it is supported mainly by those who have interests in Winnipeg, and it is not unfair to assume that it has hitherto been regarded by the people of that city almost exclusively from the point of view of their own locality.

Now it is very natural and hardly blameable that the people of Winnipeg should warmly support a policy calculated to benefit them and build up their city. They think that keen railway competition would tend to reduce their freights, increase their facilities, and help them in various ways to make Winnipeg the great emporium, the main distributing centre for the whole North-West. They may be excused if they think themselves justified in holding the interests of other portions of the Dominion as second to their own, and leaving other localities to fight for themselves.

But what the people of Winnipeg seem to forget is that, if they succeed, other parts of the Northwest may be spurred on to try for the same object. They apparently ignore the fact that if Winnipeg is allowed to connect itself with the United States railway system, a precedent would be established that would make it difficult for the Dominion authorities to refuse the same privilege to other sections, and that would inevitably has ten the day when all such restrictions would be removed. With Brandon, Regina, Moosejaw and other centres of population and trade, each having its railway connecting it with the United States system, Winnipeg would soon find itself deposed from its present position as the emporium for the whole Northwest. It would undoubtedly remain the first among the competing centres of commerce, but it would only be one of them.

The people of Winnipeg should reflect that while advocating railway competition for themselves they may be fighting the battles of their rivals and future competitors for trade. The arguments they are now advancing may soon be effectively turned against them, while they would have given up the right to protest.

VESSELS IN MASQUERADE.

SINCE Mr. Peter Mitchell was not considered the best man to protect the Canadian fisheries, the Montreal Herald is busily attacking them and affording encouragement to those who are invading them. Mr. Wm. McDougall is another of these "soreheads," and both are now repudiating their old contentions.

The point that is attempted to be made is that the New England fishermen should be recognized as trading vessels, and should be welcomed by Canadians with open arms in that capacity. Quite apart from all the restraints of treaties and laws this pretention is opposed to the plainest common sense. United States vessels may be classed as fishermen or traders, which ever they may elect, and they will be treated by Canadians fairly and even liberally. But they cannot claim to be both at once or alternately on the same voyage. The dodge of the New Englanders is ingenious; when they are charged with infringing the fishery regulations they maintain that they are traders and should not be restricted in commercial intercourse; when they are caught violating the customs regulations they protest that they are fishermen and should not be harassed by the rules intended for traders. In this manner they endeavour to pass as free rovers, subject to no laws or regulations but such as they choose to acknowledge by their own will. If they were allowed the position they claim, they would escape from any accountability unless absolutely caught in the act of fishing close to our coast, which they would have every facility for doing without much risk of detection.

But they cannot be allowed thus to shift their character wherever it may suit them. If United States vessels wish to be fishermen let them keep to their own waters and out of ours, which they say are so valueless to them that they will no longer pay for their use. Should they be in distress or danger we will receive them hospitably and speed them on their way when the need is over. If on the other hand they wish to be traders we will welcome them in that capacity if they observe our laws and regulations. We will not attempt any petty frauds upon them by pretending to let the goods they carry enter free and then taxing the packages, by quibbling that seal oil is not fish oil and so on.

We are inclined to be neighbourly and to come to any reasonable arrangement, but not to submit to be pillaged while being refused any reciprocal advantage.

ONTARIO LEGISATURLE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

Parliament Buildings—Making Another Office for a Friend—The Factories Act—Public Health—Niagara Falls Park.

TUESDAY, April 19.—Several private bills were read the third time.

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Mr. FRASER moved that next day resolutions be considered increasing the appropriation for the new Parliament buildings to $1,050,000.

GOVERNMENT BILLS.

Bills respecting Distress for Rent and Taxes, for consolidating the Insurance Act, and to extend the operation of the Land Titles Act were passed through committee.

YORK SHRIEVALTY.

Mr. MOWAT moved an amendment to the bill for Improving the Law providing for dividing the Shrievalty of York and appointing two Sheriffs.

Mr. MEREDITH objected to the amendment. The time had come when excessive fees should go back to the people instead of being used to reward political friends.

Mr. MOWAT said they could not deal with this particular office in one way while others were not touched.

The clauses were adopted.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

The bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation for Injuries Act was passed through committee.

THE FACTORIES ACT.

The House went into committee on the bill to amend the Factories Act.

Mr. FRASER, in reply to Mr. Meredith, said that for some time to come there would not be more than two inspectors.

Mr. MEREDITH favored the appointment of inspectors by the municipal authorities.

After further discussion the bill was reported,

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The House in committee considered the bill to amend the Public Health Act. Several clauses were allowed to stand and progress was reported.

THE LONG NAME PARK.

The House went into committee respecting the Niagara Falls Park.

Mr. MEREDITH urged the Attorney-General to adopt the name of Niagara Falls Park instead of "the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park," which was ridiculously long.

Mr. MOWAT adhered to the long name.

The bill was reported.

Other bills were advanced a stage and the House adjourned at 10.50 p m.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

OBIT.—It is with feelings of sadness that we chronicle the death of Mr. Horace Adrain, which took place on last Thursday evening, April 14th, after a lingering illness of about three months. The funeral took place on the following Saturday at 2 p. m., and was attended by a large number of acquaintances, who followed the remains to the Presbyterian burying ground, two miles north of this place, where it was interred. He leaves no family but his wife, who mourns her irreparable loss, and who has the deepest sympathy of the people of the whole village and neighborhood in her sad bereavement.

SCHOOL REPORT.—The following is an account of a written examination held in our school last week, shewing the number of number of marks obtained by each pupil, in the second, third, fourth and fifth classes:—

Fifith Class—Maximum, 1501; John C. Murdock 1073, D. W. Best 972, Louis Thexton 943, Freeman Greer 858, John Maddis 485.

Sr. Fourth Class—Maximum, 690; A. W. Kilpatrick 476; Annie Sutcliffe 412, Florence Sanderson 382, Florence Ewing 376, Nellie McLean (missed four subjects) 165.

Jr. Fourth Class—Maximum, 312; Ormond Rowan 196, Mamie E. Greer 138; Ella V. Best 138.

Sr. Third Class—Maximum, 315; Wilbert Best 207, Richard White 206, Maud Rabee 206, Lizzie Maddis 177, Ella Thexton 172, Thomas Greer 162.

Jr. Third Class—Maximum, 300; Harry Bland, 254; Louis Wilson, 225, Adie Sutcliffe 208, Birt Wilson 200, Annie Shield 177, Percy McLean 169, Everett Ewing 144.

Jr. Second Class—Maximum; 212; Robt. Playfair 119.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MISUNDERSTANDING.—Some people imagine that they have been specially appointed to look after everyone. Such is not the case; and if a man wishes to make firewood of a few trees on his own land, we cannot see why anyone should object. "Children and others should not handle sharp tools," &c.

SCOTT ACT.—Charges for violation of the Scott Act were up last week, and some of our most respectable citizens were called as witnesses; some of them never having set foot inside of the hotels against which they were summoned. It surely is not right to summon a man away from his business to give evidence about a case of which he knows nothing.

TRAPPING.—Trapping is very good this spring.

RETURNED.—Dr. Harrison has returned and resumed his practice. Sergt. G. E. Mark has also returned from Trinity College, having passed a very satisfactory examination.

GENERAL.—Roads are in a very fair state. Fall wheat looks fairly well. Mr. R. B. McIntyre has removed his cooper shop from Mill street to Main street, across from the Town Hall. Mr. Jas. McFarlane, who has been with Mr. Wylie for the last three years, is at his trade in Hastings. We will likely hear of Jas. on the Ironclads, where he will be a source of strength.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

"Wherever it is," she said, "I'm to meet a most fascinating young man. He's a man who appreciates my modest mental graces, too, if some other people don't. He has the most perfect manner to ladies I ever saw. He isn't one of your intellectual slouches who never sees whether a lady is comfortable or not."

Robert looked from his book.

"Is it young Martin, may I ask?"

"Oh, then, there is something you are interested in?"

"Because if it's young Martin, he's a person whose charming devotion is no credit to any lady. Seriously, I shouldn't like to have him hanging about you, Brownie."

"Oh, thank you. But I think I can tell who's proper to hang about me. I'm old enough, too, goodness knows."

"Oh, come now, Brownie, that's nonsense. Really, is it Martin you mean?"

"Really, I won't tell you."

"Won't?"

"By the blessed broomstick, no!"

He was getting a little vexed. Brownie watched the knitting brows and exulted. He meditated a moment. "But I insist on knowing."

"Oh, you do. How very unfortunate."

"If you don't tell me this," he said, "I shall think you would be capable of keeping things from me in earnest."

Brownie flashed a smile at him from her dancing brown eyes, her white teeth and scarlet lips.

"Trust me all, or trust me not at all," she murmured.

"Perhaps," he said, "you'd like it to be not at all?"

"My other adorer would like it, anyway."

"Because," he continued, "it can be managed well enough. Ned Bryson and his wife and sister start for the Sandwich Islands from California in two weeks. They'll be over there in the Pacific a year or two. They are my best friends. I belong to their party properly, but I've been wasting my time here. They've complained before that I deserted them. Now they write asking me for the last time to join them."

"How touching!"

"I ought to have gone to them long ago. If I do so now, you won't object, I suppose."

"Not I!"

It was the mere ragged end of a cob web for them to quarrel about, yet they quarreled.

"Very well, then, since it makes no difference to you, I've made up my mind to go."

"Oh, by all means."

"Then I must start at once. I shall bid you good-by to-night."

"So we shall not have the honor of seeing you at—Christmas, I suppose?"

He answered slowly and quite seriously: "I—have other views."

Brownie turned white. But it was only a moment. Then the little reprobate balanced herself on one foot, gave him a saucy glance out of the side of her eye, and whistled—actually whistled—

"Good-by, Brownie."

"Good night, Mr. Edgerly."

She went with her friends, and they danced on into the small hours, and Brownie was the merriest of them all. She felt worried privately about the quarrel, yet she was sure he would come back next morning.

But Robert Edgerly did not come back. If he had waited till morning he would have come. He would not have had the heart to do what he did. But he was angry. A train left Linwood in two hours. It connected with the midnight western express at Chesterton. When Brownie came home and went sleepily up stairs next morning he was already 100 miles away. He had a temper, when it was up.

Brownie came down from her late sleep at noon, weary, pale and a little cross.

"I didn't like to disturb you before," said Shirley, "but here's a note Robert sent me. You will know what it means, I suppose."

It was a brief note of farewell. He had started for the Pacific, he wrote. The journey was an unexpected one and he was sorry to leave, but Brownie could explain matters.

So he was gone!

Brownie read the letter again and again, to make sure. She was dazed. When at last she could not help knowing the truth she leaned her head upon Shirley's faithful shoulder, and cried to break her heart.

"I never thought he'd go. I never thought it," she sobbed. "I only teased him for the fun of it."

The trouble was not any easier for her to bear, either, as the days went on and the tall lover did not come back. She clung for long against reason to the hope that his heart would fail at the last, and he would yet return before the vessel sailed.

Christmas came and went. Christmas was to have been her wedding day. The winter lengthened into spring, still no word from the missing one. Then Brownie gave up looking for him.

So it was not to be all peaches and cream for her. She still wore his ring, the quaint circlet of turquoise and forget-me-not he had placed on her finger that day in the autumn woods. She did not know where to send it to him. Not a word had come.

She waited awhile and then railed, this inconsistent young lady did, bitterly against the falseness, the heartlessness of the masculine sex. She carried it off bravely enough among her young friends. It was easy to say that they had quarreled and he had gone off in a huff and wasn't coming back. She meant to do as she liked, sweetheart or no sweetheart, and gentlemen who didn't approve her ways needn't, that was all.

But she fretted secretly, nevertheless, and pined visibly. She had been more in earnest in caring for Robert Edgerly than in anything in her butterfly life before. With Shirley she broke down and did not deny that she was fretting her life out. Shirley made no solemn face over the matter. Shirley laughed at her and rallied her to keep up her spirits.

"Really, do you think he will ever come back, Shirley?" she asked her sister.

"Can't say, probably not. But don't worry about it. Get another lover. That's the best way for a young lady to cure a broken heart. You've plenty of admirers, I'm sure."

"But they are all such stupids after him."

"You ought to have considered that before you teased him so."

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d99

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

NOTICE.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Indian Supplies," will be received at this office up to noon of SATURDAY, 30th April, 1887, for the delivery of Indian Supplies during the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1888, consisting of Flour, Bacon, Groceries, Ammunition, Twine, Oxen, Cows, Bulls, Agricultural Implements, Tools, &c., duty paid, at various points in Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

Forms of tender containing full particulars relative to the Supplies required, dates of delivery, &c., may be had by applying to the undersigned, or to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, or to the Indian Office, Winnipeg.

Parties may tender for each description of goods (or for any portion of each description of goods) separately or for all the goods called for in the Schedules, and the department reserves to itself the right to reject the whole or any part of a tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Cheque on a Canadian Bank in favour of the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs for at least five per cent. of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into a contract based on such tender when called upon to do so or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

Tenderers must make up in the Money columns in the Schedule the total money value of the goods they offer to supply or their tender will not be entertained.

Each tender must, in addition to the signature of the tenderer, be signed by two sureties acceptable to the department, for the proper performance of the contract.

When implements of a particular make are mentioned it is because the articles so designated suit the department for the purpose required better than others; in such cases the competition between tenderers must, of course, be in the transportation to the place of delivery.

In all cases where transportation may be only partial by rail, contractors must make proper arrangements for supplies to be forwarded at once from railway stations to their destination in the Government Warehouse at the point of delivery.

Tenderers will please note carefully the following conditions:—

1. Supplies will not be paid for until the Department has been assured of the satisfactory delivery of each article for which payment is claimed.
2. No tender for supplies of a description different to that given in the index will be considered, and supplies which are found, on delivery, to be of kind or quality different to those described, will be rejected by the agents of the department; and the contractor and his sureties will be held responsible for any loss entailed on the Department through failure to deliver in accordance with terms of contract.
3. It must be distinctly understood that supplies are to be delivered at the various points for the prices named in the tender; that no other additional charge for packing or any other account will be entertained, and that an invoice must accompany each separate delivery of supplies. An invoice for each separate delivery must also be sent to the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa, and one to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, if the supplies are for the North-West Territories. When the supplies are for points in the Manitoba Superintendency the triplicate invoice should be sent to E. McColl, Winnipeg.
4. Prices must be given for articles to be delivered at each point of delivery named in the Schedule for each article for which a tender is submitted, and not an average price for each article at all points of delivery as tenders based on a system of averages will be considered.
5. Tenderers should understand that they must bear the cost, not only of sending their samples to the Department of Indian Affairs, but also freight charges incurred in returning such samples to the tenderer.
6. When supplies are to be delivered "equal to sample," tenderers should understand that the sample is to be seen either at the Department of Indian Affairs, at the office of the Indian Commissioner at Regina, at the office of the Inspector in charge at Winnipeg, or at any one of the undermentioned Indian Agencies.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette."

Meeting of Workingmen.

An open meeting of workingmen will be held in the Knights of Labor Hall, Water street, this evening, commencing at eight o'clock.

I. O. O. F.

Anniversary entertainment, music and mystery Tuesday evening next, in the Hall of Otonabee Lodge, corner of George and Hunter streets. Tickets can be obtained at G. Clarke's store, George, street.

Just received at Turnbull's a fresh shipment of scarce shades in dress goods. Everybody visiting the Dress Goods Department is suprised at the variety in shades, and are more than pleased at the prices.

Remember the Sale

By the ladies of St. Andrew's Church of useful and fancy articles on Thursday, the 21st inst., in the School Room of the Church. Also a good musical programme will be provided. Admission, 10 cents. Refreshments extra. Tea from 5 to 7 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Dack & Son's boots to be had at Kidd's at Toronto prices.

Sheppard

Opened his store on Saturday, April 2nd, the first door south of Arcade, George street—Dry Goods, Clothing and Hats and Caps. Many lines have been bought at a rate of 60 cents on the dollar to clear. These goods will be slaughtered. It will pay you to look through.

Oddfellow's Anniversary.

A social entertainment will be given in the hall of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I. O. O. F., corner of George and Hunter streets, on the evening of the 69th anniversary of the Order in America, April 26th. Members of the Order will be supplied with tickets this evening at No. 13.

I. O. O. F.

The Oddfellows of Peterborough will celebrate the 69th anniversary of the establishment of Oddfellowship in America by attending service at the George Street Methodist Church. They will march in a body to the church and a special sermon will be preached by the Rev. I. Tovell. Handsome new badges have been procured for the Otonabee lodge, and are now displayed at G. C. Clark's clothing store.

A Boycott.

At the regular meeting of Assembly No. 6952, Knights of Labor, held on Wednesday evening, the following resolution was adopted:—"Resolved, That because of the action of Heintzman & Co., of King street west, Toronto, in discharging some of their employees for no other reason than that they belonged to the K. of L., we hereby refuse to deal with any party handling their instruments."

Well, well! Kidd's kid boots are really kid and not shoddy.

New Block.

Hall's new block, corner of Dublin and George streets, is now nearly ready for occupation. The fine spacious store on the corner is to be taken by Mr. L. Potvin, who will open up a grocery store with a fruit, pastry and confectionery department. The latter will be a great convenience to the people in the locality.

For choice Millinery and stylish Mantles call at Turnbull's. New shapes arriving daily.

The Bridges.

It is the intention of the Street and Bridge Committee to call for tenders for the construction of new iron bridges over the creek at Brock and Simcoe streets. The new bridges will not be of the same construction as the Hunter street bridge. Though they will be much lighter there will be more iron in them. The wood portions will be almost altogether dispensed with. The new bridges will cost much less each that the Hunter street bridge.

Call and inspect Turnbull's Table and Grass Linen. See those Linen Table Cloths he is selling at 40 cents each.

Personal.

Mr. J. M. Riddell, Divisional Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, was in town on Wednesday. He says that a brisk passenger and traffic business is being done in the central division of the road.

Mr. T. Spencer, late accountant in the Central Canada Loan and Savings Co's. offices, left town to-day for St. Louis where he is to go into the railway business again. He is followed by the best wishes of his many friends and sighs of the fair.

Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., left town for Ottawa this morning. He spent Wednesday in south Victoria. About thirty Conservative voters went up from Peterborough.

Gent's Tweed Hats made to order on the premises at Fairweather's Hat Store.

Organ Recital.

The organ recital given in the George Street Methodist Church on Wednesday evening was attended by about seven hundred people. Dr. Davies, of St. Alban's Church, Ottawa, was the organ soloist and Mr. E. J. Lye the vocal soloist. The programme is as follows:—

1 Overture.....Semiramide.....Rossini
2 Ave Maria—op 5 .....Adolphe Henselt
3 Vocal solo.....Mr. Ed. J. Lye, of Toronto
4 Choruses from Israel, "The Horse and His Rider," "But the Waters Overwhelmed." Handel
5 Gavotte Characteristique.... Henri Roubier

INTERMISSION.

6 Allegro Pracevole, Violin Sonata..Beethoven
7 Funeral March of a Marionette.....Gounod
8 Concert Fugue.....Bach
9 Vocal solo.....Mr. Ed. J. Lye
10 Minuet and Trio—Symphony in E Flat.....Mozart
11 Wedding March.....Sir Arthur Sullivan

The people were highly pleased with the varied character of the organ solos, making the evening pass away in anything but a tedious manner. Dr. Davies is justly entitled to the reputation he enjoys. Mr. Lye's singing was much appreciated. He was encored each time he sang. The proceeds of the recital were fairly satisfactory.

Piles of slippers at Kidd's from 30 cents a pair up.

Reception Committee.

A meeting of the Oddfellows' Grand Lodge Reception Committee was held on Wednesday evening, when a draft of the preliminary circular, inviting Oddfellows and visitors to Peterborough next August, was submitted and approved with amendments. It was also decided that a provisional promissory note be negotiated, calling upon all Oddfellows to sign the same. This is to provide against a deficit, should there be one. It was also decided that should there be a surplus it would be donated as an Oddfellows' gift to the Protestant Home. It was arranged that the entertainment committee convene a meeting of leaders of church choirs and directors of other musical organizations at an early date, to ask their assistance in arranging a suitable Oddfellows' Choral Jubilee celebration in August next. As it is not imperative that the Jubilee celebration should take place in June next, it would be a grand arrangement if the different choirs and musical organizations could be brought together in August next, when such a large number of visitors would be with us. We trust the scheme will take shape and become an established fact.

A Great Excursion.

A number of excursions and other events have been announced that will draw a large number of people to Peterborough this summer. But the latest announcement of a mammoth excursion eclipses them all. It includes Toronto, Belleville, Cobourg, Lindsay, Port Hope, Omemee, Lakefield, Norwood, and hundreds of other places and stations on the chief railways and branches—in fact every place within a hundred miles of Peterborough. Other excursions offer the advantage of reduced fares, but this unique excursion offers free rides, the people being brought to the town free of charge. That is an unparalleled offer, an excursion without precedent, such as could originate only in a mind devoted to the interests of the people. The only condition of the free ride—and that condition is more in the interest of the people than the free ride itself—is that goods to the value of $10 and upwards be purchased at the great cheap clothing house kept by Gough. His prices are down, down, away down, and it would pay anyone to come 100 miles and pay their fare to purchase from him. The Globe fast train is nowhere now, and must take a back seat to this new sensation. Cheap goods and a free ride are the advantages of buying from Gough, the Terror to High Priced Clothiers.

HUDSPETH ELECTED.

South Victoria Again Decides for the Conservatives.

By Telephone to the Review.

LINDSAY, April 21.—The result of yesterday's election was the triumphant return of Mr. Adam Hudspeth, the Conservative candidate, with an increased majority. The contest was fought with great vigor on both sides. Every available vote was polled, it being estimated that not fewer than two hundred outsiders having votes exercised the franchise. At the close of the poll the returns came in rapidly and it was soon known that the constituency had not changed its opinion. On account of Hudspeth's opponent being a Lindsay man the town majority was reduced to 20; but the Mariposa vote more than balanced the loss, there being only 183 of a majority for Needler instead of 223 which Lounsbrough polled. Emily gave Hudspeth 166 of a majority and Verulam 102. Ops sent Needler 55 of a majority. The total majority for Hudspeth is 50.

When it was definetely known that Mr Hudspeth had been again returned, the usual demonstration took place. A meeting was held at which prominent local men spoke.

Kitchen Garden Schools.

In recommending Young Women's Christian Temperance Unions to take up the work of Kitchen Garden, it may be well to briefly answer a few questions which will at once arise in the mind with reference to it.

1. What is Kitchen Garden?

It is a school in which girls of from seven to seventeen are taught the principles of good housekeeping. The are trained in setting and clearing the breakfast table; washing the dishes; assorting and washing clothes, hanging them out and preparing them for the ironing; scrubbing, sweeping, dusting, waiting on door; bed-making; the very important art of setting a dinner table and waiting, &c. How to choose meats is taught by means of charts. Practical cooking does not enter into this system, but may be advantageously added after the girls are sufficiently well grounded in the first principles.

2. How is this instruction made interesting to children?

By means of the toy "Occupations" which are in themselves attractive; songs, set to cheerful music, embracing the rules according to which the work is done; marches and games which teach an important lesson while they amuse and enliven.

3. How does the Kitchen Garden help temperance?

In the most practical way, by teaching girls to make homes beautiful, and thus offsetting the attractions of the saloon. Principles of order, cleanliness, comfort, and cheerfulness are inculcated, labor elevated, and made a delight instead of a drudging. Fathers, husbands and brothers are thus helped to lead sober and useful lives. Like most of our work it is one of prevention rather than cure; it is sowing seed which in time must bear fruit. Temperance instruction may also be given in the classes; it may come in very appropriately in the dinner table and other lessons; conversations on cooking, etc. Once a month, or oftener if desired, fifteen or twenty minutes may be entirely devoted to a temperance lesson, similar to that of a Band of Hope; temperance literature may be given to children to take to their homes. The homes should be visited and parents stirred up to take an interest in thatwhich is being taught to their children.

4. Is it possible to learn the system by means of the manual alone?

In all cases it is best to have a Normal class trained by one who thoroughly understands the system before commencing with the children. Very little idea can be gained by simply studying the manual. The Normal class should consist of from twelve to twenty young ladies, who will all be needed in the work of teaching.

Miss Pearson, of Brantford, is in town and will give 12 lessons. All young ladies are invited. Lessons every day from 4 30 p. m. in the W. C. T. U. Hall south of Clegg's furniture store.—Come.

Jacques Cartier Monument.

QUEBEC, April 20.—The following letter has been written by the Govenor-General to Sir Adolphe Caron with reference to the proposed monument to Jacques Cartier:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE,
OTTAWA, Jan. 16, 1887

DEAR SIR ADOLPHE,—I am very glad to learn from you that the citizens of Quebec have set on foot a scheme for erecting a monument to Cartier and the Fathers, whose martyrdom is one of the most striking episodes in Canadian history. I shall be delighted to send a subscription to the fund and to show thereby not only my respect to the memory of those brave men, but my good will towards your ancient city, in which we spent some of the pleasantest days of our time in Canada. I have put my name down in the bulletin for $100.

Yours sincerly
LANSDOWNE.

An Incorrect Report.

OTTAWA, April 20.—The report from London that Lord Sailsbury has offered, in a despatch to the United States Government, to revert to the old condition of affairs without indemnity for our fisheries is quite incorrect. Lord Sailsbury has recently communicated with Washington, but the London message does not correctly represent the tenor of his despatch.

Prohibition Defeated.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., April 20.—The bill for the total prohibition of the liquor traffic in this colony was defeated in the Assemly by the casting vote of the Speaker. It will certainly be carried at the next session.

Suicide of an Explorer.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 20.—Lieut. John W. Danehower, the Arctic explorer, shot and killed himself at the Naval Academy this morning. He had mental trouble after he came back from the Arctic regions.

COBOURG.

TWO BAD BOYS.—Thomas Irwin was tried before Judge Clark on Tuesday for assault with intent to commit rape. The accused was about 15 years of age. The offence was committed in the Monaghan township, upon the person of a young girl, aged 18 years, while the latter was three or four miles from home, en route from a visit to her grandmother. The young villain used extreme violence, but did not succeed in his design. Before the Judge, he pleaded guilty to the charge, and, after some consideration, His Honor sentenced him to imprisonment in the Ontario Reformatory for boys at Penetanguishene for a term of two years, and for an indefinite time after the expiration of such fixed term,—the object of the latter part of the sentence being that if Irwin does not behave himself in the Reformatory, he may as kept for a longer period as allowed by the statutes. In the case of the Queen vs. Samuel Plains, the prisoner was also brought before Judge Clark on Tuesday afternoon, charged with having stolen the sum of $9 from Wm. Underwood of Orono. The prisoner, who is a boy of 12 years, pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for trial until Tuesday next, at 11 a. m.—World.

Why buy shoddy boots when you can get solid leather ones at Kidd's.

BELLEVILLE.

CAUGHT AT LAST.—Last July, during the hay harvest, a man named Henry Lloyd was engaged by Mr. Geo. Garbutt, of Thurlow, to aid him in taking in the crops. After working three weeks, Llood disappeared, taking with him a waterproof coat and a bottle-green overcoat. He was arrested at Cobourg with the property but managed to escape. On Wednesday as Mr. Garbutt was coming to the city, he met the man travelling east along the front road. He took him in charge and brought him to the cells, where he was given over to the police. Lloyd was one of the five tramps who had protection at the cells last night. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was sent up for two months.—Intelligencer.

Worth Remembering.

Every inspiration of the lungs, every pulse-throb of the heart, every sweep of the arm—even our very thoughts as they speed through the brain—all create waste matter that must be constantly removed if there is to be that beautiful harmony of functional effort which constitutes health. Nature's remedy is the sure and eminently wise one, of expelling, by proper purgation, the humors which cause disease, and Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are nature's great ally in the cure of digestive disturbances, and an unfailing remedy for constipation and its pernicious effects.

I can now show a Stock which has the Style and Finish of Ordered Clothing, in Men's, Boys and Youth's Suits, and at prices that will astonish you. For example: TWEED SUITS at $5.00, $7.00 and $9.00; WORSTED SUITS at $10.00 and $12.00. BOYS' SUITS actually come in and see for yourselves. The precentage on all our clothing is close, to be sure, but our facilities for buying at lowest market prices are unsurpassed by any in trade. Bear in mind, too, that our Clothing is all good. Undergrade Clothing may be offered to buyers elsewhere, but not at the City Clothing Store.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

A NEGATIVE CERTAIN.

If the Butterworth bill should pass, Mr. Wiman asks whether Canada would be willing to respond to the proposal? If the question were put now, there cannot be a doubt the response would be in the negative.—Monetary Times.

ADVANCING.

The absence of all the "bolters" from the Liberal caucus last Thursday is naturally much commented upon. And it was to obtain this result that the Globe has wasted oceans of ink exhorting, complimenting and objurgating the dear French Canadians. To quote its own bulletin board, "the French army is advancing"—the other way. The Globe has eaten much dirt at the feet of the French, and its teeth are consequently on edge.—Toronto World (Indep.)

NO ANXIETY.

Most of the members have by this time found their way to Ottawa, and are these days about the public eye the Parliamentary session will have fairly begun. If the Government feel much anxiety as to the future they have hitherto been able to suppress all outward manifestation thereof. Ministers and all are taking things as they come, and are apparently under no solicitude as to their places. Nor, so far as can be judged, is their any ground for such solicitude. All doubts as to the stability of the Government have been pretty effectually dispelled, and Sir John is safe in power, at any rate for the present session. Of course nobody can say what the future may have in store, but there is nothing in the political horizon to foreshadow any reaction of public opinion in favor of the Opposition. The tendency, indeed, is rather the other way.—Arcturus (Indep)

PUBLIC ENEMIES.

Certain rivalries are incidental to every walk of life; let them be honorable ones. The man who would seek, by mean insinuations, to convert an honorable rivalry into an embittered personal feud is a sneak, and that is all you can make of him. We should call him so in a private sphere, and what else is he, in the name of common sense, in a public sphere? In the latter case, indeed we see not only the meanness and venom of the mischief maker, but a callous indifference to the public interest as well. When will it be understood and acted upon generally that whoever tries maliciously to discredit public men, or in a general way to render the conditions of Government needlessly difficult, is a bad citizen, a public enemy?—Montreal Star (Indep.)

THE MOWAT CABINET ATTACKED.

The members of the legal profession are for professional reasons the backbone of the opposition to amending the law of libel and the Ontario Government being preponderatingly composed of lawyers is tarred with the same brush.—Ottawa Free Press (Reform).

GLOBE STOCK ASTRAY.

Col. Ouimet would not have been unanimously elected Speaker had not the Globe's majority of one followed a wagon and gone astray.—Toronto World (Indep.)

A SPEAKER AFTER BLAKE'S HEART.

Mr. Mercier has made another oven in which he has baked a bitter loaf for another of his colleagues Mr. Tarcotte. He has committed the blunder of speaking of the treasons of 1878. He forgot that Mr. Turcott, elected as a Conservative, mounted, thanks to his own vote to the chair of the Speaker of the House, and maintained in the power by his casting vote for a whole session the Liberal Cabinet of Mr. Joly.—Le Canadien.

Trade with the Antipodes.

QUEBEC, April 21.—The Quebec board of trade has received a letter from Auckland, New Zealand, board of trade favoring the idea of Australian and Canadian commercial intercourse. The letter stated that the board were in favor of a mutual trade being established, but were ignorant of the class of goods produced in Canada, and asked for price lists of Canadian manufacturers. Should a line of steamers be put from Vancouver, the letter says, "it would give every facility for the same class of goods we now receive from America."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Dominion Lands—Trade and Commerce Department—Mr. Mills Slandering Our Returning Officers—His Outeries Under the Lash.

WEDNESDAY, April 20.—Some further departmental reports were presented.

DOMINION LANDS.

Mr. DAVIN introduced a bill to facilitate settlement on Dominion lands, and another as to registration of titles in the Territories.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD introduced a bill to establish a Department of Trade and Commerce.

THE JUBILEE.

Sir A. CARON in answer to Col. Amyot said it was not intended to grant money for a jubilee review, but leave would be given to any corps to join in jubilee demonstrations.

THE FISHERIES.

Mr. FOSTER, in reply to Mr. Mitchell, said the fishery correspondence would be brought down by Monday, including papers as to the Behring Sea seizures and the instructions to our cruisers.

THE ELECTION RETURNS.

Mr. MILLS moved that the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery be ordered to appear that day with papers showing date of returns of members and of their being gazetted. He made a renewed attack upon the returning officers in this province for dishonesty and partizanship in making the returns.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD said Mr. Mills was unforgiving because of his bitter disappointment at the defeat of his party. A sailor under the lash was excused for abusing his captain, and Mr. Mills having been lashed by the electorate of Canada, was now abusing it. He defended the Returning Officers against Mr. Mills's slanders, and spoke of the active hostility of some Provincial officials, especially in Ontario. He twitted Mr. Mills with his evident anxiety as to his seat and assented to the motion if it was made for the attendance of the Clerk next day.

Mr. ROBERTSON (Hastings) said that though a Conservative he was first on the list of members gazetted.

Mr. JONES said the Dominion Administration interfered with Provincial elections, and accused the Minister of Marine, the Minister of the Interior, and the ex-Minister of Finance of stumping his Province before the Provincial election.

Mr. TUPPER (Pictou) exposed the falseness of this statement, as these three gentlemen did not visit Nova Scotia till some months after the Provincial election, and their addresses were followed by the repudiation of Mr. Jones and his friends by the people. The retort of Mr. Jones' friends was to disfranchise all Dominion officials.

Mr. CASEY said Sir John was in trepidation for his seat in Kingston.

Mr. IVES taunted Mr. Mills with not having given a list for Quebec as well as Ontario, because he could not yet classify the Quebec members. Mr. Mercier had ordered Provincial officials not to interfere in Dominion elections, and then had sent a second letter to a select number that they might interfere if it was in favor of the Reformers.

Mr. KENNY said that two of the Ministers assailed by Mr. Jones were Nova Scotians, and it was their duty to oppose the disloyal repeal cry raised by Mr. Jones and his friends.

Sir RICHARD CARTWRIGHT complained that Mr. Cargill had been gazetted twice before Mr. Mackenzie was gazetted at all. He attacked the Clerk of the Crown, the returning officers, the Administration, the revising officers, previous Parliaments, etc.

Mr. BLAKE pretended to believe that the Mowat Administration represented the majorities of the votes in Ontario. He made a voluminous attack upon the Returning Officers, and was proceeding to read a list of charges against some of them when he was called to order by the Speaker. He then abused the Conservatives for losing their temper. From a lot of admittedly imperfect figures he deduced a calculation that the Ministry had a majority of 4,300 votes with a majority of 21 members in Ontario and the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. THOS. WHITE (Cardwell) said Mr. Blake had not always been so anxious to have Sheriffs and Registrars as Returning Officers, for instance at a celebrated election in Jacque Cartier when the St. Anne ballot box was used he had appointed neither. These officials were appointed because friendly to the Provincial Governments, and he instanced the Ottawa appointment. Mr. Blake called an esteemed public servant before the House and then condemned him before he came.

Mr. DAVIN said some of his strongest opponents were Government officials, but he did not propose to go for their hair. He censured Mr. Blake for his scolding tone and said it had reminded him of some boys he had seen in Winnipeg, one of whom was crying and on enquiring he learned that it was because "He could not take his licking like a gentleman."

A number of other members on both sides of the House took part in the debate and the motion was agreed to.

SOUTH VICTORIA.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD in moving the adjournment announced the re-election of Mr. Hudspeth for South Victoria by a majority of 50, and jokingly offered that he should not be gazetted for 60 days if that would satisfy the Opposition.

Mr. BLAKE again lost his temper and threatened a protest against Mr. Hudspeth's election.

Foods Feared.

MONTREAL, April 21.—The ice on lakes St. Louis and St. Francis became detached this morning and is now passing the Canadian Pacific bridge at Lachine. The ice also shoved this morning in Laprairie bay. The water rose three feet flooding the vicinity. The ice has not yet moved opposite the city but the water rose a foot and a half in two hours and a half to-day. The steam pumps are hard at work and a disastrous flood is greatly to be feared.

SUPPOSED TO BE LOST.

A Schooner with Thirty-Three Persons Believed to Have Been Wrecked.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 21.—Four Kyuquot Indians arrived in the Canal this morning, ten days from their starting point on the northwest coast of the island. They bring tidings of the wreck of a schooner 30 miles south of Cape Flattery. The information answers in every particular to the missing sailing schooner Active. Bunks, Indian mats, bedding, etc., were washed ashore. The schooner was broken up and its name could not be ascertained. The wreckage, however, is that of a schooner like the Active and it is believed that it is all that is left of the unfortunate vessel and thirty-three souls on board. The receipt of this news created a profound sensation in the city among the friends of Mr. Jake Guttman, one of the owners, who was on board, and also for the captain and crew. There were on board Jake Guttman, Capt Gotschami, Atta Jacobson, Charles Frederickson, Billy Gessong, besides 28 Clayaquote Indians belonging to Chief Klisomat's tribe. All these have undoubtedly perished. Chief Klisomat was at the head of the Indian hunters and canoe-men on board. The death of its head and so many of the tribe is tantamount to its extinction. According to the custom when a member of a tribe dies those remaining burn down the hut of the deceased. Having given their friends one Active up for dead their dwellings have been burned and other tribal rites on such occasions have been celebrated. The Active was owned by Guttman & Co., of this city and was registered at 420 tons. She was not insured Mr. Frank went to the west coast a week ago on the government steamer Sir James Douglas in search of news of the missing schooner.

NOVA SCOTIA REFORMERS.

A Motion for Secession and Another for Annexation.

HALIFAX, April 21.—The discussion in the Legislature to-day on the secession issue illustrated the attitude of the Government upon that question and the open mutiny of its followers. Premier Fielding moved the resolution previously published.

Mr. Fraser, Member for Guysboro, and the father of the secession movement, said he was entirely opposed to the new policy adopted by the Government. He repudiated the idea that Nova Scotia's grievance could be remedied by financial concessions, and said that these agitation could only be ended by one of two things—reciprocity with the United States or absolute free trade. He moved to amend the resolutions by "recommending the Government to use every effort within its power, and within the power of this Legislature, to bring about the seperation of Nova Scotia from Canada."

Mr. Jeffrey McColl, a Government supporter from Pictou, referring to his being denounced as a traitor for expressing sentiments in favour of annexation, argued that the highest loyalty was loyalty to one's country, and he declared that Nova Scotia's best interest was in becoming a State of the American Union. He moved to add to the Premier's resolution:—

"1 That this House, in view of what has taken place, should confine expenditure within the revenue by abandoning the present extravagant system of provincial government, and substituting for the present Governor, Executive Council, Legislative Council and House of Assembly, a Provincial Council, composed of the wardens of the respective counties of the province, and stop all subsidies to railways or other works that should be supplemented by the Federal Government as appertaining to trade and commerce.

"2. That this House, after using all efforts possible to keep expenditure within income, and a failure in that way should occur, that the whole matter should be submitted to the people with a view to the repeal of the Union, and the United States to admit Nova Scotia as a State of of the Union, which is no doubt our ultimate commercial destination."

Mr. McColl's resolution produced a sensation. A personal wrangle ensued between Messrs Black and Fraser, during which both agreed that they could not long remain members of the same political party. The debate was adjourned, and the House proceeded with the consideration of a bill to borrow another quarter of a million dollars for the construction of iron bridges. A good deal of bad blood was exhibited, and a serious split in Liberal secession ranks seems inevitable.

On the Warpath.

VERNON, April 21.—News has reached here that a band of Kiowa Comanche Indians killed W. A. Stinson and two of his men near his ranche in Greer county on Tuesday. It is feared a general outbreak is imminent.

Nearly Murdered.

RUSSELL, Ont., April 21.—An attempt at murder was made this morning on the person of a farmer named John Hunt, who resides near this place, by his hired man, an immigrant, who attacked him with an axe, striking him on the head and shoulder. The wound is supposed to be dangerous. The would-be assassin escaped.

Editor O'Brien's Visit.

MONTREAL, April 21.—Mr. H. J. Chloran president of Montreal branch of the Irish National league, received the following despatch from Mr. O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, Dublin: "I will leave Queenstown on Sunday with Mr. Kilbride, the evicted tenant. Could you undertake to manage meetings in Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa and Toronto? My stay in Canada is restricted to ten days. Proceeds to be devoted to the Evicted Tenants' fund." Mr. Chloran replied "come on," and a series of meetings will be arranged.

GERMANY AND THE VATICAN.

BERLIN, April 21.—The Ecclesiastical bill was passed in the lower house of the Prussian Diet to-day.

THE FISHERY QUESTION.

LONDON, April 21.—The Times says Lord Salisbury's offer to the United States Government, looking to a settlement of the fisheries question, contained in his despatch of March 24, is generous and almost quixotic. "To do more," it says, "would be weakness, and we are slow to believe that America will refuse to take advantage of what will cost her nothing to accept."

GERMAN EMIGRATION.

BERLIN, April 21.—An official report upon emigration has been presented to the Reichstag. It shows that the number of emigrants from Germany who passed through Hamburg, Bremne and Stettin during the year 1886 was 66,671, or a decrease of over 22,000 as compared with the previous year, when 88,900 persons left the empire. The report says on the other hand, the emigration from Austria, Hungary, Russia and Sweden and Norway through the same ports in 1886 was largely in excess of 1885. Most of the German emigrants were from the farming districts of Prussia. None of them went to the African colonies of Germany.

SEIZED BY THE GERMANS.

PARIS, April 21.—M. Schnaibeles, a special French commissary at the Pagny-sur-Moselle depot, has been arrested by the Germans. He had received several letters from the German police commissioner at Ars, asking him to come to that place and confer with him regarding the frontier service. He finally agreed to do so. While on his way to Ars he was roughly seized by the German police and taken to Metz. The Metz Zeitung says M. Schnaibeles' arrest is due to his connection with the anti-German agitation, conducted by the Patriotic League, but the people of Pagny-sur-Moselle declare this to be entirely untrue, and say he had nothing to do with the agitation. The incident has thrown the inhabitants of Metz and Nancy into the wildest state of excitement.

UNFORTUNATE RESULTS FEARED.

PARIS, April 21.—The arrest of M. Schnaibeles has produced a profound sentation, and it is feared may lead to unfortunate results. Le Paris calls it "another provocation," and asks if Prince Bismarck is seeking a casus belli.

MR. O'SHEA'S OPINION.

DUBLIN, April 21.—Captain O'Shea, addressing the Limerick branch of the National League to-night, said he had compared the Times letter with thirty-seven of Mr. Parnell's letters, and concluded the Times letter was a forgery, and that the body and signature were written by the same person.

RUMORS OF WAR.

BERLIN, April 21.—The activity shown in military circles during the past few days, and the fact that large numbers of soldiers have travelled over the railways en route to join their respective regiments, have given rise to frean war rumors, and caused much uneasiness. It is semi-officially exclaimed, however, that all this activity is due solely to the fact that the reserves have been called out for the usual spring drill.

THE PARNELLITES INDIGNANT.

LONDON, April 21.—The Parnellites are indignant at Lord Salisbury's speech at Albert Palace and there is some talk of bringing his remarks under the notice of the House of Commons.

TROUBLE IN TANIERS.

GIBRALTAR, April 21.—It is reported that two Englishmen displaying the American flag recently imprisoned a Hebrew merchant of Alcasar, Morocco, for debt; took him in chains to Tangiers, paraading him through three towns on the way, the outrage being aggravated by the fact that it was inflicted during the period of the Passover. The principal Hebrews of Tangier have joined in an appeal to the French, Portuguese and British consuls for assistance in an attempt to have all the Governments unite in an effort to supress the system of popular abuses under which these outrages are perpetrated.

Trouble Brewing.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 21.—It is generally admitted at the State Department that there is trouble brewing in the West Indies over the Tortugas case. Although no formal action has been taken toward upholding United States interests in that locality, the American Consul at Hayti, Mr. Thompson, will, on the first sign of hostilities by the British, send a despatch boat across to Havana, where he can use the cable to the States. Meanwhile a notice of protest will be served on the British Admiral, informing him that his Government will be held responsible for any resulting unpleasantness.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1887.

CESSATION OF DISALLOWANCE.

In an article on "The Question of Disallowance," the Montreal Witness says that "Sir John Macdonald declared that the Government could not check Manitoba." This is inaccurate. Sir John said that Parliament could not check Manitoba, which is a very different thing. He was talking of proposed legislation by the House of Commons, and merely repeated the obvious constitutional rule. But under our Constitution the Governor-General-in-Council could and can check Manitoba, and has hitherto done so, in the interest of the Dominion as a whole. Whether the time has yet come when such checking is no longer necessary in the public interest is an altogether distinct question.

The Witness also lays stress upon the great loss to Manitoba through her having "been prevented from taking advantage of the short cut through the United States to Ontario via the Sault." Now the Witness must know that there has been no such short cut of which to take advantage. It must also know that the two great Canadian railways are now hurrying forward in competition with each other the portion of this short cut lying within the limits of Ontario, and will both have it shortly completed. While therefore we cannot see any force in the argument of our contemporary as to the past, we agree with it in thinking that the time is now nearly at hand when Manitoba should be allowed to provide its portion of this short cut. We would, therefore, like to see a charter granted by the Manitoba Legislature and accepted by the Governor-General-in-Council, authorizing the construction of its portion of this route, so soon as the portion within the United States may be constructed, or making such progress as may reasonably ensure its completion. This would provide Manitoba with alternative and competitive routes to the other parts of Canadian territory and to Canadian ports. But hitherto Winnipeg has seemed rather to aim at a competitive connection with New York, Boston and other ports of the United States. It was right not to grant this prematurely, or without allowing a fair start to the Canadian interests involved. We believe that such a fair start will shortly be secured and the necessity for disallowance may cease.

A REFORM DEVICE.

The Blakeites down by the sea have abandoned the agitation for secession, confining their policy at present to begging for a dole from the Dominion Administration. Mr. Fielding, the leader of Mr. Blake's allies in Nova Scotia, gained power by the transient excitement caused by the use of this dishonest and disloyal cry, but now he finds that even his own friends will not countenance it on reflection. He hopes to do better in the role of a mendicant, which offers two advantages in case of success, the money received from the Dominion would afford him means of continuing his career of corruption and extravagance, while it would at the same time give him further grounds for accusing the Dominion Administration of increasing the expenditure. It is a bright idea of some of the Reform Premiers of Provinces to pillage the Canadian treasury and then attack its keepers because they have let the money go.

The Globe is very indignant at a rumour that the fishery clauses of the Washington treaty are to be revived without Canada receiving any money. It denounces the idea of giving up the free use of the right to fish in our waters in order to settle the fishery question. Yet the Globe is perpetually urging that we should sacrifice not only our fisheries, but also our factories and home industries, and even the right to make our own tariffs, that we may obtain a settlement of the fishery question. It also asks us to sacrifice our connection with the rest of the British Empire by giving a marked preference to a foreign country, placing it indeed, in the position of the least favored nation.

During the last election campaign Mr. Stevenson, M.P., stated that locks were being made at the Kingston Penitentiary, but that the contract had expired and that the contractor was being allowed to work up material. The Inspector, in an official report dated about a month previous to the time Mr. Stevenson made the statement, says that the facts are as Mr. Stevenson stated them to be. An attempt which has been made to twist the official declaration into a contradiction of what Mr. Stevenson said is most absurd, and the suppression of the date of the report does not show a desire to be fair.

The Toronto Globe claims a triumph for its political friends on the assumed ground that they reduced Mr. Hudspeth's majority in South Victoria. As Mr. Hudspeth's majority was really increased, it was on the Globe's own showing a triumph for the Conservatives. Mr. Blake's friends gained nothing by their factious opposition to the people's chosen representative.

Four Men Drowned.

New York, April 20.—A boat answering the description of one in which six men started from Communipaw for Bayonne, on Sunday, has been found in the lower Bay. Nothing has been heard of four of the occupants of the boat, and they were in all probability drowned. The missing occupants were Wm. Mason, a cable operator; Frank Bernard, Mason's brother-in-law; Richard Westerman and Charles E. Johnson, clerks. They were all married and had families.

WAKE UP! WAKE UP!

All You High Price Would-be Clothiers.

GOUGH, the WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN RINGS OUT HIS ALARM BELL TO YOU

THIS WEEK he is going to hurl a tirade of prices at you that will besiege his place of business with anxious buyers, and break you all up. Our three flats are packed with NEW GOODS, and we can show MORE CLOTHING THAN THE WHOLE KIT OF YOU COMBINED, including the tail end of a few Dry Goods Stores that carry a few shoddy Suits. Energy will tell, and the people appreciate it. Our Business is not on paper; it is a reality, and the result of long, patient study and hard work.

READ, YOU BABY CLOTHIERS, WHAT THE CLOTHIER OF THE AGE IS GOING TO DO FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS, AND WHEN YOU READ, REFLECT, AND WHEN YOU REFLECT, COME AND BUY FROM HIM, FOR YOU CANNOT BUY FROM ANY WHOLESALE HOUSE IN CANADA AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES

LOT 1.—Mens Blue Serge Suits for $3.50, not, mark you, old faded out brown shoddy serge, such as you can buy elsewhere for $3.75, but a pure Indigo dye, warranted fast color, and to cost you $8.00 from any other dealer.

LOT 2.—Mens All Wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $4.00. This is a beautiful black and brown check, trimmed with a silk serge lining, and the lowest wholesale price of it is guaranteed to be $6.50. We show a dozen different patterns in this line to select from.

LOT 3.—Mens West of England and Scotch Tweed Suits at $5.50, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00. Are made and trimmed equal to custom work, and if made to order would cost you from $15.00 to $22.00. With this line of goods we throw you in 10 yards of Embroidery and one pair of Corsets. Such goods are too trifling for the Wonderful Cheap Man to sell, and are assigned to his gift Department

LOT 4.—Mens Fine French Worsted Suits for $10.00 and $12.00, not backed goods, but pure worsted, worth $25.00 made to order. We have thousands of these goods to select from.

LOT 5.—Boys Suits from 98 cents per suit up. We really cannot afford anything out of our gift Department with this suit, but to make it interesting, and not disappoint the boy, we will throw in a Cap.

In Our HAT and CAP Department we sell a Fine Soft Felt Hat for 20 cents worth 80 cents, and a Fine Stiff Felt Hat, newest Style, for 75 cents worth $1.50.

In Our Furnishing GOODS and BOOT Department, suffice to say we stand unique, and are almost giving them away, if you doubt it, call and see if we dont give you something handsome without effecting your pocket. Workingmen try a pair of our 50 cent Cottonade pants, they are worth $1.00.

WE WANT THE WHOLE COUNTRY

To come and see what we are doing, therefore I WILL PAY RAILROAD FARE within a radius of 100 Miles of Peterborough to every person coming to Peterborough and purchasing $10 worth of Goods or upwards from me.

Remember, I have Removed from the old store in the Arcade Buildings, under the Opera House, and I am now located in the Store formerly known as the BON MARCHE. You cannot mistake my place. There are Four Life-size signs on front of Building, and see the name GOUGH, the Clothier, above them. Be not deceived by any catch-penny clothiers, but go straight to GOUGH, the Terror to High-Price Clothiers, George Street, Peterborough.

ONTARIO LEGISATURLE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

McMaster University—Convict Labor—The Municipal Act—Upper Canada College and Toronto Universita.

Wednesday, April 20.—The Factories Act was called up, but was allowed to stand. Several private bills were advanced a stage.

MCMASTER UNIVERSITY.

The McMaster University bill was amended, providing that curriculum, &c., for the degrees must equal the standard of Toronto University.

CONVICT LABOR.

Mr. Hardy moved that in the opinion of this House it is inexpedient that the labor of convicts confined in the Central prison, shall, after the expiration of existing contracts, in that behalf, be let out upon hire to any corporation, firm or private person. If the House accepted the resolution the Government would be able to mature a bill.

Messrs. Ingram, Wilmot, Garson, H. E. Clarke and Meredith approved of the motion, and Messrs. Gibson (Huron) and Walters opposed it. The motion passed.

THE MUNICIPAL ACT.

The House considered in committee the bill embodying the Municipal Committee consolidation of the bills to amend the Municipal Act.

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE.

Mr. Ross moved a set of resolutions resolutions regarding Upper Canada College. They proposed that the site e sold, that a new site be given for it and an endowment of $100 000.

The resolutions were passed and a bill introduced and read a second time.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

The bill respecting the income and property of the University of Toronto, university College and Upper Canada College was also read a second time. The present annual income of the University is placed at $75,000. It is estimated that in order to the effective carrying out of the Federation proposals, an additional $24,000 per year, or $99,000 in all will be required. By applying the upper Canada College endowment to the University, the revenue will be increased by $15,572. The abolition of scholarships will yield an additional $4,864. The excess from the sale of the Upper Canada College property over the cost of the new site and buildings will give $2,500 per annum. From leased lands in the Park held by the University $1,000 a year will be derived. And it is expected to make a reduction of $1,000 a year in the cost of examination papers. All this will give a total income of almost $100,000 a year, and it is believed will provide adequately for the work of the University with fifteen professors, ten lecturers, and eight fellows.

THE SHEPPARD LIBEL.

Mr. Meredith asked if the attention of the Attorney-General had been called to the action of Police Magistrate Denison in regard to the Sheppard libel case.

Mr. Mowat said he had no responsibility for the opinion a judge might form as to the law.

The House adjourned at 11 30 p. m.

Worth Remembering.

Every inspiration of the lungs, every pulse-throb of the heart, every sweep of the arm—even our very thoughts as they speed through the brain—all create waste matter that must be constantly removed if there is to be that beautiful harmony of functional effort which constitutes health. Nature's remedy is the sure and eminently wise one, of expelling, by proper purgation, the humors which cause disease, and Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are nature's great ally in the cure of digestive disturbances, and an unfailing remedy for constipation and its pernicious effects.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d20

Bombay Krinkles in sky blue, pink, creme and black, for children's wear, are now being shown at Turnbull's.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

"But I never thought he would go on in earnest. They always do come back. They seem to like it. He's the first man I ever saw that I couldn't manage as I pleased."

"You are getting knowledge of the world, then, Brownie—increasing your stock of experience. You are getting your eyes opened."

"I don't want them opened. It isn't the fair thing for such trouble to happen to me," said this spoiled child.

"It's what we all come to," answered Shirley, with sudden gravity.

It was true that Brownie had many admirers. She had not the sister's marvelous beauty, the splendid face that, once seen, men and women turn to look at again; that, once seen, remained a picture in memory to eternity. But Brownie had the prettiness that attracted common men far oftener. On the whole, it suited her better, too.

Adorers buzzed about her in numbers after Edgerly had departed. Undoubtedly she would have consoled herself in time. It may or may not be anything against her in the estimation of lady readers to tell that on her. Nevertheless, truth is mighty. The truth will weigh nothing against her with the gentle masculine reader—we know that.

As it was, however, Brownie refused to be comforted for a whole twelvemonth. That was a long time.

Shirley's tender, watchful soul was troubled about her sister. She tried in all loving, lively ways to change her thought. She filled in the evenings with gay company and kept the girl out in the sunshine by day. She invented errands for her here and there.

So the summer wore on into the fall, quite a year since Robert had rushed off in a huff. It was indeed a year to a day. That very day Shirley sent Brownie to old Mme. Frenchy's cottage across the woodlands.

Brownie had a great fancy for jewels and bright bits of color about her. It was a long inheritance from red blooded ancestry. She was fond of rings, and wore half a dozen sometimes. Again she was braceleted like an Indian princess and necklaced to match. With all these, too, such a vivid, flashing, quick moving creature was Brownie, she did not look overdone.

This afternoon it suited her fancy to rig herself out in heathen splendor. Besides rings, bracelets and neck pin, she wore the pretty watch and chain Shirley had given her at her eighteenth birthday. She had on a crimson dress. What with her bright dress, the shining bits of gold and stone about her, and the sunshine glancing on and off her as she moved along the woodland path, she looked like a red bird flashing among the trees.

"Be sure and get back before dark," said Shirley.

The path led near the very tree under which Robert had stood that day a year ago, in the blazing glory of the falling leaves. Could she help lingering under the tree and sighing as she thought of the sweet might have been? Could she help, indeed, wandering on beyond the hill to the exact spot where the lost lover had placed his mother's ring upon her finger and asked her to wear it always? The ring was there still. The turquoise trifle itself thrilled with an electric wave of recollection till she felt its pressure on her finger. She could have cried as she thought of it. Too bad; too bad it was!

A wild man started up before her. He was hungry, he was mad with rage against the world. He was wicked. He was apt for deeds of terror. There was a Lucifer like grace and comeliness about him, too, as he flung himself across the way with his swinging arms and gleaming eyes. He stood in front of the girl. His glance roved over her in silence. Her heart beat heavy and fast. Her striking, fantastic prettiness, the jewels about her, aroused the evil in the man yet more.

He was a tall, powerful man. She was wholly at his mercy.

"How do you do, Rip," said she faintly. His eyes glowed with devilish glee.

"How do I do? You're interested in my health, I, It's good, thank you, and all the better of seeing you. You've snubbed me all your life, Miss, and now I can take my pay, right here. Hand over that there blue ring."

"May be you'd like me to help you? Kin I be of any assistance to you, Miss?" said he in a mimicking voice, with a diabolical grin.

He threw his arm about her. His dirty tattered sleeve chafed her delicate neck. She was enraged, and exclaimed:

"How dare you?"

He gave a short laugh.

"Dare! Come, that's good. Dare! Is there anything a man will do or can do, that I wouldn't dare! Do I look like that?"

Brownie was a plucky creature for all. In her fierce anger at him for touching her, she forgot her prudence. She struck him in the face with all her might. One of the rings upon her hand cut his lip till the blood flowed. It enraged him and yet amused him.

"Come, hand it over," said he. "I'll help you. Lively's the word."

He stripped it off her finger. Then she made as if to go. He seized her arm again.

"Hoity toity, my red bird! I want to look at you close to. How would you like to be married to me, Miss?"

She shuddered and he laughed.

"If I had my rights, I'd be a gentleman, and as good as you. If I'd had the ratsin' I'd 'a been the biggest nob of 'em all! Whose wife would you 'a been then? Miss Brownie—you'd 'a been my wife!"

She shuddered again.

"I see you'd sooner touch a dead cat nor me. I most wish I could kill you. I'd do it with a good will, if I could."

She gave a scream of terror.

"Never fear, my red bird," said Rip. "I'm not going to. I was going to. But I can't. You've got enough gold and swag about you to keep a poor man like me a year. I meant to take that, too. But I can't touch it. I don't know why I don't, but I don't. Only this ring the Englishman put on your finger. That you'll never see again."

He stopped and struck his heel into the earth, enraged. Then he seemed to cool down again.

"No, Miss Brownie, I can't hurt you, and you may thank your stars for it. You go free for all me. But some time, when you are rich and happy and married to the Englishman, curse him!—I say think of this day in the woods. Remember that Rip, the tramp, might have robbed you, might have murdered you and worse, but did not. Why? Because Miss Brownie, he loved you, loved you even better than the Englishman did."

JOSEPH AND HIS FATHER.

CRITICAL AND PRACTICAL NOTES BY PROF. SAMUEL I. CURTISS.

Lesson IV of the International Series, Second Quarter, for Sunday, April 24.

Text of the Lesson, Genesis xlvii, 1-12.

Golden Text, Ephesians vi, 2.

The king of Egypt, whose official title was Pharaoh (great house), who is believed by eminent Egyptian scholars, as we have seen, to have been Apepi, the last of the Hyksos or shepherd kings, himself a Semite like Joseph, took a lively interest in the coming of Jacob and his sons to Egypt (Gen. xlv, 16). To this end he furnished wagons to convey the old patriarch, the women and the children. At first Jacob could not believe the news that his son was alive and ruler of the land of the Pharaohs (v. 26). It doubtless seemed to him like a fairy tale. But when he saw the wagons he could doubt no longer, and took his journey to Egypt (Gen. xlv, 27; xlvi, 6).

He probably took the usual road, along the shore of the Mediterranean. Joseph went to Goshen that he might welcome his father almost at the boundary of the country, and that he might prepare him for his interview with the king (vs. 29-34). This was necessary because Joseph's father and brethren be longed to the despised class of shepherds, who were regarded as following a disgraceful employment. Although the Pharaoh to whom they were to be introduced belonged to a dynasty which had sprung from shepherds, and therefore would naturally receive Jacob with more favor than one of the native Egyptian kings, yet even this shepherd dynasty during the 400 or 500 years of their power must have become pretty well Egyptianised.

THE LESSON.

Joseph's Nobility (vs. 1-6).—It was, then, a mark of a noble spirit not only that Joseph should be ready to have these brethren come to Egypt, but that he should inform Pharaoh of their coming and should present them in person, especially as we see from the monuments that the shepherds were the objects of ridicule and caricature. He did not attempt to conceal from the king what their occupation was, but tells him plainly that their flocks and their herds have come with them. He takes five of them and presents them to the king. When the king asks them what their occupation is they answer, as Joseph had instructed them, "Thy servants are shepherds, both we and our fathers." This frank confession is in striking contrast with the deception which in earlier years was practiced by his father, his uncle and his brethren. We may, therefore, praise Joseph not only for his chastity under temptation, but also for exact truthfulness when he would surely be compromised by the clear evidence of his ignoble origin, as seen in the occupation of his brethren.

Goshen (v. 4).—Their request that they might dwell in the land of Goshen, which was situated in the Tanitic nome of the delta, between the Sebennytic and Pelusiac branches of the Nile, was a very suitable one, for this country was especially adapted for grazing. Here the cattle of Pharaoh were doubtless pastured. They would thus be among shepherds and kindred Semites, far away from the Egyptian population, who would be offended by their presence, and conveniently near the Egyptian boundary and the high road to the land which had been promised their fathers.

Vs. 5, 6. With Oriental hospitality Pharaoh offers Joseph the best of the land as their dwelling place, but specifies Goshen in accordance with their request; and since they must be shepherds he raises among them such as may be competent to the rank of royal shepherds, by directing Joseph to choose men from his brethren to superintend the care of his cattle.

Joseph and Pharaoh (vs. 7-10).—Joseph reserves the interview of his father with Pharaoh until after his brethren have left. Jacob's bearing in the presence of the Egyptian monarch is worthy of the heir of the great promises made to Abraham and of the progenitor of the people of redemption and of the Messiah. He seeks no favors, but confers a favor in the blessing which he pronounces on Pharaoh.

The king asks him how old he is. The venerable man replies that the days of his pilgrimage (sojournings, Revised Version, margin) have been 130 years. His answer indicates three things: (1) That he has been a wanderer. He has not had any settled home. His father and grandfather dwelt in tents in a land where they owned no property except a grave (Acts vii, 5; compare Gen. xxiii, 17-20). Twenty years he had spent with Laban in Haran (Gen. xxxi, 38), and now he had come to spend his declining years in Egypt. He could not call any country his own. (2) His days in retrospect seemed few when compared with those of Terah and Abraham (Gen. xi, 32; xxv, 8). (3) The days had been evil. Through his own fault he had led a troubled life when he might have had a happy one. Ever since the hour when he deceived his father (Gen. xxii, 19-24), one bitter experience after another had befallen him. Hard work and exposure when in the service of his Uncle Laban; disappointment regarding the choice of his heart; bickering arising from a polygamous relation not contracted through his own fault; the disgraceful conduct of his children; the death of Rachel; the loss of Joseph, and the very trying experiences during the years of famine had been his lot. Jacob had enjoyed but little, owing to the bad start which he made at the beginning.

Vs. 10-12. But Jacob had a spiritual experience. He had known the power of prayer in the time of trouble (Gen. xxxii, 22-30; Hos. xii, 4). Thus the blessing which he could speak when he first saw Pharaoh and when he parted with him was of value.

Joseph's Kindness.—Joseph's subsequent conduct in relation to his father and brethren is worthy of all praise. He did all in his power to make them happy. There was evidently no effort on his part to cause his brethren pain because of their cruel treatment of him years before. But they must have despised themselves when they thought of the past and of his present kindness to them, which was like coals of fire on their heads (Rom. xii, 20). He placed them in the best of the land, the land of Rameses, and nourished them according to the number of their little ones (Revised Version: or, Hebrew, according to the mouth of the little ones). While the little children of the Egyptians might have an insufficient supply, the children of Joseph's brethren had an abundance.

POINTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

1. As Joseph was not ashamed to acknowledge his brethren, although they followed an occupation which was the butt of ridicule among the Egyptians, so we should never be ashamed to do right.

2. We should never utter an untruth for fear of being disgraced.

3. We should not be ashamed of a useful calling. It is better to be a faithful employe than an unsuccessful employer.

4. "Heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ" have a better inheritance than any earthly monarch. It is better to be Jacob than Pharaoh.

5. New creatures in Christ must suffer for their errors like those who are not Christians. A mistake made in youth often casts a dark shadow over the entire life of him who has repented and been forgiven.—Sunday School World.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday evening, April 21.

The price of wheat keeps firm, but the local delivery has fallen off almost altogether. One thousand bushel lot changed hands on Wednesday at 89 cents per bushel. Dealing in all other grain is almost nil. There is little new in other commodities. Potatoes have advanced to 90 cents per bag; butter in prints has also advanced some; and there has been another new feature this week in the shape of maple syrup. The season was not a good one for the manufacture of the latter, and consequently the price is higher. For prime syrup $1.35 per gallon has been paid. Inferior and adulterated grades sell at about $1.00 to $1.10.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a single purpose, being a most potent specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Social.

A social was held in the school room of St. Andrew's Church on Thursday evening. Tea was served by the ladies of the church at from 5 to 6 o'clock. A considerable amount was realized. During the evening the choir rendered several choruses. The evening was spent very pleasantly.

Open Meeting.

An open meeting of workingmen was held in the Knights of Labor hall on Thursday evening. There were quite a number present. The meeting was informal throughout, consisting of conversation on various matters affecting labor interests. Another open meeting will be held on Thursday evening next. The local Assembly of the Knights of Labor is growing in membership.

Found at Last.

A much respected, in fact one of the most respectable citizens of Peterborough has found at last the man who in any case can produce the article he advertises. Yesterday he went all through the Great Cheapside, and in looking up the many lines advertised at such unheard of prices, was thoroughly convinced that Sheppard was fulfilling to the letter all that he had advertised. The choice of 5 Button Kid Gloves in black and colors at 50c., the six inch wide Buttonboots at 15c., the all wool Black Cashmere at 25c., the nice assortment of cold Dress Goods at 10c., Tapestry Carpet commencing at 25c. and Brussels and all wool at 35c., sold elsewhere at $1.25 was a matter of considerable surprise to him, but when shown the rich Seal Brown Suit in boys at $1.92 and men's at $3.95 it simply eclipsed anything he had ever seen, and said he would advise his many friends to go straight to Sheppard's for good goods cheap.

Why buy shoddy boots when you can get solid leather ones at Kidd's.

CANOEING.

Camp and Regatta of the Northern Division of the A. C. A.

The camp of the American Canoe Association at Stony Lake in 1883 was so successful that a repetition next August by the newly organized Northern Division of the A. C. A. promises even to out-rival it. As many are desirous of learning the particulars, we give the intended programme, which is as follows:—

AMERICAN CANOE ASSOCIATION,
NORTHERN DIVISION.

Camp at Stony Lake, near Peterborough, Ont., Aug. 1 to 13, 1887.

ASSOCIATION OFFICERS.

COMMODORE — R. J. Wilkin, Brooklyn, N.Y.

SEC.-TREAS.—W. M. Carter, Trenton, N.J.

NORTHERN DIVISION OFFICERS.

VICE-COMMODORE — Col. H. C. Rogers, Peterborough.

REAR COMMODORE—Col. S. T. Fairtlough, R. M. C., Kingston.

PURSER—J. D. Collins, Peterborough.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—B. D. Jacques, Toronto; A. F. D. Macgahen, Lindsay; Dr. Douglas, V. C., Lakefield; Colin Fraser, Ubique C.C., Galt; F. S. Rathbun, Deseronto; F. Minns, Bobcaygeon.

REGATTA COMMITTEE—R. C. Strickland, Lakefield; W. H. McKendrick, Toronto; J. G. Edwards, Lindsay.

THE CAMP.

The newly organized Northern Division of the American Canoe Association has chosen Stoney Lake, in the County of Peterborough, Ontario, as the locality for its annual camp this year, from the 1st to the 14th of August. The camping ground selected is that on Juniper Island, which was similarly occupied by the A. C. A. in 1883. As members from the different canoe clubs in the Northern Division were probably present on that occasion, there is no necessity for a detailed description. It will be sufficient to say that there is ample space for sailing and paddling races, combined with protection from heavy winds, commodious and extensive camping ground, beautiful scenery amid which to make excursions, and ease of access. Stony Lake being part of a magnificent chain of waters, members wishing to do so can cruise to or from it part of the way.

As in 1883 every possible arrangement is being prepared for the convenience and comfort of the members.

MEANS OF ACCESS.

Arrangements are being made for favorable terms by rail and steamer. When completed information will be sent to the secretaries of the local canoe clubs and others. Anyone requiring earlier or more detailed information as to the means of access can obtain it by addressing the Purser of the Northern Division of the A.C.A., Mr. J. D. Collins, Peterborough, Ont.

POSTAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Letters addressed A.C.A. Camp, Lakefield Ont., will be forwarded to the camp daily.

THE PROGRAMME.

According to the constitution a programme for the annual races will be prepared and published in due time by the Regatta Committee. Steps will be taken for communicating this programme to the members.

As there will probably be many new members joining the A.C.A. in this division, it may be well to say that the races are friendly tests of the merits of the different styles and rigs of the canoes and of the skill of their crews. The prizes therefore consist of flags, badges, etc. Lady friends of the members are invited to contribute these prizes.

MEMBERSHIP.

The membership fee is $2 with an entrance fee of $1, but in establishing the Northern Division the entrance fee has been as a special privilege remitted by the A. C. A. in the case of all former members, even if they have ceased to pay their fees since joining.

Applications for membership with the fees may be made through the secretaries of local canoe clubs, or direct to the Purser of the Northern Division, Mr. J. D. Collins, Peterborough, Ont.

Piles of slippers at Kidd's from 30 cents a pair up.

We May Expect

—Philantrophist Gough's great free excursion to create a sensation.
—Crowds of people through the Midland District to take advantage of it.
—The advent of dog days.
—And the police to furnish their weapons against the first of May.
—The sprouting of the succulent rhubarb.
—High water.
—Interest in lacrosse to revive.

For choice Millinery and stylish Mantles call at Turnbull's. New shapes arriving daily.

Lacrosse.

A meeting of those interested in the National game was held at J. Irwin's Hub Restaurant on Thursday evening. There was a large attendance. The business of the evening was to organize the Riverside club for the present season. After discussing the situation for a time the following officers were elected:—

HON. PRESIDENT—H. Calcutt.
PRESIDENT—E. Brown.
VICE-PRESIDENT—H. Neil.
SECY.-TREAS.—J. Phelan.

Another meeting will be held soon to make arrangements as to practice grounds and other matters. After getting into practice the Brown cup will be competed for.

Twenty cents will buy a pair of Ladies' Fine Shaped Hose in Black, at Turnbull's. Remember his Heavy Knickerbockers for Boys in all the best shades.

CHILD MURDER.

Body of Another Infant Found—Shocking Revelation.

On Thursday afternoon a revolting discovery was made on the border of Dr. Kincaid's stock farm, Monaghan, a short distance from town.

Near the main road, and through the field adjoining it a creek runs. It had become jammed with floating refuse and the foreman of the farm went to break the jam to prevent an overflow. While poking the drift wood away he came across a small trunk, which, he was horrified to find, contained the body of a fully developed infant, apparently about two months old. The body was clothed with an ordinary baby's dress.

The foreman at once communicated with the town police, but as the matter did not relate to town they took no action. The Coroner was notified and will proceed to investigate.

BISMARCK'S THREAT.

The Chancellor Threatens to Resign His Authority.

BERLIN, April 21.—In the Prussian Lower House to-day, Henry Gneist, in the name of the National Liberals, earnestly opposed the form of the Church bill as sent down from the Upper House.

Dr. Windthorst very ironically declared that Herr Gneist's opposition was explicable, because Herr Gneist was the real father of the Kulturkampf. Dr. Windthorst then, in the name of the Centre, stated that the Centre would accept the the bill in the form presented by the Upper House, because the Pope had declared that the bill was tolerable, and provided a way for peace between Prussia and Vatican, and therefore he wishes the Centre to accept it. This would be done if no changes are made.

Prince Bismarck spoke for over an hour, declaring that the bill must be accepted as it passed the Upper House, as had been agreed upon between Prussia and the Vatican. He considered its acceptance absolutely necessary, because peace with the church was desirable, both for internal and external reasons. He then requested the National Liberals to vote for it unanimously, without any change. He next sharply attacked the centre, saying, in conclusion, that if the bill was not accepted unchanged he must resign so far as his authority in Prussia was concerned. The debate will continue, but the bill will doubtless be accepted without change.

A LOUISVILLE MYSTERY.

Brutal Murder of A Woman in Broad Daylight.

LOUISVILLE, April 21.—A horrible murder was perpetrated in the broad light of day in one of the most fashionable resident portions of this city this morning about 11 o'clock. The police authorities have just been informed of the terrible crime, and as yet it is shrouded in mystery. About 10 o'clock this morning Mrs. A. Y. Johnston, the wife of a well-known Main street merchant, left her home on Brook street in company with her children and Jennie Bowman, a servant girl, who is white and about 21 years of age. It appears the latter accompanied Mrs. Johnston only a short distance upon some special mission, after which she returned to the house. Shortly after this a little coloured girl living next door to the Johnson family went into the kitchen of the house and discovered blood on the floor and signs of disorder. She called for help, and receiving no answer started up the back stairway to her room. There the child discovered the servant lying upon the floor badly beaten about the head and breathing her last. The child gave the alarm, but the woman died before the physician's arrival. Two suspicious characters are known to have been loafing across the street when Mrs. Johnston and the children went out, and it is thought they entered the house and were discovered upon the return of the servant. A poker was found with the hair and blood of a man upon it, and it is supposed the woman opposed the burglars with the above result. The men can hardly escape.

MR. BELL'S REPLY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In your issue of the 6th April you gave a report of the proceedings of the Peterborough School Board in which Mr. J. B. McWilliams, one of the trustees, refers to a minister of the town and makes (if true) some serious charges against him. Since then the enclosed correspondence has passed between Mr. McWilliams and the minister referred to, and I ask as a matter of common justice that you give it as wide a circulation in your columns as you gave to Mr. McWilliam's charges. The reader will see that Mr. McWilliams got an opportunity to explain his charges, but he only repeated them with aggravation. He was then called on either to prove them or withdraw them, but he has failed to do one or other, and has thus placed himself in a position which, I think, no honorable man would care to occupy.

Mr. McWilliams has within reach, if not already in his hands, every document from which proof must come, if proof can be got. He heard my address delivered, and in common with others was offered free access to all the documents I used. He could easily have found them for himself, if he did not care to see mine, and if he did not already possess them, for titles, dates and places where they could be found were freely and correctly given. He had full four weeks to examine, compare, and find out exactly where the "garbling" "misrepresentation" and "dishonesty" came in, but when asked to prove his libellous statements, lo, he ignominiously fails, and cannot point to a single sentence taken out of its place or missapplied, and cannot name a single word that will give him the slightest hope of a defence.

Thus unable to prove his statements, and not having moral courage enough to confess his wrong, we are obliged to look at him as he exhibits himself in the position of a wilful calumniator striving to hide the meaness of his doings behind added impertenences and bluffing insult. A man so utterly lost to a sense of the propriety and the honor that ought to govern one gentleman's conduct while dealing with the reputation of another has got down to a level too low for me to follow him, and I willingly leave him there to bluster at will —to sing of the sweet supremacy of his own "bunkum"—to enjoy the remose of his conscience, and to bluff off, as best he can, the public contempt which his own conduct has earned him.

One mistake I have made in this correspondence, Mr. Editor, and it is only due to myself and Mr. McWilliams that I should confess it. When I began this correspondence, from the fact that Mr. McWilliams has a place on our School Board, and fills an honorable situation under the Government, I verily believed I had a gentleman to deal with, but from evidence now before me in his letters I am compelled to admit that in that belief I was wrong. My blunder arose from my inexperience of what twenty years political compaigning will work on some natures. I was never behind the scenes and so did not know.

Yours, etc.,
ALEXANDER BELL.
Peterborough, 22nd April, 1887.

ST ANDREW'S MANSE,
April 11th, 1887.

To Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Peterborough:

SIR,—This afternoon my attention was drawn to a copy of the Examiner of Wednesday last, in which appears a report of the proceedings of the School Board on the previous evening.

You are there represented as referring to a Church and Minister in town, I presume St. Andrew's is the Church, and myself the minister. You are also represented as charging me with the very grave offences of garbling documents, and misrepresentation and dishonesty, of a very serious character, and I write this most respectfully to ask—

1. Whether that report fairly represents your actual statements regarding me or not? And

2. Whether you are still prepared to stand by the statements of that report and to prove the charges therein made against me, of garbling documents, and misrepesentation, and dishonesty?

A reply at your earliest convenience will greatly oblige,

Yours very truly,
ALEXANDER BELL.

PETERBOROUGH, 12th April, 1887.

Rev. A. Bell, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—Your letter of the 11th inst received, and in reply respectfully state. (1) That St. Andrew's Church is the Church and that the Minister of that Church is the gentleman referred to; (2) That the report is as fair as usually given by reporters for newspapers; (3) That according to my judgment the said Minister, in reading extracts from the letters of Dr. Nelles and Principal Cavan, did garble them and dishonestly endeavored to prove by said letters that these gentlemen were opposed to the use of the Scripture selections in the schools. His idea and mine may differ as to what garbling is, but as I said that evening, I would consider a man garbling if in reading Romans 3rd chapter and 8th verse he only read, "Let us do evil that good may come," and if the Minister of St. Andrew's Church is not of that opinion, then he may have been honest in reading the extracts he did. When clergymen enter the political arena, and dress their thoughts in words, they may expect their public utterances will be criticised.

Yours very respectfully,
J. B. MCWILLIAMS.

PETERBOROUGH April 14th, 1887.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Peterborough:

SIR,—yours of the 12th inst. in answer to mine of the 11th received. When I wrote you I hoped to find that, it was in a moment of forgetfulness and without duly considering the effect of your words that you had, at the meeting of the School Board, expressed yourself so freely concerning me. But from your letter now in my hands it is evident that your charges were carefully thought of and deliberately made. You now repeat them offering only as justification, a perfectly gratuituous assumption of your own, namely, that I have entered the "political arena," and should therefore, according to your notion, be prepared to submit to any insult which a political partisan may be pleased to offer me in the name of chriticism. Permit me to say that you are as far from the truth in this particular as in your other statements complained of. I have not entered the "political arena," and St Andrew's pulpit is not a political platform, and whether you like it or no, I claim for myself the utmost freedom to choose my own time and way to instruct my people and to take up and to discuss any question of public interest that may arise concerning the religious and moral interests of the community, whether politicians are concerned or not. I cannot admit your opinions as a justification of libellous charges deliberately made, and I deny that there is any foundation in fact for the charges of "dishonesty," "garbling documents, and misrepresentation" which you admit you openly preferred against me. And I emphatically repudiate your imputation that I used the letters of Dr. Nelles, Dewart and Caven, for any such purpose as you attribute to me, and I now call upon you either to give proof of those charges or to withdraw them, and to do so as publicly as you made them. Your failure to do one or other of these I shall know how to interpret and shall shape my own course accordingly.

Yours very truly,
ALEXANDER BELL.

PETERBOROUGH, April 18th, 1886

To Rev. A. Bell, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—Your letter of the 14th inst. received Saturday evening, and in reply state that I cannot see any reason why I should change the opinions expressed by me at the School Board. In fact your letter only helps to confirm them. There was not a minister in Peterborough that I respected more than yourself, and you can easily imagine my feelings when I heard the lecture delivered by you that evening. It was impossible for me to come to any but two conclusions: One that you were entirely ignorant of the question you were discussing. The other that you were endeavoring to mislead your hearers. Knowing your ability and seeing the material you had in your possession to aid you in coming to an intelligent opinion on the question, I could not persuade myself that you were ignorant of the matter referred to, and had, therefore, to come to the other conclusion, that you were for some reason endeavoring to mislead. You say that you have not entered the political arena, but if your sermon was not a political one I would like to know what you call it. I have no objection to ministers using the pulpit or any place to instruct their hearers in religious or other matters of importance, but I do object to it being used to misrepresent the acts of others, which I felt, and do feel still, you did on the occasion referred to. I have taken active part in all the political campaigns in this County for the last 25 years and can safely say that I never heard any public speaker on either side make a greater effort and succeed so well in destorting his opponents' arguments as you did the letters of the gentlemen refered to. The views which I hold and which I have already expressed are my conscientious opinions and although I would do anything reasonable to oblige you, yet, I cannot consent to say what I believe to be untrue, and therefore leave you to "shape your course" as you think best, trusting to be able to meet you in whatever ground you choose. I think if you want to do what is right about this matter you will go to your closet and ask Divine direction, and then I have no doubt you will apoligize to your congregation for endeavoring to mislead them. At this season of the year my time is too much occupied to be troubled with any more correspondence, especially when I cannot see any chance of us coming to an understanding, so must respectfully decline answering any more communications on this matter.

Yours very truly,
J. B. MCWILLIAMS.

[As the REVIEW'S report of Mr. McWilliams' remarks was more condensed than that of the Examiner, and as it is with the Examiner's report that Mr. Bell deals, we reproduce the Examiner's report, so that our readers may have the whole matter fully before them.—ED. REVIEW].

MR. MCWILLIAMS—During the last three or four months we have heard a great deal of discussion on the question of the Bible in the schools. He had heard a great many versions of this question, but of all the buncombe he had listened to the worst was in a church in town a few Sundays ago. One statement among many others made by that gentleman was that if a teacher used the Bible in the school he was liable to a fine of $10. He asked the Board to pass the resolution he had moved and to protect the teachers, and that they might not be put to any trouble, he would give his written guarantee to the Chairman of this Board to pay all expenses. Politicians were often denounced for misrepresenting their opponents, and it was urged that it would be better if clergymen would take a more active part in the elections, but if they are all as capable of garbling the statements of those opposed to them as the one who undertook to handle this question, then it would be a cold day for that class of politicians. What would that gentleman say if some minister would go into his pulpit and take for his text Romans iii. and 8, and only read, "Let us do evil that good may come," and then go on to prove that the more sin a man committed the more good he was doing? And yet that would be honest compared with extracts read by him from Prof. Nelles, Principal Cavan, and Rev. Dr. Dewart's letters. He did not think it made much difference which book was used, but he would like to see this matter tested.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION.

A Cyclone Sweeps Over Missouri and Nebraska.

NEVADA, Mo., April 22.—A terrific cyclone swept over the northern part of Vernon County last night about 8 o'clock. The clouds were plainly visible here, passing only about 8 miles from this city. The cyclone seemed to come down the Marmathon river from the Kansas line, dealing death and destruction everywhere it struck. So far as can be learned the first place it touched was at Metz, Osage and Blue Mound townships. Fences, houses, barns and everything in the line of the storm, which was half a mile wide, were picked up, rent into splinters, and cast down hundreds of yards away. Trees were torn up by the roots. Over thirty horses were destroyed and about 15 persons killed. Reliable news has only been received from Osage township, and it is thought that the death roll will be swelled to over 25. A heavy gale passed over this city, damaging the Methodist church and other buildings, but none were seriously injured.

A TORNADO IN ARKANSAS,

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 22.—About 3 o'clock this a.m. a tornado originating in the Indian Territory and moving almost due east, passed through the country four miles north and along the line of the Little Rock and Forth Smith railway. It was between a quarter and half a mile wide, and near Ozark Franklyn county, began doing damage to trees, houses and fences. Further east, near Coal Hill and Clarksville, Johnson County, the damage was very serious and many persons were injured. Four miles from Clarksville, this afternoon a man named Turner, John Reeds child, G. D. Rowley's daughter and a child of Mr. Petty were killed. A man named Phillips, near Ozark, was severely injured by falling timber. The loss to farmers' buildings, fences, stock and growing crops is very heavy.

SERIOUS RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

A Bridge Near Morrisburg Gives Way—Two Lives Lost.

MORRISBURG, Ont., April 22.—A terrible railway accident occurred one mile east of here this morning about 4 o'clock. Nash's Creek, now a foamy stream, is here spanned by an iron bridge, resting on two stone piers. A freight train going west went through the bridge, carrying the engineer and fireman to instant death. A brakeman was thrown into the creek, but rescued nearly dead. Thirteen loaded cars were piled into the gorge and smashed to atoms. The driver's name is Stewart. It is said that the bridge was inspected last week and pronounced safe. The supposition is that the stone pier has been rendered unsound by frost. The loss is very heavy. Express trains had crossed the bridge only an hour before.

An Attempt to Murder.

OTTAWA, April 22.—A young man named Robert McIver, who made a murderous attack on Farmer John Hunt near Duncanville yesterday, was captured last evening and brought to the city today. He will be removed to L'Original this evening. McIver was employed as a servant by Hunt. Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock he was engaged in cutting wood with an axe. As Hunt was passing into the house McIver struck him with the axe on the shoulders, cutting clean down to the lung, inflicting a most horrible wound. Hunt sank under the blow and McIver stood over him with the axe and aimed another blow as he rose, but Hunt, dodging his assailant, slipped and fell, and he escaped into the house. McIver, who is only about 19 years of age, come from Liverpool, England, two years ago,

O'Brien's Visit.

TORONTO April 22.—Archbishop Lynch, on being asked yesterday, whether he approved of the invitation sent from Canada to Mr. William O'Brien to come to this country and lecture on the Lansdowne evictions, relied: "I entirely disapprove of it. It can do no good, but a great deal of harm to us. If those gentlemen who invited him had deeply considered Catholic interests they would not have done so. In fact, I have already telegraphed to Ireland to a great friend of the National porty asking him to use his influence to prevent Mr. O'Brien's coming. Feeling the evils that his coming is likely to cause I would spare no trouble to prevent it. Until lately I could not imagine that there was any seriousness about the proposal."

Nearing an End.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 22.—Hon. W. L. Putnam, of Portland, Me., counsel for the United States in the fishery dispute, left for home yesterday morning. He said that the trouble was rapidly nearing an end, and he thought would soon culminate in an amicable settlement without the proposed enforcement of the retaliation bill. "In the north," said Mr. Putnam, "the people talk of nothing else, and Mr. Bayard tells me he has been forced to send out many thousand copies of the treaty of Washington, on which a portion of the dispute rests. I think the whole matter will be brought to a close before long without any serious trouble."

LATEST CABLE NEWS

FREE FIGHT.

LONDON, April 22.—At a meeting of the Ladies Liberal Association at Kensington last evening, at which several members of Parliament were present, a row arose on the Irish question. Finally the platform was stormed, and a free fight ensued, in which the furniture in the hall was smashed and the pieces used as weapons. The police succeeded in restoring order after a hard struggle making several arrests. Many persons were injured, including two members of the House of Commons. The ladies present among whom, was Mrs. Ashton Dilke, made their way to the sides of the hall, whench they witnessed the row.

LAND ACT PURCHASERS.

LONDON, April 22.—A deputation of purchasers under the Bright clauses of the Land Act of 1870 had an interview yesterday with Mr. W. H. Smith. They asked that they be placed on the same terms as glebe purchasers under the Ashburn Act. Mr. Smith promised to consider the matter. The News says: "The Government will concede their request in regard to the rate of interest and the period of repayment, but will refuse any further advance of purchase money."

REPUBLISHED.

LONDON, April 22.—The Times has published a second series of articles on "Parnellism and Crime," including a fac-simile of the Parnell letter and the articles connected therewith, for distribution throughout the country.

MR. O'BRIEN'S PROGRAMME.

LONDON, April 22.—Mr. William O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, of Dublin, is in London. In an interview he said the object of his visit was to confer with the leaders of the Irish party in Parliament. Being asked respecting his proposed visit to Canada for the purpose of exposing Lord Lansdowne's treatment of his Irish tenants, he said:—"I shall persist in going to Canada. It is too late now for anyone to stop me. I sail on the Aurania from Queenstown for New York on Sunday. Mr. Kilbride, who was one of the principle tenants of Lord Lansdowne and who was evicted, will accompany me. I intend to remain in Canada ten days and will speak in Quebec, Montreal, Kingston and Toronto. I have received many letters from Canada sympathizing with the purpose of my visit." Mr. O'Brien stated that temporary houses were being built on the priest's grounds at Luggacurren to shelter the tenants who have been evicted from Lord Lansdowne's estates.

THE LAND BILL.

LONDON, April 22. The debate on the Irish Land bill was continued in the House of Lords this evening. The Duke of Argyle questioned Gen. Bulier's ability to judge of the position of tenants. The word, "judicial," he said was a misnomer as regards rent. The real difficulty in Ireland lay in a few congested districts. Parliamentary action prevented landlords from applying for the legitimate remedy. The Land Acts had destroyed all ownership by the transfer of the land from one to the other, rendering reform impossible. The Gladstonian legislation had stopped all sale of land to capitalists, and rendered it impossible for anyone other than the tenant to buy. Earl Kimberly said the Gladstonians had always held that a satisfactory settlement of the agrarian must always precede the final solution of the Irish problem. Lord Selborne said the present bill was merely provisional with regard to the larger land measure promised by the Government.

THE COLONIAL CONFERENCE.

LONDON, April 22.—The Colonial Conference met again to-day, with sir Henry Holland presiding. The War Office officials were present. Mr. Stanhope told the Conference what had been done, and what still remained to be done, with respect to the defence of the different coaling stations, specifying the works and armaments, and the proportion of expense borne in each case by the Imperial and the Colonial Governments respectively. A further discussion arose on King George's Sound and Torres Straits, and a statement was made by different delegates with reference to defensive expenditures incurred by their respective colonies.

A GERMAN VIEW.

BERLIN, April 22.—The arrest of M. Schnaebeles was the outcome of an ordinary judicial proceeding. The judge who ordered his arrest did so, it is stated, on evidence implicating him in an attempt to subvert the allegiance of the Alsatians to Germany. The German authorities consider the fact of his being a foreigner does not exempt M. Schnaebeles from punishment. They say the moment he is caught on German territory he is under the jurisdiction of the German courts.

SAID TO BE A SPY.

BERLIN, April 22.—The Nachrichten says M. Schnaebeles is strongly suspected of being a French spy, and that an enquiry will prove that the German authorities have been duly vigilant. The German accounts of the affair ignore the French assertion that M. Schnaebeles was enticed into German territory, and that statement is believed to be false.

STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, April 22.—The arrest by the Germans of Schnaebeles has caused depression on the London and Paris stock markets.

PACIFIC.

VIENNA, April 22.—Prince Lobanoff, the Russian ambassador at Vienna, yesterday assured Count Kalnoky that the sentiment in Russia with reference to Austria was of a markedly pacific character.

A DISCOVERY.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 22.—A chorister in the Military Academy Church committed suicide to-day by jumping from a window of his house. On being searched the house was discovered to be a socialist rendezvous. A quantity of dynamite, arms and revolutionary documents was found.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1887.

AN UNSPEAKABLE SPEAKER.

THE good repute of Canada has received a terrible blow. Mr. Speaker Ouimet, the Opposition Speaker, who, as we have been informed by the Globe, was allowed to be placed in the chair of the House of Commons only because he was an Opposition member, has actually had the effrontery to call Mr. Blake to order. Thus he has shown himself in the eyes of his Opposition brethren to be a reckless partisan, and still worse, a partisan on the wrong side. What is more, the same Globe authority informs us that it is the Speaker's "first piece of partisanship;" there is actually the terrible dread that he may call Mr. Blake to order again. And "Mr. Blake was strictly in order," too, as is decided by the Globe court of appeal from the chair. Of course he was. Does not Mr. Speaker Ouimet know that Reform slanders of Conservative officials or members are always in order? Does he not know that it is always in order for Mr. Blake to read long written charges against political opponents, prepared for him by some amanuensis, probably Mr. Cameron (late of Huron), who must have more leisure at present to cultivate his taste for fiction and to work up his plots? Besides, the whole debate was out of order, since it arose from a motion by Mr. Mills which was out of order because made without notice, though he was allowed to proceed through the somewhat contemptuous indulgence vouchsafed to a sorely disappointed man craving to relieve his mind by wailing over his rejection by the country. And if the whole debate was out of order surely it was in order for Mr. Blake to be out of order if liked, and if he was in a hurry to read the little list placed in his hands.

It is terrible that the Opposition Speaker should have committed himself so deeply. And it is all the worse because there is no easy remedy. Great as is the offence our constitution, unfortunately, does not provide that a Speaker may be dismissed for it. He cannot even be forced to resign. The only method we can find for overcoming the difficulty is that Mr. Mowat should give Speaker Ouimet the Sheriffdom of Toronto or York, whichever he does not want for himself. He has before now handed over his public patronage to Mr. Blake for his private use, and as Speaker Ouimet is an Opposition member the appointment would be quite "in order." Then Mr. Blake might be asked to choose some other Opposition member whom he will permit to be made Speaker, and who will not commit the grave indiscretion of calling to order the Opposition leader—we beg his pardon, the President of the Board to execute the office of Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition in the Dominion of Canada. It is a grand title, almost as grand lose as that of Mr. Mowat's park at Niagara, and it is terrible to think that such a magnate should suffer the indignity of being ruled out of order by a mere Speaker, and of his own party too.

THE SAULT CANAL.

MR. BLAKE'S organ is graciously pleased to permit Canada to construct a canal at the Sault on the Canadian side. But I objects to this being done "in order to provide against the possible interuption of the navigation of our great inland waters." Well our navigation of our great inland waters has once already since confederation been interupted at this same Sault, and it might happen again. Besides the United States have given their President power to interrupt it again whenever he likes. So the people of Canada propose to be on the safe side by constructing a Canadian Sault Canal, even if it does not please the New York Herald and the Toronto Globe that we should provide against the interruption of our navigation of our own waters.

CAMPBELLFORD.

CRICKET CLUB.—The cricketers of Campbellford had a meeting at the Windsor hotel on Monday night last, and elected the following as officers of the club for the ensuing year:—President, A. L. Colville; Vice-President, C. L. Owen; Committee of management, R. H. Bonnycastle, T. S. Tait, Ed. Nancarrow, R. J. Leslie and E. S. Platt. A challenge has been received from Peterborough, and if arrangements can pe made satisfactory for both teams, the match will be played here on the 24th of May.

MILITARY FUNERAL.—Charley Potter, a young man 19 years of age, son of Mr. S. J. Potter, died of consumption at the residence of Mr. John Adams on Monday morning last. The deceased was one of the volunteers who served in the North-West during the rebellion, and returned home very much improved in health. Some time afterwards he contracted a severe cold, from the effects of which he never recovered. He was cared for with unceasing attention and tenderly nursed by Mrs. Adams and her daughters for three weeks; and a number of young men showed great regard and kindness by keeping him company every night during his illness. The funeral took place yesterday, and the body was interred in the new cemetery. The volunteers in uniform under command of Capt. Bonnycastle, and the brass band accompanied the funeral procession to the grave. Service was held in the Methodist Church, conducted by Rev. J. S. Clarke and Rev. J. Hay.—Herald.

All You High Price Would-be Clothiers.

GOUGH, the WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN RINGS OUT HIS ALARM BELL TO YOU

THIS WEEK he is going to hurl a tirade of prices at you that will besiege his place of business with anxious buyers, and break you all up. Our three flats are packed with NEW GOODS, and we can show MORE CLOTHING THAN THE WHOLE KIT OF YOU COMBINED, including the tail end of a few Dry Goods Stores that carry a few shoddy Suits. Energy will tell, and the people appreciate it. Our Business is not on paper; it is a reality, and the result of long, patient study and hard work.

READ, YOU BABY CLOTHIERS, WHAT THE CLOTHIER OF THE AGE IS GOING TO DO FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS, AND WHEN YOU READ, REFLECT, AND WHEN YOU REFLECT, COME AND BUY FROM HIM, FOR YOU CANNOT BUY FROM ANY WHOLESALE HOUSE IN CANADA AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES

LOT 1.—Mens Blue Serge Suits for $3.50, not, mark you, old faded out brown shoddy serge, such as you can buy elsewhere for $3.75, but a pure Indigo dye, warranted fast color, and to cost you $8.00 from any other dealer.

LOT 2.—Mens All Wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $4.00. This is a beautiful black and brown check, trimmed with a silk serge lining, and the lowest wholesale price of it is guaranteed to be $6.50. We show a dozen different patterns in this line to select from.

LOT 3.—Mens West of England and Scotch Tweed Suits at $5.50, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00. Are made and trimmed equal to custom work, and if made to order would cost you from $15.00 to $22.00. With this line of goods we throw you in 10 yards of Embroidery and one pair of Corsets. Such goods are too trifling for the Wonderful Cheap Man to sell, and are assigned to his gift Department.

LOT 4.—Mens Fine French Worsted Suits for $10.00 and $12.00, not backed goods, but pure worsted, worth $25.00 made to order. We have thousands of these goods to select from.

LOT 5.—Boys Suits from 98 cents per suit up. We really cannot afford anything out of our gift Department with this suit, but to make it interesting, and not disappoint the boy, we will throw in a Cap.

In Our HAT and CAP Department we sell a Fine Soft Felt Hat for 20 cents worth 80 cents, and a Fine Stiff Felt Hat, newest Style, for 75 cents worth $1.50.

In Our Furnishing GOODS and BOOT Department, suffise to say we stand unique, and are almost giving them away, if you doubt it, call and see if we dont give you something handsome without effecting your pocket. Workingmen try a pair of our 50 cent Cottonade pants, they are worth $1.00.

WE WANT THE WHOLE COUNTRY

To come and see what we are doing, therefore I WILL PAY RAILROAD FARE within a radius of 100 Miles of Peterborough to every person coming to Peterborough and purchasing $10 worth of Goods or upwards from me.

Remember, I have Removed from the old store in the Arcade Buildings, under the Opera House, and I am now located in the Store formerly known as the BON MARCHE. You cannot mistake my place. There are Four Life-size signs on front of Building, and see the name GOUGH, the Clothier, above them. Be not deceived by any catch-penny clothiers, but go straight to GOUGH, the Terror to High-Price Clothiers, George Street, Peterborough.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d59

Murder.

MONTERAL, April 22.—The Coroner's inquest on the unknown man found near the railway track at Pointe Claire, on Sunday morning, was resumed last evening. Dr. Mount testified that there were six scalp wounds, which appears that the man had been repeatedly struck with a blunt instrument, and that death had been caused be hemorrhage, producing compression of the brain. The jury after a short consultation, returned a verdict of "wilful murder" against parties unknown. The Coroner will at once report to the Court of Queen's Bench, and the Crown prosecuter will take steps to brigg the guilty to justice.

Worth Remembering.

Every inspiration of the lungs, every pulsethrob of the heart, every sweep of the arm—even our very thoughts as they speed through the brain—all create waste matter that must be constantly removed if there is to be that beautiful harmony of functional effort which constitutes health. Nature's remedy is the sure and eminently wise one, of expelling, by proper purgation, the humors which cause disease, and Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are nature's great ally in the cure of digestive disturbances, and an unfailing remedy for constipation and its pernicious effects.

AN ESTATE SALE OF VALUABLE BUILDING LOTS

The Property of the late Jas. Howden.

The Executors of the above estate will offer for sale on Thursday, April 28th

1887, on the respective properties, including the Homestead of the deceased, three Park Lots conveniently situated near the town limits, and the very desirable building lots as described in the registered plan. (See posters.) Attention of purchasers is particularly drawn to the fact that these properties immediately adjoin the corporation of the Town of Peterborough, and not being within the limits of the town; are consequently free from high taxation.

TERMS OF SALE.—One third of the proceeds of each lot cash; 10 years will be given on the balance at 6 per cent. interest, secured by mortgage on the properties.

Sale at 1 o'clock p.m.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

The Toronto Police Magistrate—The Election Papers Produced—the Home Rule and Coercion Debate.

THURSDAY, April 21.—A number of questions of minor importance were answered by Ministers.

NEWS LIBEL CASE.

Mr. THOMPSON, in reply to Mr. Prefontaine, as to the refusal of the Toronto Police Magistrate to endorse a Quebec warrant for the arrest of Mr. Sheppard, said it was a matter for the Ontario Government whose officer Mr. Denison was.

ELECTION RETURNS.

The SPEAKER announced that the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery was at the table with the several papers ordered yesterday, relating to the general elections. The papers were ordered to be printed in the Votes and Proceedings.

HOME RULE AND COERCION.

Mr. CURRAN rose to move the following resolutions:—

"That the Parliament of Canada in the year 1882 adopted a humble address to her Majesty expressing the hope that a just measure of Home Rule would be granted to the people of Ireland, and that in the year 1886 by a resolution of the House of Commons of Canada the sentiments of the said address to her Majesty were earnestly reiterated and the hope again expressed that a measure of Home Rule satisfactory to the people of Ireland would be passed by the Imperial Parliament, and that such measure of Home Rule has not been granted to the Irish people, but on the contrary there has been introduced into the Imperial House of Commons by Her Majesty's Government a Coercion bill, enacting the most coercive measures for Ireland, by which the Irish people will be deprived of the rights most dear to all British subjects; the House has learned with profound regret of the introduction into the Imperial House of Commons of the Coercion bill above mentioned, and protests against its adoption as being subversive of the rights and liberties of Her Majesty's subjects in Ireland; that the House again expresses the hope that there may speedily be granted to Ireland such a measure of Home Rule as is enjoyed in the Dominion of Canada, which, while satisfying the national aspiration of the people of Ireland for self-government, shall also be consistent with the integrity of the Empire as a whole; that the granting of Home Rule to Ireland will fittingly crown the already glorious reign of Her Most Gracious Majesty, and as a constitutional act will come with special appropriateness in her Jubilee year, and, if possible, render Her Majesty more dear to the hearts of her already devoted and loyal subjects. That the present resolutions be forwarded to the Marquis of Salisbury, Mr. Gladstone, M. P., and Mr. Parnell, M. P."

He said that there was a general opinion in Canada in favour of the principal of Home Rule for Ireland, as was shown by the press and public meetings. Coercion had often been tried in Ireland and had never succeeded. He discussed some of the provisions of the new bill. In 1882 and 1886 the Parliament of Canada had spoken on behalf of Ireland, and it had a right to do so now. The British Parliament expressed itself in behalf of oppressed nationalists in Europe. He condemned the London Times for its charge against Parnell. Popular Government in Canada had made its people contented and loyal, and he hoped in this jubilee year a similar policy would have the same happy results in Ireland.

Mr. PATTERSON (Essex) seconded the motion.

Mr. MCNEILL gave credit to Mr. Curran for his ability and for his devotion for his country and race, but thought he had been carried away by the warmth of his feelings. The Parliament of Canada had pronounced in favor of Home Rule, but it was constitutional on its being of a nature to maintain the unity and integrity of the Empire, and the rights of the minority. The House had refused to pronounce on the particular measure then before the Imperial Parliament, and so it should do now. The agitation for Home Rule was closely connected with a dangerous conspiracy against the integrity of the Empire. It was very well to protest against the Coercion Bill, but there was no protest against the terrible outrages, the boycotting, terrorizing, and murder of the law-abiding. Yet they were asked not only to condemn the Government for their efforts to protect life and property, but also to condemn the people of the Mother Country who had just pronounced on these questions. They would act unwisely in giving encouragement to they knew not what. He moved in amendment:

"That this House desires to repeat the expression of its deep and abiding interest in the prosperity and happiness of the people of Ireland and its sentiment upon the subject of Home Rule enunciated in the joint address of both Houses of Parliament passed in the session of 1882 and the resolution adopted in this House in 1886. This House, is, however, unable to form or express an opinion as to the merits or demerits of the bill for the amendments of the criminal law with respect to Ireland now before the Imperial Parliament in the absence of the measure itself and of the papers and evidence on which it was based."

Mr. KENNY supported Mr. Curran's resolution, feeling assured that the right of the minority would be as safe in Ireland as in Canada under Home Rule.

Mr. FLYNN also supported the resolution, believing that a good land law would produce as much content in Ireland as in Prince Edward Island. Millions of Irishmen in the United States would be a standing menace to Canada as long as the Irish question remained unsettled. Coercion should be abandoned for Home Rule.

Mr. O'FARRELL thought it was humiliating to continue to give advice which was not welcomed. If the Imperial Parliament thus interfered with our domestic matters, what would we say. There were a million and a half Irishmen in Ireland who would never submit to such a measure as that of Mr. Gladstone's. Some spoke as if Ireland were treated as Poland was by Russia, instead of enjoying the same constitutional privileges as England, Scotland and Wales, and Irishmen have equal access to the highest positions under the Empire. It was the National League that was really practicing coercion and the Government was aiming at the relief of those who were suffering under such merciless tyranny. He resented the intended visit of his namesake to Canada to dog the footsteps of the Governor-General because some of his tenants did not like his actions as landlord, and regretted that Archbishop Lynch should countenance such attacks. The threats made by Mr. Flynn and Mr. Blake of the Fenians in the United States should not deter them. A fitting celebration of the Jubilee would be to secure protection to life and property.

Mr. CASEY defended the National League and advocated Home Rule. They knew enough of the outlines of the Coercion bill to pronounce upon it, so he would support the resolution though he would prefer an address to the Queen. He censured Mr. McNeill and Mr. O'Brien for saying that there were over a million Irishmen who would not submit to such a measure as Mr. Gladstone's as it was a threat of rebellion.

Mr. WALLACE (West York), though in favour of Home Rule, could not consent to condemn a measure for the suppression of crime. They should be all the more cautious in consequence of the charges hanging over Mr. Parnell as to the letter published by the London Times.

Mr. MILLS—Like your forged telegrams.

The SPEAKER called Mr. Mills to order and he had to withdraw his offensive words.

Mr. BURNS supported the resolution. He declared that the National League was a bulwark of the law, and that Mr. O'Brien who was coming out to Canada was its delegate. The letter said to be Parnell's was a forgery. He defended the letter of Archbishop Lynch.

Mr. BERGIN claimed the right for Canadians to lay their views at the foot of the Throne. Self-government would cure the ills of Ireland.

Mr. JONES said if Ireland obtained the redress it was seeking in a constitutional manner there would be the same peace at home that there was in Canada.

Mr. WELSH said he would vote for the motion as it was in favor of the integrity of the Empire as well as of Home Rule.

Mr. LAURIER moved the adjournment.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada.

We have just received another lot of Christy's Celebrated Zephyr Hats at Fairweather's Hat Store.

Two Hours Late.

The noon train on the Grand Trunk Railway was two hours late. The Sulton train ran off the track at Markham, necessitating transhipment.

Personal.

Mr. John Lang, M. P., for East Peterborough, has arrived home from Ottawa.

Mr. Chas. M. Dobson, special correspondent of the Buffalo Express was in town today with business in connection with his office.

Piles of slippers at Kidd's from 30 cents a pair up.

Social.

A social was held in the school room of St. Andrew's Church on Thursday evening. Tea was served by the ladies of the church at from 5 to 6 o'clock. A considerable amount was realized. During the evening the choir rendered several choruses. The evening was spent very pleasantly.

Parliamentary Committees.

The members for this County are placed on the following Standing Committees of the House of Commons:—Railways and Canals and Telegraphs, Mr. Stevenson; Expiring Laws, Mr. Lang; Standing Orders, Mr. Stevenson; Banking and Commerce, Mr. Lang; Agriculture and Colonization, Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Lang.

For choice Millinery and stylish Mantles call at Turnbull's. New shapes arriving daily.

A Great Excursion.

A number of excursions and other events have been announced that will draw a large number of people to Peterborough this summer. But the latest announcement of a mammoth excursion eclipses them all. It includes Toronto, Belleville, Cobourg, Lindsay, Port Hope, Omemee, Lakefield, Norwood, and hundreds of other places and stations on the chief railways and branches—in fact every place within a hundred miles of Peterborough. Other excursions offer the advantage of reduced fares, but this unique excursion offers free rides, the people being brought to the town free of charge. That is an unparalleled offer, an excursion without precedent, such as could originate only in a mind devoted to the interests of the people. The only condition of the free ride—and that condition is more in the interest of the people than the free ride itself—is that goods to the value of $10 and upwards be purchased at the great cheap clothing house kept by Gough. His prices are down, down, away down, and it would pay anyone to come 100 miles and pay their fare to purchase from him. The Globe fast train is nowhere now, and must take a back seat to this new sensation. Cheap goods and a free ride are the advantages of buying from Gough, the Terror to High Priced Clothiers.

Why buy shoddy boots when you can get solid leather ones at Kidd's.

POLICE COURT.

FORESTALLING THE MARKET.

SATURDAY, April 23.—Chas. Brown was found guilty of forestalling the market, and was fined $5 and costs. P. C. Adams laid the charge.

LARCENY.

Wm. Hamilton was charged by Walter Kerr with having stolen a shirt. Walter is a regular visitor at the cells. He comes around so regular that one of the cells have been set apart for him to sleep in. A few nights ago, Frank Hamilton, who occupied another cell, went to Walter's cell, and stole his shirt. The culprit was found, also the garment, which he was wearing at the time. He was found guilty of the charge and sentenced to one month in gaol, with instructions to return Walter's underwear

VAGRANCY.

Wm. Hoosick was sent up for two months or being found guilty of a charge of vagrancy preferred by P. C. Adams.

The Inquest.

Dr. Bell left town this afternoon to hold the inquest on the body of the child found on Thursday afternoon on Dr. Kincaid's farm.

The Market.

The Peterborough market seems to be very attractive. Every regular market day brings a large number of people to town by rail. The railways, which charge specially low rates on market days, are taken advantage of by the people of the district, some living forty or fifty miles away. The morning a gentleman stood counting the people as they came from the morning C. P. R. train. He counted one hundred and seven and then got tir d.

We have just opened out a direct shipment of Ellwood's London Hats at Fairweather's Hat Store.

Found at Last.

A much respected, in fact one of the most respectable citizens of Peterborough has found at last the man who in any case can produce the article he advertises. Yesterday he went all through the Great Cheapside, and in looking up the many lines advertised at such unheard of prices, was thoroughly convinced that Sheppard was fulfilling to the letter all that he had advertised. The choice of 5 Button Kid Gloves in black and colors at 50c., the six inch wide Embroidery at 15c., the all wool Black Cashmere at 25c., the nice assortment of cold Dress Goods at 10c., Tapestry Carpet commencing at 25c. and Brussels and all wool at 95c., sold elsewhere at $1.25 was a matter of considerable surprise to him, but when shown the rich Seal Brown Suit in boys at $1.92 and men's at $3.95 it simply eclipsed anything he had ever seen, and said he would advise his many friends to go straight to Sheppard's for good goods cheap.

Twenty cents will buy a pair of Ladies Fine Shaped Hose in Black, at Turnbull's. Remember his Heavy Knickerbockers for Boys in all the best shades.

Here and There.

Mr. Adam Hudspeth, M. P., of Lindsay, is not the only popular gentleman of that name who wears legislative honors. Mr. R. S. Hudspeth, nephew of the member for South Victoria, is a member of the New Jersey Legislature, and the following description of a scene at the closing of the Legislature recently shows his popularity: "After the final adjournment all the Democratic members and many of the Republicans formed a ring on the floor of the House around the forms of Mr. Hudspeth and Mr. McDermitt. Mr. Hudspeth was frightened, but was reassured when Mr. McDermitt stepped towards him with a beautiful gold watch and chain and began a presentation speech. Mr. McDermitt began a beautiful speech, but when he got to where he told of Mr. Hudspeth's leadership of the Democrats during all the stirring scenes which had marked the life of the House, and of the esteem in which they all held him, he broke down and exhibited a strong desire to cry. This rather 'broke up' Mr. Hudspeth, and his response was so low as to be almost inaudible. What he said was very earnest and sincere and all who heard him were visibly affected. Thus the session marked with so much bitterness of feeling, so much wrangling, turmoil and bickering, ended in a genuine love fe st. After fighting each other so bitterly for so many days Mr. Hudspeth and Mr. McDermitt stood there looking at each other and exhibiting a strong desire to get watery around the eyes. The inscription on Mr. Hudspeth's watch was:—Presented to Robert S. Hudspeth, Speaker of the one hundred and eleventh session of the House of Assembly, April 7th, 1887, by his Democratic colleagues. Palena qui meruit."

The Churches.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a. m. the second at 8 a. m., and the third at 10.30 a. m. Vespers at 7 p. m.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services will be conducted as follows:—Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.; Morning Prayer, Litany sermon and Holy Communion at 11 a.m.; Evening Prayer and sermon at 7 p. m.

ST. PAUL'S.—The usual services will be held, conducted by Rev. E. F. Torrance.

BAPTIST CHURCH, Murray Street.—The usual services will be held. The Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe will preach in the morning and the Rev. Mr. Huff, of Smith, in the evening.

METHODIST CHURCH, Charlotte Street.—The Rev. I. Tovell will conduct the services in the morning and the Rev. F. H. Wallace in the evening.

METHODIST CHURCH, George street.—The Rev. F. H. Wallace will conduct the morning services and the Rev. I. Tovell will preach a special sermon to the Oddfellows at the evening service.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The usual services will be conducted.

METHODIST CHURCH, Mark street (Ashburnham)—The Rev. Mr. Wilson will conduct the services.

The Lock Works.

In reference to the disgraceful falsehood which is being circulated in Peterborough accusing Mr. James Stevenson M. P. of misrepresentation in reference to the cessation of lock making in the Kingston Penitentiary, we quote the following from the Reform journal of that city;—"The ninety men referred to in the penitentiary reports as being employed at skilled work are so employed no longer. These were in the lockshops of Mr. L. B. Spencer, now inoperative, and the warden does not know what he is going to do with them. The pity is that the federal government did not imitate the course of the local government and, between the time of notifying the contractors of its intention and the closing out of skilled work, decide upon some method of using the labor of the convicts, with a view of making it as reformatory as possible and, at the same time, conflicting in the least possible degree with the labour of freemen. It is certainly not the people's wish the convicts should be kept in complete idleness, adding to their own degradation and the burden of public taxation."—Kingston Whig, April 21.

POLICE COURT.

INJURY TO PROPERTY.

MONDAY, April 25.—Thos. Fitzsimmonds was sent up for a month for having smashed the windows in Alex. Gibson's blacksmith shop on Saturday night.

FIGHTING.

F. Larone, who was up on a remand charged with fighting, was released on his own recognisance, to appear when required.

A DISTURBANCE.

P. C. McGinty arrested a man on Saturday night while raising a disturbance in his own house. This morning, no one appearing against him, he was dismissed from Court.

SCOTT ACT.

The case of the Queen vs. Tyler was enlarged for another week.

MALICIOUS INJURY TO PROPERTY.

A curious case of malicious injury to property came before the Court. Four youngsters, Jerry Flaherty, D. McGinnis, Freddy Shearer and J. Dwyer were charged by R. Wainwright with having injured and disfigured meats in his butcher shop. It seems that the boys were in the habit of getting into the butcher shop through a hole. Messrs R. and J. Wainwright stood on guard Sunday night and soon succeeded in making a capture, Jerry Flaherty and Jimmy Dwyer being the victims. When conveyed to the cells it was found that the other two boys was probably implicated, and they were also arrested. This morning four little fellows stood before His Worship in fear and trembling. They all wanted to get out of the scrape and an unusually lively scene of recrimmination ensued. One lad laid the blame on the other and some accuse the other of knowing something about the recent fire The case was adjourned till to-morrow.

The Inquest.

Coroner Bell held the inquest on the body of the child found on Dr. Kincaid's farm on Saturday afternoon. Two witnesses were examined, but no facts of any consequence were brought out. The inquest was adjourned till this evening at five o'clock, when a session will be held in the Police Court. In the meantime four witnesses which are expected to give important evidence have been subpoenaed. Dr. Bell says that there is no doubt in his mind that the child was alive when born, and that at the most it was not more than five days old.

The Wind.

The high wind blowing on Saturday afternoon lifted a canvas waggon box from the front of Messrs. Elliott & Tierney's grocery store, George street, and hoisted it along up the street. The frame struck the plate glass window in Mr. W. A. Sanderson's jewelery store, but so close to the bottom that it glanced off and left the window unhurt.

THE IRISH LAND BILL

Debated in the House of Lords—Lord Salisbury Defends His Policy.

LONDON, April 23.—In the House of Lords last night, during the discussion on the Irish Land Bill, Earl Cowper said he was unable to see the force of the Government argument against a quinquennial revision of rents, that it would interfere with the proposed purchase scheme. He would, however, support the bill.

Earl Granville said he feared the bankrupt clauses of the bill would give bad tenants great advantage over good tenants. The bill as it stood gave an absolute premium to dishonesty and fraud, and would ultimately involve landlords and tenants in common ruin. He thought the House was entitled to a statement as to how far the Government would stand by their remedial measures.

Lord Salisbury, in defending the Government's course in refusing to adopt the quinquennial period of revision, said that although prices were low now, they were improving. He denied that the Cowper commission gave a fall in prices as the sole reason for the tenants' inability to pay their rents. If rents were revised now there would be no argument with which to resist the constant demands that would be made for a revision upon the slightest grounds. Why should a tenant who entered into a bargain which turned out unprofitable be differently treated from a person in any other business. When asked to pay his debtors he should do so. When it was impossible to pay, society recognized the case and provided relief for the insolvents. He thought the precedent applied amply to the present case. There was nothing in the bankruptcy clauses which would prevent their being reasonably carried out. This bill and the Crimes Bill were sister measures. If either were rejected the Government would conclude that it had lost the confidence of the country.

The second reading of the bill was agreed to without division. Lord Denman rose to speak as to the question was being put and was not noticed. When the House was adjourning, Lord Denman excitedly said: "This is another case of cloture. I have been treated in a most ungentlemanly manner. If any gentleman doubts that, I am ready to give him satisfaction."

MONTREAL FLOODS.

Great Damage to Villages Along the South Shore.

MONTREAL, April 24.—There is no change in the inundated portions of the city except that the water this evening commenced to rise again, and it is thought will increase during the night. In the western part of the city the only means of getting in or out is by boats or rafts.

From early morning yesterday until late in the afternoon the special aldermanic committee composed of seven members of the Council, of which Colonel Stevenson is the chairman, were actively engaged distributing large quantities of provisions from boats to the necessitous inhabitants in Griffintown. Five large boats were laden with thousands of loaves of bread, a large quantity of tea, sugar, cheese and milk. Each family received two 3lb loaves, a package of tea, sugar and cheese, and where there were children an allowance of milk. The total supplies were exhausted at midday, and had to be renewed so as to go round the inundated area. The corporation has authorized this expenditure. The Grand Trunk railway has improvised a terminus outside the city limits on account of the flood and outgoing mails and passengers are required to start from the city earlier than usual.

Only a small portion of the ice in Lake St. Louis above Lachine has moved, and there are apprehensions that when the ten or eleven miles still solid there comes down the flood will be greater than ever. Lapairie, St. Lambert and Longueuil villages, on the southern bank of the St Lawrence, have never previously had such a destructive invasion of the flood as the present season. The water has risen four feet higher than last year, and has, in Longueuil especially, done a great deal of damage. The fine summer residence of Mr. Richard Smardon, on the bank of the river, has been demolished by the ice. There were two corpses taken out to-day in boats to Griffintown for interment in the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Dack & Son's boots to be had at Kidd's at Toronto prices.

BOBCAYGEON.

LITTLE BOB.—The Little Bob Mill opened for the seasons work, on Wednesday. During the winter it was thoroughly repaired and put in good order. It is not quite certain, but it is just possible that the firm may provide the mill with an electric dynamo, for lighting purposes, in which case, the village could be easily and cheaply illuminated. We should then only require a few plate glass windows, and a bad reputation, to make us a city. Little Bob expects to make a big cut this season.

DROWNED.—On Thursday evening about six o'clock, Mr. P. Crowley, Mrs. F. Adams and son, who had been in the village, were returning home to Harvey with a team and sleigh. They were trotting along over the ice at a good pace, when suddenly the team and sleigh were plunged into the lake. The occupants of the sleigh jumped and Crowley had some difficulty in getting Mrs. Adams to solid ice. They happened to drive into a weak spot where the ice apparently as strong as any other part of the lake was nothing more than slush. The team dropped through, and as they were moving at a good trot, the headway drove them under the ice, and went on until the high back board of the sleigh caught on the solid ice and held them. Mr. T. Crowley drew a load of logs across the lake on the same day with two teams of horses, and again crossed with a buggy on Friday. In many parts of the lake there is solid ice seventeen inches thick, but there are frequent air holes, weak spots and breaks, and it is quite unsafe to travel.—Independent.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

LABOUCHERE'S OPINION.

LONDON, April 23.—Labouchere, speaking at Cardiff last night, said he could see no reason why Parnell should proceed against the Times. The letter attributed to Parnell was a clumsy forgery. He hoped all evictors and agents of coercion in Ireland would be placed under social ban. He said Chamberlain opposed the Liberals because they refused to make him their leader.

THREE COURSES OPEN.

LONDON, April 23.—The general belief here is that the bitterness of political feeling would prevent Mr. Parnell from getting a verdict from a London jury against the Times if he brought a suit. Three courses, however, are pointed out, by which Mr. Parnell, if he chose to test the question of forgery at law can circumvent the Times, 1st., let him offer the Times to agree to accept damages of £200,000 and confine the issue to the simple question: "Is or is not the letter a forgery," thus excluding all irrelevant cross-examination; 2nd., let him challange the Times and agree to the action being tried by a judge alone. 3rd., let him sue the agent of the Times selling the paper in Dublin, and so secure either a Dublin jury or force the Times to repudiate its Irish agent. It is hardly probable, however that the matter will go so far.

THE IRISH CHIEF SECRETARY.

LONDON, April 23.—Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, in a speech at Ipswich last night, said he was surprised at Mr. Gladstone's statement that he had never accused the Parnellites of participation in crime. He denied that the Government had any political motive for introducing the crimes bill in Parliament. He would not state his views on the subject of the Times Parnell letter, but would ask his hearers to remember the antecedents of the Parnellites and reflect upon the status of the journal which published this letter and the tremendous punishment which it would be liable to if the letter were proved to be a forgery, and then form their own judgment.

LORD LANSDOWNE'S TENANTS.

LONDON, April 23.—Lord Lansdowne has offered fresh terms to all his tenants, and they are considering the matter.

IRISH CONSTABLES RESIGN.

BELFAST, April 23.—The two constables sent to Castle Island to take the places of those who resigned have also resigned. Their resignations were not accepted and they were dismissed.

THE AFGHAN REVOLT.

LONDON, April 23.—Advices from Allahabad say that Mohomad Shah, whom the Ghilzars have proclaimed Ameer, is summoning refugees from India and that there are rumours current that a great coalition is being formed.

IN HONOR OF PRINCESS BEATRICE.

LONDON, April 23.—Aix les Baines was illuminated last night in honor of the birthday of Princess Beatrice. Bands played, chorals were sung and there was a display of fireworks.

THREATEN TO STRIKE.

BELFAST, April 23.—Six thousand shipbuilders threaten to strike unless they are paid by the week instead of fortnightly. It is expected that the masters will accede to their demands.

STARTING FOR CANADA.

DUBLIN, April 23.—M. Kilbride, one of the tenants who was evicted from Lord Lansdowne's estates, and who will accompany Mr. O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, on his lecturing tour in Canada has started for Queenstown, where he will meet Mr. O'Brien. The latter will leave London tonight for Queenstown.

ARRESTED ON FRENCH TERRITORY

PARIS, April 22.—Later despatches confirm the statement that Schnaebles was arrested on French territory. M. Flourens will await the result of a minute enquiry on the spot before demanding reparation from Germany for the arrest.

A SERIOUS MATTER.

PARIS, April 22.—The arrest of the French Commissary Schnaebeles, of Pagny-sur-Moselle, by the German police after he had been decoyed over the frontier, is regarded as a serious matter in official circles. M. Goblet, the Prime Minister, and M. Flourens, Minister, were in conference until midnight, for the purpose of determining what action to take in the matter, and they again met this morning to further consider the subject. The Paris says that the Government has demanded an explanation of the arrest from Germany. The French newspapers generally regard the occurrence as a direct provocation on Germany's part, and exhort the people to be calm and not to play Prince Bismarck's game.

THE KNIGHTS.

LONDON, April 22.—Adespatch from Rome to the Chronicle says: "The Vatican is renewing its efforts to induce the Rev. Dr. McGlynn, of New York, to come to Rome. The Pope's decision on the Knights of Labor question has displeased many of the reactionary Cardinals, who have signed a remonstrance addressed to the Holy See, maintaining that the Knights' organization contains all the elements of Socialism."

LANSDOWNE'S TENANTRY.

DUBLIN, April 24.—The trouble between Lord Lansdowne and his tenants has been settled.

O'BRIEN'S TRIP POSTPONED.

LONDON, April 24.—Mr. O'Brien has postponed his Canadian trip for a week pending the negotiation for a settlement between Lord Lansdowne and his tenants.

LAND AS A TRUST.

LONDON, April 23.—Mr. Chamberlain, speaking at Stoneway to-night, said that the land was the gift of the Almighty, and ought to be treated as a trust, not as an absolute possession by private owners. The trust was not fulfilled while the land did not provide substance for the greatest possible number of the people. He saw a gleam of hope from Gladstone's speech before the Eighty Club. Regarding the reunion of the Liberals, Gladstone said that proposals had been made to the Unionists to co-operate. Although they had not been made to him, Chamberlain rejoiced that they had been made at all. He was content to follow in the rear of those who would again fight by Gladstone's side in prosecution of the Liberal programme, but only on the condition that Gladstone either postpone the Irish question this session or meet the Unionist objections to his plans.

COMMERCIAL UNION.

Some of the principal Reform journals are strongly advocating commercial union with the United States. The effect that would result from such a suicidal policy was plainly described in the Ontario Legislature by Dr. McLaughlin, the Reform M. P. P. for West Durham. We quote from the Globe report, which make him speak as follows:—

"The speaker (Dr. McLaughlin) also warned the House against investing any portion of the proceeds of the sale of Upper Canada College in city property in the hope that that property would rise in value, because he thought it was not possible to tell what was going to happen. Commercial union with the United States was talked of, and if that was brought about the business of a wholesale city like Toronto would go down and property would depreciate. He advised the House to have a care.

"Do you think commercial union likely?" asked an hon. member.

"We never know what's going to happen," replied Dr. McLaughlin."

Toronto would not suffer alone, but every other city or town (Peterborough among them) where Canadian industries are now flourishing, would experience the same depreciation of property. And this loss we are invited to inflict upon ourselves by free-traders, who are willing to place themselves under a higher protective tariff, on the condition, however, that it is one that will protect foreign industries and close Canadian factories. The people of Canada, however, are not likely thus to injure themselves, even to gratify the desire of the Toronto Globe, the London Advertiser, and other Grit journals that desire to punish the manufacturers and mechanics for assisting in rejecting Mr. Blake and his friends as administrators of the affairs of Canada. The people of Canada prefer to maintain the value of their property, to manufacture their own goods, to make their own tariff, and to retain their connection with the British Empire.

Under pressure of the repeated protests of Mr. Meredith, the Premier reluctantly abandoned his proposed legislation to establish an indefinite number of little universities with power to grant theological degrees. He at length consented to restrict the privilege to cases where it already existed, or might hereafter be specially granted by the Legislature. He probably will not legislate specially for any body that does not threaten him with a solid vote against him if he refuses.

The Ottawa Free Press says that Mr. Mowat would not be guilty of nepotism. Our contemporary might ask the opinion of the Reform journal in Kingston as to Mr. Mowat's gross nepotism in that city.

ARCHBISHOP LYNCH'S LETTER.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—There is an anecdote of a body of students, Trinity College, Dublin, having caught a Bailiff in the precincts of the Alma Mater. They were using him rather roughly when old Jacky Banet, the Provost, came out of the hall shuffling across the square. Noticing the row he cried out, "Oh, boys, don't nail his ears to the pump," and they defiantly and rebelliously disobeyed his entreaty and command, and did nail the ears of the victim to the pump in the square. I was forcibly reminded of this old story on reading in the Examiner Bishop Lynch's letter to D. P. Cahill, particularly by the paragraph: "I beg to plead merciful consideration at your meeting for the representative in this country of Her Majesty the Queen of England, solely on account of the Sovereign authority he represents." This is a very enigmatical sentence and might bear a rendering which I am sure would be very painful to so eminently loyal and patriotic a citizen as Mr. D. P. Cahill and no doubt equally so to those of the National League associated with him.

I think the Archbishop owes the gentleman whom he addresses and his associates an apology for the "double entendre" conveyed in his letter. Something explanatory you know that might relieve people's minds of any suspicion that might be engendered. For you know some people are very suspicious—very—indeed.

Yours truly,
ANTI-HUMBUG.

Peterborough, April 20th, 1887.

The following is the letter of the Archbishop:—

St. Michael's Palace,
Toronto, April 16, 1887.

D. P. Cahill, Esq., Secretary I. N. L., Toronto:

Sir,—A higher order of spiritual duties prevents my attending your meeting to protest against the iniquity of the proposed Coercion Bill, introduced into Parliament by the policy of the present unfortunate Government, but I am heart and soul with the object of your present meeting. I have said a higher order of spiritual duty, for I deem it a spiritual duty to protest against injustice and the oppression of the poor. I beg to plead a merciful consideration at your meeting for the representative in this country of her Majesty the Queen of England, solely on account of the sovereign authority which he represents. Our Lord has said upon the chair of Moses sit the scribes and pharisees. "Do as they say, but do not do as they do." The appointment of this statesman was very unfortunate, for free and virtuous Canada had a right to expect a representative whose character and whose ancestry would not bring disgrace on her. The book of Sir Charles Russell, ex-Attorney-General, who examined that between landlord and tenant on the Lansdowne estates, has been published to the world, and reveals an appalling state of injustice and tyranny for generations. You are of course at liberty to expose the abominations of agents, and your charity will, I fear, be strained to its utmost limits in an effort to disassociate their crimes from those of their employers. Remember that the most criminal of them is the Government which, open-eyed, aids and abets the injustice towards the tenantry which its own act of Parliament judged condemnable. I am glad to find our excellent Legislature of Ontario entering also their protest in advance of yours. Nearly every Legislature in the United States has also protested. All English-speaking people should disown such tyranny and save themselves from any imputation or connivance, lest their silence might be interpreted into countenancing in the slightest degree tyranny and oppression which deprives people of their just rights. It is the duty of humanity of a higher moral order to protest against the evil actions of the lower grades, for there is a solidarity in human nature which presses the good to protect, if they can do nothing else, against wrong doing, wherever or by whosoever perpetrated. All the millions of Irish exiles spread throughout the world are raising their voices against the projected coercion, and against all the past crimes of the English Government in Ireland. It is true that there are some Irishmen who, from evil associations, are almost anti-Irish. These of course have little weight and deserve but little honor. This universal cry of regenerated humanity resounds against proud England, now low enough in the estimation of the civilized world. English rule in Ireland commenced in abetting and upholding the crime of adultery. The rest of the history may be summed up in penal laws against the rights of human society, their language and religion. Our country to-day stands the image of ruin and desolation. It is the most unfortunate country in Europe though renowned for its fertility and other natural advantages. The sighs and groans of millions of the Irish and of their children have ascended to heaven for over seven centuries, and a just retribution will certainly follow, and England may yet be brought to the condition of Ireland.

Desiring to give a practical expression to our sympathy for the unfortunate evicted we subscribe $50, wishing I could afford $5,000 to a fund which will be raised for their support.

Yours faithfully,
†John Joseph Lynch,
Archbishop of Toronto.

WILD GEESE.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—This morning I saw nine or ten wild geese flying over my garden; their course was not due N., but N. W. by N.

Their appearance on this day verifies the assertion of the naturalists that St. George's day is the day on which the flight of the migratory birds I saw this morning to the North Seas, perhaps even to the Pole itself, is usually observed.

It would be interesting to depict, in imagination, the wonderful scenes on which the eyes of those wild geese may rest, during the long, long Arctic days,—scenes, some of them, never yet unfolded to the longing sight of the most adventurous navigators,—ere they return Southward in the Fall.

V. C.

Peterborough, St. George's Day, 1887.

Just received at Turnbull's a fresh shipment of scarce shades in dress goods. Everybody visiting the Dress Goods Department is suprised at the variety in shades, and are more than pleased at the prices.

WAKE UP! WAKE UP!

All You High Price Would-be Clothiers.

GOUGH, the WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN RINGS OUT HIS ALARM BELL TO YOU

THIS WEEK he is going to hurl a tirade of prices at you that will besiege his place of business with anxious buyers, and break you all up. Our three flats are packed with NEW GOODS, ☞ and we can show MORE CLOTHING THAN THE WHOLE KIT OF YOU COMBINED, including the tail end of a few Dry Goods Stores that carry a few shoddy Suits. Energy will tell, and the people appreciate it. ☞ Our Business is not on paper; it is a reality, and the result of long, patient study and hard work.

READ, YOU BABY CLOTHIERS, WHAT THE CLOTHIER OF THE AGE IS GOING TO DO FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS, AND WHEN YOU READ, REFLECT, AND WHEN YOU REFLECT, COME AND BUY FROM HIM, FOR YOU CANNOT BUY FROM ANY WHOLESALE HOUSE IN CANADA AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES

LOT 1.—Mens Blue Serge Suits for $3.50, not, mark you, old faded out brown shoddy serge, such as you can buy elsewhere for $3.75, but a pure Indigo dye, warranted fast color, and to cost you $8.00 from any other dealer.

LOT 2.—Mens All Wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $4.00. This is a beautiful black and brown check, trimmed with a silk serge lining, and the lowest wholesale price of it is guaranteed to be $6.50. We show a dozen different patterns in this line to select from.

LOT 3.—Mens West of England and Scotch Tweed Suits at $5.50, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00. Are made and trimmed equal to custom work, and if made to order would cost you from $15.00 to $22.00. With this line of goods we throw you in 10 yards of Embroidery and one pair of Corsets. Such goods are too trifling for the Wonderful Cheap Man to sell, and are assigned to his gift Department.

LOT 4.—Mens Fine French Worsted Suits for $10.00 and $12.00, not backed goods, but pure worsted, worth $25.00 made to order. We have thousands of these goods to select from.

LOT 5.—Boys Suits from 98 cents per suit up. We really cannot afford anything out of our gift Department with this suit, but to make it interesting, and not disappoint the boy, we will throw in a Cap.

In Our HAT and CAP Department we sell a Fine Soft Felt Hat for 20 cents worth 80 cents, and a Fine Stiff Felt Hat, newest Style, for 75 cents worth $1.50.

In Our Furnishing GOODS and BOOT Department, suffice to say we stand unique, and are almost giving them away, if you doubt it, call and see if we dont give you something handsome without effecting your pocket. Workingmen try a pair of our 50 cent Cottonade pants, they are worth $1.00.

WE WANT THE WHOLE COUNTRY

To come and see what we are doing, therefore I WILL PAY RAILROAD FARE within a radius of 100 Miles of Peterborough to every person coming to Peterborough and purchasing $10 worth of Goods or upwards from me.

Remember, I have Removed from the old store in the Arcade Buildings, under the Opera House, and I am now located in the Store formerly known as the BON MARCHE. You cannot mistake my place. There are Four Life-size signs on front of Building, and see the name COUGH, the Clothier, above them. Be not deceived by any catch-penny clothiers, but go straight to COUGH, the Terror to High-Price Clothiers, George Street, Peterborough.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d90

Twenty cents will buy a pair of Ladies Fine Shaped Hose in Black, at Turnbull's. Remember his Heavy Knickerbockers for Boys in all the best shades.

Mr Norquay's bill empowering the Manitoba Government to build a railway to the boundary provides for the issue of one million dollars of provincial bonds for its construction.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

The Irish Question — The Law of Libel — Parliament Buildings — Separate Schools — Government House Expenses — Immigration — Colonization Roads.

THE FACTORIES ACT.

THURSDAY, April 21.—The bill to amend the Factories Act received its third reading and other bills were advanced a stage.

THE LIBEL LAW.

Mr. BALFOUR moved the second reading of the bill to amend the law of libel.

Mr. MOWAT saw no objection to the bill, the details of which could be settled in Committee.

The bill was read the second time and referred to a special committee.

SLAUGHTERED.

A number of bills were discharged, including Mr. Stratton's to amend the Division Courts Act.

ADVANCED.

Several bills were advanced a stage and others received their final reading.

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

The resolutions to increase the appropriations for new Parliament buildings to $1,050,000 were considered in committee and reported and a bill founded on them was read a second time.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

On the bill respecting Separate School debentures.

Mr. MEREDITH moved an amendment to this bill to remove doubt as to the construction of the law in regard to a person having to give written notice before being rated as a Separate school supporter. The amendment was as follows:—

"It shall be open to the appellant to contend that any person entered on the assessment rolls as a Separate school supporter, in respect of whom the appeal has been taken, has not given the notice required by sec. 44 of 49 Victoria, 'an Act respecting Separate Schools.' And if it shall appear that such notice has not been given the appeal shall be allowed, and the name of such person shall be transferred to the column for public schools."

Mr. MOWAT held that that was the law at present.

After further discussion the amendment was lost and the bill reported.

GOVERNMENT BILLS.

Several Government bills were passed through committee and others read the third time.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

Mr. MARTER, on concurrence of supply, moved an amendment on the item for Government House that no further expenditure should be incurred by the Province for the maintenance of Government House.

Mr. WOOD (Hastings) ridiculed the pomp and glitter connected with the office and other ceremonies.

Mr. MOWAT opposed the motion.

Mr. FRASER moved in amendment expressing the trust that proper economy would be exercised.

Mr. MEREDITH advocated more simplicity in the opening and closing ceremonies, but would vote for the amendment.

The amendment was carried by 64 to 17.

Mr. E. F. CLARKE moved the allowance for private secretary for the Lieutenant-Governor be struck out.—Lost.

IMMIGRATION.

On the resolution appropriating $16,900 for immigration, Mr. Meredith called for the yeas and nays, and the resolution was carried by a vote of 51 to 36. Four Reformers voted with the Opposition, but Messrs. Stratton and Blezard voted for the appropriation.

COLONIZATION ROADS.

Mr. MARTER moved that were municipal organizations exist colonization money be expended by them.

Mr. CONMEE moved an amendment approving of the Government course.

Mr. BLEZARD said that many Conservatives in the new districts of Peterborough approved of the Government system, and that the outcome of the expenditure under Government control had been much more satisfactory than when expended by municipal councils.

After further discussion Mr. Conmee's amendment was carried by 55 to 33.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES.

The supplementary estimates were presented, amounting to $105,063.95.

The House adjourned.

PRIVATE BILLS.

FRIDAY, April 22.—A number of private bills were read the third time.

INCOME ASSESSMENT.

On motion of the third reading of Mr. Gibson's (Hamilton) bill to amend the Assessment Act,

Mr. FRENCH moved that the clause increasing the exemptions on income to $700 be struck out.

The motion was lost by 23 to 59, Mr. Blezard voting for it and Mr. Stratton against it. The bill then received its third reading.

THE MEDICAL ACT.

When the third reading of the Ontario Medical Act was moved,

Mr. CRAIG moved an amendment that the curriculum for matriculation should be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

The amendment was lost by 7 to 77, and the bill was read the third time.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES.

The supplementary estimates were passed through committee. Messrs. Creighton and H. E. Clarke objected to the refunding of $8,000, amount of cheque forfeited re the tender of Brown & Love, for new Provincial buildings, urging that it would form a dangerous precedent in the future.

YORK SHRIEVALTY.

On the third reading of the bill for further improving the law,

Mr. MEREDITH moved an amendment against dividing the Shrievalty of York and for returning a portion of the fees to the County and City of Toronto.

Mr. MOWAT opposed the amendment, which was lost by a vote of 31 to 51. The bill was read the third time, as were also a couple of other bills.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

On the third reading of the bill respecting Separate school debentures,

Mr. MEREDITH moved the amendment which he had moved in committee on the previous day.

The amendment was lost by a vote of 30 to 55, and the bill was read the third time.

LAW OF LIBEL.

Mr. BALFOUR'S bill respecting the libel law was passed through committee of the whole, as were two other bills.

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE.

The bill respecting the income and property of the University of Toronto, University College and Upper Canada College was passed through committee.

THE FEDERATION BILL.

Mr. G. W. ROSS moved the third reading of the College Federation Bill.

Mr. MEREDITH asked if an opportunity would be afforded the Bishops of the Church of England to appear at the bar of the House in regard to the provision giving affiliating college power to confer degrees in divinity.

Mr. MOWAT said such a thing had not been done since confederation. Mr. Meredith was able to state the case for the Bishops.

Mr MEREDITH said that in that provision they were asked to delegate their powers as a Legislature to a body over which the Legislature had no control. He dealt with the subject at length. The question involved the right of every denomination to regulate its own internal affairs.

Mr. MOWAT objected to some of Mr. Meredith's arguments. It would we impossible to hear the Bishops at the bar of the House. No one could state the case more able or eloquently than Mr. Meredith had done.

Mr. MEREDITH moved an amendment limiting the power to those already possessing the right to confer degrees.

Mr. G. W. ROSS, after recess, moved an amendment similar to Mr. Meredith's, which was adopted.

THIRD READINGS.

The bill to amend the Municipal Act and to provide for the enforcement of temperance laws were read the thire time.

IRISH QUESTIONS.

Mr. MOWAT moved:—Resolved, that the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, representing upwards of two millions of her Majesty's Canadian subjects, feel deep interest in all that conce the well-being of every part of the ish Empire, of which we rejoice that o ro-vince forms part.

That the people of this province are chiefly, though not wholly, of British birth or origin; that a considerable portion of them are Irish, or the children of Irishmen, and live in the utmost harmony with their fellow subjects of every nationality, sharing in the general prosperity which the province enjoys under a constitution granted by the Imperial Parliament at the request of the Canadian people, and securing all the local self-government which at the time was desired.

That we regard with the deepest sorrow the distress and discontent which have long prevailed in Ireland, and which present a marked contrast with the prosperity and contentment of the Irish people in this province and elsewhere.

That, alive from our own experiences to the advantage of Home Rule, we hailed with joy the introduction last year into the British House of Commons of a measure which recognized the principles of local self-government for Ireland, and we hope that the bill, with such improvements in details as discussion should suggest and the wisdom of Parliament devise, might afford a settlement of long-existing difficulties, and promote the unity, happiness and prosperity of the Empire.

That we observe with regret that, in the first session of the new Parliament, instead of a measure granting to Ireland the desired boon of local self-government, from which so much good was reasonably to be expected, there has been submitted to the House a stringent Coercion bill, which further exasperates the great majority of the Irish people everywhere.

That we desire to place on record our profound sympathy with the efforts made to find a remedy for miseries and evils long endured, and to express our earnest hope that such a measure of local self-government may soon be granted as, while preserving the integrity of the Empire and all the just rights of the minority, may at the same time be satisfactory to the Irish people, and permanently remove discontent, and so far as may still be possible, its causes.

He argued that the British government of Ireland had been entirely inadequate and that other means might be resorted to to restore contentment. The Irish ought to have the same measure of Home Rule as they in Ontario enjoyed, and they would then be as happy and content as the Irish in Canada. (Applause.) He said the resolutions had been couched in temperance language in the hope that the House might vote unanimously for them. (Applause.)

Mr. E. F. CLARKE said that he did not desire to make political capital, which seemed to be the sole motive of the promoters of these resolutions. This Legislature should not offer advice till it was asked for. He referred to Mr. Gladstone's snub to the Dominion Parliament, and said that he was opposed to coercion, but the Crimes Act was directly against crime. He read extracts to show necessity for the bill, and also from utterances of Home Rulers to show that they desired entire seperation from England.

Mr. STRATTON gave the names of many Protestants who had advocated Home Rule for Ireland. He commented upon the provisions of the Crimes bill, and contented that it did not give British fair play to the Irish people.

Mr. METCALFE supported the resolutions in a humorous speech.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Awrey, French, Evanturel, H. E. Clark, Conmee, Craig, O'Connor, White, Wood (Hastings), Meredith and Fraser.

Mr. MEREDITH objected to the resolution passing, the sole object of which was a political purpose. The Government never proposed such a resolution when the Home Rule cause was weak. Last session the Government took the ground that they had no right to express an opinion on a Dominion matter, but now they dropped that position. He was in favour of a large measure of Home Rule for Ireland with safeguards for the rights of the minority and recognized that in the past Ireland had suffered from mis-rule. It was not, he argued, fitting that this House should be called on to express an opinion. It would be a craven act if for fear of Fenian raids the House passed such a resolution. He hoped the day would soon come when the clouds which had obscured the prospects of Ireland would be dissipated, and that a measure of self-government which would be satisfactory to all the people of Ireland, and which would re-unite them, would be granted.

Mr. Fraser replied and the amendment was carried on the following division:—

YEAS—Allan Awrey, Balfour, Ballantyne, Bishop, Blezard, Blyth, Chamberlain, Chisholm, Clancy, Clarke (Wellington), Conmee, Dack, Drury, Dryden, Evanturel, Ferguson, Field, Fraser, Freeman, Garson, Gibson, (Hamilton), Gibson (Huron), Gilmour, Gould, Graham, Guthrie, Harcourt, Hardy, Hilliard, Ingram, Leys, McAndrew, McLaughlin, McMahon, Mack, Master, Metcalfe, Morin, Mowat, Murray, Nairn, O'Connor, Pacaud, Pardee, Phelps, Rayside, Robillard, Ross (Huron), Ross (Middlesex), Smith, Snyder, Sprague, Stratton, Waters, Widdifield, Willoughby, Wood (Brant)—59.

NAYS—Armstrong, Biggar, Clarke, E. F. (Toronto), Clarke, H. E. (Toronto), Craig, Creighton, Cruess, Fell, French, Hammell, Hess, Hudson, Kerns, Lees, Marter, Meacham, Meredith, Miller, Monk, Morgan, Ostrom, Preston, Rorke, Stewart, Tooley, Wilmot, Wood (Hastings), Wylie—28.

The motion as amended was then adopted on the same division.

The Government side then gave three cheers for Home Rule, which was responded to by the Opposition with three cheers for the Queen.

First Appearance in this City of that World-Famous Indescribable Phenomen

MISS ANNA EVA FAY

And her Company of Eminent English Mediums, in

SPIRITUALISM.

BELSHAZZAR'S WRITING.

MISS FAY has just returned from an extended tour of Europe, and will on this occasion present an entire new line of manifestations never before seen in Peterborough, and in the FULL ELECTRIC LIGHT! NO CABINET USED WHATEVER! MISS FAY is positively the only lady in the world who has the indorsement of the Royal Scientific Society of London, England, they having for three months tested her in every conceivable way that ingenuity could suggest, and at the finish of this investigation presenting her with a parchment certificate to the effect that the illustrations given in their presence were beyond human aid. Such scientists as Profs. Crooks, Huxley, Varley, Tyndall, Sargent, Cox, and the Duke of Edinburg indorse her. Some claimed odic force, some electricity or magnetism, and still others supernatural powers. MISS FAY calls it Spiritualism; you may call it what you may. Forms, hands and faces will be seen so plainly as to be recognized by persons in the audience.

The Spirit Carpenter! The Self-Acting Knife! Tables will Float in Mid-Air! The Spirit Hand will Answer Every Question.

Twenty to thirty communications will be received for the people in the audience. Beautiful flowers will be received for the ladies, and many other tests of remarkable power never before witnessed in any seance of America.

General Admission 15 and 25 cents. Reserved seats 10 cents extra. For sale at Hartley's Music Store.

THE SCHNAEBELES AFFAIR.

All Europe Excited Over It—An Explanation Expected.

PARIS, April 24.—It is believed at the foreign office that Germany will satisfactorily explain the Schnaebeles affair and disown any hostile intention. The incident was probably due to excess of zeal on the part of some subordinate German officials.

PARIS, April 23.—The German Charge D'Affaires has informed M. Flourens that Germany has not yet definitely ascertained the ground of M. Schnaebeles arrest, except that it was effected by virtue of a judicial decree. He, however, reserves the right to examine the question in concord with the French Government. There is a tremendous latent excitement here over the Schnaebeles affair. The general opinion is that Prince Bismarck wants to create a situation which will render war inevitable.

LONDON April 23.—The French Government has ascertained that Mr. Schnaebeles was arrested on German soil. The reports of the German police are to the same effect.

LONDON, April 23.—The Schnaebeles affair is exciting the whole of Europe, and causing much anxiety as to the consequences. The reports of the incident are still contradictory. The French Government is proceeding with the utmost circumspection. A full enquiry will be made into Mr. Schnaebeles' character and doings. He has held the appointment since the Franco-German War, and a majority state that he has been a model official and has never failed to use tact and judgement in every emergency.

PARIS, April 23.—The Nancy procurers' official report of the Schnaebeles outrage states that M. Schnaebeles advanced a few steps across the frontier and met an individual with whom he began to converse, when a policeman in disguise seized him. An assistant of the policeman then rushed out of ambush and a desperate struggle ensued. Schnaebeles succeeded in escaping from his captors and crossed the French territory, but his assailants pursued him and dragged him back despite his protests. They then bound him and forcibly led him away to prison. It is reported that Prince Bismarck, in the course of a speech yesterday, said that it was impossible to foresee whether the bellicose French people, who used to make an onslaught on Germany three or four times every century, would keep or break the Frankfort treaty.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

OVER WORKED Women

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. The funeral of the late Joseph Newbold took place on Sunday. The Masonic fraternity attended the funeral of the late brother in a body. The was a large number in attendance.

Lacrosse.

The clubs which have united with the new Canadian Lacrosse Association have been divided into districts. There are no set dates for matches, but challenges may pass and the two leading clubs play off at the end of the season. The Central District is composed of the following clubs:—Orillia, jr., Orillia; Riverside, Peterborough; Stouffville, Stouffville; Acme, Toronto; Independents, Toronto; University, Toronto; Tecumseth, Toronto; Meaford, Meaford.

Found at Last.

A much respected, in fact one of the most respectable citizens of Peterborough has found at last the man who in any case can produce the article he advertises. Yesterday he went all through the Great Cheapside, and in looking up the many lines advertised at such unheard of prices, was thoroughly convinced that Sheppard was fulfilling to the letter all that he had advertised. The choice of 5 Button Kid Gloves in black and colors at 50c., the six inch wide Embroidery at 15c., the all wool Black Cashmere at 25c., the nice assortment of cold Dress Goods at 10c., Tapestry Carpet commencing at 25c. and Brussels and all wool at 95c., sold elsewhere at $1.25 was a matter of considerable surprise to him, but when shown the rich Seal Brown Suit in boys at $1.92 and men's at $3.95 it simply eclipsed anything he had ever seen, and said he would advise his many friends to go straight to Sheppard's for good goods cheap.

The Sensation.

Considerable interest seems to be manifested by the citizens about the appearance at the Opera House to-morrow evening of the world famous materializing medium, Miss Anna Eva Fay, of London, England, and her company of Eminent Mediums. Miss Fay drew one of the largest houses of the season at the Grand Opera House, in Toronto, on Saturday, the 16th, and gave excellent satisfaction. The press of Toronto are unanimous in her praise, and it is by request that she has decided to make a tour in Canada before going to Philadelphia to fill an engagement at the Academy of Music, previous to leaving for England and Australia. Miss Fay has been endorsed by the Royal Scientific Society, of London, England, and also by the most eminent scientists in the world. Her performance is pronounced everywhere as being marvellous. The Toronto World says:—"The Grand Opera House was crowded on Saturday to witness the feats of spiritualism performed by Miss Ama Eva Fay, the celebrated English medium. Miss Fay's methods were most startling and elusive and the committee men were more mystified than the audience. The medium's performance must be seen to be appreciated. The dramatic critic is at a loss to properly describe it." As this will positively be Miss Fay's only appearance here all should avail themselves of this opportunity of witnessing this marvellous performance.

ODDFELLOWS' SERMON.

PREACHED BY THE REV. I. TOVELL IN THE GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The Organization Commended—The Good Work Done and How to Continue With Widening Success—Friendship, Love and Truth "Their Golden Links."

The Oddfellows of Peterborough celebrated the 69th anniversary of the establishing of Oddfellowship in America by attending service at the George Street Methodist Church in a body on Sunday evening. The members of the Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges and the Mount Hebron Encampment were out in full numbers, there being upwards of two hundred in the procession as it marched to the church.

The Rev I. Tovell preached the sermon taking his text from Galatians v, 13th verse—"By love serve one another." These words, he said, were simple, plain words They were easy to be understood. It needed not the skill of the commentator to make them understandable, Their practical import was apparent at the first reading "By love serve one another." And yet, though simple, they were like the sunbeam—complex, when passed through the prisim of human experience of everyday life. The elements composing it were found to be pureness, long suffering, gentleness, kindness. There was enough warmth and brightness in it to turn the winter of human life into summer joys, and the darkness of sorrow and despondency

INTO PERENNIAL DAY.

The apostle addressed these words to a company of oddfellows, not in the modern respected sense of the term, but in the sense of this people being peculiar—peculiar in life and hopes and work. They had faith in Christ and their hopes extended to eternity Their peculiar belief subjected them to persecutions. The words of the apostle coming to them at this time was as cement, binding them together—by love serve one another. Such words as these were applicable to the whole brotherhood represented here to-night, and wider still, they were applicable to the whole brotherhood of man. It was true of every man, whether admitted or not, that we are poor and needy, and that if the services of others is denied us our lives must be miserable in this life. We need help every day. No man can live wholly unto himself. None can be independent. We are woven together unto one fabric and every thread conduces to the strength of the whole piece. In this life every man must help to support his brother. From the cradle to the grave we are depending for our success on others. See: I begin life, with dependence upon a mother's love and care. Boyhood came and with it a desire to learn. A teacher was needed. The teacher came. Manhood overtook me and my dependence multiplied. I needed a train to carry me to distant parts—an engine driver, a brakeman, a conductor. I needed a telegraph operator to flash messages of love to distant friends, I needed a printer to give me the daily news. To build a comfortable home, I needed a mason, a carpenter, a painter; then a furniture manufacturer a carpet merchant, an artist, a bookmaker, a wheat producer, a wheat grinder and a bread maker. Dependence runs along parallel with the story of my life. The law of dependence

SEEMED TO REIGN EVERYWHERE.

Not only in the family of man, but in the other realms this law prevailed. The vegetable was indebted to the soil for nutriment, the valley looked to the hills for refreshing rivers, and if it were not that the ocean sent its cloud cars laden with many waters the great mountain forests would wither and die. Even mother earth was not able to hold herself up alone, but was sustained by gravitation's strong arm. Great men, too, stood not alone. They looked for comforting words to those below them. Even Jesus needed the sympathetic watchers when he entered the garden of sorrow. After speaking how each could be strength to the other by giving cheering words in despondency, and by rendering material aid in time of need he asked whether it was good to assist each other in the worldly point of view—to give financial aid? It was said that such help was fraught with danger to the higher interest. Humility was sometimes destroyed by the acquisition of wealth, and as humility was one of the finest graces nothing should be done to impair it. Once a congregation had a good and humble preacher. The church managers wanted to keep him in this delightful frame of mind. They said that if being poor would keep him humble they would look out and keep him poor. Alas! this spirit entered other walks of life. He believed in every legitimate way of multiplying and distributing the comforts of life. He repeated that he believed in every legitimate way of multiplying and distributing the ordinary temporal comforts of life. Increase of wages of the employees should follow a prosperous business or at least bequests in recognition of valuable labor. There should be no quarrels between capital and labor. Each should in turn reward the other. Let not wealth be hoarded or spent in luxurious living, or evil must follow. As water is taken up to the coulds and sent back to refresh the earth so must capital return to refresh social, intellectual an spiritual life and if it does not there must be painful results. He believed in giving an industrious brother help at all times when needed. Then there was the deserving poor—poor that cannot toil. They were to be remembered. We could not be too considerate in ministering to their wants. What a beautiful thing it would be if Dives had taken Lazarus from his gate, brought him into the garden and seated him beneath a trellis loaded with luscious grapes, there in the sight of

FOUNTAINS SILVERED IN THE SUNLIGHT;

then to have brought him edibles to tempt his appetite; then to bring the players of harp and psaltry before him to soothe him to forgetfulness of his weariness. It might have quenched the fires of hell! But Dives neglected his opportunity. Rich men, see to it that history does not repeat itself! He spoke of the energy with which the early Christians labored in ministrations of love to the poor, concluding with saying that that man who turned his back on a subscription book circulated in the interests of the poor—that man's piety was sickly. Speaking of the members of the Order before him, he said he was not going to praise them unduly. And yet the amount of good work done by that Order excited his wonder and admiration. He could not withhold his praise of an organization which every hour in the day poured $500 into the lap of distress; which every week gave $6,000 to the afflicted; which gave $2,000,000 a year to relieve those who had a claim on the sympathies and affections of the brotherhood. Such a record as this commands admiration. He had spoken of temporal assistance. He now came to speak of the

MUTUAL MORAL ENRICHMENT

of the brotherhood. He urged the brethren to apply themselves to acquiring sterling qualities of character, and of mutual help to gain them. It was important to put a fence round a garden, but more important still was it to plant that garden with fruit trees to raise beautiful fruits. The more important was it to raise up mankind to a higher level; to inculcate the beauties of virtue; to save men from the depths of degradation; to help on the great moral reforms; to encourage temperance and social purity; to lead our brother away from that which threatens his ruin; to scatter the shadows of ignorance; to awaken healthful moral life. These were the missions of the world's best energies. And yet higher still was the helping of our brothers in spiritual things; to enlighten their dark pathway; to hedge them about with legislation so that it will be difficult for them to do wrong and easy to do right; to encourage moral habits; and one step higher, to bring them to the knowledge of the Christ, and of His power to save. There is good to be done, people say, but where is my sphere? Everywhere. Everyone could have a mission in the secluded walks of life. He cautioned his hearers against the danger of being ambitious, and the danger of giving up because their efforts were not crowned with so great success as some. He attached great importance to reminding the people that it was the work of millions of sparkling dew drops to refresh, and re-refresh the vegetation, and that continuous dew did more good than the occasional burst of a thunder storm. Our sphere was everywhere; our mission to do something and to be always at it. He advised beginning at home, a very secluded spot. There were boys and girls to watch and train, to be surrounded with Christain influences. Bye and bye when the time came for entering the world these boys and girls would step out from such homes firm in moral strength, beautiful in symmetery, and a joy to society. Serve one another in the home—in the home. He urged them to serve each other in all places and at all times. Speaking of the order of Oddfellows he said that he was at a disadvantage, being an outsider. He was a member of no organization save the Dominion of Canada, the British Empire and the Methodist Church. And yet he knew something of the Order. They were not anxious that the public should know of their works, but they did not wish to conceal them. From what he knew of their constitution he concluded that friendship, love and truth were the

LITTLE GOOD WORKS,

THREE GOLDEN LINKS

which bound the brethren together. He commended these qualities as being in harmony with the teachings of the scriptures. He agreed with Dr. Talmage that the church should foster such societies as Oddfellows, Free Masons and other societies, which were not antagonistic to the teachings of Christ, but who sought to give speaial attention to some of Christ's commands. He expressed his unfeigned approbation of those who had joined hands with the one purpose of caring for the widow, educating the orphan and helping each other. To-day when he stood by and heard the beautiful liturgy of one of these societies being read at the funeral of one old and respected citizen who just passed away he could not help thinking that there was good in such a brotherhood. But that friendship for each other would be made sweeter and more perfect if strengthened by the love of Chris; that love would be made stronger and purer if linked with Christ's love; and that truth to one another truer still if instilled in the truth of Christ.

After the service the brethren formed in a procession and marched back to their respective lodge rooms.

NOTES.

The church was filled as it has not been since the Schivere revival.

The Otonabee brethren wore handsome new badges.

The streets both before and after the service were filled with people to see the procession.

Nihilism in Chicago.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A Chicago despatch says the formal dissolution of the Anarchistic societies of Chicago was witnessed yesterday, and it marks the inauguration of a system of Nihilism that must eventually work great danger to the community. Public meetings at which "the brawling reds" preached riot and destruction have been voted ineffective. In their stead the foreign-born malcontents have decided to adopt the secret stratagism of their Russian and German colleagues.

THE SELECTIONS CONTROVERSY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The Rev. Mr. Bell, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, not satisfied with prostituting the pulpit of that church by delivering political addresses on the Sabbath, garbling public documents, and misrepresenting the acts of leading clergymen of the Protestant denominations, now rushes into print and attacks me in a most unchristian spirit for having the courage to expose him. Had he acted under the advice given in one of my letters to him, he would have pursued a different course. Mr. Bell says, I am not a gentleman, because I refused to withdraw the statements I made at the School Board. I believed then, and do now believe every statement made by me to be true, and for that reason refused to say what was untrue either at the request or dictation of the pastor of St. Andrew's Church. I am rather pleased to know that Mr. Bell does not consider me a gentleman, for our opinions are just as different on what constitutes a gentleman as they are on the subject under discussion. If, after passing through the universities of the Mother Land, and being polished up by so many learned professors, he considers it a gentlemanly act to publish private correspondence without asking permission of the writer, then what a rough specimen of humanity he must have been when in his crude state. Mr. Bell also accuses me of being wanting in courage. That is one thing my bitterest enemy will not say against me. What troubles his lordship is that I had the courage to show him up in his true colors. In my first letter did I not answer him in such plain English that there could be no doubt of my meaning? And I reiterate every word I have said and if that is not satisfactory, and he will suggest any plainer or stronger language, I will accommodate by using it. In my second letter did I not refuse to withdraw the statements made and tell him to "shape his course" as he thought best, and could any man ask more advantage than that? If he has chosen the newspaper, then I hope he is satisfied; if so, he is easily pleased. Mr. Bell says I have libelled him, if so he knows where to ask for redress. He has chosen one battle ground. I have no objection to giving him a second choice, and if his honor is not satisfied then I will not object to giving him a third. Mr Bell says I have, or could have got, all the documents in connection with this discussion. Yes, I have the documents, and it was because I carefully studied them that I was able to detect him in his garbling. No man in this country would resist the encroachments of the Church of Rome, or any other Church, on our public institutions more determinedly than I would, but at the same time I would not deny my Roman Catholic countrymen any privilege I enjoy. I wish Canada to be the freest country in the world and have all men placed on equal footing, no matter how they may see fit to worship their God. Why did not Mr. Bell tell his hearers that the school law gave the clergymen of all denominations time each week to give religious instruction to the children in the schools, and that although his residence is only a few hundred yards from one of the schools in Peterborough yet he does not avail himself of that privilege. It cannot be that his duties are so great in visiting the families in connection with his small congregation that it is impossible for him to spare the time. Compare his actions with that of the Minister of Education with whom he finds so much fault; notwithstanding all his duties as head of the most important department in the Ontario Government, he goes from Toronto to Strathroy every week to teach his Bible-class. Look at the consistency of this gentleman in attacking the scripture selections. Did he not for a long period prepare scripture selections for the Peterborough schools? And is it not likely we would never have heard a word about scripture selections had he been chosen a member of the committee to prepare them.

What a pitiful sight it is to see a gentleman of Mr. Bell's ability and education and pastor of a church floundering in the manner he is in endeavouring to extricate himself from the humiliating position he placed himself on account of his belief that party exigencies demanded the delivery of a political address on the Sabbath. Mr. Bell claims that he has not been behind the scenes and leaves the impression that politicians cannot be honest. Well, I hold a different view. I think a politician can be as good a Christian as a clergyman, and I am willing he should consider me a politician of twenty year's standing and himself a clergyman of twenty years and then leave the public to judge by the correspondence which has passed between us, which has shown the most Christian spirit—the politician or the pastor of St. Andrew's Church.

Yours truly,

J. B. McWILLIAMS.

Peterborough, 26th April, 1887.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

The Home Rule and Coercion Debate—Another Amendment Offered—North West Senate Representation.

FRIDAY, April 22.—A number of private bills were introduced, and the time for presenting private bills was extended to May 20.

SENATORS FOR N. W.

SIR. JOHN MACDONALD introduced a bill for the representation of the North West Territory by two Senators.

Mr. BLAKE protested that it was unauthorized and unconstitutional.

Sir J. MACDONALD thought Mr. Blake could not have read the Act authorising it.

HOME RULE.

Mr. LAURIER resumed the Home Rule debate arguing that the House was sufficiently informed to choose between government by coercion and freedom. He argued that the proper way to remove crime was to remove temptation to crime and that there was never rebellion without a moving cause. Demagogues would have no power unless there were grievances. If the Irish people were trusted as the Canadians had been trusted there would be peace.

Mr. LANDERKIN attacked the Conservatives for their former dealings with the Home Rule question, in a bitterly partizan speech.

Mr. BLAKE wanted to hear from the Ministry for the guidance of the House. Though he held we had a right to express an opinion, he would like to have done Mr. Carran's resolution so as to make it a request and hope instead of protest. He also objected to the clause as to Ireland having similar powers to Canada, as it was not wise to try to define the legislation of the British Parliament. He wanted a committee of the whole House to prepare unanimous resolutions. As he had voted in the past for Home Rule so he would now even if the resolutions were not amended. He condemned the crimes bill for making new crimes, giving too large powers to magistrates and taking prisoners across the channel for trial. The charge against Parnell he thought unworthy of belief. The proposed visit of O'Brien should not be allowed to influence them though he disapproved of it. We should do what we could to avert evil from another portion of the Empire and to promote their good.

Mr. COSTIGAN advised Mr. Curran not to accept any amendment that would weaken his resolutions. He defended the Irish people from accusations of criminality. Referring to his motion last session he showed it was well calculated to further the cause of Home Rule and that it was so accepted by those especially interested.

Mr. MCMULLEN and Mr. COURSOL spoke in favor of the resolution.

Mr. MCCARTHY said the Parliament of Canada had repeatedly pronounced in favor of Home Rule in Ireland, but that was very different from pronouncing upon measures now before the British Parliament, an interference which we would not tolerate ourselves. Besides we did not possess such full knowledge as would justify us in forming an oppinion of the Crimes Bill. Mr. Blake had especially denounced the creation of new crimes and trial by magistrates, not by jury. Yet Mr. Blake in connection with the Grand Trunk strikes had brought in a bill in which he had created new crimes, had made breaking a civil contract a crime, with trial not by a jury but by two magistrates. Our own statutes provided for enquiries into crime when no individual was accused, for charge of venue, and under the Scott Act for imprisonment for six months by two magistrates. Yet we were asked to say that the British Parliament must not pass such laws. He denounced the mission of O'Brien to attack the Governor-General. As to the laws affecting tenants they were more rigorous in Canada that in Ireland. While Mr. Parnell chose to submit to the charges of the London Times without taking any steps to clear himself, and punish any libel against him, he could not vote for sending him copies of their resolutions. He moved an amendment to the amendment as follows:—

"That this House, while justly jealous of any interference in the local affairs of Canada within the juridiction of this Parliament or of the legislative assembly of the seven provinces in the Dominion, either by the Imperial Parliament or other legislative body of the British Empire, cannot without inviting such interference fail to recognize it as within the exclusive right of the Imperial Parliament to legislate respecting matters solely pertaining to the domestic affairs of the United Kingdom, than which none can be more absolutely of local concern than the due and proper administration of the law within the bounds of Great Britain and Ireland.

Resolve, therefore, that it is inexpedient and unwise for this House to express an opinion or in any wise interfere with the Imperial Parliament as to the course that be adopted by it respecting the bill now before the House of Commons for the amendment of the criminal law and procedure in Ireland."

Mr. CLAYES supported the resolution. He thought it was Mr. McCarthy's heart not his head that was at fault.

Mr. DAVIN commenced to give his views on the question.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD suggested that as the hour was late and other members wished to speak, the debate should be adjourned till Monday at 3 o'clock.

Misses button boots at Kidd's for 80 cent a pair.

Anticosti Cable Broken.

QUEBEC, April 25.—News has just been received at the Signal Bureau here that the cable connecting the island of Anticosti with the mainland has parted. The length of the cable is thirty eight miles. Mr. McHugh, superintendent of the signal service, states that the cable will not likely be repaired for sometime owing to the heavy drift ice. The break is thought to be near the shore. This accident will cause great inconvenience to the shipping trade as in case of a wreck no intelligence can be received, when at this season there is so much danger in the gulf.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

SCHAEBELES IN PRISON.

BERLIN, April 25.—M. Schnaebeles was visited in prison at Metz on Saturday by his wife and son. They were allowed to converse through the bars in German for 25 minutes. They were stopped by the warden when they began to talk of the arrest. The authorities handed to the wife the articles found in Schnaebeles' pockets. It is reported in some quarters that it was with the object of securing his pocketbook and other papers containing memoranda useful to Germany that the arrest of Schnaebeles was ordered. Schnaebeles is a Knight of the Legion of Honor. He refused a high German office in 1870 and was immediately expelled from Germany.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER.

PARIS, April 25.—In the office of Commissary Schnaebeles there has been found a letter from Commissary Gautsch, addressed to M. Schnaebeles, and written last Tuesday. It begins: "My dear colleague," and says: "I have a communication to make to you which concerns neither the French nor the German Government, but to make it we must be alone, and if you think fit we can profit by a blown down frontier pole to talk there."

THE ABSORBING TOPIC.

BERLIN, April 25.—The incident of the arrest of Commissary Schnaebeles continues to be the absorbing topic of interest, but it seems the French Government now more calmly considers it, because Germany has proved the absolute correctness of her procedure. Ten or twelve Alsatians have been arrested in connection with the affair.

ANARCHIST PLOTS IN HUNGARY.

VIENNA, April 25.—Startling rumors are current here of the discovery of Anarchist plots to destroy the Opera House and numerous factories at Pesth. It is stated that only the extreme viligance of the police prevented the conspirators from carrying out their designs.

THE CRIMES BILL.

LONDON, April 25.—The Government calculates that a division on the motion to go into committee on the Coercion bill will be taken on Friday, and will result in the former's majority, but the Ministerialists admit that in committee they must be ready to accept large amendments or their majority must break up.

THE LAND BILL.

LONDON, April 25.—The discussion of the Irish Land bill in committee in the House of Lords will begin on May 12th.

THE PARNELL LETTER.

LONDON, April 25.—Sir William Harcourt writes flatly denying the statement that the alleged Parnell letter published in the Times was intercepted in the post office when he was Home Secretary.

THE COLONIAL DELEGATES.

LONDON, April 25.—The Colonial delegates went to the Earl of Onslow's country seat a Guilford, Saturday. They afterwards were shown the historic relics which created the deepest interest. By command a banquet of the Order of St. Michael and St. George was held in St. James' palace Saturday night to celebrate the jubilee. The Duke of Cambridge presided, and Mr. Sanford Fleming was present. Lord Wolseley declined the invitation, as he had previously promised to be present at the annual dinner of the London Press club.

ARRESTED AS A SPY.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 25.—A nephew of a high military official has been arrested on suspicion of giving intelligence of the Czar's movements to the Nihilists.

THE PHŒNIX PARK MURDER.

LONDON, April 25.—It is reported in the lobbies of Parliament that the law officers of the Crown have advised the Government that there is no reason why the private depositions of Crown witnesses in the Phœnix Park murder trials and other famous Irish cases should not be laid on the table in the House of Commons. The Liberal leaders will oppose the production of this evidence on the ground that it is one-sided, and has never been tested in open court.

IRISH CONSTABLES LEAVING.

DUBLIN, April 25.—Thirteen Irish constables, who have recently resigned, will sail for America on Wednesday.

A MULTICYCLE.

LONDON, April 25.—While we are taking much to heart the revelations of inefficiency and stupidity in our military and naval departments, it is interesting to know that the recent experiment of a volunteer cycle company is likely to develop great progress. This week at Aldershot will be tested a new vehicle, shaped like a long racing boat, on which a dozen soldiers can sit in single file and propel it easily at the rate of 16 miles an hour, and draw eight baggage waggons after them. This multicycle is steered easily by one man, is affected little by rough roads, and turns in less space than an ordinary hansom. It is an English invention, and is not to be offered abroad.

Rifle Association.

At the annual meeting of the Rifle Association held in the orderly room of the drill shed there was a large and enthusiastic attendance. The treasurer read the financial statement, which showed a small balance in hand after an expenditure of over $600. The following officers were then elected:—

PRESIDENT,—Lieut.-Col. Harry Rogers (re-elected).

1ST VICE-PRESIDENT,—Rev. V. Clementi (re-elected).

2ND VICE-PRESIDENT,—Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers (re-elected).

SECY.-TREAS.—Dr. R. E. Bell, (re-elected).

COUNCIL OF THE ASSOCIATION,—W. H. Hill, D. Cameron, W. A. Mason.

It was decided to affiliate with the Ontario Rifle Association, and that monthly matches be held on the first Thursdays in June, July, August and September to compete for the Ontario Rifle Association medal and prizes in ammunition. It was also decided to apply to Government for the use of Martini-Henry rifles. The council were instructed to put the range in order, and engage a marker for Thursday of each week, commencing on the first Thursday in May.

The Flood at Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 25.—The water has fallen one foot six inches within the last twenty-four hours. A quantity of lake ice has come down, but so far with no bad results. Reports has been received that a large quantity of lake ice has moved and will likely cause serious trouble when it reaches here. The wants of the sufferers are being attended to by the Relief Committee.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, APRIL 26, 1887.

SHAMELESS INCONSISTENCY.

In the session of 1886 the Ontario Government declared that for the Ontario Legislature to express any opinion on the rebellion in the Northwest, or on any matter connected with it, would be an "unwarrantable intrusion" upon the proper domain of the Dominion Parliament. It was pointed out at the time that this position was a mere subterfuge and that what Mr. Mowat and his colleagues objected to was expressing the opinion that the leaders of the revolt had been justly punished. This has been made doubly plain, and the inconsistency and utter lack of any underlying principle in the actions of that Government, when political capital is in view, has been fully exposed. And the exposure was shamelessly made by the members of that Government themselves.

They objected to expressing an opinion on Northwest affairs because they were beyond their jurisdiction, and this session what have they done? Actually passed resolutions on a subject beyond the jurisdiction of any Canadian Legislature or Parliament. They argued last session that they had no right—that it would be an unwarrantable intrusion—to express an opinion on a matter affecting the Dominion, and this session they argued that it was quite proper to express an opinion on a matter with which the Imperial Parliament alone can deal! An unwarrantable intrusion to adopt motions on a Northwest question, but within the right to pass resolutions on a question affecting Ireland! Such inconsistency would lead one to suppose that the Ontario Legislature had a still clearer right to pass a motion against Bismarck's policy in Alsace and Lorraine or the Czar's method of government in Poland and Finland. The further away from home and the more clearly beyond its jurisdiction, the more it is the duty of the Legislature to interfere. Such seems to be the position of the Reform party in Ontario. If it had a right to express an opinion on Irish Home Rule or on an Act before the Imperial Parliament, had it not still more clearly a right to express its opinion on a Canadian question within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament? In abandoning the position they took last session Mr Mowat and his followers showed that they at that time put in a false plea and that they did so to avoid saying that rebel leaders could be justly punished.

The New Englanders and too many Canadians are apt to talk of facilities for foreign fishermen in our ports for fishing outside our waters, as if they were mere matters of commerce, of our selling goods for a price to any comer. This contention is not tenable. The geographical position of Canada in regard to neutral fishing grounds is one of our natural advantages, which we have as much right to enjoy as any other. We are by no means bound, even by good neighborship, to place others on a footing similar to our own by affording supplies for fishing or means of conveyance, unless our neighbors reciprocate by sharing with us some special privilege they possess. If they are not neighborly why should they expect us to be so?

Mr. Mowat, while he and his friends are making false charges against the Dominion Administration, that they are spending money on the immigration of mechanics, persists in maintaining the immigration expenditure of Ontario. Once more he has refused to accept Mr. Meredith's resolution for a reduction of the vote for this purpose. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues voted down the motion and called upon their supporters to aid them in so doing, though ineffectually in the case of several, who felt that Mr. Mowat's extravagance and maladministration was too flagrant even for their well-tried subservience to his dictation.

There is a proposition in the Province of Quebec to grant a Government pension to Riel's widow. If the Province chooses thus to dispense its charity we have not a word of objection to offer. That Riel was a justly punished criminal is no reason that his widow should be allowed to starve, and the private sympathy of Riel's political brothers seems to be limited to words which cost them nothing, and may bring them in money. But how is it that the commiseration of these philanthropists does not extend to the widows of Riel's victims?

In another column will be found a report of the insulting manner in which certain rabid Grit members of the Cobourg Town Council spoke of the gallant volunteers. The disloyal and unpatriotic men evidently have not yet forgiven the defeat of their allies in the Northwest by the Canadian volunteers.

Because Canada has adopted a tariff which places Great Britain in at least as favorable a position as any other country Mr. Goldwin Smith, out of professed love for the Mother Country, asks us to discriminate against it in favor of foreigners. His advice will not be accepted by Canadians.

The Jesuit Bill.

Quebec, April 25.—Cardinal Taschereau has written Premier Mercier, who has charge of the Jesuit bill, that in company with eight members of the episcopate he desires that legislative action on the proposed measure be postponed until Rome be consulted.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

FORCED SELF-DEFENCE.

The trouble of dealing with American fishermen is that they have not the least idea of fulfilling their international obligations or acting in good faith in any particular. They commit robbery and then expect their Government to sustain them in the act. The privilege of fishing in our waters might be secured on terms honorable to both countries; but these fishermen more than any class stand in the way of an arrangement being made, acting as they do in the belief that free access to our fisheries can be had for nothing. We are obliged to defend our property in order to prevent the carrying out of this design.—Monetary Times.

A MISERABLE GAME.

When we see the sedulous efforts put forth by certain writers in the press to sow dissensions between members of the Dominion Government, how, in particular, everything, possible and impossible, is done to create jealousy between Sir Hector Langevin and Mr. Chapleau, we are irresistibly reminded of our school-boy days. There is a difference to be observed, however. Boys, with the thoughtlessness natural to their years, looked upon a fight as great fun; but the grown-up boys who make themselves purveyors of every kind of mischievous tittle-tattle and every kind of treacherous suggestion for the purpose of estranging two public men, have far more sinister ends in view. They are breeders of discord for the most selfish of purposes, and surely it is a miserable game.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

REFORM INCONSISTENCY.

It does seem inconsistent that when they are passing a bill to take away university powers from the colleges federating with Toronto university, the Ontario Legislature should establish a new university. It looks like undoing with one hand what they are doing with the other.—Brockville Recorder (Reform.)

REFORMERS BY THE SEA.

The Annexationists of Nova Scotia could not hit on a more effective or more dispicable means of promoting their end than by organizing a provincial lottery to prey on American industry. Outside of breaches of International comity, no conduct could be devised that would give the United States a better moral claim to interfere for the safety of her citizens.—Montreal Witness (Ref.)

LACKING COURAGE.

"We are not now," says the London Advertiser "arguing either for or against commercial union." Just so. You are merely in favor of commercial union and afraid to say so.—Toronto World (Indep.)

MOWAT MISREPRESENTS ONTARIO.

Yet Mr. Mercier only reason of calling the conference is in order to make it a means of wringing more money out of the Federal treasury. The Province of Ontario, through the months of its political leaders of both parties, but principally of the Liberal party which have been in Opposition at Ottawa so long, has over and over again complained bitterly that she is the milch cow of the Dominion, and that the Province of Quebec by means of the unfair subsidy system, got an undue proportion of the money distributed among the Provinces, and not only that, but that she had demanded and received still more for her political support of the Conservative Government. Yet the Province of Ontario is found to-day approving of the proposition of Mr. Mercier, made for the purpose of securing still better terms.—Montreal Witness (Reform.)

THE TONIC OF SUCCESS.

The remarks made at such times as these on the health of our leading statesmen seem to point to the conclusion that their nerves and constitutions are strained by the responsibilities and toils of leadership to a point incompatible with robust health, and that only the stimulus of hope or the elation of success can keep them always strung up to concert pitch. They are overtrained, as a jockey would say. Sir John meets the House in great force and high spirits, but Mr. Blake has been complaining of ill-health ever since the election left him with only a more respectable minority than before. Every one remembers how Sandfield Macdonald's defeat hastened his death, and how Mr. Mackenzie's health was entirely shattered by the disasterous general election of 1878 and the events which followed thereafter. Despite the disease that was fated to be the death of Sandfield Macdonald, and the overwork that had already told so heavily on Mr. Mackenzie's iron constitution, there is no doubt that either would have been physically benefitted by the tonic of success that braces the nerves of jaded ambition like a draught of the elixir of life.—Arcturus (Indep.)

UNITED STATES CROPS.

Prospects Materially Improved by General Rains.

Chicago, April 24.—Rains have materially improved the crop conditions in Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana, and particularly have improved the outlook for winter wheat; while in Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and Dakota the seeding of spring wheat has proceeded under generally favourable conditions in consequence of rain. The average condition, however, of winter wheat except in Missouri is falling generally below that of last year. Very few counties in Ohio report the prospect of an average crop. In Indiana the percentages range higher and generally run from 85 to 90 per cent. In Wisconsin the average ranges from 75 to 90. There have been fine rains throughout nearly all of Kansas, relieving the serious drought and improving the outlook for winter wheat. The average of the condition fall somewhat below that of last year. The reports from Iowa and Minnesota indicate a full average acreage.

Charged With Wife Murder.

London, Ont., April 25.—William C. Stenson, of London West, was arrested on Saturday night charged with killing his wife. Stenson reported on Thursday night last that he had found his wife dead in bed. The post mortem showed that she died from a stab in the head. He said she was drunk and fell on a broken bottle. Evidence has now come to light showing that he beat her the night before she died, and he has consequently been arrested.

PATRIOTIC REFORMERS.

An Insulting Refusal Even to Recognize the Volunteers.

Col. E. Z. Rogers of the 40th Battalion, and the other officers, have applied to the Town Council of Cobourg for a small grant in aid of a fund for purchasing for the volunteers the new regulation helmet. The following was the reception of the petition by the Reform Mayor and the Reform Councillors. We quote from the local Reform journal, the Cobourg World, so partizan prejudice cannot be suspected:

"The reading of the letter and petition was received with the ironical laughter of the Councillors.

A Member—'Yes, we'll give them Hell (mets).'

The Mayor—'This is the most ridiculous petition I ever,——well, it's most extraordinary.'

Councillor Wilson—'They should petition the City Council of Kingston, if the jubilee is to be held there.'

Councillor Deering—'They should petition the Minister of Militia. This Council should not entertain it for a moment.'

Councillor Hewson said he was in favor of granting the prayer of the petition. Other places took enough pride in their volunteer corps to assist them in this way. He moved that the sum of $25 be granted to the two town companies.

The Mayor said he was surprised to receivee such a petition. What had the members of the Town Council to do or what did they care about Her Majesty's brave militia? They had no money to throw away upon such an organization.

Councillor Hewson said that the record of the Canadian Volunteers showed that they were entitled to something better than

THE SCORNFUL CONTEMPT

of Mayor Clarke. They should be taken by the hand.

Councillor Wilson said the town companies were not volunteers to Cobourg. Cobourg did not recognize them.

Capt. Snelgrove was granted permission to address the Council in support of the petition. Having urged its reasonableness at some length, he thanked the Council for their mock courtesy to our citizen soldiery, and sat down amid the applause of the lobby.

Councillor Hewson reminded the Council that the volunteer force of this country was not brought to its present state of efficiency by the Government, but by the volunteers themselves. The people did not know when their services might be required as they were two years ago.

Councillor McCallum sarcastically said those who had the honor and glory of wearing a red coat should pay for it.

The Mayor again rose to remark that this application for aid to Her Majesty's militia force was perfectly ridiculous. He would not give them 5 cents. If there was any inefficiency it was probably the fault of the officers.

Councillor Battell said he would like to do something for our own volunteers, but he couldn't agree to vote for the amount asked for by Councillor Hewson.

On motion of Councillor Deering, the Clerk was instructed to write to the officers and inform them that the Town Council would not entertain their request.

FENELON FALLS.

A Heavy Loss.—The handsome chestnut stallion, "Donald Dinnie," which Mr. Geo. Manning of this village, bought less than a month ago, died last Thursday evening of inflammation of the bowels, caused, it is believed, by an over-feed of grain. The horse was a valuable one, and Mr. Manning's loss, directly and indirectly, by its death is estimated at fully $1,000.

A Diver at Work.—Mr. Robert Scriver, a professional diver from Peterborough, arrived at the Falls last Monday, and has since been at work more or less every day, under water, making preparations for the erection of the lock gates. In his diving suit he is frightful enough to walk in perfect safety through the loneliest churchyard at midnight, for any prowling ghost that met him would inevitably be scared into fits.—Gazette.

An M. P. Dead.

Teeswater, April 25.—Robert Moffatt, member for Bistigouche, who has been on a visit to some friends in this vicinity, drove in yesterday and put up at Halyerd's Hotel, with the purpose of taking the early train for home to-day. On being called, about half-past four this morning, and no response being received, his room was opened and he was found dead in bed. Life had been extinct sometime before the discovery was made. He had retired in apparent good health. He was born at Campbellton, County of Restigouche, in 1844, and educated at the Academy of Arman Dumfriesshire, Scotland. Married in 1876, Margaret, the daughter of David Sadler, Esq., Deputy Crown Land Surveyor. Is a merchant. First returned to Parliament as a Conservative at the last general election.

Astonishing Success
It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. CHAPTER XIX.

THEY MET ONCE MORE.

There was one who had heard Brownie's cry. Black Sam was crossing the woods toward home. Sam was past 70 now, and bent and feeble, but he ran up valiantly when he heard the shriek. He saw Rip's hand laid upon Brownie. He thought she was being murdered.

He had an ax on his shoulder. Old as he was, he would have cleft the tramp's skull in a moment, but the fellow saw the descending ax and caught it. He let the girl go and laid hold of the negro.

"Run, Miss Brownie," cried old Sam.

Brownie was still wild with terror. She was an unreasoning creature at best. She gave in to the moment's impulse, and ran as Sam told her.

The tramp tried to shake off the negro.

"Let me go!" he muttered, in a rage. "Let me go, or I'll murder you."

But Sam clung about him with a hampering hold, and kept him back. It roused all the fury in him. He doubled his fist, and gave Sam a stunning blow. The black man fell like a stone and lay still.

"There ——!" said the tramp.

Two men met Brownie as she ran. No sooner did she catch sight of one of these two than she flung her arms around his neck in an agony of fright and ecstasy of relief. She cuddled down against his breast as if he was the last man on earth and she never meant to let him go.

Truly she never did. Was he not Robert Edgerly, her repentant, returning lover? The other man was her brother Harry, now a well grown youth of 18. They had come to look for her. There were Harry's strong and willing arms for her to fling herself into, and Harry was the dearest brother she had. Yet she ran past him and flung herself frantically upon a young man she had quarreled with, and who was no kin to her at all. Truly, girls are queer.

At sight of them Rip disappeared. It was as if he had dropped through the ground. Robert and Harry searched all about. That night the neighborhood men scoured the woods for him. They never found him.

Sam was alive but unconscious when they came to him. He was old, black and ignorant, and timid and weak, yet he was as true a hero, true a knight of chivalry as ever breathed. He gave his life to succor fair lady in distress.

The faithful soul never came to his senses. His head struck a stone as he fell under the blow from Rip's fist. He breathed on unconsciously for two hours. Then—another link was broken that bound the Carstones to their vanished childhood. He was buried in the Carstone graveyard, not far from the master to whose children he had been so faithful. Many is the time Sam had said:

"I allus wanted a big funeral. It is 'spectable like, as if a man was a gen'lman of consequence. When I die it'd be a comfort to me to know de fust families all turned out and helped lay de old man away."

If he could have known it, Sam had his wish to his heart's content. The first families turned out in mass and followed him to his grave. Could he have known it, he would have considered his funeral a credit to the Carstone family.

It was some days before Brownie got back her spirits. She was pale and weak, and easily startled. And now the Englishman proved how gentle and devoted he could be. He showed beyond a doubt that he both could and did see whether a lady was comfortable or not. When the neighbors gathered at Sam's funeral, in the kindly country fashion, Edgerly took his place with the Carstones beside Brownie, as if he had a right there.

Then afterward, when Brownie was beginning to be herself again, he staid later than usual one evening. When he went away he boldly kissed her good night before all the folk!

Brownie blushed and pouted slightly and drew back.

"Oh, come now," said he. "When a young lady throws herself into a man's arms in the presence of a third party, you know"——

Brownie was suppressed.

Then he went away for a few days.

"What have you done with your forget-me-not ring, Brownie?" he asked when he came back.

"It's gone," she answered mournfully. "I wore it all the same and never took it off. But I was robbed of it that day—that day"——

"Oh, well, don't mind about it."

Next there was silence. Robert broke it, with a remark as follows, to wit:

"I have been away from England a year and a half. If I don't get out of this heathenish country soon, I shall forget how civilized people eat."

Brownie looked up.

"I'm going back in January, going home to stay this time."

Brownie gave a start.

"You'll break your heart about me, I know, if I leave you here."

"Don't you think you are a little mean to say that?" she asked.

"So I suppose I shall have to take you over to England with me."

Which he did. She made him as sweet, as true a wife, yea, and as fair and bright, as ever graced a stately home.

* * * * *

For Shirley, the faithful, the untiring, her existence moved on as though life was never, never to end for her. She worked and thought for them all, and for everybody, without a stopping or breathing space. Between herself and Brownie's husband a tie of friendship grew that became only stronger as he was older. She had not a brother by blood whose devotion to her was as enthusiastic as Robert's. One's familiars and kin are often the ones who are the most blind to the best that is in him. It was surely so with Shirley, who was used to make so little of herself.

She had not the leisure time to begin her poem as yet. Not yet.

The power her father and the master discerned in her had its forced development in other ways than they had thought. The mother and younger children remained still to be worked for. She and they had still to live from hand to mouth.

So newspaper woman she was and remained. But she degraded her calling to no mean or spiteful or shallow ends. Longfellow tells how the mechanic Albrecht Durer, with his stylus, sang the nobility of labor to the rich and stupid Nuremburgers till he startled them from their bourgeoise content. Shirley sang the same song with her pen. It was a pen that cut through the transient down to the eternal good and truth that are the only abiding realities. She sang the worth of wise work, the ladyhood and gentlemanhood that are above and greater than the accident of occupation, or of wealth and poverty. To be sincere, to be gentle and just and helpful to others, to spend time in learning only the things that are worth knowing—this was the golden song of Shirley's pen.

So she kept her life high and valiant.

She was not unhappy in those years. The busy are never wholly miserable. If only she could have poured out her thoughts in the marvelous poem that had hovered in her brain so long she could have quite put the old sorrows aside. As the years went on, she could even have come at last to regard as comedy the tragedy of her life. Toiling with enthusiasm at the work one has chosen is greather than happiness or riches—yea, greater than love itself.

As it was, though, her life was so hard, so different from all she had planned or dreamed of, twenty years before. Robert Edgerly came faithfully over the water to see her every year or two, sometimes with Brownie, sometimes without. Once, too, the charming old father came, and his visit was like an oasis in her desert of toil.

One winter, when Shirley went to Washington for The Morning Herald, Robert Edgerly went with her. She was now a distinguished newspaper woman. Her description of events was at once brilliant and accurate. Unmoved at all times by the glories of the reign of bosh everywhere about her, she saw fact, and kept to it.

The rising star in American politics at this time was a congressman from a western state. He was not precisely what we call a man of the people, though he had made his own way in the world. But it was a poor way as far as getting riches was concerned. He might have become wealthy a dozen times, but he held in burning contempt the methods of enriching himself which come so easy to many men in public life. He was a man incorruptible by money in any shape. There had been that in his life which made the ease and wealth men sighed for, to be no more than vile dross for him. What did he care for money!

In this country a poor man must be a powerful man intellectually, and have very winning ways to impress himself sufficiently on his fellow freemen to get their votes in the beginning. They demand either uncommon talent and honesty or uncommon wealth, one or the other.

The powerful brain, the winning ways the new representative of the people had. He was known to have sprung from the so called upper rank of life. He was a person of the highest culture, and of wide knowledge of men. At the same time there was an air about him that somewhat warned off the commonplace and the vulgar curious from approaching him familiarly. In brief, he was not one on whom you would advance without an introduction, and say in our frank and beautiful American way:

"Say, mister, what might your business be?"

He lost his first election through a small circumstance. He ordered a broiled beefsteak at a little rustic wayside inn. His opponent got wind of it and played it upon a thousand strings, till the independent voters rose to a man and said:

"We'll have no sich stuck up 'ristacrat holdin' office in this deestrick. A man that fried beefsteak ain't good enough fur, ain't good enuf fur us. Let him go somewhere else with them monarchial ideas!"

This unlucky mistake was, however, forgiven him in time. He possessed splendid ability; he was true as steel. He had a clear, high minded scorn of crooked ways and political dickering that worked against him at first. In time, though, as always, this very quality counted in his favor, and then he had all his own way. More than all, the new man was a matchless orator. He carried men's hearts in his hand by the power of his eloquence.

Shirley had heard of him frequently, and he of her. Their two atmospheres had widened and widened till at last they touched.

"I hear," said her brother Robert one day, "that your great Congressman Damdray is to speak to-morrow. Do you know him, Shirley?"

"I met him—once, some years ago, answered Shirley calmly.

"Your people seem to be losing their heads about him. Is he such great things as they say?"

"I don't know," Shirley answered, still more calmly. "I don't know enough about him to say. That awful reverence for officials, even the highest, that some people have, in a general way I never did feel, and never expect to."

"Why?"

"Why? Because I know how they are made."

Philip Dumoray had gone back to his western home and plunged into political life. Its feverish excitements, its very hazards and wild uncertainties suited him. On his side, too, there was something to be overlived, a burning heartache, a haunting pain and regret that must be deadened ere peace came again. The very knowledge that, in political life, to-day he might be upon the crest of the top wave of popular favor and to-morrow in the trough of the sea, drew him strongly. It gave him intense and constant mental occupation. He welcomed it as one in fever welcomes the cool, salt breeze from the sea.

He could dispose of his life as he pleased. He had only himself to think of. As between his fate and Shirley's he had far the best of it.

Philip Dumoray was the champion of a new movement in American politics, a movement which has for its aim the rights of man as the father's meant them when they founded this government. The simple announcement that he was to speak drew a great throng to the house.

The galleries were crowded with ladies, many of them in bright dresses and hats, contrasting finely with the dark habit of their escorts. Dumoray was to present a great memorial from the people to their representatives in congress. There was a buzz of expectation as the hand of the hall clock pointed to the hour.

Shirley sat in her place, the faithful English brother by her side. A man entered quietly, tall and commanding, of superb physical presence and perfect grace of manner.

The buzz broke into a volume of sound.

Shirley's eyes swam in a mist. Her heart-throbs came thick and fast. She clutched the wood of the seat till it made her hand ache, afterwards. She sat as motionless and silent as if she had been marble.

Ah!——

He fascinated her still, and so many years had passed that at last this weak minded woman had quite forgiven him.

He smiled and bowed to those about him, and then sat down grave and a little pale, perhaps, but quiet and at ease. Shirley saw him plainly. His hair was white now, thick and clustering still, yet snow white. But the strangely brilliant dark gray eyes were the same, the lofty, ideal face turned toward the throng was the same. High, generous thought and deed keep the human face forever beautiful.

To be Continued.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffere at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Golden Medical Discovery.

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-Joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating, and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. It promptly cures the severest Coughs.

For Torpid Liver, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, it is an unequalled remedy. Sold by druggists.

First Appearance in this City of that World-Famous Indescribable Phenomen

MISS ANNA EVA FAY

And her Company of Eminent English Mediums, in

SPIRITUALISM.

BELSHAZZAR'S WRITING.

MISS FAY has just returned from an extended tour of Europe, and will on this occasion present an entire new line of manifestations never before seen in Peterborough, and in the FULL ELECTRIC LIGHT! NO CABINET USED WHATEVER! MISS FAY is positively the only lady in the world who has the indorsement of the Royal Scientific Society of London, England, they having for three months tested her in every conceivable way that ingenuity could suggest, and at the finish of this investigation presenting her with a parchment certificate to the effect that the illustrations given in their presence were beyond human aid. Such scientists as Profs. Crooks, Huxley, Varley, Tyndall, Sargent, Cox, and the Duke of Edinburg indorse her. Some claimed odic force, some electricity or magnetism, and still others supernatural powers. MISS FAY calls it Spiritualism; you may call it what you may. Forms, hands and faces will be seen so plainly as to be recognized by persons in the audience.

The Spirit Carpenter! The Self-Acting Knife! Tables will Float in Mid-Air! The Spirit Hand will Answer Every Question.

Twenty to thirty communications will be received for the people in the audience. Beautiful flowers will be received for the ladies, and many other tests of remarkable power never before witnessed in any seance of America.

General Admission 15 and 25 cents. Reserved seats 10 cents extra. For sale at Hartley's Music Store.

Miss Anna Eva Fay arrived in town today, and registered at the Oriental Hotel. This evening she gives an exhibition of her wonderful spiritualistic feats in the Opera House.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Midland Railway was held in the Company's office to-day. There were present: Messrs. W. Wainwright, Assistant General Manager; F. W. Henshaw, E. S. Vinden, J. M. Ferris, W. Gooderham, R. Jaffray, H. O'Leary, H. Read, Secretary, and Mr. Geo. A. Cox in the chair. The old board of Directors were re-elected, with the exception of Mr. W. Wainwright being elected in the place of Mr. W. H. Biggar. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors the following officers were elected:—

PRESIDENT—Joseph Hickson.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—Geo. A. Cox.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—Wm. Gooderham.

Found at Last.

A much respected, in fact one of the most respectable citizens of Peterborough has found at last the man who in any case can produce the article he advertises. Yesterday he went all through the Great Cheapside, and in looking up the many lines advertised at such unheard of prices, was thoroughly convinced that Sheppard was fulfilling to the letter all that he had advertised. The choice of 5 Button Kid Gloves in black and colors at 50c., the six inch wide Embroidery at 15c., the all wool Black Cashmere at 25c., the nice assortment of cold Dress Goods at 10c., Tapestry Carpet commencing at 25c. and Brussels and all wool at 95c., sold elsewhere at $1.25 was a matter of considerable surprise to him, but when shown the rich Seal Brown Suit in boys at $1.92 and men's at $3.95 it simply eclipsed anything he had ever seen, and said he would advise his many friends to go straight to Sheppard's for good goods cheap.

TO THE BRETHREN.

Setting Forth what the Oddfellow's Jubilee Celebration will Be.

The Reception Committee connected with the Oddfellows Demonstration Committee have addressed to the lodges of Ontario a circular which contains the main features of the programme for celebration week in August next.

The circular states that though the programme is yet in a crude state, it was deemed expedient at this early date to notify the brethren that vigorous work is being done to prepare it, and that general particulars will be issued and addressed to them hereafter.

The circular continues: "It is proposed to make it an Oddfellows jubilee celebration, to do honor to the lady whom we all revere and admire. As Oddfellows we have learned to regard her as the grandest woman among women—because she combines in her person all the elements which give to women her noblest characteristics. She is to us the concentration of all the honor and glory of our nation."

Then the circular proceeds to point out that very low railway rates have been arranged for with the railway companies; that large detachments of Patriarchs Militant are expected; that competitive drill will be held for which suitable prizes will be offered.

It states that the jubilee songs have arrived and will be sung in the Horticultural Gardens by five hundred voices with band accompaniemnt; that the Driving Park and Athletic Grounds have been secured and will be utilized for trotting races, athletic sports, lacrosse and cricket matches, fireworks, etc.

It states that the members of the local lodges and encampment will take delight in showing the visitors through the industrial establishments of the town

It apprises the brethren that the A. C. A. meet will take place from August the 1st to 12th, describes the beauties of Stony Lake and the enjoyments of a trip thither.

Concluding it holds out a probability of the Governor General being here to grace the celebration, and again gives a hearty invitation to the brethren to come and participate in it.

Anna Eva Fay, one of the best known mediums in the world, will give one of her marvellous seances at the Opera House to-night.

A Prize Essay.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union some time ago offered prizes for essays on temperence from pupils of the Collegiate Institute. The essays received were handed to the Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., and the Rev. F. H. Wallace, M. A., B.D., who recommended that the one by Alex. Cooper was worthy to receive the highest prize at the disposal of the Union, Mr. Cooper is the young man who lost his right arm by an accident in Mr. Hilliard's mill. Since he was able to leave the hospital a few months ago, he has been attending school and learned to write with his left hand, and it was with his left hand that this prize essay was penned. On Monday afternoon he was invited to the meeting of the Union and presented with the first prize, a five dollar gold piece. We will publish the essay, which is a long one, as soon as space permits.

The Late Joseph M. Newbold.

The late Joseph Maddox Newbold, who was buried on Sunday with Masonic honors was a Mason of forty-three years standing and a retired officer of the British army. He was born at Wicket Nook, Ashby de la Zouch, Leicestershire, England, on July 21st, 1798 and was in his 89th year when he died. He purchased a commission in the army when he was nineteen years of age and afterwards with his regiment, the 37th Regiment of Foot, was in the East India service. He was promoted to be Quarter-Master, and finally Major of the 37th Regiment about 1849. Among the medals he possessed was a gold one presented to him by Her Majesty in 1849 and a silver one, also from the Queen, in 1852, both given in recognition of his military services. He also highly prized a silver-headed cane which, as the inscription stated, was presented by J. Frost, to Major Newbold of the 37th Regiment, as a token of respect. He had two breast plates, one being engraved with the British, and the other with East India coat of arms. Major Newbold was initiated in the North Hants Masonic Lodge, No. 726, on March 28th, 1844. He was presented with a badge by Lord Lee, which had a portrait of his Lordship on the top. Major Newbold retired from the army in 1857, and came to Canada in 1859, settling at Kingston, where he placed some £60,000 in a bank. He purchased a beautiful farm near Sydenham, but through some defect in the title lost it, and this, together with an unbusiness-like and too generous way of loaning money, dissipated his fortune rapidly. He crossed to the United States, where he remained a short time, and, with the remnant of his fortune gone, he came to Peterborough in 1871, and remained here until the time of his death. He lived a quiet life in Peterborough and was respected by those who knew him, and his remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of members of the Masonic fraternity.

We have just opened out a direct shipment of Ellwood's London Hats at Fairweather's Hat Store.

FURNITURE BUSINESS.

The Lindsay-Seldon Co's Trade Increasing Rapidly.

It is about a year now since Messrs. Lindsay and Seldon opened their furniture factory in Peterborough. Since then their trade has been constantly growing and more hands are being employed as the time goes on.

At present there are 25 men employed by the Company and if the business keeps increasing with the rapidity it has during the past few months it is likely that 50 or 75 workmen will not be able to fill the orders.

There has been a great run on the Jubilee suits turned out by this Company only. The chief demand is in the Toronto and Montreal markets. Since the beginning of of the year several hundred sets have been shipped away. So great has been the demand that the factory cannot supply it and the Company's travellers have been instructed to stop sales for a month. The special lines now being turned out are put through by lots of one hundred and fifty sets at a time.

Messrs. Lindsay and Seldon are to be congratulated upon the success of their enterprise. There was not a very bright prospect at the time they commenced business; but by sticking to it, turning out first class goods, and fair dealing they have established a fine trade. Shipments are made as far west as Windsor and as far east as Halifax.

As yet the Council have not extended to this new factory the usual encouragement of exemption from taxation for a term of years. But no doubt the Company have only to apply to get what, according to precedent, they have a right to.

All the Toronto papers speak in the highest terms of Miss Fay's exhibition.

FACTORY AFIRE.

Porter Bros.' Painting and Trimming Department Burned.

A half-past twelve o'clock to-day a fire broke out in the main building of Messrs. Porter Bros.' carriage factory. The men had left the shop only a few minutes when the fire was discovered and the alarm was rung.

In less than five minutes after the alarm was given three streams were playing on the flames, one from a Charlotte street hydrant and two from the hydrant on the corner of Charlotte and Alymer streets. The upper story, where the fire originated, being filled with paints, painting materials and other inflammable stock caused a furious blaze and dense smoke filled the streets for a block away. For fifteen minutes it was a question whether the firemen would be able to subdue the flames. After hot work for some time, however, they mastered the situation and extinguished the fire without difficulty.

While the firemen were at work the crowd was busy taking out the buggies, phætons, wagons, etc., in the show rooms below. The meats in O'Brien's butcher shop were also removed to prevent roasting. People living in houses near commenced to taking their furniture out, but the alarm was soon over.

Messrs. Porter Bros. loss will be heavier on account of interrupting their business for a time than on account of the fire. A large amount of stock in course of manufacture was consumed, the bodies of 40 buggies for one thing.

The interruption will be as short as possible, however. The painting and trimming departments will be removed to the Charlotte street rink where work will be carried on with customary vigor. The wood shop and blacksmith shop were uninjured.

The fire originated in the centre paint shop and was caused, it is supposed, from the stoves, in two of which there were fires when the paint hands left the shop. The loss to the building and contents will be covered by insurance. On the building there is $1,500 in the Phœnix of Brooklyn. On the contents there is $1,000 in the Royal; $500 in the Western and $1,000 in the Fire Insurance Association.

Jet All-over Lace, Jet Fronts, Jet Panels, Jet Collars and Cuffs, what everybody who wants New and Stylish Goods is looking after. Now in stock at Turnbull's.

A Case of Child Murder.

MONTREAL, April 25.—The inquest on the body of the child murder case was continued today. The mother was in service and after the child's birth strangled it and hid it under a heap of ashes in the yard of the house in which she lived. She is now in the hospital and in every probability may be indicted for murder.

Poisoned Parsnips.

CALEDONIA, Ont., April 25.—On Friday afternoon last, Mr. J. Dogherty picked up some parsnips that a farmer had thrown over his fence and brought them home to eat. His wife and Miss Christina McKay eat one of the parsnips which immediately made them sick, and Mr. Dogherty suspecting they were poisoned, went for medical assistance, but he was too late, as Miss McKay died within a few minutes afterwards and Mrs. Dogherty died yesterday morning.

Three Young Men Drowned.

QUEBEC, April 25.—A confirmation of the reported drowning accident at St. Ronald has just been received. It appears that four men named Charles Moran, Auguste Rosseau, Joseph Houard and Honore Hunard, went out on the river in a boat, when it was upset by the heavy ice, the four being precipitated into the river. Honore Hunard managed to haul himself up on a piece of ice, and to keep afloat till assistance reached him. The other three young men were drowned. An inquest was held to-day.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1887

MR. HARDY had the effrontery to tell Mr. Meredith that if there were no Orangemen he would have no party. In this county the most efficient worker for the Mowat Administration is at the head of the Orangemen. We cannot judge whether he is a good Orangemen, as we do not belong to the order, but the fact that he is re-elected to high positions shows that he has enormous influence with his brethren, which with his influence as a Provincial official having much in his power, must be worth very many votes to Mr. Mowat. Orangemen here work hard against Mr. Meredith, and we see no reason to believe that ours is an exceptional case. Mr. Hardy was simply speaking falsely to excite religious prejudice.

THE criminal libel-proceedings instituted by Mr. C. E. George, on the staff of the Ottawa Free Press and correspondent of several newspapers in the United States, against Mr. Johnston of the Ottawa Citizen, have been abandoned by Mr. George. It is only fair to Mr. Johnson to make public the fact that Mr. George did not venture to bring the evidence upon which he obtained the committal before a grand or petit jury where it might have been sifted.

THE ballots for the election at Queens, N. B., have been laid upon the table of the House of Commons, so Mr. Blake's story of their having been destroyed was as incorrect as others which he repeats on the faith of his untrustworthy amanuenses. Was it Mr. Cameron (late of Huron) who was to blame this time?

THE ZOLLVERREIN.

The Buffalo Courier favors absolute freedom of trade between Canada and the United States, with a uniform tariff, the customs receipts to be be divided between the two countries in proportion to population. Nobody can object to the Courier holding that view, or the whole United States for that matter. The great republic would then be as near the zollverein as the young man was to matrimony after he had secured his own consent. At the same time we would be pleased if some of the zollverein advocates would consider this problem; Canada imports twice as much foreign merchandise as the United States import. If the duties were uniform Canadians would pay twice as much customs duties as the United States would pay. Even with our low tariff, we pay about $4 per head of the population annually, while, with their high tariff, the people of the United States pay only about $3 annually per head. With the United States tariff, we should pay about $6 a head. Now, let us see how it would work: The people of the United States would pay, say, $180,000,000; the people of Canada would pay, say, $30,000,000. That would make a fund of $210,000,000 to be divided between the two countries, or, say, $3.25 per head. Then our 5,000,000 would draw out $16,150,000. We would have the fun of being in partnership with a big country, and would only pay a little less than fourteen millions a year for its enjoyment.

No, thank you: not any zollverein in ours just at present.—Hamilton Spectator.

A VERDICT OF MURDER

MARY AND EDWARD HOLBROOK COMMITTED TO GAOL.

The Facts Brought Out in the Inquest on the Body of the Child Found on Dr. Kincaid's Farm.

The inquest on the body of the child found on Dr Kincaid's farm was held on Saturday afternoon, in Monaghan.

The following jury were impannelled:—
Robt. A. Hamilton, foreman,

Geo. Lee,	Wm. Whitefield,
Samuel McKnight,	Edward Feelee,
John Elliott,	Jas. Boyd,
Thos. Lytle,	Robt. Geodfellow,
Patrick O'Brien,	Wm. Bell,
Wm West,	Geo. Spencely,
Martin Spencely,	David Johnston,
	John O'Donnell.

JOSEPH STEWART, sworn, said:—The child now before the jury I found in a drain running across Dr. Kincaid's farm on Thursday afternoon last, 21st instant. It was in the small trunk now before the jury. The trunk was wrapped in a piece of black crape cloth, about two yards long, which was pinned at the corners. A string was attached to the cloth and the key which was in the lock. The trunk was not locked. It was on the sand which remained after the water had subsided. The drain was only ten feet wide. I am sure the trunk was not where found six days ago. As soon as I found it I opened the trunk and found the child completely dressed and lying on some batting which was spread on the bottom, and a roll of it underneath its head. I went immediately to Peterborough and notified constable Adams. A left the trunk and child in it on the bank of the drain, and saw nothing more of it until this morning when I went to it with Robt. Goodfellow. Constable Adams to-day brought it up to where the jury is sitting. I know nothing as to the cause of its death or where it came from.

Dr. KINCAID, being sworn, gave testimony that it was his opinion that the body was the body of a full grown, healthy and well developed male child, and that the said child was born alive and properly cared for at the time of birth. The umbilical cord was properly cut, tied and dressed, and the child otherwise properly attended to. There was no visible marks of violence, but he was of the opinion that the death was caused by exposure. He was satisfied that death occurred before the body was placed in the water. He was of the opinion that death took place four or five days after the birth. He was of opinion that the child had been dead for two months.

The inquest was adjourned till Monday evening when it opened at the Police Court.

GEORGE DOBBIN, farmer, of North Monaghan, gave evidence that Mary Holbrook was confined at his house. He never saw the child. Mary Holbrook was a servant at his house. He did not know where she was now. She remained at his house about a week after the confinement. The child was born alive. The child died two days after birth, and her brother took it away the same evening. He saw her brother carry out a box, but could not describe it. His wife told him Mary Holbrook's brother had a certificate from Dr. Kincaid to bury it. Did not know where the brother, Ed. Holbrook, was now. He had been working for witness till the date mentioned, but not since. He knew nothing of the cause of the child's death, or how the body was disposed of. Ed. Holbrook left his place about 10 o'clock or shortly after on Saturday forenoon. He was walking. He returned at about 4 p.m. and told witness' wife that the child was dead. He returned from visiting Mrs. Lytle soon after 9 a.m., and was in the room with his sister until leaving at or soon after 10 o'clock a.m.

Dr. KINCAID, sworn, said that by order of the Coroner he had held a post mortem examination on the body of the dead child. He held the examination in the presence of Dr. Bell and Dr. Yelland. He found the body to be that of a healthy child. He was unable to discover any marks of violence to account for death. The heart and lungs were healthy and well developed. On applying the usual tests in such cases there was no doubt in his mind that the child had been born alive. He opened the stomach and found about two ounces of partially digested fluid. He could not swear from the post mortem examination that the child had come to its death by foul play. And he was unable to account for the death of the healthy child other wise than that some culpable negligence must have taken place after its birth. From the condition of the umbilical he would judge that the child had lived two or three days. There were no symptoms of drowning. It most likely had been frozen, and might have been so for several months. He knew George Dobbin. The latter sent for him shortly before Christmas, to attend a sick girl in his house who had cramps. He went and found that a child had been born before his arrival. Did not know the sex of that child. Some days after Mr. Dobbin's hired man came to him and said the child was dead and he wanted it buried. He asked the hired man what was the cause of death. The hired man replied that he did not know but that his sister said it was dead and some neighbors were with his sister. As the girl was in the house of respectable people and not suspecting foul play, he advised its burial. Had no recollection, however, of giving him a certificate.

TO A JURYMAN—Mr. Dobbin told me that his family were surprised at the birth as they were not aware of the girl's condition until she took sick, and they were so disgusted with her that they took no notice of her at the time nor afterwards.

To the COUNTY CROWN ATTORNEY—After several months I would not be able to distinguish symptoms of death from suffocation.

DR. YELLAND'S evidence was taken. It was corrobrative of Dr. Kincaid's. There were no marks of violence visible. From the examination made there was no evidence of any disease visible.

CECELIA LYTLE, sworn, said—I live near George Dobbin. I saw Mary Holbrook at his house about the 16th of December last. I was not present at the birth of her child, but was about half an hour afterwards. It was on Thursday. I saw the child. It was a male child and appeared to be healthy. Mrs. Wm. Robinson washed and dressed it. I tied and cut the umbilical cord. The birth took place about half past ten p. m. I remained about two hours and when I left the mother and child appeared to be doing well. I returned next morning and all was going well. I visited the house at about nine the same night and still found matters well. Mrs. Birney was nursing the child which acted as if there was phlegm in its throat. Mrs. Burney, Mrs. Robinson and myself left about ten o'clock and her brother promised to take care of her that night. I did not come back till the next evening at about four o'clock—after the child was dead. It was then in bed with the mother. Her brother met me on the market in Peterborough that day and told me the child had died at 11 o'clock. The child was still warm when I took it from the bed. Her brother told me on the market that they had fed it, laid it on the bed and shortly afterwards on looking at it it was dead. We changed the childs night dress and put the body in a small trunk, first putting in a layer of cotton batting in the bottom and leaving the remainder of the roll for a pillow. Mrs. Burny looked the trunk and left the key tied to it. Then we wrapped one and a half yards of black crape about the trunk. Edward Holbrook then came and took the trunk saying that he had been to the cemetery and had arranged for burial there. The reason assigned for using the trunk was because Ed. Halbrook said a coffin would cost two dollars and a trunk only cost fifty cents.

TO THE CORNOR—I heard Ed. Halbrook say he morning the child died that if he could only get the child away he would soon fix her, meaning I suppose, to get his sister away from Mrs. Dobbin. That was about nine o'clock in the morning.

Jane Burney's evidence was taken she testified to her being present the morning after the birth of the child and subsequently assisted in attendance. At three p. m. on Saturday Ed. Halbrook came to her and told her the child was dead, and asked her to go over to Mrs. Dobbins. She went at once. She looked at the child soon after arriving. It was very dark colored in the face. When Mrs. Lytle came they lifted it from the bed and put it in the trunk. The neck, face, feet and hands were all discolored. She asked the mother what caused the death and the reply was that the child took a kind of choking. She took the cloths off its face and on again looking at it in a little while it was dead.

Thos. Lytle gave evidence that on Saturday morning Ed. Halbrook told him that the mother and child were doing well. On the Peterborough market at half past eleven he told him the child was dead. Asking him what caused the death he said "I heard it making a fuss in the bed, and I knew it was dying but did not want to tell Minn (meaning his sister) as it would excite her. I then left the room and returning in a few minutes it was dead.

The Coroner then addressed the jury, which afterwards retired for a few minutes when they brought in a verdict of wilful murder against Mary and Edward Holbrook.

The warrants were issued without delay and despatches sent describing the brother and sister.

On Tuesday morning Chief Cooper received a despatch from Chief Douglas, of Port Hope, stating that the girl had been arrested. P. C. Adams was detailed to bring her to town and when he arrived he found that the brother had also been arrested. He brought both to town on Tuesday evening and they are now lodged in gaol.

Mr. C. W. Sawers has been retained for the defence of the prisoners.

A WARLIKE OUTLOOK.

LONDON, April 26.—The market for foreign securities closed flat owing to the news from Paris which was regarded as of a disturbing nature. American securities were flat in sympathy and closed at the lowest figure of the day.

A DECISION IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, April 25.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Sexton asked Mr. Broderick, Conservative, whether in a recent speech he had spoken of the Times' forgery as Mr. Parnell's letter. Mr. Broderick answered "Yes. In addressing any meeting on the subject I will call the letter Mr. Parnell's in the absence of any action in a court of law to disprove the statement." Mr. Sexton asked whether, in view of the fact that Mr. Parnell has described the document as a villainous and barefaced forgery, Mr. Broderick was not committing a breach of privilege in so describing the letter. Speaker Peel replied that the remarks of Mr. Broderick did not refer to anything done by Mr. Parnell in the House, and therefore the matter did not come within the definition of the breach of privilege. The House then went into committee on the budget.

BELGIUM AND THE VATICAN.

BRUSSELS, April 26.—A dispute has arisen between the Belgian Government and the Vatican which threatens to lead to a Kulturkampf in Belgium. The Beernaert cabinet wanted the Vatican to instruct Catholics in Belgium to vote for the army bill, which makes religious students liable to military service. The Vatican flatly refused to do so.

PARIS, April 26.—General Boulanger has ordered the adoption of a new telephone for the use of the army. With the new apparatus General Boulanger is enabled to give orders to 12 persons at 12 different points at the same time.

PROTECTION WANTED.

GLASGOW, April 26.—The Chamber of Commerce, by a vote of 88 to 57, has adopted a resolution declaring that the system of trade bounties and protection adopted by other countries has so injured English trade that there is justification for asking that Great Britain revise her fiscal relations.

HUGO'S WILL.

LONDON, April 26.—Victor Hugo's will has been admitted to probate in London. His property in England is valued at £92,000. His daughter and grandchildren are the sole heirs. An annuity of £400 is left to the widow of his son Charles.

ITALY IN THE SOUDAN.

ROME, April 26.—In the Italian Chamber of Deputies to day Signor Viale, Minister of War, on the passage of the bill calling out 17,000 reserves for active services, announced that fresh reinforcements were required for the Massowah garrison. It is stated that 32,000,000 francs will be required to meet the extra military expenditures.

RUSSIAN CAUTION.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 26.—The Government has prevented Russian admirers of Gen. Boulanger from sending him a sword of honor, on the ground that such an act would create erroneous impressions in regard to Russia's foreign policy.

MORE TROUBLE IN BULGARIA.

SOFIA, April 26.—A fresh Zankoffist or pro-Russian conspiracy has been discovered here. Several men who formerly were officers in the Bulgarian army have been arrested for active participation in the movement.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS.

LONDON, April 26.—Of the 103 amendments to the Crimes bill already noticed, the Parnellities have contributed 88, the Gladstonians 69, Conservatives 38, and the Unionists 8. None have yet been made in the names of either of the Gladstonian or Parnellitie leaders. Probably 100 more amendments will be added before Thursday. The Unionists have still to meet to decide their course of action in the committee stage. Lord Hartington will consult Lord Salisbury with regard to the views of the Unionists. The Ulster Unionists are dissatisfied with the distribution of benefits proposed by the Land bill, which they regard as unfair, and they are agitating for a reversion of the bill in that respect.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1887.

THE ONTARIO SESSION.

THE Legislature of the Province of Ontario has been prorogued, and there is nothing in its performances that will shine on the page of history. We do not complain that the legislation has been sparse, for the Mowat Administration had done too much meddling with our laws in the past, and the fewer of such measures it introduces the better for the country. But what little was done might have been effected decently and in a business-like manner, which was far from being the case. For a large portion of the session the Administration had nothing ready for the House, then they adjourned to let them stir up their officials and expectant officials for the Dominion campaign, and they concluded by rushing their most important business through the House without time for deliberation, and in all night sittings. The conduct of the Ministers was on a par with this, hectoring, bullying and tyrannical, as on the occasion of forcing a division after sitting till morning on their Parliament buildings job. Having obtained an overwhelming majority by means of statutory members, dishonest gerrymandering, and other trickery, so as to have a majority in the House with a minority of the votes cast, Mr. Mowat and his colleagues might well have treated the Opposition, if not with generosity, at least with common fairness.

By one episode the Province was subjected to unprecedented disgrace in the person of its Premier. Mr. Mowat stood up in his place and uttered a deliberate falsehood to the House on the subject of his appointments to office, his object being to postpone as long as possible the disgraceful confession, which he was forced to make later, that he had trafficked with his patronage by making secret appointments before the general election, and then denying them in order to dangle these prizes before the eyes of other applicants.

Among the most important legislation of the session was that by which Mr. Mowat and his colleagues dealt with University Confederation. After strenuous efforts and extreme pressure they at last succeeded in inducing one university to affiliate. But while providing for this they simultaneously legislated for taking another college out of affiliation, and erecting it into a separate university. It was only at the last moment that they attended to the repeated protests of Mr. Meredith and others, and abstained from granting free trade in university degrees. This, however, was not till they found that a number of their own supporters would not follow them in their tergiversation. In the case of erecting the new university they were influenced by the disgraceful threat that the Baptists would go solid against them if they did not yield. Are we not warranted, therefore, in assuming that similar motives guided them throughout, that their advocacy of university confederation was from no good motive, but in order to concentrate power, patronage and expenditure under their own hands at Toronto.

Mr. Mowat boasts of his provision for the termination of his practice of letting prision labor by contract to compete with honest industry. Well, for years he has stubbornly refused to adopt this reform when advocated by Mr. Meredith. He only gave way at last because he found that public opinion was against him and with the Opposition leader.

Mr. Meredith may well be proud of the beneficial influence he has exerted though still in a minority. A third noteworthy instance was Mr. Mowat's enforced promise of granting manhood suffrage (some day), after having for years mustered his followers to vote down Mr. Meredith's resolutions in favor of it. Similar instances might be given.

In other respects Mr. Meredith was unfortunately less successful. He could not prevent the bullying way in which the Ministry whitewashed themselves at four o'clock in the morning for their insult to the late House in making a contract for the Parliament buildings far in excess of the limit set by the Legislature. Nor could he prevent the subsequent vote by which the appropriation for this purpose, originally $500,000, then $750,000, was raised to $1,050,000. Even this amount the people of Ontario may be assured, is only another repetition of the dishonest subterfuge by which Mr. Mowat is gradually deluding them deeper into an enormous expenditure, which will exceed not one million but two millions before he is done. We ask our readers to bear this in mind that they may compare it with the final result.

Again Mr. Meredith was unsuccessful in his renewed efforts to curtail the expenditure on emigration. Mr. Mowat insisted on taking our money to expend in this way, though a number of his supporters found this too much for their almost unbroken subserviency and voted against his extravagance.

Taking it altogether Mr. Mowat cannot feel proud of such a session in which he has made so bad a use of his usurped power.

THE Toronto News speaks of Lord Salisbury having made certain overtures to Washington for the settlement of the fishery question as if Canada had no concern in the matter, and calls upon all true Canadians to express indignation at Lord Salisbury's cool arrogance. Would it not be well before doing so to ascertain if Lord Salisbury has made any overtures, if so what they are, and whether they are to be conditional, if accepted at Washington, upon the ratification of the Parliament of Canada. Premature indignation is silly.

WAKE UP! WAKE UP!

All You High Price Would-be Clothiers.

GOUGH, the WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN RINGS OUT HIS ALARM BELL TO YOU

THIS WEEK he is going to hurl a tirade of prices at you that will besiege his place of business with anxious buyers, and break you all up. Our three flats are packed with NEW GOODS, ☞ and we can show MORE CLOTHING THAN THE WHOLE KIT OF YOU COMBINED, including the tail end of a few Dry Goods Stores that carry a few shoddy Suits. Energy will tell, and the people appreciate it. ☞ Our Business is not on paper; it is a reality, and the result of long, patient study and hard work.

READ, YOU BABY CLOTHIERS, WHAT THE CLOTHIER OF THE AGE IS GOING TO DO FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS, AND WHEN YOU READ, REFLECT, AND WHEN YOU REFLECT, COME AND BUY FROM HIM, FOR YOU CANNOT BUY FROM ANY WHOLESALE HOUSE IN CANADA AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES

LOT 1.—Mens Blue Serge Suits for $3.50, not, mark you, old faded out brown shoddy serge, such as you can buy elsewhere for $3.75, but a pure Indigo dye, warranted fast color, and to cost you $8.00 from any other dealer.

LOT 2.—Mens All Wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $4.00. This is a beautiful black and brown check, trimmed with a silk serge lining, and the lowest wholesale price of it is guaranteed to be $6.50. We show a dozen different patterns in this line to select from.

LOT 3.—Mens West of England and Scotch Tweed Suits at $5.50, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00. Are made and trimmed equal to custom work, and if made to order would cost you from $15.00 to $22.00. With this line of goods we throw you in 10 yards of Embroidery and one pair of Corsets. Such goods are too trifling for the Wonderful Cheap Man to sell, and are assigned to his gift Department.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

THE FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

The Question of Scripture Reading in the Schools—The Session Closed and the House Prorogued.

SATURDAY, April 23.—This morning, the House having sat through the night, the debate on the third reading of the Education Bill, and on the amendments of Mr. Meredith and Mr. Mowat was resumed.

Mr. MEREDITH said that the Commissioner of Public Works had made various charges against him by the process of reading through the lines of his election address. He supposed that if he were to criticise the Commissioner's utterances in that way in might find him guilty of every crime in the calendar. It was not necessary for him to repudiate the Mail. He agreed with that paper that no denomination should have exclusive privileges, and he regretted things it had said about the Roman Catholics. His career was a sufficient answer to the charges made against him.

Mr. HARDY entertained the House by saying that if Orange lodges were taken away Mr. Meredith would not have a dozen followers left.

Mr. CLANCY said that Mr. Mowat, by his amendment, admitted the justice of the Opposition contention. Mr. Ross had not the courage to charge the Ministerial Association deputation with raising the "No Popery" cry, although they had waited on him in regard to similar matters.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Ross and Garson and Mr. Mowat's amendment was then put and carried on the following division:—

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Awrey, Balfour, Ballantyne, Bishop, Blezard, Chamberlain, Chisholm, Clarke (Wellington), Conmee Dack, Drury, Dryden, Evanturel, Ferguson, Field, Fraser, Freeman, Garson, Gibson, (Hamilton), Gibson (Huron), Gilmour, Gould Graham, Guthrie, Harcourt, Hardy, Hillard, Leys, McAndrew, McKay, McLaughlin, McMahon, Mack, Master, Morin, Mowat, Murray, Nairn, O'Conner, Pacaud, Pardee, Phelps, Rayside, Robillard, Ross (Huron), Ross (Middlesex), Smith Snider Sprague, Stratton, Waters, Widdifield, Wood (Brant) —54.

NAYS—Messrs. Armstrong, Biggar, Blyth, Clancy, Clarke, E. F. (Toronto), Clarke, H. E. (Toronto), Craig, Creighton, Cruese, Fell, French, Hammell, Hudson Ingram, Kerns, Lees, Marter, Measham, Meredith, Metcalf, Miller, Monk, Morgan, Ostrom, Preston, Rourke, Stewart, Tooley, Willoughby, Wilmot, Wood (Hastings), Wylie—33.

The bill relating to the libel law was read the third time and the House adjourned at 5.10 o'clock a. m.

PROROGATION.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the Lieutenant-Governor assented to the bills passed and prorogued the House with the Speech from the Throne.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

The Home Rule Debate Again Adjourned—Vicegregal Dinner—British Columbia Fisheries—Customs Regulations.

MONDAY, April 25.—On motion the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery laid the papers connected with the election at Queens, N. B., on the table.

CRIMINAL APPEALS.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill to do away with appeals to the Privy Council in criminal cases.

THE CHARLTON ACT.

Mr. CHARLTON introduced a bill to amend the act known by his name.

CUSTOMS.

Mr. BOWELL, in reply to Mr. Mitchell, said the new customs regulations for passengers baggage had been withdrawn. In reply to Mr. Bain he said there had been no seizures of oleomargine.

B. C. FISHERIES.

Mr. FOSTER, in reply to Mr. Gordon, said the exploration of the B. C. deep sea fisheries would be continued.

HOME RULE.

Mr. DAVIN resumed the debate on Home Rule and coercion. He entered deeply into the historical and ethnological aspects of the question showing his wide reading and careful research. He showed that the Reformers had passed twice as many coercion acts as the Conservatives. He believed in local control of local interests, but could not object to measures to suppress crime, though he did not approve of some features of the Coercion Bill. He was not satisfied with either of the resolutions and would move another if he had the opportunity.

Mr. MACDONALD (Huron) thought that Home Rule in Ireland would produce as much content as in Canada. He sympathized with Ireland and would do what he could to aid it in its efforts for local Government. But he thought the Loyalist Irishmen, of whom Mr. O'Brien spoke, would be rebels if they did not submit to any law that that might be passed. They and the rest of Ireland would learn to respect each other if brought together.

Mr. FREEMAN rose to speak.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD proposed an adjournment as many members were absent who wished to speak and vote on the question.

Mr. BLAKE thought they should have a division that evening. but he would not divide the House on the adjournment.

The House was perceptibly thin, a large number of members being engaged at a Parliamentary dinner with the Governor-Generals.

THE HOME RULE QUESTION.

Mr. Meredith's Speech in the Ontario Legislature.

The following is the report of Mr. Meredith's speech in the Ontario Legislature on Mr. Mowat's resolution on the Irish questions, as published in the Mail:—

Mr. Meredith, who on rising was greeted with loud applause, said the hilarity which prevailed in the chamber was hardly in keeping with the profession of sympathy for Ireland made by the other side of the House. He objected to the resolution being passed, the sole object of which was a political purpose. (Applause.) He pointed out that, although the agitations for Home Rule had been going on in Ireland for a number of years and the Liberal party had a overwhelming majority in this Legislature, they had never until now thought it necessary to propose any motion on the subject. When the advocates of the cause of the Home Rule were few in number and weak in influence the Liberal party had nothing to say by way of encouragement, but now, when they thought there was prospect of success, they were ready to speak. He referred to the action of the Government last year when it was proposed to express an opinion upon a matter affecting our interests in the Dominion, when they declared by resolution, which was recorded in the journals of the House, that the Legislature ought not to interfere in a matter which was under the control of the authorities at Ottawa. Nothing more clearly showed the hollowness of the professions of honorable gentlemen opposite, or the shamelessness of their conduct. (Applause.) He went on to speak of difficulties surrounding the question of Home Rule and the position taken by the influential minority representing the Protestant Church in Ireland, and said that no measure of Home Rule which did not consider and respect their rights could be satisfactory. He pointed out it was unwise for the Legislature to assume to speak with authority upon a question in regard to which men who have devoted their lives to the advancement of the cause of liberty were found standing by the government of Great Britain with reference to measures which the House was asked to condemn. He spoke of John Bright, whose eloquent voice had been heard whenever the cause of the oppressed required a champion, either pleading on their behalf or in glowing terms denouncing the oppressor. He referred to the number of great Englishmen who had left their party—men who were not of the landlord class—who had staked their political existence in opposition to the plan of Mr. Gladstone. As an Irishman, he could not be satisfied with the provisions of Mr. Gladstone's measure, which proposed to make Ireland the vassal of England, to make her contribute to the Imperial revenues without giving her a voice in the Imperial Council, and had that plan been carried out it would have been impossible to prevent the idea becoming general in the Irish mind that their contribution to the Imperial treasury was a kind of tribute, and an agitation would necessarily arise for the ultimate separation of Ireland from the Mother Country. In such a case they in Canada, who had all subscribed to the doctrine that there should be no taxation without representation, could not fail to sympathise with the Irish in any demands which they might make, based upon the failure to give them representation. He was in favor of a large measure of Home Rule with proper safeguards for securing the rights of the minority, and recognized that in the past Ireland had sufered from mis-rule. Catholic emancipation had been referred to as if it were something affecting only Ireland, but it was to be remembered that Catholic Emancipation applied to the whole Empire, and that before it was so applied disabilities extended to Catholics in all parts of Great Britain and Ireland. It was not fitting that when there were such wide differences of opinion in this Province upon the question involved in the resolution, this Legislature should be called upon to express any opinion upon it, no matter what the sentiments and opinions of individual members might be. For these reasons he would vote against the resolutions, but if there was no other reason, what had been advanced in the organ of the Liberal party, had been repeated upon the floor of the Dominion Parliament, and had been said by a distinguished dignitary of the the Catholic Church as an inducement to vote in favour of the resolutions, namely, that by doing so we might avoid an attack from Fenian sympathizers in the United States, was quite sufficient. (Applause.) Twice had the Fenians invaded our soil and spilled the blood of our countrymen, but we had in the past been able to repel their attacks. They had attacked us, although we had given them no offence; although in our country there were thousands of Irishmen who had all the rights and liberties of their Protestant fellow-countrymen and we should be a craven people indeed if on account of such threats as these the House voted in favor of the resolution. (Applause.) So far as that argument was concerned, he believed that in the future, as in the past, we were in a position to defend ourselves from unwarranted and unjustifiable attacks upon our country. (Applause.) It was absolutely essential before Home Rule was granted that it should be proved that the people of Ireland were capable of self-government, and that the laws should be protected and obeyed, and the provisions of the Crimes bill were designed to prevent the law being paralyzed, and lawlessness and anarchy reigning supreme in the disaffected districts of Ireland. He disapproved of so much of the bill as provided that the trials for offences committed in Ireland should take place in England. But, in regard to taking away the right of appeal and trial by jury, there was a similar relation in regard to the Canadian Temperance Act, although those who heard the denunciations of hon. gentleman opposite would never have supposed it possible. In his judgment no settlement of the question would be satisfactory which did not involve such conditions as would enable the minority to share in the benefits of the scheme. In Canada, although we had no such differences as existed in Ireland, it was felt necessary to protect the rights of the minority, both in Ontario and Quebec; and whereas in Ireland there had existed for generations an intensely bitter feeling between two classes of the people, it was imperative that a system of self-government should be formed which made it impossible for the majority to oppress the minority. He hoped the day would soon come when the clouds which had obscured the prospects of Ireland would be dissipated, and that a measure of self-government which would be satisfactory to all the people of Ireland, and which would re-unite them, would be granted. (Applause.) In conclusion, he charged the Government with having degraded the sacred cause of Ireland by dragging it down into the political arena and asked what benefit would likely be derived from a discussion such as had taken place. (Applause.)

A TERRIBLE PLAGUE.

Black Fever and Diptheria in the Valley of the St. Maurice.

QUEBEC, April 26.—Lumbermen just returned from the valley of the St. Maurice tell harrowing stories of a terrible plague known as black fever, which is now devastating the whole of the district between the Piles and La Tuque. In addition to the alarming fatalities caused by the black fever, diptheria is also carrying off a large number of victims. At Mount Caribou, some 26 miles from the Piles, the family of a French settler, named Antoine Veaugeois, has been almost decimated. Mr. Veaugeois, who is one of the most prominent residents in that part of the St. Maurice valley, was formerly in the service of the Duke of Monny at Paris. In the course of the week before Easter four of his daughters, three young and unmarried, and the other, the widow of the late P. Fortier, died of black fever. Two young children died a few days later from diphtheria, and about the same time two of Mr. Veaugeois' grandchildren also succumbed, making eight deaths in the same family. Other cases almost as afflicting in character are reported, and the ravages of disease in this district are still unchecked.

Anna Eva Fay, one of the best known mediums in the world, will give one of her marvellous seances at the Opera House tonight.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. dee

Choir Entertained.

On Tuesday night a very enjoyable evening was spent by the members of St. Andrew's Church Choir at the residence of Mr. Wm. Lech. The host, hostess and all the members of the family vied with one another in ministering to the entertainment of their guests. Music, games and social converse made the time pass pleasantly by; after which the inner man was not neglected, but was regaled with a sumptuous refreshment. The happy party broke up at a reasonable hour, all feeling delighted with the evening's enjoyment. Such kindness to the choir as manifested by Mr. and Mrs. Lech and family has a tendency to encourage them in their endeavours to perfect themselves in the praises of Zion much more than carping criticism.

Jubilee Concert.

Mr. Seward, the able and indefatigable musician, has conceived the idea of having a grand Jubilee children's concert on the 21st of June, in the Roller Rink. On hearing o' this plan the following gentlemen most readily and willingly became patrons of the affair, viz:—Judge Dennistoun, F. J. Lewis, Judge Weller, Dr. Boucher, R. W. Muncaster, James Stevenson, M. P., W. G. Ferguson, Geo. A. Cox, W. Cluxton, John Burnham, F. W. Roper and Jas. R. Stratton, M. P. P. The proposal has met with a reception flattering to the spirit of even this vigorous town. It now remains for the public and the children to put themselves at Mr. Seward's disposal and a really grand entertainment at a trivial cost will be the result. The programme will be made up of national songs, as God Save the Queen, Wacht am Rhein, the Russian Anthem, the Austrian Hymn, the Irish and Scotch patriotic songs and the American National Hymn.

THE SPIRITS.

Anna Eva Fay at Bradburn's Opera House—What She Did.

Miss Anna Eva Fay, the spiritualist, appeared in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance.

At the rising of the curtain Mr. Williams, the lecturer, came out and made a brief speech. He said that Miss Fay took the middle ground in regard to spiritualism. Some held that all spiritualistic feats could be done by slight of hand, some that they could be done by scientific methods, others still claimed it was spirit power pure and simple. They did the feats and left the audience to judge for themselves. He claimed that some independent intelligent force would operate here to-night. They called themselves spiritualists. He then showed the cabinet, which he did not call a cabinet but an "enclosure." The performance would be divided into three parts, the first being the light seance. He then asked the audience to nominate a committee and His Worship the Police Magistrate and Mr. John McKee were chosen. The people were then anxious to see Miss Fay, but their curiosity was screwed up to a still higher pitch by the lecturer giving another speech. He impressed the small boys present that absolute and perfect quiet was wanted and without these the experiments could not be gone on with.

Then Miss Fay came on the stage, arrayed in a beautiful costume, glittering diamonds and a tragic air. She was tied in the cabinet in the the ordinary way and did some of the stock tricks, such as driving a nail in the board, drinking a glass of water, ringing bells, playing guitar, etc. She did one clever trick. While her hands were secured, her feet held with a rope by Mr. Dumble and her head tied to a post, a strip of cloth was laid loosely about her neck. The spirits were then requested to tie a knot when lo! in less than a second the curtain was drawn and a knot had been tied. The lecturer then asked the best looking gentleman of the two to enter the cabinet. The audience decided in favor of Mr. McKee and he went into the cabinet. The pail which was put over his head was removed while he was in and the "spirit" did some writing on his shirt cuff.

Considerable amusement was created by this trick: a pair of scissors and a piece of paper were placed on Miss Fay's lap (she being still secured), and the "powers" were asked to cut some figures out of the paper to present to the two gentlemen on the stage. The figures of two babies were cut in a second or two, and one each were given to Messrs. Dumble and McKee amid much laughter. Up to the present the performance was nothing more than the playing of a series of tricks. But now was done something that puzzled everybody. An assistant went through the audience and, Miss Fay being still in the closed cabinet, called out the initials of people as fast as the assistant pointed to them. Thus, B. M. (Bernard Morrow), T. P. A. (T. P. Attrill), J. C. (John Carnegie), E. C. H. (E. C. Hill). "What color is this last gentleman's hair?" asked the assistant. "No color," was the answer, "he hasn't any." Several other clever tricks were done. The last two were raising the tables and chair, and the spirit hand. By simply putting her hand on the table or the chair she raised them aloft and waved them through the air. The spirit hand, likely manipulated by fine threads, answered questions by giving a certain number of raps for certain questions. The hand among other things declared that Mr. McKee was a good medium for beefsteak. This closed the performance.

Wedding Bells.

On Tuesday evening the marriage of Mr. D. Deyell to Miss Queen took place at the bride's home, Auburn, the Rev. E. F. Torrance officiating. The popularity of both bride and groom was attested by the large number of presents sent to them. Among them were a number of very valuable and useful ones from his fellow-workers in the furniture trade.

All the New Cuts in Boys' Clothing made up in good Tweeds and Serges. Now on sale at Turnbull's.

Oddfellows' Entertainment.

A very pleasant evening was spent by a large number of the brethren and other friends in the Otonabee Lodge room. The entertainment committee presented the following very interesting programme:—

PART ONE.

Piano Solo.....La Muette de Portica.....Auber
Mr. J. Edmund Jaques.
Song .....The Golden Threshold
Mrs. R. A. Hamilton.
Rhodian Mystery.....Mr. R. M. Roy & Son
Song.....A Bird on the Wing
Miss Grace Stevens.
Recitation .....Heart's Charity
Mr. J. Hendry.
Vocal Duet.....Misses Johnston and Stevens

PART II.

Instrumental Duet.....Violin and Piano
Mrs. R. A. Hamilton and Miss Kerneghan.
Song.....Miss E. Johnston
The Decapitated Head..Mr. R. M. Roy & Son
Song—Sailing Across the Sea .....Rey
Mr. J. Edmund Jaques.
Vocal Quartette..Misses Johnston and Stevens and Messrs. Stevens and Hill
Materializing of Spirits.....Mr. R. M. Roy
God Save the Queen.

The entertainment was interesting throughout, but especially the numbers filled by Mr. Roy. The illusions he gave completely mystified the audience. The entertainment closed by all joining in singing "God Save the Queen."

EMIN BEY EXPEDITION.

Mr. Stanley's Progress—Confident of Success—His Plan of Proceeding.

Advices from the Stanley expedition to the relief of Emin Bey have been received from Matadi, on the Congo River, dated March 12. The steamer Madura (which carried Mr. Stanley from Zanzibar) was unable to ascend the Congo to Matadi. The entire expedition landed at Aanana Point and re-embarked upon March 18, aboard vessels belonging to the Inter-national Association, which were awaiting the expedition. Next day the expedition anchored at Bema, the seat of the general administration of the Congo Free State, and a cordial reception was given the whole body. Mr. Stanley was confident of the success of his enterprise, and hoped that by June he would be able to render effectual assistance to Emin Bey. The Congo Association had arranged to victual the expedition from Matadi to Leopoldville. From Stanleypool Mr. Stanley hoped to march rapidly and to surprise the enemies hedging Emin Bey. The expedition left Boma March 21 and arrived at Matadi on the 22nd and there disembarked. The river is unnavigable thence to Lepoldville, on account of the Livingstone Falls. The expedition was to proceed on foot for eighteen days along the falls, and expected to reach Leopoldville April 16, where Mr. Stanley was to be met by four steamers belonging to the Congo State. The English and French mission stations of the Upper Congo had also been requested to place their two steamers at his service. The alliance made with Tippo Tib, and the appointment of him to the Governorship of Stanley Falls, is regarded by the expedition as a master-stroke by Mr. Stanley, who will be able to use Tippo's great influence to protect the expedition after it leaves the Congo States stations.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

Mr. Curran's Resolutions Carried by a Large Majority.

OTTAWA, April 26.—A vote was reached in the House of Commons to-night on Mr Curran's resolution and the the amendments thereto. THE COLONIAL CONFERENCE.

An Old Country View—The Requirements and Future Possibilities.

The Standard of London, England, has an able article on the Colonial Conference now being held in that city. We reproduce the concluding portion as follows:—

However largely the topic of Postal Communications, and that of joint action in regard to emigration, may occupy the attention of the Conference, they will not be allowed, we hope, to encroach on the time allotted for the discussion of the most important question which will be brought before it. This, we need hardly say, is that of Imperial Defence. This is at once pressing and capable of immediate consideration. That it is urgent nobody will be inclined to question. If it was so last November, when Mr. Stanhope's circular was issued, it is even more so at the present time, when the world has been living for months in constant apprehension of a gigantic war. The scare has at least awakened us to a consciousness of the position in which we should stand in the event of our having to face hostile combination of great Naval and Military Powers. We know that, vast as is the strength and enormous as are the resources of this country and her Colonies, we are vulnerable, not at one or two points, but at a score. Our fleet, it is true, may be trusted to secure our town coasts against invasion; but it will be called upon not only to do this, but to protect our scattered commerce, our coaling stations, and our Colonies as well. It is to help us in making this immense task possible that we need the assistance of the Colonies as much as they require our own. Left each to itself the Colonies might be able to defend themselves against the risk of serious invasion from any but a first-class Power, but they could hardly be expected to do more. Combined with us, each province would become one link in such a chain of maritime fortresses as the world has never yet known. An Empire which is scattered over five continents is easily attached; but if its strength is rightly organised, this very diffusion adds to its capacity for resistence and offence. But a modern Fleet cannot fight unless it has its stores of fuel, its arsenals, its docks, and its victualling-yard within easy reach. England, alone of all the Powers, has its harbours in every sea, and its coaling-stations always at hand. It is no vain boast that, if our opportunities were properly utilised, we should be able to defy the combined Naval strength of the world. With a great line of sea fortresses extending from the Channel, through Gibraltar, Malta, Aden and Hong-Kong, to the Pacific; with a second Chatham at Esquimault, and a southern Plymouth at Port Philip; with an Australian and a South African Navy, sailing under the Imperial flag, and forming an integral part of the Imperial armament; with Canada, the fourth maritime country of the world, to draw upon for ships and sailors—with such a combination, the supremacy of the Anglo-Saxon race on the ocean would be greater than in the most glorious days of our past history. Nor is this a mere dream of the future. Political federation may be distant and fiscal union more remote still; but the first steps have already been taken towards the formation of the great maritime confederacy, and it needs nothing but resolute and patriotic Statesmanship to bring it to maturity.

QUEBEC, April 26.—It is stated on good authority that Cardinal Taschereau has withdrawn all objections to the Jesuit bill after hearing arguments of its promoters. The bill will come for its third reading at an early [illegible].

It May be Remarked.

—That some people say Anna Eva Fay is a wonder.

—That some say she's a fraud.

—That everybody says she does clever tricks.

—That a meeting of the Oddfellows reception committee will be held this evening.

—That Terry Smith is out with his watering cart laying the dust.

PORT HOPE.

LOST A LEG.—On Saturday afternoon, on a farm about one mile and a half north of Grafton, Patrick Laughlin was engaged in digging under a huge boulder for the purpose of sinking it in the ground out of sight, when it suddenly slipped and fell upon his right leg, crushing muscle and bone almost from knee to ankle. Dr. Boyce was called, and finding the case so critical and dangerous, summoned the Dr. Clark in consultation. A careful examination proving the injury to be irreparable, the unfortunate man was placed under chloroform and the limb amputated at the knee joint.—Times.

The Bible in Public Schools.

The Rev. Mr. Herridge preached on Sunday evening to a crowded congregation in St. Andrew's church, Ottawa, on the Bible in public schools. He held that it was absolutely necessary for the future welfare of the Dominion that all the fundamental truths of Christianity should be taught to children. The Bible could be read in schools without the introduction of any sectarian feeling. The teacher who was not able to take up the scriptures and choose a judicious selection which was not the ground of controversy was unfit for his position.

WEDNESDAY, April 27.—H. Marshall and Geo. Wilson were charged by P. C. Adams with having been disorderly on the public streets. The charge was proved and a fine of $2 imposed on each.

COW AT LARGE.

T. Theobold was charged by P. C. Adams with having a cow running at large. The Magistrate satisfied himself of the truth of the charge and imposed a fine of $2.

COW ACT.

THURSDAY, April 28.—Timothy Cavanagh was charged with committing an offence against the provisions of the Scott Act. A plea of guilty was entered, and a previous conviction being proved a fine of $100 and costs was imposed.

COW AT LARGE.

A. Alliston was charged by P. C. McGinty with allowing a cow owned by him to run at large. Justice to the extent of a $2 fine was dealt out in this case also.

THE YOUNG BURGLARS.

The four boys charged with breaking into Wainwright's butcher shop were up on remand this morning. Considerable evidence was taken, which cleared two of the boys of guilt. The evidence was strong against Jerry Flaherty and Jimmy Dwyer, however. The Magistrate was disposed to act leniently towards the boys on account of their tender years, neither being more than 8 or 9 years of age. After giving a sound lecture to young Flaherty he was dismissed. The father of the Dwyer boy, however, laid a complaint against him, charging him with being an incorrigibly bad boy. Evidence was taken and Jimmy was sentenced to an indefinite term in the Reformatory, not exceeding five years.

CAMPBELLFORD.

FOOTBALL.—One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings that has been held in Campbellford to organize an athletic association took place on Monday evening, when about thirty young men enrolled themselves as members of the Association Football Club.

WAKE UP THE PREACHER.—An instance of the attentiveness of Sabbath worshippers was seen in a certain church in Campbellford, one Sunday morning recently, when fourteen individuals became drowsy and took a little nap while the pastor was delivering the words of life from the pulpit.

A BROKEN BONE.—On Friday afternoon a little child of Mr. E. S. Platt, aged 2 years, fell from the verandah of the house, a distance of about three feet and broke the bone of its left arm near the wrist. The little fellow bore up bravely while the bone was being set.—Herald.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ACCIDENT.—We are sorry to learn that the mill dam and slide are washed away. The mills are both in running order as the water is very high.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. A. A. McIntyre has the contract to fix up Mr. Read's church into two dwelling houses. Dr. Harrison has enlarged his green house about one third. He also intends to have his wind mill and fountains at work before long.

LACROSSE.—The Lacrosse club are getting into shape and especially so since Mr. Jas. McFarlane has returned to Keene.

MASONIC.—Keene Lodge meets on Thursday evening, May 5th. Members of sister lodges are cordially invited.

The New York Canals.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 27.—Supt. Shanahan says that the canals will be opened on Thursday, May 5th, or Saturday, May 7th.

Prohibition Enforced.

WICHITA, Kansas, April 27.—At midnight every saloon in the city was closed by order of the mayor. Hereafter the prohibitory law will be strictly enforced.

Murder and Suicide.

COLDWATER, Mich., April 27.—Last night Thomas Johnson, of Knoxville, Tenn., formerly of this city, mortally wounded Geo. W. Gardner, and slightly wounded Mrs. Gardner, his former wife, and then shot himself. Johnston had been separated from the woman several years, and Gardner had been married to her about three years.

The Knights of Labor.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—The Executive Council of the Window Glass Worker's National Assembly No. 300, Knights of Labor, has requested Isaac Cline to resign the office of president of the Assembly on the ground that he has neglected his duties and proved incompetent. The request was signed by all the members. It is expected that Cline will decline to resign.

The French Princes.

NEW YORK, April 26.—A London despatch to the World says the Comte de Paris arrived at Plymouth yesterday afternoon from Lisbon, accompanied by his son the Duc D'Orleans and the Marquis de Beauvoir. They go to Cambeley, near Sandhurst, where a house has been engaged for the Duc D'Orleans during his studies at the Royal Military College. The Comte and Comtesse are to entertain the Prince and Princess Philip, of Saxe-Cobourg Gotha when they come to England for the jubilee.

Bricklayers to Strike.

LONDON, Ont., April 26.—The bricklayers of the city will go out on strike on Monday, no settlement having been reached between them and their employers. The bricklayers asked for an advance of wages from 30 to 33⅓ cents per hour. The employers offered to arbitrate the matter, but the union refused and insisted on the advance. The employers now say they will fight the matter out to the end, and as the men are well backed up there is s prospect of a vigorous fight on both sides.

Postoffice Broken Into.

COTEAU LANDING, Que., April 26.—On April 25th the postoffice at Coteau Landing was entered by burglars and [illegible] about $140. The thieves forced their way through the cellar window and got into the office by the cellar door. They succeeded in boring a hole through the safe, and by means of dynamite forced the door and knocked out the bottom, injuring it very much. They searched for registered letters, but fortunately there was only one in the office, which was found to contain no money, but only receipts for insurance, so they left it behind.

Interstate Commerce.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Senator Reagen, in a letter to a Texas newspaper, vigorously defends his Interstate Commerce Law. He says the united efforts of the railways and the newspapers they own and hire are employed to deceive and mislead the Interstate Commissioners into nullifying the Act. If the Commissioners should yield to the demands of the companies, the true remedy will be to repeal so much of the law as provides for the creation of the Commission, and let that part of it stand which provides for the protection of the rights of the people through the instrumentality of the Courts.

The Disallowance Question.

WINNIPEG, April 27.—In the Local Legislature, yesterday, the anti-disallowance resolution moved by Mr. Leacock were discussed. Speeches were made by Messrs. Leacock, Martin, Greenway and others, insisting that the disallowance be immediately done away with. Mr. Kirchoffer, of Brandon, moved an amendment modifying that portion of the resolution which states in effect that the Canadian Pacific Railway monopoly is ruining the country. The amendment was supported by the Hon. Mr. Norquay and other members of the Government, but was rejected by a vote of 18 to 14. Five conservative members voted with the Opposition.

An Insane Man Attempts Murder.

CINCINNATI, April 26.—Henry Heile, living with his wife and two young children on Sycamore-street, this morning made a murderous attack on his wife with a hatchet, felling her to the floor. He then went to the bed where the children were lying and aimed a blow at them. The mother recovering consciousness in time to see the the danger, threw herself between the descending weapon and her children. The blade struck her thick roll of hair, thus breaking its force. Her husband then for a moment desisted, and his wife threw open the window and screamed for help. This seemed to frighten Heile, who, dropping the hatchet, fled to the kitchen, where he cut his throat with a butcher knife. Heile has been mildly insane for a year.

REPEAL OR BETTER TERMS.

The Nova Scotia Government Resolutions Adopted.

HALIFAX, April 27.—In the House of Assembly this afternoon Dr. McKay (Conservative) introduced the following amendment to the Government's repeal resolutions:—

"That in the opinion of this House a contuance of such agitation is inexpedient, impolitic and unwise, and should not therefore be persisted in. That this House strongly affirms the right of the Province by legitimate constitutional means, through its representatives in Local as well as in Dominion Legislature, to claim and press at any time when occasion may demand for an amelioration of its financial condition on fair and equitable terms. That the expenditure of the revenue of this province should be strictly confined to those provincial services for which the Federal subsidies were granted, and should not be extended to branches of the public service for which the Dominion Parliament is bound to provide."

The House divided at a late hour to-night on the resolutions. Dr. McKay's opposition amendment was defeated, only five voting in its support, and the original motion was carried with eight votes cast against it.

THE ALLEGED PARNELL LETTER.

Mr. Gladstone Gives His Views—Defence of Parnell.

LONDON, April 27.—It has transpired that Mr. Gladstone, in his speech at the dinner given by the labour members of Parliament last night, declared his entire disbelief in the accusations made against the Irish leaders. Mr. Gladstone said in May, 1882, immediately after the assassination of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke in Phœnix Park, Mr. Parnell wrote him a letter with reference to that crime. The contents of the letter, which had obviously been written under great mental distress, threw considerable light upon the topic of the present hour, and was strong evidence in favor of the contention that the Times letter was a base and malicious forgery. Mr. Parnell apparently foreseeing that in the public mind he would be associated with the crime, offered to place himself without reserve in Mr. Gladstone's hands. He wrote that he regarded the murders with the utmost abhorrence, and he offered no resign the leadership of the Irish party and retire from political life if Mr. Gladstone considered such a step advisable [illegible] of Ireland. Mr. Gladstone said he would refrain from saying what reply he made, adding that it was only a short time since he obtained Mr. Parnell's assent to his mentioning the matter.

Alluding to the advice tendered Mr. Parnell from certain quarters that he should bring an action against the Times, Mr. Gladstone said that many years ago, when he was Commissioner to the Ionian Islands, the Times bitterly attacked him, accusing him of treason. On returning to England he consulted a famous lawyer, with the view of bringing an action, but was dissuaded from taking legal steps, the lawyer expressing the conviction that, even if Mr. Gladstone proved his case, no jury in the then state of public mind would be likely to convict the Times. Mr. Gladstone's statement has caused an absorbing sensation in the clubs, but has not yet appeared in the press. The Conservatives talk of challenging the production of the letters.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RUNAWAY.—On Wednesday of last week a young man from Milbrook, who had driven W. Hopwood, a commercial traveller, to this village, in a buss belonging to the Queen's Hotel, was about to return, when he ran into the hotel here to pay his bill, leaving his team standing in the rig at the door, with the lines over the dashboard. He had no sooner gone in than his team started off on a walk which soon became a trot, and from a trot to a fierce run, which was kept up till they ran astride of a telephone pole, at the south end of the village, with such force that they broke it off at the ground, and at the same time the pole of the rig was shivered to pieces, after which one of the horses got loose, and ran a short distance south and then turned around to see why the other was not following it. Fortunately no injury was done, except the breaking of some parts of the harness and the pole of the rig.

ANOTHER BLACKSMITH.—Mr. Thomas Fennell, of Milbrook, has purchased the tools and shop, that were used by the late Horace Adrain, and intends to commence blacksmithing here at once.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. Adrain is leaving this place and going to her parents who live near Ottawa.

QUICK WORK.—Messrs. Charlie and W. H. White of this vicinity, put a cut through a sound green maple log 16 inches in diameter, with a cross cut saw one day last week in the short time of 57 seconds, they being timed by Messrs. John Best and Jos. Bland. If William Henry and Charlie could continue this rate, sawing machines would be cast aside in this locality for at least during their days of vigour.

MOVED.—Mr. Lott, who has been running Mr. Geo. Jameson's grist mill here for the past eight or nine months, has moved from this place to the county of Hastings.

GAMES.—Cricket is the popular game among the boys here, and croquet is the popular one among the ladies this year.

THE PHŒNIX PARK MURDERS.

LONDON, April 27.—The Hon. Timothy D. Sullivan, Lord Mayor of Dublin, has written to the Times in behalf of the Nation and Weekly News, in reply to the correspondent who accused the Nationalist papers of refusing to insert the Government advertisement offering a reward for evidence that would lead to the arrest of the Phœnix Park murderers. Mr. Sullivan says that though the papers declined to take Castle money they announced the reward in their news columns in leaded type and charged nothing for it.

RELEASE DEMANDED.

PARIS, April 27.—It is stated that M. Flourens has sent to M. Herbette a despatch instructing him to demand the release of M. Schnaebeles as having been the victim of a stratagem in the exercise of his duties as commisioner on French soil. The German press is becoming more aggressive. Extracts from the newspapers of Berlin and Cologne, which are reprinted in Paris journals, are causing uneasiness and growing anger. The French press is impatient, nervous and discouraged by the unworthy and unjust provocations of the German Government. The press advises the Government to act with energy, but without taking an aggressive attitude. M. Rochefort advises a general boycott of Germans and their products.

NIHILIST TRIALS.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 27.—The trial of nine men and three women, mostly young students, charged with complicity in the recent attempt to kill the Czar, will commence to-day before the political law senators with closed doors. Even the relatives of the accused will be excluded from the court. The indictment, which has been drawn up by the Attorney-General, is a voluminous document. It is stated that the accuse have confessed their guilt. It is said the Czar would have been killed on the 10th inst. if he had taken his usual carriage drive. The plot leaked out through information given by the ladlady of the house where some of the students boarded. The women to be put on trial have been allowed to consult lawyers.

VIOLENT STORM IN EUROPE.

VIENNA, April 27.—Monday's storm was of exceptional violence in Moravia and Gatacia. Twenty railway workmen sought shelter in a building which was struck by lightning, and two were killed and the others rendered deaf. Twenty-three peasants were crossing the river Seine during the storm, when the boat upset and the greater number were drowned.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1887.

A FAIR ILLUSTRATION.

In the correspondence which has passed between the Rev. Alex. Bell and Mr. J. B. McWilliams, anent certain charges made by the latter against the former, the reader has a fair, but no more than fair, illustration of the manner in which the political writers of the party to which Mr. McWilliams belongs are, as a rule, in the habit of discussing the issues which from time to time arise between them and their opponents.

As our readers have both sides of this controversy, if we may dignify it by such a name, fully and completely before them, we will avail ourselves of it to illustrate and enforce the reasons which have induced the REVIEW to adopt the rule of treating with silent contempt the utterances of certain journals, whose mode of argument is modelled after that of Mr. McWilliams, or his after that of theirs—we know not which.

To ninety-nine per cent. of ordinary readers taking up and reading the letters which passed between these gentlemen, in the order in which they were written, we are sure the points raised by Mr. Bell will appear to be reasonable, and such as should have, received an answer to the point from any man.

Let us look at them for a moment:—Mr McWilliams in a public speech as reported in the local papers, charges the Rev. Mr. Bell with garbling and dishonesty in the course of a sermon delivered in his pulpit—a charge which no one having a proper respect for himself and the decencies of life would deliberately bring against another, especially when that other is a clergyman, without being prepared to back up his statement with the evidence upon which he founded it. Seeing this report Mr. Bell writes and asks if the reports in question correctly represent what Mr. McWilliams said, and in reply is informed that they do, whereupon Mr. McWilliams is asked to do ONE OF TWO THINGS, either to withdraw his damaging statements OR to prove them. Was that an unreasonable request? No man worthy of the name we venture to think will say that it was not. Yet this is precisely what Mr. J. B. McWilliams has done in this instance. He reiterates and amplifies his charges in the most insulting manner possible, but advances not a single word in support of them. From the beginning to the end of his letters not a single attempt is made to show wherein Mr. Bell either garbled or dishonestly quoted the documents referred to. He coolly ignores this part of Mr. Bell's request, and launches out in a tirade of abuse based upon the false assumption that he was ONLY asked to withdraw his charges, which to most people will be, as it is to us, the best possible proof that Mr. J. B. McWilliams, like the other writers whom we have more particularly in view, is unable to prove charges made in the vain hope of counteracting the effects of arguments which are otherwise unanswerable.

Unfortunately the reader cannot always be favored with both sides at once, as they are on the present occasion, but from this example they will easily understand that where this either cannot be done, or is not worth the space, controversy with opponents of the McWilliams stamp, is not only unprofitable, but likely to lead into highways and byways neither calculated to benefit honest journalism, nor to promote a healthy tone in the discussion of public questions.

QUEENS, N. B.

THE question as to the Queens, N. B., election may be put in a nutshell. Was the acknowledged infraction of the law by Mr. King, the Reform candidate, of such a nature as to leave him in the present position of his seat, being subject to attack on the ground of his irregularity, or as to give his opponent, Mr. Baird, possession subject to Mr. King proving his claim not be invalidated by his irregularity? Whichever way the question of immediate possession of the seat is determined according to law and precedent, we hope that the eventual determination will be in accordance with the spirit rather than the letter of the statute. If he was by merely guilty of a technical, inadvertent breach of the law he should have the seat; if he was a disqualified candidate seeking to evade by a trick the law of his country, he should not have the seat. Till these points are determined it is mere dishonest factiousness to attempt to prejudice the case in favor of an acknowledged law breaker. Even if he is entitled to the seat it is his own fault if he is put to inconvenience and delay by his failure to observe the law. We know that in one case, that of Frontenac, such an irregularity covered a bogus Reform deposit, for we have the statement in a law court of the depositor.

Evicted by Government

PIERRE, Dak., April 26.—The eviction of settlers from Big Bend has commenced and a number have already been removed. The settlers have been given three days' notice to go and if still on the ground at the expiration of that time the military will take charge. A poor widow named Ryan, with her all invested was ordered off, but having no means the soldiers loaded her furniture into a waggon, placed the old lady on top and carted her to the nearest station. The soldiers will remain three weeks on Crow Creek reservation and the Government will fence in the greater part of the land. Indignation runs high and efforts are being made to suppress the cruel treatment marked out.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Home Rule and Coercion—Mr. Curran's Resolution Carried by a Large Majority—Queen's County Election—The Fisheries.

TUERDAY, April 26.—A number of bills, chiefly of a local nature, were introduced.

QUEEN'S COUNTY.

Mr. SKINNER gave notice that on Thursday he would move the insertion of the name of Mr. G. G. King as the member for Queen's County, N. B, instead of Mr. G. S. Baird.

OUR FISHERIES.

Mr. FOSTER, in reply to Mr. Blake, said they had only obtained leave on Tuesday to bring down the latest batch of papers on the fishery question. They were being now printed and would soon be brought down.

HOME RULE AND COERCION.

Mr. FREEMAN resumed the debate on the Irish question. He believed in Home Rule and sympathized with Ireland, but he thought the evils could not be cured by legislation. They wanted home industries, a diminution of their drink bill of sixty-five million dollars, or more than their whole rent, and some of the money collected for the Irish cause might be given to poor Irish people turned out by Irish landlords.

Mr. MILLS thought if we had no right to legislate on Irish questions we had a right to express our opinion. It was our interest to have the question settled on account of the Irishmen in the United States. He argued against the Coercion bill, and urged that the Ku-Klux-Klan outrages in the Southern States had ceased when the carpet baggers were withdrawn. Ireland could only be ruled by an Irish Parliament.

Mr. WOOD (Westmoreland) did not think we should interfere with Imperial legislation, though he believed in Home Rule, but the position of Ireland should be that of the Provinces to the Dominion not of Canada to great Britain.

Mr. GIGAULT spoke in favor of the motion, attacked Mr. McCarthy and discussed the union of Upper and Lower Canada.

Mr. CURRAN summed up the debate and consented to Mr. Blake's changes to make the House "hope" instead of "protest."

Mr. McCarthy's amendment was rejected by 133 to 49.

Mr. DAVIN moved in amendment to the amendment that this House learns with regret that this considered necessary to pass a coercive measure for Ireland, and it reaffirms its conviction, as expressed in the resolutions of 1882 and 1886, that a plan of local government for Ireland which would leave unimpaired the links connecting Ireland with the British Empire and guard the rights of the minority, would be conducive to the prosperity of Ireland and the stability of the Empire. That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Marquis of Salisbury.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT attacked some of the ministers who were dining with the Secretary of State and had not then come in. He thought there was much to be said for the view of Mr. McNeill and Mr. O'Brien against interference with imperial legislation, but argued that fear of the Fenians justified us in speaking. He expressed himself in favour of Mr. Gladstone's policy, but went on to describe the Home Rule he would give to Ireland as being similar to that given to our Provinces within the Dominion.

Mr. IVES censured Sir R. Cartwright for his attacks upon the absent Ministers, and referred to some of Mr. Blake's bolting performances. He pointed out that a number of Opposition members were absent, among them some of the syndicate to conduct the Reform leadership.

Mr. MITCHELL said that the Reformers had good reason for absence and resumed the abuse of the absent Ministers, till the entrance of Sir John and his colleagues amid cheers, silenced him.

SIR D. SMITH thought it well this had been left an open question. He declined to dictate to the Imperial Parliament and resented the imputation that those only who could not agree with the resolution had any sympathy for Ireland. He favoured giving to Ireland control our local affairs while maintaining connection with the central Government.

Mr. BRIEN supported the resolution.

Mr. WRIGHT spoke in favour of the motion and of Home Rule, which he thought might be granted without danger and with great gain this Jubilee year.

Mr. PATTERSON (Essex) hoped there would be no opposition to Mr. Curran's motion as now modified.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD laughingly chided those who had attacked him for his temporary absense. When Parliament had spoken in favour of Home Rule he thought it was their right to express their opinion, but the Imperial authorities had officially censured them for their interference. Mr. Gladstone condemned them for it in his place in the House of Commons. Still he would vote for the resolution if he thought it would do good, but he could not see what it could effect when the Imperial House of Commons had passed the second reading of the Crimes bill by a large majority after a long discussion. He was a strong advocate of Home Rule and he did not believe mixing up with it the question of pending criminal legislation when they had not even full information regarding it. If he had been present he would have voted for Mr. McCarty's amendment. He thought we should avoid creating unnecessary differences with the Imperial Government, which had always treated Canada well, whichever party was in power. He referred to Mr. Gigault's speech as to the old Canadian politics and said that gentleman was ungrateful to the "Tories" who had stood by Quebec against Mr. George Brown and the Reformers. He announced that he would vote for Mr. Davin's amendment.

Mr. MILLS did not agree with Sir John and would not vote for the amendment.

Mr. DAVIN'S amendment was negatived by 128 to 59.

Mr. MCNEIL'S amendment was then put and negatived by 133 to 56.

Mr. McCarthy, Mr. Blake and Mr. Gigault spoke briefly.

Mr. MILLS read from the Confederation debates to support an attack he made upon Sir John Macdonald for an asserted advocacy of legislative and not federal union.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD routed Mr. Mills by reading a little further, and showing that Mr. Mills had dishonestly garbled to support a false charge.

Mr. CURRAN'S resolution was then put and carried by 135 to 47 on the following division:—

'TIS THE OTHER FELLOWS.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—In the evening paper of Thursday, 21st April, I saw a paragraph giving the boys of the village a rather rough handling, and all unmerited, as the "young roughs" of whom the writer complains are not village roughs, but farmer's sons. He is right about the noise and racket which nightly raised around the doors of the "Barracks." As for sticks and stones being laid on the sidewalk to trip people, I have not heard of such a thing being done since F. A. August resigned his position in our school. I myself, at the time he was teaching here, have run against the obstructions intended for another party.

As I said before it is the boys from the country who do all the insulting and not the village boys.

Only last night (Sunday evening) I saw two boys, sons of respectable farmers of Smith, who promenaded up and down our main street singing and carrying on in a way disgraceful both to themselves and their families. Their conduct was most objectionable and their language profane while they were following a couple of young ladies up and down the street.

I quite agree with "Villager" that steps ought to be taken at once to repress this nuisance, but I think that he would have done better had he found out the true offenders before writing as he did.

Hoping you will print the above letter and thanking you for your valuable space,

I am,

ONE OF THE VILLAGE BOYS.

Newspapers in 1887.

Geo. P. Rowell & Co., of New York, will issue on Monday, May 2nd, the Nineteenth Annual edition of their standard publication, the "American Newspaper Directory." The new volume contains an exhaustive list of all Class Publications so admirably arranged that any one of the three thousand papers represented there can be readily referred to and all important facts concerning it, together with its circulation rating, easily obtained. The Newspaper Directory will be used principally by Publishers, Advertisers and Advertising Agents, but the vast fund of information in contains makes it valuable to persons of almost every trade and profession. As a Gazetteer alone it is well worth the price charged, $5.00, for it fully describes every town in which a newspaper is issued, and few people care to know about any place where one is not. The number of papers published in United States, Territories (including Alaska) and Canada, is 15,420; an increase of 581 in one year. The growth of newspapers in some of the Western States would be a matter of wonder if it were not that this year is no exception to the rule. In Kansas the increase is 89 and in Nebraska 64; while the Keystone State shows a smaller advance of 35 and the Buckeye State of 30. Pennsylvania exhibits the largest increase in dailies, 17; Kansas in weeklies, 81, and New York in monthlies, 42. Seven States show a decrease: the most prominent instance being New Hampshire and Virginia, six each. The whole volume shows that great care has been taken to sustain its reputation as the most comprehensive work of the kind yet published, and to insure accuracy in every detail. Anything less than a complete compendium of American newspapers and periodicals would surprise those who are familiar with the former efforts of this firm, who are so well known as the oldest largest and best known of all the American Advertising Agencies.

NOTICE.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Indian Supplies," will be received at this office up to noon of SATURDAY, 30th April, 1887, for the delivery of Indian Supplies during the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1888, consisting of Flour, Bacon, Groceries, Ammunition, Twine, Oxen, Cows, Bulls, Agricultural Implements, Tools, &c., duty paid, at various points in Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

Forms of tender containing fullates of deliverative to the Supplies required, d to the unvery, &c., may be had by applyingssioner at designed, or to the Indian Comminipeg. Regina, or to the Indian Office, Winiption of Parties may tender for each description of goods (or for any portion of each description of goods) separately or for all the goods called for in the Schedules, and the department reserves to itself the right to reject the whole or any part of a tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted Cheque on a Canadian Bank in favour of the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs for at least five per cent. of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into a contract based on such tender when called upon to do so or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

Tenderers must make up in the Money columns in the Schedule the total money value of the goods they offer to supply or their tender will not be entertained.

Each tender must, in addition to the signature of the tenderer, be signed by two sureties acceptable to the department, for the proper performance of the contract.

When implements of a particular make are mentioned it is because the articles so designated suit the department for the purpose required better than others; in such cases the competition between tenderers must, of course, be in the transportation to the place of delivery.

In all cases where transportation may be only partial by rail, contractors must make proper arrangements for supplies to be forwarded at once from railway stations to their destination in the Government Warehouse at the point of delivery.

Tenderers will please note carefully the following conditions:—

1. Supplies will not be paid for until the Department has been assured of the satisfactory delivery of each article for which payment is claimed.
2. No tender for supplies of a description different to that given in the index will be considered, and supplies which are found, on delivery, to be of kind or quality different to those described, will be rejected by the agents of the department; and the contractor and his sureties will be held responsible for any loss entailed on the Department through failure to deliver in accordance with terms of contract.
3. It must be distinctly understood that supplies are to be delivered at the various points for the prices named in the tender; that no other additional charge for packing or any other account will be entertained, and that an invoice must accompany each separate delivery of supplies. An invoice for each separate delivery must also be sent to the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa, and one to the Indian Commissioner at Regina, if the supplies are for the North-West Territories. When the supplies are for points in the Manitoba Superintendency the triplicate invoice should be sent to E. McColl, Winnipeg.
4. Prices must be given for articles to be delivered at each point of delivery named in the Schedule for each article for which a tender is submitted, and not an average price for each article at all points of delivery; no tender based on a system of averages will be considered.
5. Tenderers should understand that they must bear the cost, not only of sending their samples to the Department of Indian Affairs, but also freight charges incurred in returning such samples to the tenderer.
6. When supplies are to be delivered "equal to sample," tenderers should understand that the sample is to be seen either at the Department of Indian Affairs, at the office of the Indian Commissioner at Regina, at the office of the Inspector in charge at Winnipeg, or at any one of the undermentioned Indian Agencies.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

He sat and looked straight before him. A hand touched his arm. Some notes and dispatches were given him. One of the notes read:

"Permit an old friend to congratulate you very sincerely, and to wish you success.

"SHIRLEY CARSTONE."

Then it was the turn of somebody else to start, with a great heart beat, and as suddenly fall back into stillness.

He folded the little white paper smoothly and put it into his breast pocket. If his hand trembled slightly, nobody knew it. The shining, eagle-like glance roamed over the galleries aimlessly, it seemed, but in reality looking for her who was still the one woman of all the world to Philip Dumoray.

He found her. It may be that some subtle soul telegraph sent messages from her to him. It may be that the invisible silver line between them had never been broken, in spite of all and of all these years.

A silent, thrilling look of recognition passed between the two. It was only for an instant, and none saw it but themselves. Yet in that lightning flash there was inspiration for him, there was—God knows what for her. She could not have told herself, only that she saw him once more.

Dumoray had never spoken before as he did that day.

They said his speech was such that it carried even those who were opposed to him off their feet.

He was a master in the use of simple, direct Anglo-Saxon, and at the same time his language was perfect in its grace and polish. His voice was a ringing music; every sentence told like a hammer stroke. His speech stirred the blood and thrilled the heart. It was one of those marvelous orations to which the scholar and the unlettered man listened with like enthusiasm.

He grew more and more impassioned as he went on, till the vast audience were fascinated and melted as one man. Sounds of applause, which could not be quite checked even there, interrupted him at short intervals, so that he waited a little for it to subside. Evermore in these pauses the starlike eye sought Shirley's, the grand head turned unconsciously toward where she sat. And none knew it but Shirley. As for her she listened with beating heart and shining eyes, her thought repeating constantly: "It's just what I would have said myself, the very words."

CHAPTER XX.

THE RECEPTION.

That evening there was a reception at the mansion of the secretary of state. Among the throng was a congressman, a tall man of noble countenance, with radiant dark eyes and white hair. He stood a little apart, and watched a lady who was moving through the crowd. All his soul was in his eyes as they followed her, not now a blooming girl in a white robe, with a red rose in her hair, as he saw her last, but a tall, pale woman in a dress of shining black stuff. Her marvelous loveliness, though different, was as striking as ever. Hers was a beauty greater than time could dim. It was the comeliness of a beautiful soul, of a woman young with the eternal youth of genius and enthusiasm.

A gentleman was with her, fine and manly looking, and young. They neared the place where the congressman stood, coming slowly. His heart beat like a boy's again. He stepped back a little into the shadow. She moved through the throng erect and queenly, with the grace of a goddess. At every step she seemed to meet friends. Gray haired men, distinguished in public life, bowed to her with grave courtesy. Frank, ambitious young men, their souls yet full of boyish enthusiasm, pressed to meet her with a gladness beaming in their eyes. Young men adored Shirley.

They came so near that Congressman Dumoray heard the sound of their voices.

"How many friends you have, Shirley," he heard the gentleman beside her say.

She smiled faintly and shook her head. "I have hundreds of pleasant acquaintances, but not many friends, I think, Robert," she replied. "I don't like becoming attached to people in earnest. I hold them so high; and then after awhile they are sure to turn out either stupid or false."

"I wouldn't have believed you were such a cynic," said the gentleman.

"Oh, no; not that. But I don't like to be roused up. It hurts me so to find myself mistaken in my friends.

Dumoray heard her say it. He came out from the shadow, and took a turn through the long hall, and advancing met her face to face.

If a host of fierce emotions fell suddenly to fighting within their two souls, their quiet, cold faces gave no sign. They greeted each other as calmly as any two human beings might. Of all the love, the despair, the heartache that had been, if anything was left, no man alive could have discerned it.

"This," said Shirley, "is my English brother-in-law, Mr. Edgerly, who detests America and still can't keep away from it."

Now that he stood beside her, the man she loved saw with a quick pang how pale she was and the fragile look the years had left, as they stole, drop by drop, her splendid red blooded strength and elasticity.

"You look pale," he said. "It is very close here. If your brother doesn't mind I should like to take you into the air a little."

Robert bowed. She put her hand upon his arm, and they moved through the crowd to a recess where there was an open window. Here they were quite alone. They stood and looked into the brilliant night in utter silence. Yet still, if the feelings of other days came surging in a great wave over their hearts, the calm, cold faces, the motionless attitude, showed it not.

At length they talked, of indifferent matters first, then of their lives since they parted. It had been half a generation since then, yet these two were fated never to grow old in their feelings. At last he said suddenly:

"Has it ever seemed to you, Shirley, that you could truly forgive me?"

"I have done so long since," she answered, softly.

He pressed in silence the fair, strong hand upon his arm.

His wife lived on the same in body and mind. For all the change to be noticed in her, it might have been no more than a year since the morning she tried to murder Shirley. He found that Shirley's life, too, had gone on in the same melancholy round, the never ending care for others, the steady crucifixion of her own dearest hopes, the constant putting off from year to year the attainment of her own brightest ambitions, the brave marching onward under a burden of toil few men would or could have carried. She would have been too proud to accept aid had it been offered her. Was she never to cast her load aside till she laid it down in the grave? His heart ached for her—so proud, so gifted, and yet so weak in her great strength. And he could do nothing for her—nothing.

He led her back at last to the place where Robert waited. Before he turned to leave her once more, he said:

"I have told you twice before, Shirley—the first time more than twenty years ago—that if ever I could come to you I would do it. Remember that still, if you care to. If ever I am free, though it be a century, I will come to you and lay my heart at your feet."

She waved her hand in mute farewell.

To be Continued.

FARM AND GARDEN.

If you sow good seed in good soil, and cultivate with care, the abundant harvest will not be wanting.

Sweet peas will make finer plants if rooted in cold weather; therefore, sow very early out of doors.

The fancy for orchids show no sign of decline. A new orchid, an odontoglossum, has just been sold in London for £84.

If you are troubled with white worms in your flower pots, stick in the earth half a dozen or more unlighted matches, points down; it will kill them.

There is always a fair demand for the best products of the soil, and when they are obtained by skilful management there is also a fair margin of profit.

To such an extent is this difference of mind and sense the case that shepherds are all over the Border district both of Scotland and England regarded as constituting a higher order of farm workers.

At this season of the year, says the New England Farmer, stock must be well cared for. We have had a long, cold winter, and while it has not been unusually severe one on sheltered stock, the possible weather between now and the coming of grass may be, hence the necessity of extra care and food from now until it can be turned into pasture.

WHITEWASHING FRUIT TREES.—One of the most creditable practices of the old time orchardist, now almost obsolete, was that of whitewashing the trunks and larger limbs of fruit trees. It may prove unsightly from an æsthetic point of view, but the result is death to all manner of insects and eggs hidden away under the rough, scaly bark, besides leaving in time a healthy smooth surface after the rains have washed the greater part of the lime away, to act as a fertiliser to the roots. Another old idea has its good uses—scraping the bark of rough, diseased trees, and then scrubbing the surface with soapsuds made from common home-made soap, with a little flowers of sulphur.

Advice to Mothers.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

BEWARE

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the same

'CROMPTON CORSET CO.'

is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods. Without which none are genuine.

Monthly Meeting.

At regular meeting of the Knights of Labor, No. 69502, held in the Hall, Peterborough, on Wednesday evening, it was decided to hold monthly meetings for all classes of workingmen, the first of which will take place on the last Thursday of May.

Personal.

Mr. Forsythe, of Toronto, Inspector for Phœnix Insurance Co., Brooklyn, N. Y, is in town adjusting the loss on T. E. Fitzgerald's building.

Mr. Charles Porter, of the firm of Porter Bros., has returned home. He was in London at the time of the fire pushing trade in that part of the Province. The insurance men will be in town on Monday to assess the loss, after that the business will be carried on as usual.

Orange Blossoms.

At half-past four o'clock on Wednesday evening the marriage of Mr. Felix Brownscombe, of Mr. Cox's insurance office, to Miss Carrie Borland, took place at the residence of the bride's father. The Rev. E. F. Torrance officiated. Mr. W. Adamson was the groomsman and Miss Borland, cousin of the bride, the bridesmaid. After luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Brownscombe invited the guests to their new house on Murray street, where a pleasant evening was spent.

Jet All-over Lace, Jet Fronts, Jet Pannels, Jet Collars and Cuffs, what everybody who wants New and Stylish Goods is looking after. Now in stock at Turnbull's.

Alvin Joslin.

Of the Chas. L. Davis Comedy Company, which is to present "Alvin Joslin" here, the Syracuse Daily Courier says:—"Last evening Charles L. Davis' 'Alvin Joslin' Company appeared at the Grand before a fine audience. Mr. Davis as Uncle Alvin was inexpressibly funny, and kept the audience in a roar. His orchestra is a splendid one, and the soloists were compelled to respond to several encores. Mr. Davis was finely supported, and the play was the hit of the season. It will be repeated at a matinee this afternoon and for the last time this evening. The play should be seen by everyone, as it is enjoyable in the extreme."

Heavy Horses.

Mr. W. M. Fair's imported Clyde stallion "John Anderson" tipped the weigh scales the other day at 2,020 lbs. This is the heavest record yet. A last year's colt of this horse has changed hands at $225.

If you are undecided what to buy in a Dolman or Mantle, call at Turnbull's and inspect the latest styles. New patterns every month. You will surely find some thing to please.

Evangelistic.

Alexander Marshall, the evangelist, is in town, and will hold meetings to-night, Friday night, Saturday night, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, and Sunday night at half past seven o'clock, in the Gospel Hall, known as the Mission Room, over China Hall. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Every one should go and hear him.

Why buy shoddy boots when you can get solid leather ones at Kidd's.

Peterborough Canoe Club.

A meeting of the members of the Peterborough Boating Club, now virtually the Peterborough Canoe Club, the rowing members having organized the Lansdowne Rowing Club, will be held at the Club House on Tuesday evening. There should be a full attendance, as officers of the Canoe Club are to be elected, and other arrangements have to be made to perfect the reorganization.

Imperial Federation League.

This evening the Peterborough Branch of the Imperial Federation League will hold its first meeting at the Foresters' Hall, George Street, opposite the Golden Lion, at eight o'clock. The election of officers and other important steps towards completing the organization will be the chief business. Those who have already given in their names as members have been notified of the meeting, but others wishing to join will be welcome. There are already about 60 members, and it is expected that many others will join an association to maintain our connection with the Empire, and having no reference to questions of partizan politics, race or creed.

All the New Cuts in Boys' Clothing made up in good Tweeds and Serges. Now on sale at Turnbull's.

Matrimonial.

On Wednesday evening another of Peterborough's batchelors deserted the ranks. Mr. S. Clegg was the gentleman and Miss Hattie S. Dean, of Bridgenorth, the lady of his choice. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father, Bridgenorth, the Rev. J. W. R. Beck officiating. Mr. Geo. Stevenson was groomsman, and Miss M. Dean bridesmaid. After the solemnizing of the nuptial bonds the bridal party and the wedding guests, to the number of between 30 and 40, sat down to a sumptuous dinner. The presents sent to the contracting parties were very handsome. They included a silver tea service (7 pieces), several sets of china, the usual set of china from the Fire Department, of which Mr. Clegg is a member of long standing, a handsome clock, hall lamp, carving knives and forks, nut crackers, three handsome silver cruets, several silver cake baskets and card receivers, a number of pickle cruets, and a number of useful articles and some handsome furniture. The REVIEW joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Clegg all prosperity.

The Colonial Exhibition.

From Sir Charles Tupper's report on the Canadian section of the Colonial and Indian Exhibition held in London last year, we take the following paragraphs:—"The canoes of the Ontario Canoe Company, of Peterborough, Ontario, and those of Mr. Thomas Gordon, of Lakefield, Ontario, were very much admired. These pretty vessels have long been known in England, and are in great favor on English rivers. Messrs. Herald & Hutchinson, of Gore's Landing, Ontario, also exhibited three very beautiful canoes. It is very much to be regretted that the pleasure skiffs, so generally in use in Ontario, were unrepresented. They would have speedily won their way in England, being in many respects superior to the boats seen on the Thames and elsewhere, while the difference in price between England and Canada should afford an ample margin for profit. If once fairly introduced, they would, no doubt, be at least as much liked as the canoes." "Associated with the photographic exhibits in the Quadrant was the large and beautiful display of paintings of Canadian fungi and wild flowers, the work of Mrs. Chamberlin, of Ottawa, and her sister, Mrs. C. P. Traill, so well known for her beautiful illustrations of the botany of Canada, and also by her delightful writings. This beautiful exhibit covered four large screens, and contained 250 plates of wild flowers and fungi, 25 groups of flowers, in including the original plates of Mrs. Chamberlin's (Agnes Fitzgibbon) 'Canadian Wild Flowers;' also the original plates of Mrs. Traill's 'Plant Life in Canada.' These ladies are members of the celebrated family of Strickland."

JAPAN.

A Letter Seventeen Feet Long—The Religions of the People.

Mr. G. W. Powell has shown us a letter from his sister, Mrs. Odlum, whose husband is a teacher in the Methodist College in Japan. The letter is written on one piece of paper only, but it is not a brief letter, as the roll is seventeen feet long. The paper is very light, almost as light as tissue paper, yet it is strong enough, and the writing is plain. At the rate at which printer's copy is sent through the mails in Canada a communication of considerable length—quite a book in fact—could be sent for one cent if written on such paper.

The letter is an interesting one, but we can only give brief extracts from it. The letter was written in March. Mrs. Odlum tells of a visit she made to a Japanese temple. On the way to the temple they met His Imperial Majesty's mounted artillery with twenty cannon, each one drawn by four fine horses. The dress of the men and their horses was very fine, so much gold is used in the trimming. "The temple," says Mrs. Odlum, "was fine. Some were worshipping in the Court when we got there. The priest said we might go into the temple if we took off our boots. This we did and went in. The floor was shining black lacquer, beautiful but very cold. The roof was very handsome with its carving and gold. The great drums and mirror and all the other mummeries were there. Miss Cartmail gave some money to the priest to let us go through, and we were allowed to go up to the railing which is around the most holy place, where a little table with cake done up in paper was set before us. And what was our horror to see the money we had given placed on another little table and put on the holy place as an offering to the god Outside we found the dancing girls stand where terrific great heads are kept which are carried around on long poles and shaken at the houses to frighten away the evil spirits. We found his godship sitting on the brow of the hill near the great temple bell. He is immense, but I am not sure how large. He cannot be less than 12 feet from shoulder to shoulder. I climbed up into his great lap and measured one of his thumbs. It was just 30 inches around it. His name is Diboots, but there are many of that name larger than this one. There is one near Yokahama upon whose thumb three ladies can sit at once. It is not easy to get a converted Japanese to talk about these temples and gods, they are so much ashamed of it all. I notice that even the young men who are not Christians laugh when the Buddhist priest passes. They have, however, a strong hold on many of the people." Next a "Shintoo revival" is described. "The coins which were thrown into the temple and on the steps by the worshipping crowd in the court could be taken away by waggon loads. * * * Thousands were there—not in the temple, none but priests go there, but outside. First one would elbow his way through the crowd till he came near the railing or barrier between him and the steps leading up to the temple door, throw a handful, large or small, of coins inside, seize one of the little bell ropes, give a jerk or two, bow his head and mutter a prayer or two, and then return much comforted. The coins kept pouring, raining, showering for hours until there were tens of thousands on the stone steps, platform and temple floor. The duty of the priests was to sit on their 'hunkers,' smile and let out a terrific shout. When the leading shouter finished another would yell and then another, till one one was reminded of the demons in the tombs." "Here the people," says Mrs. Odlum, "are shaking themselves loose from all the old beliefs and are ready to turn in any direction. Oh, for more men and more money!" Many, she says, are accepting the Roman Catholic faith. Miss Spencer, one of the teachers, is ill with lung affection. "This climate developes everyihing of the kind so fast that the poor girl is in pain all the time, but she feels she cannot give up till suitable help is sent. * * She is not a bit troubled or frightened about her state. Her faith is very beautiful in her Heavenly Father's kindness." The following might serve as a business hint: "Some of us are wondering what the freight would be on a car load of good winter apples sent in November over the C. P. R. San Francisco apples are not worth bringing, they are so soft and tasteless when they get here. There are pears here, but I wish you could taste them. They are something like a very poor turnip, but not nearly so sweet or eatable." The long and interesting letter closes, "Do not forget to pray for poor Japan, where there is still so much, oh so much! that is all a mockery to the God of Heaven."

REVIEWS.

THE CANADIAN METHODIST MAGAZINE.—The place of honor in the May number is given to an able article by the Rev. Prof. Shaw, on Dr. Buckley's recent book, "The Land of the Midnight Sun—the Tsar and Nihilism." It is sumptuously illustrated, as are also Lady Brassey's account of her adventures in Venezuela, etc., and the Editor's closing paper on the Pacific Coast. No better cut-printing is done in the world than that of the fine engravings of this Magazine. The Rev. Dr. Williams contributes another admirable paper on the Minor Poets of Methodism; and the Rev. John Philp, of Montreal, a striking article on Methodism and Sunday-schools—a record of which all Methodists may be justly proud. A new story by Amelia E. Barr is begun. It is a strongly written tale of Yorkshire Methodism, which promises to be of exceeding interest. A brilliant Jubilee number is in preparation. The circulation of this Magazine is steadily increasing, but back numbers can still be supplied.

LINDSAY.

'TWAS A BUSY DAY.—Wednesday was a busy day—not for business, however. Almost every house in the district must have surmised that something unusual was happening. Large numbers of ratepayers were waited on by affable citizens and urged to take a short drive. Very many consented and were driven accordingly Somehow it seemed as if there was no fun in driving or being driven after five o'clock, for there was a sudden stoppage at that hour. The returns began to come in about 5.30, and in a few minutes it was settled that Mr. Hudspeth's majority in town was nineteen votes. This looked favorable for the Reformers, and when Ops followed showing large gains at the nearest polling places things looked hopeful. So it went on, up and down, in and out, either side elated or depressed. The final returns were received aftereight o'clock, giving Mr. Hudspeth a majority of 49. The tories adjourned to the opera house and held a meeting at which brief addresses were delivered by Mr. Hudspeth, Mr. Dobson, Mr. Mackintosh Mr. Thos. Cowan, S. Hughes and others. A procession was afterwards formed and headed by the band escorted Mr. Hudspeth through the principal streets and to his residence on Russell street. Reformers viewed these demonstrations of success with a cold, callous, unsympathetic eye and footed it home to bed.—Post.

IRELAND.

The Irish National League was founded in 1882, after the Land League was suppressed.

The Presbyterian Church in Ireland now comprises over 550 congregations, with 626 ministers and 102,000 communicants.

The official returns of Irish agrarian crimes for the past three years are given as follows:—For 1884, 706: 1885, 944; 1886, 1,056.

The seven men arrested for the murder of Murphy in the McGillicuddy Reeks, near Killarney, were on April 2nd released at Tralee for want of evidence.

A demonstration was held near Youghal on April 2nd to celebrate the death of Peter O'Neil Crowley, killed in the rising of '67, and was attended by 20,000 people.

Twenty-one cases of pleura-pneumonia have been reported durning the week ending 26th March. All occurred in Leinster, with the exception of five that were about Dublin.

The house of a farmer and land agent at Castlehaven, near Skibbereen, was attacked by moonlighters on Friday night, April 1st, and shots were fired through the windows, but no one was injured.

Twenty three men were arrested at the house of a man named Gearney, at Castleisland, on April 5th, charged with moonlighting. On being searched several were found to be armed with revolvers and other weapons.

Headache, Billiousness, Dyspepsia and Indigestion relieved and at once by Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. Try it. Samples free.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d90

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Election Protest—P. E. I. Connections—Earlier Blue-books—The Colonial Conference and Imperial Federation—Taste in Painting.

WEDNESDAY, April 27.—The Manitoba census was laid on the table by Mr. Carling.

ELECTION PROTESTS.

Mr. Aymot introduced a bill to make the time for entering a protest 30 days from the election instead of from the date of the gazetting.

MORTGAGES.

Mr. McMULLEN introduced a bill as to mortgages.

P. E. I. TUNNEL.

SIR C. TUPPER, in reply to Mr. Welsh, said the investigation as to a subsidy to P. E. I. was not sufficiently advanced for a conclusion to be formed.

JUDICIAL.

Mr. THOMPSON, in reply to Mr. Watson, said that Mr. Travis, formerly stipendiary magistrate, would not be appointed a judge of the new court in the Northwest.

WHISKEY.

Mr. COSTIGAN, in reply to Mr. McMullen, said distillers were not allowed to import corn in bond, but if they exported the whiskey the had a rebate of the duty paid for the corn.

PARLIAMENTARY PAINTING.

Sir H. LANGEVIN, in reply to Mr. Holton, said the painting in the building had been done as usual on reasonable prices fixed by the chief engineer, and the taste was that of the architect.

THE BLUE BOOKS.

Mr. CHARLTON moved a resolution in favor of making public the official reports before the meeting of Parliament.

Sir J. MACDONALD did not object to this alteration of the present practice. He would look into the matter to see if legislation was necessary to allow the change.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT and Mr. BLAKE also concurred, and the motion was allowed to stand.

COLONIAL CONFERENCE.

Mr. CASEY moved for papers as to the Colonial Conference in London, which he thought was a preliminary to Imperial Federation.

P. E. I. CONNECTIONS.

Mr. PERRY moved for a return as to the P. E. I. steamboat service, and threatened Confederation.

LOCK MANUFACTURING.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—You will see by the enclosed letter and answer that the manufacture of locks has ceased at Kingston. The contractor has the remainder of his stock stored in one of the buildings until he can dispose of it.

I remain, yours, &c.,
J. STEVENSON.

OTTAWA, April 28, 1887.

Hon. J. S. D. Thompson, Minister of Justice:

Will you kindly inform me if the manufacture of locks has been entirely given up in the Kingston Penitentiary.

I remain, faithfully yours,
J. STEVENSON.

Yes; some considerable time ago.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

A Branch of the League Formed in Peterborough.

On Thursday evening a meeting was held for the purpose of organizing a branch of the Imperial Federation League in this town. The meeting was held in Forester's Hall. Owing to the rain the attendance was not so large as expected.

The Hon. R. Hamilton was called to the chair, and Mr. F. E. Bell was elected secretary pro tem.

Mr. J. H. LONG was called on to explain the objects of the league. The primary object of the League, he said, was to encourage the spirit of loyalty throughout the Empire—to show British subjects that it would be a bad thing for Canada, a bad thing for Australia a bad thing for the mother country, and a bad thing for the world, to have them Empire fall to pieces. He was satified that it would be a bad thing for Canada from a material point of view. But even if it was a gain to Canada to secede from the Empire the people should take a higher view of the question than simply weighing it by dollars and cents. He recognized the British Empire to be the greatest Empire the world had ever seen—great as an instrument to spread Christianity and true civilization. The British people did not actually know what a glorious Empire they had, and it was one of the duties of the League to disseminate information of various kinds regarding the Empire. Some people he had seen seemed to look upon the League as an organization hostile to Home Rule for Ireland. The League entertained no such doctrine, and inasmuch as one of the fundamental principles of the League was that no interference would be permitted in local affairs, it rather favored Home Rule than otherwise. He thought it a sad thing that people looked upon the maintenance of the Empire's unity with so little interest. Here was an Empire which we all had been building for hundreds and hundreds of years. Then even intelligent persons were content to say: "Oh, it's no difference. It's serve l its day and generation." That seemed to him like a desertion of the old homestead, or like an attempt to outgrow the traditions of our youth. No doubt the Empire had a great many defects, and the Imperial Federation League would remedy some of them; but with all its defects, the British Empire was the greatest, grandest Empire that ever existed. (Applause.) And having been born under the British flag he wanted to die under it. (Applause.) He held it a fundamental fact of politics that there are some things which the majority had no right to interfere with. The majority had no right to punish him for not worshiping God in this way or that way. He held that loyalty was ranked in that category. It had been assumed that as soon as the majority found independence or annexation the one or the other would be undertaken without relistance. But he held that if the minority had a reasonable chance of success they would be justified in fighting. He believed with Sir Francis Hinks that never in the history of the world had allegiance been changed without the shedding of blood. There was a spirit favoring annexation in this country and to avoid the civil war which may come they propose to forestall that feeling. Some people's pride was offended at Canada being called a colony. Was it any dishonor for a young man to remain with his father? Why not go into partenership with him? Canada need not be called a colony. It may be a monarchy or a republic. That would make no difference with Imperial Federation. What they wantad was to bring all these colonies, monarchies, republics or empires to cluster around the great Mother of nations. (Applause.)

The SECRETARY read letters from Messrs. J. H. Bowes, Toronto; Geo. H. Douglas, Chatham, and Mr. Hopkins, Ingersoll, all congratulating the League on the success of the initiatory meeting.

In reply to the Chairman, Mr. Long stated that the League was in a very prosperous condition in Australia, India, Cape Colony, and in the Old Country. As yet the League had not grown much in Canada, owing to it not having been pushed. But already there were a number of branches established among the French of Lower Canada, several in the Maritime Provinces and through Ontario.

The election of officers was then proceeded with as follows:—

CHAIRMAN—J. H. Long.

1ST VICE-CHAIRMAN—The Hon. R. Hamilton.

2ND VICE-CHAIRMAN—The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw.

SECRETARY—Fred. E. Bell.

TREASURER—Wm. Brundrette.

COMMITTEE—T. A. Hay, John Erskine, R. Brodie, E. J. Toker, J. Minore, J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Dr. Burnham, S. Stevenson, M.P., L. Seward and J. H. Roper.

A sub-committee was appointed to draft by-laws and a constitution for the approval of the Committe. The next meeting will be held one month hence.

Jet All-over Lace, Jet Fronts, Jet Pannels, Jet Collars and Cuffs, what everybody who wants New and Stylish Goods is looking after. Now in stock at Turnbull's.

THE RATES

So Low as to Give Promise of Advantage Being Taken of Them.

A meeting of the Reception Committee in connection with the Oddfellow's demonstration was held in the Peterborough Lodge room on Wednesday evening. The attendance was large.

The principal business was the discussion on the railway rates. Mr. McNeil submitted the correspondence which had taken place and the result of it. Those in charge of dealing with the railway companies in regard to rates have succeeded in obtaining specially good terms. The Grand Trunk will issue special excursion tickets to the general public from all points from Toronto east to Peterborough—and Kingston west to Peterborough, and the same rates will be charged all over the Midland system. The Canadian Pacific Railway will issue special excursion tickets from all points on the road between Toronto and Kingston. The rates on both roads are to be the same.

The rates are as follows:—Single fare for first 33 miles and a cent a mile each way and longer distances. Thus: first 33 miles $1 00, 47, 2 cents per mile for return ticket 94 cents or $1.94 for an 80 mile trip. The same rate will be given to uniformed Oddfellows all over Ontario, and one half those rates to uniformed bands of music.

Thus it will be seen that for long distances the rate is considerable less than single fare. The Committee desire one more favor at the hands of the railway companies and that is to make these rates good as for east as Ottawa.

If low railway fares and an attractive programme can draw people here there will be without doubt the largest crowd in Peterborough at the Oddfellows Demonstration ever seen in the town.

QUEEN'S COUNTY, N.B.

A Ministerial Majority of 32 in an Incomplete House.

OTTAWA, April 29.—The Opposition motion to seat Mr. King for Queen's County, N.B., in place of Mr. Baird, who had been returned, on account of irregularities in Mr. King's deposit, was negatived last night in the House of Commons. The amendment moved by the Minister of Justice to refer the matter to the Committee on Privileges and Elections was carried by 109 to 77.

O'BRIEN'S VISIT.

He Explains his Delay—Some Strong Language from him.

DUBLIN, April 28.—The Freeman's Journal of yesterday contained a two column letter by Wm. O'Brien, in which he explains that he postponed his sailing for Canada because overtures for a settlement with the evicted tenants were made by F. A. Dunning, bank manager at Tullamore, and agent of Lord Lansdowne. Mr. O'Brien states that the proposals were withdrawn after he had signified their acceptance. He charges Lord Lansdowne and his agent with deception and treachery, and says:—"I shall appeal to the honest masses of our race in Canada to choose sides between Lord Lansdowne and a peaceful tenantry, whom he seeks to exterminate by a system of clearances as odious and unhuman as those which filled the pest houses of the St. Lawrence with dying Irish victims in the days of the great famine, and I shall appeal to them with more confidence, now that they are called on to pronounce, not only upon a heartless system of eviction, carried out with Canadian money, but upon an act of brazen perfidy committed on the strength of assumed Canadian sympathy."

The Journal, commenting on the letter says: "We venture to think that Lord Lansdowne will find in the end that the respite of a few days from the exposure of his deeds in Ireland has been dearly purchased."

STRONG LANGUAGE.

DUBLIN, April 28.—United Ireland says: "No blacker deed of treachery was ever committed than that Lord Lansdowne has been guilty of. Black as hell are Lord Lansdowne's unutterable meaness, treachery and malignacy. He stood in awe of Canadian opinion, but tore the agreement he had made with his tenants into shreds the moment he was led to believe by Canadians with Irish names that he could rely on Irish Canadian complaisancy in his perfidy."

Capt. Streatfeild's Statement.

OTTAWA, April 28.—Captain Streatfeild makes public the following authoritive statement to-day:—"The statement that Lord Lansdowne has declined to accept the provisional arrangement made last week by the mediators engaged in the task of adjusting the dispute is a fabrication. No agreement has been come to by any person or persons authorized to act for Lord Lonsdowne, and no such agreement has therefore been submitted to him or on his behalf."

Sir L. West Betrothed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 28.—The leading gossip in social circles is the rumored engagement of Sir Lionel Sackville West and Miss Mattie Mitchell, daughterof Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, and further interest to the story lies in the fact that the marriage may be consummated abroad. Miss Mitchell sails with her mother for England, on May 7th, and Sir Lionel West joins his daughters abroad in June.

WHOLESALE DROWNING.

LONDON, April 28.—A despatch from Cooktown, Australia, announces that the steamer Benton, of Singapore, was sunk in a collision with a barque off the Island of Farmosa, and that 155 persons were drowned. No Europeans were lost.

M. SCHNAEBELES' ARREST.

PARIS, April 28.—M. Herbette, French Ambassador at Berlin, telegraphs that yesterday evening he had an interview with Count Herbert Bismarck, German Minister for Foreign Affairs, and that the latter maintained that French territory was not violated when Schnaebeles was arrested. M. Herbette adds, however, that Count Bismarck states that Germany is inclined to admit that the arrest was irregular and contrary to the Franco-German Frontier Convention of 1871, and, on this account, will release Schnaebeles when the letters alleged to have been written by M. Gautech are proved to be authentic. The despatch adds that it is believed that the release of Schnaebeles will take place to-day, or at the latest to-morrow, and that M. Herbette is to have another interview with Bismarck during the day.

LONDON, April 28.—It is reported that Russia has proposed to remit the Turkish war indemnity in return for an accession of territory in Asia Minor.

CREOLE HOME RULERS.

MADRID, April 28.—Prime Minister Sagasta and the Liberals propose to make important changes in the Colonial policy for the purpose of pacifying the Creoles, until their Home Rule aspirations can be satisfied. The proposed changes include the abolition of export duties in the West Indies, as well as the duties here on sugar and alcohol, from Cuba and Porto Rico; the assimilations of the Colonial to the Imperial tariff, and the granting of subsidies for West Indian railways and other public works.

O'BRIEN TO BE WATCHED.

CORK, April 28.—Capt. Thos. Plunkett, resident magistrate, has been instructed by the Government to keep close watch over all the circumstances attending the departure of William O'Brien for Canada to inaugurate a campaign against the Marquis of Lansdowne.

AIMLESS RESOLUTIONS.

LONDON, April 28.—The Evening News says it is very kind of Canadian Liberals and the Irish element to teach us what we ought to do. It pities the Canadian Parliament that it has nothing better to do than to pass aimless resolutions of the school debating society order.

APPROVES OF THE RESOLUTIONS.

LONDON, April 28.—The Pall Mall Gazette approves of the resolutions and speaks of the division, which may be attributed to the Irish vote, which shews its power in passing so important a resolution. Parliamentry majorities may wax and wane, but the Irish vote is a permanent factor in colonial politics.

CANADIAN INTERFERENCE.

LONDON, April 28.—The St. James' Gazette wonders what the Canadians would say if the Imperial House of Commons passed a resolution in favor of releasing Nova Scotia from the Union. Our Colonial cousins, says the Gazette, would not like it, and England would hear plain words indeed, yet the Imperial Parliament has a perfect technical right to interfere in Canadian matters, while the Dominion has none whatever to interfere in British politics. Continuing, the Gazette says:—"While we are not inclined to take the resolutions too seriously, it would have shown better taste and statesmanship to have let the matter alone."

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1887.

OUR OWN WATERS.

THE Yankee organs in Ontario, such as the Toronto Globe, the London Advertiser, etc., are raging against the proposition to construct a canal through Canadian territory at Sault Ste. Marie. They wish us to remain utterly dependent upon our neighbors, and cannot bear the idea of our becoming free agents. Now, without reference to possible eventualities, or the growth of commerce making additional facilities necessary, there are two very sufficient reasons why we should secure the independent use of our great inland waters. When Riel raised his first rebellion the Washington authorities peremptorily refused us the use of the Sault Canal. And even in time of peace, with a pettifogging and unneighborly quibble, fit of those who taxed the packages of goods they had consented to admit free of duty, they rule that passing through the Sault Canal was equivalent to entering one of their ports, thus preventing any Canadian coaster doing so from calling subsequently at a port in the United States.

When we are thus shut out of our own waters, it is well that we should make a way for ourselves, even if it does distress the Globe and Advertiser, or others hostile to Canadian trade.

AN ALL NIGHT SESSION.

THE ways of the modern sham Reformers of Canada seem to be very similar in the different Provinces. In Ontario the Mowat Administration, after wasting much time, persisted by mere brute force in refusing adjournment, and forcing an all night session upon an Opposition that had certainly not been factious, in order to prevent full discussion of their dishonesty and extravagance in connection with their Parliamentary Buildings job. And now in Quebec the Mercier Administration has similarly forced an all night session upon the far from factious Opposition, sitting for over thirty hours rather than permit an adjournment to the debate on a motion of want of confidence that was exposing the dishonestly of the Ministry in dealing with the finances.

Both Mr. Mowat and Mr. Mercier know that they do not fairly represent the people—that they are mere creatures of trickery and disintegrating cries, and therefore they dare not face fair discussion, but with outrageous tyranny suppress their opponents by the mere number of their subservient supporters. If they felt their cause had the least strength they would not be such poltroons.

WEST INDIAN TRADE.

THE Monetary Times calls attention to the fact that large quantities of fish, potatoes and other articles are exported from the Maritime Provinces to the United States and thence shipped to the West Indies. A greater profit would certainly be derived from this trade, which would be more likely to be expanded if done direct. The Canadian Government should do all in its power to facilitate this change, but after all it must chiefly depend upon private enterprise, which should be equal to utilizing the opportunity. If our countrymen by the sea would bestir themselves in this practical matter instead of devoting their energies to more or less disloyal political cries and projects for aiding the Dominion treasury, they would do more to secure prosperity and progress.

IN the debate at Ottawa on the Irish question Mr. Blake gave another clear proof that he has no fixed views on the subject, and only cares for it as it may influence votes. Last year when the Canadian Parliament pronounced in favor of Home Rule for Ireland, but declined to pass an opinion as to measures then before the Imperial Parliament, Mr. Blake raged because the House would not endorse the particular measure then in debate at Westminster. Now he attacks a resolution before the House of Commons on the grounds that we should not dictate the form of local government for Ireland, and should not protest against a particular measure before the Imperial Parliament. In this matter, as in others, Mr. Blake's policy is a mere thing of incongruous sheds and patches.

IN the British House of Commons, England and Wales have one member for every 52,474 of the population by the last census, Ireland has one for every 50,241, and Scotland one for every 51,883. It thus appears that the more populous kingdom is willing to concede to the less populous kingdoms even more than justice in the matter of representation in the Imperial Parliament. The Parliament at Westminister is no more an "English Parliament" than the Parliament at Ottawa is an Ontario Parliament.

At a meeting of the County and City of Dublin Committee for the celebration of the Queen's jubilee, a report was adopted recommending the erection in the county of an hospital for consumptive patients, at a cost of £12,000.

PRIZE ESSAY.

The Essay That Won the W. C. T. U. First Prize.

Some time ago the W. C. T. U offered prizes for essays on Temperance by the pupils of the Collegiate Institute. The first prize was awarded by the judges, the Rev. E F. Torrance, M. A., and the Rev. F. H. Wallace, M. A., B. D., to Mr. Alex. Cooper. By request of the Union we publish the essay, which is entitled "The Use of Intoxicating Liquor, and its effect on Man Mentally, Physically and Morally:"

Proverbs xxiii, 29—31—"Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contentions? Who hath babbling? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek mixed wine. Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."

This is what Solomon said nearly three thousand years ago. It is more. The Bible is the writings of inspired men, therefore, these are the words of Him by whose power all things were created. And yet a vast portion of mankind, in the pride of their hearts, dare to disregard this warning, but they only increase the multitude of instances that go to prove its verity.

The first that we hear about intoxicating liquor is when Noah got drunk, shortly after the flood, and ever since that time the history of alcohol is the history of misery, sin, and and crime of all descriptions. The small, red, trickling stream of four thousand years ago has swollen to a mighty, surging torrent, sweeping thousands and thousands of human beings over the rapids, and dashing them against the rocks below.

Until about two centuries ago the use of intoxicating liquor was not considered to be a national vice to the English speaking people in the sense that it is now, but in the 17th century distillation came into use, and after that the evil increased rapidly, for, as is well known, the effects of distillation are vastly greater than those produced by fermented liquor. As is often the case with individuals the nation did not seem to get her eyes open until the evil had spread to an alarming extent, and had sent its roots deep into the soil with an all but unconquorable tenacity. Then began the battle with it. Still the principle of total abstinence could not raise its voice above a whisper until the latter part of last century, but ever since that time the war between temperance and intemperance has gone on, and is still waxing hotter, while the temperance cause continues to gain ground.

Let us first consider the effect that intoxicating liquor has on man's physical organism. There is hardly an ill to which these bodies of ours are subject, but what may directly, or indirectly, be caused by the use of alcoholic liquors. When alcohol is taken into the system, nature is put to the expense of an artificial fever. For a time the blood is made hotter, and the action of the heart being accelerated, it is sent more quickly through the veins, but a reaction takes place, and the blood becomes colder than before. This is the reason why the people who go to the Artic Regions, where the cold is very intense, dare not take alcoholic liquors to warm them as some people pretend to do in less severe climates.

The so-called strength which alcohol imparts to a man is of the same nature as the power transmitted to a horse by the application of a whip. It is not strength, but only stimulus. This unnatural excitement is borrowed from the future, and affords a sad instance of the truth of the old saying, "He that goes aborrowing goes a-sorrowing," for the drunkard has to pay a fearful rate of interest on the loan. I may as well explain here that when I speak of a drunkard I mean any one who drinks intoxicating liquor, no matter to what extent. There are no moderate drinkers of alcohol, for it is intemperate in its very nature, and a man drinks to excess, and therefore becomes a drunkard, the very moment he drinks any intoxicating liquor as a beverage.

After the stimulus has spent itself the main spirits sink as far below their nomal level as they had before been raised above it, and he must needs return to the bottle for a fresh supply of energy, which likewise leave him in a worse condition than before he took it. So it goes on, each glass helping on the work of ruin, until he becomes a physical wreck, with trembling hand and bloated countenance, his nerves all unstrung, an object pitiful to look upon, his once manly form now an unweildly mass of corruption, or racked by that fearful disease delirium tremens. What constitution could long withstand the continual strain without giving way?

When a liquid is taken into the stomach it very soon finds its way to the liver, and from thence into the blood-vessels. Thus the effect of spirits is felt very soon after they are swallowed. Alcohol is not digested in the stomach, but goes into the blood and is carried off principally by the breath, through the lungs. When alcohol enters the capillaries, (those minute vessels which join the arteries to the veins, and through the coats of which the blood goes to feed the different parts of our bodies) it gradually thickens their delicate coats, and in a great measure hinders the blood from passing through them to build up the wasted tissues, and the old worn out materials from returning into the capillaries and through the veins to the heart and the lungs to be cleansed. Therefore there are a great many men who are in the habit of taking a large amount of spirits, who are fat and fleshy looking, and would appear to a casual observer to be stout and healthy, but they are not so in reality, for their flesh is not good, but loaded with dead tissues that ought to have been discharged from the system long ago. This explains the reason why when a man of this description receives a slight flesh cut the wound very often will not heal, and it sometimes causes his death in a few hours.

People addicted to drinking spirits are liable to dispepsia, and no wonder, for the alcohol dries up the gastric juice in the stomach, and hardens the albumen in the food which they eat. Alcohol also hardens the liver and renders it unable to do its duty, and when a man's liver is out of order his whole body must suffer. Drunkards are often troubled with kidney and kindred diseases. Intoxicating liquor overworks the heart, makes the blood inflamed, fizzy, and unfit for circulation. This state of the blood acts on the lungs and other organs, and so paves the way for consumption. There are very few habitual drinkers that are entirely free from disease. A man may be suffering from the use of alcohol, and not be aware that it is the cause of his trouble, but he is punished for his sin all the same. When one breaks nature's laws, he must suffer the consequences, for the laws of nature are the laws of God, and no one may violate them with impunity. A man acquires the habit of drinking spirits. He becomes dispeptic. Possibly he may not know that the trouble arises from this evil habit, but is sinning against the light of his conscience when he is drinking of the accursed draught. Thus he goes on, and knowing not that it is his own hand that is smiting him.

Even although a drunkard may escape what is called a violent death, yet he is committing a slow suicide, and does not live out his alloted time on the earth. Oh, there are many paths which lead to a drunkard's grave! How often do we hear of people dying of liver complaint, dispepsia, heart disease, dropsy, brain fever, paralysis, apoplexy, and a host of other maladies, when if the truth were told, they died from the effect of drinking intoxicating liquor? Drunkards so weak in their constitutions with repeated excesses that they fall victims to diseases which otherwise would not have assailed them, or which they easily could have overcome. When one organ becomes diseased another must do its work, and consequently it gets overwrought, and in its turn extends the chain of destruction to its neighbor.

Sir William Gull, a celebrated physician, says: "All alcohol, and all things of an alcoholic nature, injure the nerve tissues, pro tempore, if not altogether." He also states that he hardly knows of any more potent cause of disease than alcohol. Some people believe in taking alcohol as a medicine when they feel unwell, but it is a remarkable fact that those people, as a rule, have a wonderful faculty of feeling indisposed. It is worthy of note that as doctors are becoming more enlightened they are giving less alcohol as medicine.

But while we lament the results of the use of alcohol on our bodies, the effects on our mental natures are far more deplorable. It would make comparatively little difference what became of the husk if the kernal was unhurt.

Man is an intelligent being. He has reason to guide him. He has a capacity for knowledge and enjoyment which is withheld from mere animals. But altogether man's mental nature is of so much more importance than his physical, they are so closely linked together, and in such full sympathy with each other, that one cannot suffer alone.

Alcohol has a very destructive effect on the mind. We have but to look around us to see proofs of this assertion. The world is full of them. We say that the tendency of water is to run downward, because that is its invariable course, no person ever saw water run up a hill. Just as truly we say that the use of intoxicating liquor drags the mind of man downward, because it is demonstrated continually before our eyes, and no one has ever met with an exception. It has been ascertained that the brain of a man who has been in the habit of drinking alcoholic beverages is of a darker color than the brain of a total abstainer.

They are not only men of moderate ability who fall victims to this curse, but men of the highest genius. In fact the more a man's mind predominates over his body, the more dangerous it is for him to tamper with intoxicating liquor. There have been thousands of men who in the early morning of their lives have shown signs of more than ordinary talent, who have had a quickness of perception and brightness of intellect that bade fair to carry them to front ranks among the great men of their day, but in an evil hour they yielded to the temptation of a glass of liquor, and where are they now? Some of them are in drunkard's graves, some are still eking out a miserable existence of drunkenness and debauchery, with their fair prospects in life blasted, and their mental vigor smothered in sensuality. Some are gazing with wild demon-like stare through the bars of a lunatic asylum, or struggling in the throes of delirium tremens, which is perhaps as much or more a disease of the mind as of the body.

Another proof of the baneful effects of intoxicating liquor on the mind is the fact that among those who were once in the very gutter of drunkenness and degradation, but who were enabled to throw the wine cup away forever, and take a determined stand on the side of temperence, many have reached eminence, and some pre-eminence. A notable instance of this kind was J. B. Gough, and he, after 40 years of very active life during which time he had mingled with all classes of society, of different countries, says that ninety-nine out of every hundred men who are ruined, are ruined by strong drink.

Alcohol is no respecter of persons, the high or the low, rich or poor, of whatever age or sex, all are subject to its withering influence. It is of so delusive a nature that men are drawn into its clutches before they are aware. "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and who ever is deceived thereby is not wise." What is so seductive as this demon drink? If a child gets burned at the stove, or falls into the river and is almost drowned, it would henceforth avoid coming into contact with them, but this drink is like a serpent that charms but to destroy, and yet men will hug to their bosoms the reptile that stung them. It is like the maelstrom of the coast of Norway, that gradually and imperceptibly draws the boat out of its course, and as it moves around slowly but surely brings it nearer and near the centre, quickening its pace, and increasing its power as it goes, until at last the boat is carried round with an irresistibl force and dashed into the vortex below.

CHAPTER XXI.

"I AM YOUR BROTHER."

Once more the tramp, and for the last time.

It was in the month of December. Robert Edgerly had lingered on in America since June. Late in the autumn Brownie joined him. There was to be a reunion of all the scattered Carstones in the stone house at Christmas.

There had been change upon change, for all but Shirley. As if to annihilate all the old from the face of nature itself, a new railway had been built through Linwood. It cut through the woods where the villagers had been wont to picnic, on Fourth of July and on other occasions, time out of mind. This fine old wood had been the last bit of native forest of any size left in that region. Now its picturesqueness was destroyed by the new railway.

Along the iron track of the new road walked, of a crisp, frosty morning, our old friend, Rip the Tramp. On second thoughts —yes he is our friend. He is indeed very far gone in tramphan now, and disreputable as t'other party's record before election, but for for all that we won't disown him.

No, by the holy dollar. We have been among grand people of late, but we will not therefore deny our old acquaintances. You would not have known Rip. Exposure, over drinking, under and over feeding and wickedness had written their story all over him. He slunk along, regular tramp gait. His trousers' legs were slitted to the knees. His eyes were red and watery. The one sign that distinguishes infallibly a tramp from every other human being is his shoes. They are invariably wretched, down at the heel, split out and utterly hopeless. As long as a human being has a vestige of respectability left he proclaims it by a pair of decent shoes.

Rip's foot covering, if you could call it that, scarcely clung to his disreputable feet. He coughed hoarsely from time to time. His arms and knees trembled. He was bent like a man of 80. A doctor would have prophesied that his body would be found on the dissecting table of a medical college in three months' time.

Rip talked aloud to himself, as most uncultured persons do. He looked about him as he slouched along, now at the familiar wood, now at the unfamiliar iron track of the new railway. He suddenly found himself almost at the very spot where he knocked poor Sam over. He was uncomfortable as he recollected it.

"Ach!" he exclaimed, "I never meant to kill him. The old fool! Why didn't he keep off? I hain't been here since. 'Twas full eight years ago. But if them Linwooders 'd ketch me even now 'twould be all up with me, I reckon. What'll I do? If I come to Linwood, I'll be arrested. If I don't come to Linwood, I don't get my rights. As a feller might say, I'm between the devil and deep sea."

He stopped to cough, and went on with his meditations aloud:

"I didn't know these woods had been cut away so or I wouldn't a' come yer in daylight. If I can git where I'm agoin' before anybody senses me, I'm all right. If I can't —But I don't know what I wouldn't rather do than to face a Linwooder right here. I'd rather take a bath, by goll!"

He saw something upon the track and stopped to pick it up. He wavered as he stooped and staggered to recover himself.

"Drunk agin, by Peter!" he remarked, coolly.

But Rip was not drunk.

The article he picked up was a handkerchief. It was a lady's, small, snowy and very fine. He held it up in his fingers and made a face at it.

"Be goll dinged, if I ever see sich a wipe as that! Hello, there's letters on it. Them ain't plain English. My son, polish up your fancy larnin'. There's a 'B' and there's an 'E'—'B, E'. What's that stand fur? There she comes, by goll! steppin' along this yer blessed track —Brownie Edgerly. She walks as if the ground wasn't good enough to hold her. Always walked that way. Hay, Missiz—Good God, there's the cars!"

The train was behind Brownie, right upon her, and she did not know it. There was a roar as if the earth was rent in twain, and then darkness. The evil Rip had been working all his neglected life may be forgiven him for the good he did then.

Reader, think of him kindly, after all.

One of the sudden impulsions toward the better that come from some unknown realm to the worst of men, came to Rip, and filled all his soul in that flash of time. He darted forward like lightning. He nerved himself with all the strength that yet lay in his once powerful right arm, and shoved Brownie off the track to one side.

At the same instant the engine struck him in the breast and knocked him off the other side. Then the monster sped on with its roar like the wings of ten thousand angels of darkness.

Rip lay quite still. He did not know it when careful hands lifted him kindly and carried him to the stone house. He did not know it still when a gentle, awestricken voice, Shirley's own voice, said:

"Lay the poor fellow right in there—put him on my bed."

He came to himself, and saw himself in a beautiful room, upon a snowy bed. Faces were around there that he knew, and they looked anxious and kindly, every one. There were Shirley and Robert Edgerly, Harry Carstone, and the ancient doctor, now very old. He glanced from one to the other. They looked friendly.

"Don't—don't give me away," he said feebly.

"Never, Rip, never!" said Shirley. "Don't be afraid."

A film dimmed his eyes. Blood trickled from his nostrils. He had been crushed internally. Shirley wiped the blood away with a moist sponge. He shuddered.

"Don't!" he gasped. "Don't put cold water on me. Water'll kill me."

He looked from one to the other again, and recognized Robert Edgerly. A light came into his face, and a half smile. He motioned faintly toward the Englishman.

"Brother," said he, "will you shake hands with me?"

Robert extended his fingers to humor him. The tramp's hand, soiled and clawlike, stained with God knows what blood, clasped the gentleman's hand, white and shapely, and held it.

It pleased Rip. Presently he began wandering with his talk.

"Brother," said he, "I saved your wife's life, didn't I? Chalk that down to me."

He stopped a little, then wandered on.

"If I'd had my rights I'd a been a gentleman, too. Then Brownie'd 'a been my wife instead of yours. Understand? My wife. It made me mad. But I don't grudge her to you any more, brother. Chalk that down, too."

He coughed. He was growing weaker fast. When he spoke next his voice came in gasps:

"Don't be too hard on me, brother. Mind, I never had no chance. I'd a been a gentleman, too, but luck was agin me. I tried it once, for I had good blood in me, your blood. I'd have made it if the Carstones had took me up, but they didn't. Luck—was always—agin me."

He rested a little once more, keeping fast hold of the Englishman's hand. He kept his failing eyes upon Edgerly's face, as if he could never get enough of seeing him. Once more he talked:

"I reckon I've been as bad as they make 'em. I'm a thief. I've killed a man or two in my time. But I'm no slouch. I never went back on a pard. And I never worked in politics. Chalk that down to me. 'Twas because I—had good blood—in me, brother."

He ceased. It was plain his race was run.

Shirley had been watching him intently. She listened to his wandering talk, first with a puzzled expression, then more and more eagerly catching every word.

To be Continued.

Stylish New York Women.

There is an air of chic and style about the New Yorker which is unmistakable. Her lithe and supple figure lends itself readily to any style of garment, however grotesque or strange, and transforms it at once from a caricature into the most elegant thing imaginable. Whatever she puts on becomes her. Huge hats, which stagger fashionable women in other cities, have a peculiar grace and charm upon the heads of the stately beauties who promenade Fifth avenue. High bonnets cease to be ridiculous, and the man who loves to crack cruel jokes about the absurdity of modern headgear is silent when he sees the bewitching effect of lofty quills and ribbons surmounting an arch and piquant face. The tremendous tournure, which looks so exaggerated anywhere else, suddenly strikes us as a picturesque and beautiful addition to the feminine toilet when the New Yorker adds to it her draperies of silk and tulle. No other woman can approach her in style. The famous French milliners vow that their work becomes a pleasure when the daughter of a New York millionaire puts herself into their hands with a carte blanche. They can turn her out a divine being without a rival on earth, for what nature has forgotten to do in the way of beauty art can very readily supply in her case. There are a dozen beauties in New York society who would make their way immediately in any court in the world, and whose loveliness commands instant homage.—Cor. Providence Journal.

An Innocent Man Released.

James Hitchcock, of Ingham county, Michigan, was sentenced thirty-three years ago to imprisonment for life for murder. He turns out to have been innocent, and he wants the legislature of that state to support him in his declining years, as a partial compensation for his unjust confinement.—Harper's Bazar.

SCOTLAND.

The death is announced of Mr. John Farley Leith, Q. C., who represented Aberdeen in Parliament from 1872 to 1880.

Close upon £18,000 has already been contributed to the Jubilee Fund for the extension of the Aberdeen Infirmary. The sum required is £30,000.

It is stated that Mr. C Fraser-Mackintosh the M. P. for Inverness-shire will not again seek re-election for the county, and that he intends at the end of the present Parliament to retire from public life.

The inventory of the personal estate of the late Archibald Burns, sometimes banker at Perth, and latterly of Dunairds, Birnam, has been lodged in Perthshire Sheriff Court. It shows a total of upwards of £22,000.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen have completed their tour through India, and are now staying at Colombo, on a visit to Sir Arthur Gordon, whith whom they intend to return home this month, arriving in London early in May.

On April 7th the Crofter Commission in Scotland concluded their work of examining the tenants who are applicants for fair rent on the estate of Lord Macdonald in Skye. They commenced on the 9th their inspection of the crofts in the Kilmuir property.

The foundation stone of the new Town Hall, Library, and School of Art for Alloa was laid on April 2nd, with Masonic honours by the Earl of Mar and Kellie. The building is estimated to cost between £20,000 and £30,000, and is a gift to the town from Mr. John Thomson Paton, Alloa.

On April 8th Lord-Provost Clark, Edinburgh, stated to the Burghs Convention that he had been in communication with the military authorities, and it was thought advisable to hold the Scottish Review in celebration of Her Majesty's jubilee on Friday, 17th June, and that that day should be observed a a general holiday throughout Scotland.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

ISRAEL IN EGYPT.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY S. I. CURTISS, PH. D., D. D.

Lesson V of the International Series (Second Quarter), for Sunday, May 1. Text of the Lesson, Ex. i, 6-14—Golden Text, Ps. cv, 24.

There is no attempt in the Bible to record history for its own sake. Hundreds of years intervene between the events described in the last chapters of Genesis and those to which we are introduced in the early chapters of Exodus (Ex. xii, 40). While the story of those years would be interesting, as would the account of what our Lord did before his entrance on his ministry, yet it would doubtless be without significance for the history of redemption.

THE LESSON.

The Rapid Increase of the Israelites—In the sixth verse the end of the history in Genesis is reproduced as a fitting introduction to what is to follow. Joseph and all his brethren and all that generation die, but ever increasing multitudes rise to take their places.

V. 7. The same language is used here as in the first chapters of Genesis, where the author wishes to set forth the rapid increase of animal life (Gen. i, 20; viii, 17). They are even spoken of as swarming, and it is said that the land was filled with them. The land to which allusion is made is none other than the land of Goshen. We learn from other sources of the wonderful increase of the inhabitants of Egypt.

The New King (v. 8)—Meanwhile the dynasty of shepherd kings, who, as we have seen, were of a kindred race because of their Semitic origin, had come to an end. The Hyksos kings had been expelled from the country, and a native Egyptian dynasty had taken their place, who did not know Joseph, or if they knew him had no regard for him or his people. We do not know who this new king was, although it is pretty generally supposed that Ramses II was the Pharaoh of the oppression.

Vs. 8, 9. It could not have been absolutely true that the Israelites were more numerous than the Egyptians, for the Egyptians are supposed to have numbered about 7,000,000, and at a later period the Israelites could hardly have numbered more than 2,000,000 or 3,000,000. Still the rapid increase of a strong, hardy race, who were probably much superior in physical strength to the Egyptians, must have been very alarming.

Zoan (v. 10)—The capital of the king at that time was in Zoan, or Tanis, in the land of Goshen. This was chosen because it was necessary, as Ebers says, for Ramses II to stand with one foot in Egypt and the other in Syria. He was therefore in the very midst of the Israelites. Their rapid increase, therefore, could not escape his observation or the danger arising therefrom. As we have remarked, Goshen was the northeast district of Egypt. It was therefore on the high road to the land of the Hittites, the Assyrians and the other peoples of the east. Ramses II carried on war for years with the Hittites. If he was the king, therefore, intended in this chapter he could very readily see how the Israelites might form an alliance with the enemy and easily escape from Egypt.

The Store Cities (v. 11)—The king therefore sought to break the spirits of the people with hard labor. The Egyptians were the greatest builders of antiquity. But their pyramids and temples, which excite the wonder of men to-day, were built with the forced labor of their subjects. The king placed over the Israelites foreign taskmasters, who doubtless beat them cruelly. They were engaged in building store cities, perhaps where provisions for the campaigns in the east could be stored. An exploration society called "The Egypt Exploration Fund" is making interesting excavations in Egypt. It is believed that the true site of Pithom has been discovered. In it extensive storehouses have been found. The true location of Ramses still remains to be found.

Israel Kept Increasing (v. 12)—All these efforts to break down the spirit of the people and to diminish their numbers were to no purpose. The more the Egyptians oppressed the Hebrews the more they increased, so that the Egyptians were distressed before them.

Vs. 13, 14. The Egyptians, therefore, renewed their efforts. They made their service as painful as possible, thus embittering their lives, in the construction of buildings and in their work in the fields. All these oppressions, however, as the result will show, were of no avail, for Israel was God's covenant people (Gen. xvii, 7, etc.). His word was to be fulfilled.

Israel a Miracle of History—Israel is indeed a miracle of history. No people on earth has suffered such cruel wrongs, and no people to-day possesses greater physical force or mental vitality. We may well believe that God's chosen people are yet to bear an important part in the consummation of redemptive history.

POINTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

1. The brightest pages of the world's history, according to man's estimate, are of no account to God unless they have some bearing on the advancement of his kingdom.

2. When God has a great work for his people he first tries them in the furnace of affliction.

3. God remembers his covenant.—Sunday School World.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfils a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guaranties. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Chosen Friends.

Among the number of flourishing benefit societies in town a new order is to take its place. A Council of the Order of Chosen Friends is to be formed this evening, a meeting for that purpose being announced for 8 o'clock in the society hall, over China Hall, on George Street. The Deputy Supreme Councillor for Canada, Mr. C. P. Lennox, will explain the objects, nature and working of the order. During his address the meeting will be an open one, the public being invited to attend. Afterwards the new Council will be formed and those wishing to become members will be admitted.

Woodrow's Half Stiff Flexible Hats for sale at Fairweather's Hat Store.

Found at Last.

A much respected, in fact one of the most respectable citizens of Peterborough has found at last the man who in any case can produce the article he advertises. Yesterday he went all through the Great Cheapside, and in looking up the many lines advertised at such unheard of prices, was thoroughly convinced that Sheppard was fulfilling to the letter all that he had advertised. The choice of 5 Button Kid Gloves in black and colors at 50c., the six inch wide Embroidery at 15c., the all wool Black Cashmere at 25c., the nice assortment of cold Dress Goods at 10c., Tapestry Carpet commencing at 25c. and Brussels and all wool at 95c., sold elsewhere at $1.25 was a matter of considerable surprise to him, but when shown the rich Seal Brown Suit in boys at $1.92 and men's at $3.95 it simply eclipsed anything he had ever seen, and said he would advise his many friends to go straight to Sheppard's for good goods cheap.

We have just received another lot of Christy's Celebrated Zephyr Hats at Fairweather's Hat Store.

BISHOP OF PETERBOROUGH.

A Farewell Banquet to Father Dowling by the People of Paris.

The Paris Star-Transcrip gives an account of a farewell banquet tendered to the Rev. Father Dowling, Bishop-elect of Peterborough, at which every creed, denomination and sect in the town was represented. "The hall," says the Star-Transcript, "was crowded in every part with members of every sect and denomination to bid farewell to the worthy and popular Father Dowling, soon to be Bishop of Peterborough. Music was furnished by Kay's orchestra. When Father Dowling entered the hall a chorus of welcome was beautifully rendered by the choir of the Church of the Sacred Heart. After disposing of the bountiful supply of provisions which the ladies had provided the proceedings were opened by Mayor Stroud, who read letters expressing regret at their inability to be present from Wm. Paterson, Esq., M. P., A. S. Hardy, Esq., Provincial Secretary; Mayor Henry, of Brantford; Mr. Jeffry Hale, of Brantford, and Mr. J. W. Acres. The Mayor before continuing the programme expressed his thanks for the honor conferred on him in giving him the pleasurable honor of presiding over the gathering. He complimented the ladies on how beautifully the hall was decorated and on the excellent supply of viands provided. He referred to the regret experienced at Father Dowling's departure and the pleasure they experienced in his elevation." An address was presented to Father Dowling on behalf of the congregation of the Church of the Sacred Heart, congratulating him on his appointment to the Bishopric of Peterborough, bearing testimony to his many good qualities as a priest and expressing their regret at his departure from them. A purse was also presented to Father Dowling, and touching addresses were read from the Sodality and the Independent Catholic Benefit Society. Father Dowling replied in feeling terms, giving a brief history of his earlier labors in the parish. He felt it a distinguished honor to be raised to the Bishopric, but regretted leaving his people in Paris. Speeches were made referring to Father Dowling's good qualities, the pleasure felt in his elevation and the regret experienced at his departure, by Mr. W. B. Wood, M. P. P., Rev. Father Kehoe, Dr. Burt, Mr. A. H. Baird, Reeve Fisher, Mr. J. Macmillan, Mr. Buchanan of the B. B. N. A., Mr. Jennings of the B. of C. and Mr. Gardiner. A vocal solo was beautifully rendered by Mrs. P. Nelson and the proceedings were brought to a close by the chorus by the choir, "Farewell, Father, fare the well."

Accident.

While Mr. S. Heatherly was driving to town on Thursday on a load of hay the waggon turned over near Downer's Corners and Mr. Heatherly was thrown to the ground. His shoulder was dislocated, and he was otherwise injured. He was brought to town and his injuries attended to in Dr. Kincaid's surgery.

Effect of the Fire.

Mr. Porter who has returned from Western Ontario had a very successful trip. In two days he sold 53 of Porter Bros. O. B. and S. speeding carts and did a considerable trade in carriage tops also. It was supposed that the fire would impede manufacturing for a time, but this difficulty has been got over successfully. Other premises have been engaged and work will be carried on as before. Those having old rigs to repair may bring them on at once and orders will be executed with the usual promptness and despatch.

Piles of slippers at Kidd's from 30 cents a pair up.

SAVED IN TIME.

Rescued From the Water Apparently Lifeless.

On Thursday afternoon a little daughter of Mr. C. Huffman while playing on the edge of the creek above Dalhousie street, fell in and was carried off by the current. She had drifted nearly down to Spaulding's Bay before Mr. C. B. Routley, who was told of the accident by his little child, hastened to the rescue. Mr. Routley plunged in and soon landed what appeared to be a lifeless body on the bank of the stream.

Medical aid was at once summoned, and in the meantime Messrs. Drake and Routley worked with the child to try and restore it to life. On the arrival of Dr. King and Dr. Kincaid the recovery was still doubtful, but after some time signs of returning consciousness appeared. Continuing the treatment the child recovered and is now all right. Dr. Collins was also in attendance.

Great credit is due to Mr. Routley for the prompt manner in which he rescued the child. Had it been in the water much longer it would surely have been drowned. Mr. Drake deserves praise for his zealous efforts to restore consciousness.

MR. MOWAT'S NEPOTISM.

Mr. Mowat declined to have his son appointed to one of the vacant shrievalties. His decison is a wise one. The placement of any more of his relatives in office, to the disadvantage of the public interest, would be a scandal of which he never could purge himself.—Kingston Whig (Reform.)

Gent's Tweed Hats made to order on the premises at Fairweather's Hat Store.

The President on Horseback.

The president, it is said, has yielded to the advice of his friends, and will take to horsemanship as a means of exercise. Secretaries Bayard, Lamar, Whitney and Fairchild have described to him the benefit they derive from equestrianism, and he has consented to join them in some of their gallops across the country. Secretary Bayard rides a big bay horse with banged tail, and every fair afternoon he joins Secretary Fairchild or George Bancroft, the venerable historian, in a canter through the soldiers' home and the adjacent roads. Secretary Whitney usually rides with a party of young people, and none of them enjoy a spurt more than he does. Secretary Lamar directs his horse to be saddled and at his office every clear afternoon at 4:40 o'clock, from whence he explores the surrounding country until it is time to return home to dinner.

Mrs. Cleveland is said to be delighted with the idea of her husband taking to horseback riding, and she promises to join him in the sport. She has attended both of the recent "paper chases," and is ambitious to join some of the gay riding parties which are constantly being made up in society. A well known New York instructor in horsemanship, who is now in this city, has formed a large class in fashionable circles, which has given quite a boom to horseback riding. The seal browns are not well adapted for saddle horses, and early additions to the White House stables may be looked for.—Baltimore Sun.

A Hint for the Showman.

I have found out the secret of the greyhounds' race at Olympia. The marvel how animals so notoriously wanting in the intelligence which is generally characteristic of the canine kind should be trained to a contest of speed without an object, such as a hare, in front of them is a marvel no longer. One exceptional hound is taught to run, and, this educational difficulty once surmounted, the rest is very simple. As soon as he is off the others follow. Let it be noticed that he is in front all the way. Now, as regards the riderless horses, there is a question I should like to see decided by experiment. Would any one of these animals go faster with a man or boy on his back? It would be a pretty trial. Let each of the field in turn be ridden by a good jockey. It is my belief that skill and judgment would outmatch freedom and the incentive of the dangling balls that spur each unburdened steed, and would also be more than a compensation for the rider's weight.—London World.

Ridicule of the Code.

Since the war dueling has almost disappeared in this section of the country, and any attempt to revive it has been met with merciless ridicule. What originally started the fashion of laughing at duels was a quarrel which arose between two Georgia editors in 1866. They were opposed to each other on some question of municipal government, and from generalities the controversy developed into personalities of the bitterest description. After all kinds of personal abuse a challenge was given and a duel was looked for by all who had followed the course of the dispute. But the challenged party refused to accept, on the ground that his opponent was not a "whole man," having lost a leg, and that for a whole man to fight against a fragmentary one would not be fair. The ludicrousness of this explanation of his refusal set the state in a roar of laughter, and from that day dueling disappeared.—Globe-Democrat.

Through the Canal by Night.

Everybody knows it is quite a common thing for a big steamer to go through the Suez canal at night. But what is, perhaps, not so generally known, is that the steamer itself, and not the Suez Canal company, has to supply the requisite electric light apparatus for the nocturnal passage. What the company does is to prescribe the amount of illuminating power which the apparatus must possess. For instance, no steamer is allowed to start on a night transit that is not fitted with an "electric projector" which is capable of throwing a light for at least 1,200 meters ahead. And on the upper deck, too, there must be an electric lamp and shade powerful enough to light up a circular area some 600 meters in circumference. Big steamers are beginning to carry this apparatus, but there is a company both at Port Said and Port Tewfik which lets out the necessary projectors and lamps on hire.—Kansas City Times.

A New Society Jargon.

The society girls here do not consider it the proper thing to speak English with the slightest "nge" of Americanism. A year ago society unanimously adopted what is known as the English accent, and to an outsider there was not much of any difference between the talk that one hears in London and Washington. Now, however, by some peculiar and inexplicable twist the ladies are all doing their best to speak English with a French accent, while the gentlemen still try to be as Cockney as of old. The result is more than laughable. The jargon to one not accustomed to it is more than distressing. It took society some time to "catch on" to the change, but the transformation is now very nearly complete. It is understood that the Misses West, the daughters of the English minister, are the leaders in this, the very latest fad.—Washington Cor. Boston Traveller.

The Wharves of Savannah.

Savannah is indeed a port—a great port, our port, and is the receiving and distributing point for the produce and merchandise for a vast area of territory. From these wharves we took a circuit around and among the truck farms that seemed to have no limit, and just as far as the eye could reach there were gardens—vegetable gardens—thousands of acres in cabbages and potatoes and peas and beans and beets and onions and all the garden vegetables. Some of them gave signs of frost, but not many. Scores of negroes, large and small, were picking the peas, and they are boxed rapidly and hurried to the steamships for exportation. It is lively times in these truck farms now, and it is said to be a very profitable business.—Bill Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

England's Woman Cab Driver.

The only woman cab driver in England has just died. Visitors to Epping Forest will recall, as one of the peculiar institutions of that vicinity, the female Jehu, who for many years wore conspicuously the badge of a driver, and held the reins in skillful competition with the men, who, no doubt, vociferously denounced at cab stands and railway stations this demonstration of a woman's rights.—London Letter.

THE JESUITS' BILL.

Discussed by the Private Bills Committee, Amended and Passed.

QUEBEC, April 29.—The private Bills Committee room was crowded with ecclesiastics and others, among wh m were Rev. Mr. Turgeon, superior; Vicar General Hamel, Mr. Pagnuelo, Q. C. and Mr. Lamothe, of Montreal. Mr. Mercier introduced the Jesuits' bill, eulogizing the order and enlarging on their great services in exploration and education. He also cited a number of other societies which had also applied for and obtained similar incorporation.

Vicar-General Hamel said there was no opposition to the principle of the measure, nor any desire to deprive the Order of its civil rights, but it was the wish of the Cardinal and seven bishops that the bill should be delayed until such time as it had been submitted to the Vatican.

The Superior of the Order suggested that the matter might be for the present arranged by the provisions of the bill only applying to the three dioceses of Montreal, Ottawa and Three Rivers. This having been agreed on, the committee proceeded to consider the details of the bill.

Mr. Mercier said that the only opposition so far had come from the Protestant Ministerial association of Montreal, and he did not see what that had to do with the matter at all.

The preamble was amended by striking out the words which referred to the society as a "religious community, and have founded in its several establishments of public utility," and that the "head of the Roman Catholic Church has recognized all the rights and privileges of the order both the old and the new" simply asserts that it is "expedient to constitute such community a body politic and corporate like the other religious communities of the province." The clause "teaching in the first, second and third degree, including primary instruction, as well as all works connected with the above or relating thereto," was struck out, also the words "shall in this province enjoy the privileges granted by the Holy See to the superiors, professors and students of the Society of Jesus." The other amendments were unimportant and the bill was passed.

The Churches.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a. m. the second at 8 a. m., and the third at 10.30 a. m. Vespers at 7 p. m.

ST. LUKE'S.—The regular services at St Luke's Church will be conducted as follows: Morning Prayer, Litany and sermon at 11 a. m., evensong at 7 p. m.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services will be conducted as follows:—Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.; Morning Prayer, Litany sermon and Holy Communion at 11 a.m.; Evening Prayer and sermon at 7 p. m.

ST. PAUL'S.—The anniversary services will be held. The Rev. W. T. Herridge, of Ottawa, will preach the sermons.

BAPTIST CHURCH, Murray Street.—The usual services will be held. The Rev. Mr. McKay, of McMaster Hall, Toronto, will conduct the services.

METHODIST CHURCH, Charlotte Street.—The Rev. F. H. Wallace will conduct the services in the morning and the Rev. I. Tovell in the evening.

METHODIST CHURCH, George street.—The Rev. I. Tovell will conduct the morning services and the Rev. F. H. will conduct the evening service.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The usual services will be conducted.

METHODIST CHURCH, Mark street (Ashburnham)—The Rev. Mr. Wilson will conduct the services. In the morning the subject of his sermon will be "Believe." The quarterly love feast and the administration of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will take place after the sermon. The subject of the evening sermon will be "Light given to the Blind Boy."

PRIZE ESSAY.

The Essay That Won the W. C. T. U. First Prize.

When a man is forming the habit of drinking he thinks there is no danger. He enjoys the sensation which it produces, and he soon gets to like it better and imbibe more freely, for a natural want is easily satisfied, but an unnatural want knows no bounds. The habit creeps stealthily upon him, but he assures his friends that he can quit it when he likes. Oh, fatal self confidence. He evidently does not like, for every day is adding another ply t the cord t at is binding him, and when he does wake and says as Sampson did of ol!, "I will go out as at other times before and shake myself," he finds that he is shorn of his strength. He is rushing on to destruction, bound hand and foot, with no power in himself to stop.

What an infamy it is to man, that he with all his God-given faculties, should take pleasure in sinking so far below the beasts through drink! Look at him!—mumbling like a mad man. It would seem but a just punishment if he should ever after have to remain in t at idiotic state. Although one or two fits of drunkenness may not produce that effect, yet, when the habit is persisted in, the drunkard does even ually bring this punishment upon himself. No person when he takes his first glass intends to become a besotted drunkard, and yet when he sees its effects on others, how it weakens the strong man and brings the mighty man down to the ditch how it beclouds the brightest intellect, drys up the ambition, dethrones the reason, and paralyses the will power, one would think he would take warning and keep himself free from it. "He that ruleth himself is gr-ater than he that taketh a city." That is the part that strong drinks attacks first. When it breaks down a man's self-control then he is in its power. In this matter of intoxicating liquor it is very often the case that while a man retains his will power to break off the habit he does not exercise it, and like the man who hid his talent in the earth, it is taken from him, and when he would use it he finds it is gone

If intoxicating liquor has such sad effects on man's physical and ment l nature, what shall I say of its effects on his m-ral na ure? This is the divine side of his bei g—hat part which links him to God and Heaven

"Were I so tall to reach the pole,
Or grasp the ocean in my span,
I must be measured by my soul;
That is the standard of a man."

If all the wealth pleasures sorrows, joys and everything belonging to this world, were put into the balances with one human soul, they would be as nothing in comparis n.

What effects has the use of alcohol on man's moral nature? A tree is known by its fruit. "A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit" Let us look at the fruit of alcohol. Does it lift a man up on a higher moral plane, and make him more Godlike? Is there a single being on the face of the whole earth that has been benefitted morally by intoxicating liquor? If there is let him stand forth. Where is he to be found? Where, oh, where? Echo answers, "No where."

We do not need to seek for the immoral effects of alcohol. Our pathway is strewed with them. We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that intemperance is devastating the land, like the pestilence that walketh in darkness, blasting, as with the breath of the bottomless pit all that it comes into contact with.

Statistics show that about nine-tenths of all the crimes that are committed are the result of drink. Ask that trembling wretch as he is led up to the scaffold what it was that brought him there and he will tell you drink did it. He learned to take his glass of wine at his father's table, and when he went out into the world he was already started on the road to ruin, his stock in hand—a taste for intoxicating liquor. From that, and the influence of low associates which it brought him under, it was easy to fall into other vices, and now he is doomed to die for taking the life of a fellow-man

Ask the authorities at the police stations, penitentiaries, reformatories, etc., what is the one great cause of so many men and women being in those places, and they will tell you that by far the greater number are brought there through drink. Go to the bedside of that dying man. He has been a blasphemer, a Sabbath breaker, and has steeped himself in every form of iniquity. Listen to his story and he tells you, "it is drink that has been my curse. I once had a happy home, my mother was a Christian woman, I was surrounded by good influence, but there was a tavern across the road, and I learned to drink there. That is where my downward career commenced, but where will it end? My mother died of a broken heart and now I am about to meet the God whose counsels I have despised."

There is no end of instances like these. We can hardly take up a newspaper but we see accounts of tragedies and as we let our eyes glance down the columns we catch sight of the lines, "They had been drinking together," "The quarrel arose in a tavern," "He was seen in a state of intoxication," or some such explanation.

Take a sober, refined, moral man, fill him with liquor, and there is hardly anything too wicked for him to do.

Ask any minister of any Christian denomination what is the greatest evil he has to contend with, and he will in nearly every case tell you it is the use of intoxicating liquor In it all other evils are combined If a man will drink intoxicating liquor all the other avenues of crime are open to him. Men under the influence of drink will violate every one of the ten commandments.

What are the immediate effects on a man's moral nature when he begins to yield to this vice? Is he found oftener in the prayer-meeting? or in the company of Christian people? Does he take more delight in the service of God? Is he kinder to his wife and family? No, verily; but just when a man begins to take intoxicating liquor into his system, he begins to degenerate. He may have been a man of high moral standing fraught with many Christian graces, but he soon gets less particular in matters of morality. As he becom s saturated with alcohol he becomes grosser. His finer feelings and nobler aspirations become covered with the mildew of sensuality, smothering the voice of conscience, and clogging up those Heavenly longings after perfection. The drunkard's career, from the first glass until he totters into his grave, without one ray of hope to cheer him, is a constant down grade.

The closer we live to God and the more we yield to the promptings of the Holy Spirit in our hearts, the nearer we become to what God intends us to be; but God cannot dwell in our hearts that is filled with the spirit of the devil; therefore every glass of liquor which a man takes alienates him from God. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap,"—but in much greater measure. If he that soweth the wind reapeth the whirlwind, what shall he who soweth the whirlwind reap? Human language fails to portray and the heart of man to comprehend, the fullest extent of the effects of intoxicating liquor on man's moral nature, for we are told in God's word that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven.

Although our physical, mental and moral natures are different in their degrees of importance, yet they are all closely connected. They are in partnership as it were and each on has an influence on the others. 1st Cor., vi, 19 and 20: "What? know yet not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price, therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirits which are God's." God made man in his own image. What a crime does man commit through drink against all the laws of his being—against the trust that is given him. Follow the history of the drunkard from the cradle to the grave, and what a picture of misery and degration! Look at him in his boyhood, with intelligence in his eye, ambition and noble resolve in his countenance, and love in his heart. Weigh all the misery to himself and his friends that follow when he becomes a slave to the bottle. Look at the evil effects that continue after the dark waters of oblivion have closed over his head—effects on his children who have inherited the desire for drink, and which, even although they may not yield to it themselves, they will hand down to their offspring. Listen to the cry of the lost spirits from the lowest hell, and then tell us what compensation will intoxicating liquor give for all these. The effects of intoxicating liquor are evil, only evil and evil continually, and yet how indifferent we as a people are We shudder with horror when we hear of a person being stung by a serpent, and yet we as a nation spend more money in keeping this deadly serpent drink alive than we do in bread. Is it a little thing that the cry should rise up on all sides against this curse from homes ruined, from the children made fatherless, aye and motherless, from the mothers made childless through

"Strong drink that fills the madhouse,
Stroug drink that crams the jail,
Strong drink that turns God's blessed earth
Into a raging hell."

Can you look upon the face that once a mother kissed with rapture, but now bloated with drunkenness and crime, and the lips that once repeated a prayer at a mother's knee, but now give vent only to oaths and curses—can you gaze on the child's countenance, pinched with want the sad eyed mother's hollow cheek, the long lists of crime and wretchedness which fills the newspapers—can you go into the potters' field and look on the nameless graves, and see no effects of intoxicating liquor? Shall we not by precept and example, use the influence which God has given us to destroy this evil, if not for our own sake, for Christ's sake, and for the sake of others. We are all to a great extent our brothers' keepers.

ALEXANDER COOPER.

THE MURDER AT DRESDEN.

Particulars of the Killing of Thomas Willoughby.

Government Detective John Murray happened to be in Chatham when Jim Moore, the colored bargeman, shot and killed Thomas Willoughby at Dresden, and within a short time he was upon the trail of the murderer. The Government officer's appearance on the scene so speedily caused quite a sensation among the colored people of Dresden, and their belief that it boded no good to the fugitive will probably be borne out. Had it not been for Mr. Murray's promptitude in driving from Chatham to Dresden immediately upon hearing of the occurrence, the murderer might have escaped, while it is almost certain that the three witnesses of the shooting would have been spirited away.

Jim Moore and Thomas Willoughby, both colored, were deck hands on board the barge Gondola, which plies between Dresden and Detroit, carrying lumber and wood, Moor's father being Captain of the craft. A bad feeling had existed between Moore and Willoughby for some time on account of a coloured girl whose favors they both sought. Three weeks ago last Sunday the two men met on the road in Dresden, Moore being in the company of a man named Bradley. After exchanging some angry words both Moore and Willoughby drew the African's favorite weapon, a razor, and commenced slashing at each other, Moore inflicting a cut on Willoughby's hand. Bradley, who had been an excited on looker, managed to separate the two, and they went their different ways. On Monday last, the night before the murder, the men had another dispute, this time about the possession of a trunk on the barge, and the quarrel was renewed at breakfaston Tuesday. Willoughby rose from the table first and on going out of the cabin to the deck took up Moore's mitts. Moore ordered him to put them down, which he refused to do, and asked Moore what he was going to do about it. Moore said, "I'll show you." There is a shelf in the cabin of the barge, and from this shelf Moore took a revolver, stepped to the cabin door and fired at him. The bullet passed through Willoughby's heart, and he fell dead. Moore turned to the crew of the barge, three in number, who were terrified spectators of the shooting, and said, "Boys, I have shot Tom." He went into the cabin, changed his clothes and fled. One of the crew went for Dr. Tweede, who is also coroner at Dresden, and he, seeing the man was dead, telegraphed the particulars to County Attorney Douglas, of Chatham. Mr. Douglas notified Mr. Murray, who had a case in court at that town, and he immediately got a team and drove to Dresden. Arriving there he formed two search parties to pursue Moore, who had gone up the river. That night Moore returned to his father's house, presumably to secure means of getting to the States, and was captured. The three members of the barge crew who witnessed the deed were reluctant to testify, in fact, tried to shield the prisoner, so Mr. Murray took them before the magistrate at Dresden, Mr. Chappe, and had them committed as material witnesses. Their names are Sandford Washington, Oswald Thurman and Abraham Warren, all colored. They, with the accused Moore, were at once removed to Chatham jail. On Thursday Moore was indicted by the Chatham Grand Jury, then in session, and a true bill against him was returned. The witnesses being unable to furnish bail, will be detained in jail until the trial.

Two years ago, it is said Moore shot at Dresden colored girl in the leg because she repelled his advances.—Toronto World.

WAR RUMORS DENIED.

BERLIN, April 29.—The London rumors about an imminent Franco-Prussian war are absolutely unfounded. The Emperor, the Crown Prince and Prince Bismarck allke desire peace and will never begin war unless they are attacked by France, and this is improbable. General Boulanger is not organizing, but disorganizing the French army. The Schnaebeles incident, therefore, will be peacefully settled. Threatening Panslavist reports continue to be received from St. Petersburg, but the outcome is uncertain.

THE NIHILIST TRIALS.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 29.—The trial of the prisoners implicated in the plot to kill the Czar has commenced. The Courts are strongly guarded. A Russian general is present to report the proceedings for the Czar. A painful impression was produced on the spectators in the outer hall as the accused entered the court. Their youth and high-bred intelligent air elicted much sympathy. Among the prisoners is a maiden of striking beauty. It is reported that a short account of the trial wil be publishey in the Official Gazette on the morning of the executions.

THE POPE ATTACKED.

PARIS, April 29.—The clerical newspapers here are silent on the Papal decision on the labor question, while the Royalist journals express displeasure. M. Lemoine, a semi-Orleanist writer, says that the Pope is as much of an Opportunist as Prince Bismark. While democratic America continues Conservative, Europe, he says, is not democratic through love of democracy, but because she is obliged to be. The Temps says it does not wonder that the Pope is trying to gain such a powerful machine for his side as the Knights of Labor, but wonders what is to become of the old prejudices that so long dominated Rome. The Holy Office consecrates democracy as the legitimate heir of the regimes which preceded it.

DR. McGLYNN'S CASE.

LONDON, April 29.—A despatch from Rome to the Chronicle says: The Rev. Dr. McGlynn of New York, has again informed the Vatican that he refuses to come to Rome.

CHARGE AGAINST MR. BALFOUR.

DUBLIN, April 29.—In the Exchequer Court to-day a nurse named Dillon applied for a writ beyond the court's jurisdiction against Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, for slander, in having, the complainant alleged, stated against her professionally that she had refused to nurse the wife of a man employed by a person under boycott. The court refused to grant the writ.

SWINBURNE ON GLADSTONE.

LONDON, April 29.—Mr. Swinburne publishes a hundred-line poem, denouncing Mr. Gladstone's policy. Referring to Mr. Gladstone he says:

"The hoary henchman of the gang
Lifts hands that never dew nor rain
May cleanse from Gordon's blood again,
Grand helmsman of the clamorous crew.
The good gray recreant quakes and weeps—
To think that crime no longer creeps—
Safe towards its end, that murderers too
May die when Mercy sleeps."

THE CANADIAN RESOLUTIONS.

LONDON, April 29.—Nearly all of yesterday's papers alluded to the resolutions adopted in the Canadian Parliament protesting against the passage of the Crimes Act for Ireland. The Globe blames Mr. Blake for taking part in a meddlesome proceeding, from which he and other Canadian Liberals should have held themselves aloof. As it is, they have greatly discredited themselves. The St. James Gazette asks what the Canadians would say if the Imperial House of Commons passed a resolution approving of the repeal agitation in Nova Scotia. The Gazette thinks that the Canadian Parliament should have let the matter alone. The Evening News refers to the resolutions as "almless," and of the "school debating society" order. The Pall Moll Gazette says the Irish vote is a permanent factor in colonial politics. The Gazette approves of the resolutions.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

THE works on the Trent Valley Navigation, for which appropriations have been made by the Dominion Parliament, are now so far advanced that they will be completed, or nearly so, by the end of the present year on June 30th. These works, consisting of canals and locks at Fenelon Falls, Buckhorn, Lovesick and Burleigh, and dams at Young's Point and Lakefield, besides minor improvements, have been prosecuted continuously, and if not as rapidly as we could have desired, with fair speed considering the heavy nature of much of the work. Now, however, these operations and the appropriations are about coming to an end. That there may be a continuance of the hitherto uninterrupted construction, a new appropriation is therefore required and the letting of contracts for a further section. This will no doubt be provided for when the estimates for the next fiscal year are framed, since the Administration and the country are pledged to the continuance of this important national work. As we learn from the official report of Mr. Rubidge, which will be found in another column, the plans and estimates are now ready, so there is nothing to delay the asking for a vote and the advertising for tenders.

The promised construction of a canal on the Canadian side of the Sault Ste Marie, adds another argument to the very strong one previously existing in favor of pushing forward the opening of the Trent Valley route. By these improvements combined a line of internal navigation will be provided, so as to utilize to the best advantage our magnificent chain of inland waters. The people of Manitoba and the North-west Territories, if they examine the merits of this great work, will find that it will afford them a new outlet for their produce, diminishing distance, increasing safety and reducing cost of transport. In the same way the utilization of this route will be valuable for the development of the western portion of our Province on Lake Huron and Lake Superior. It follows too, that it must conduce simultaneously to the building up of the trade of our Canadian seaports, as the Erie canal does for New York by carrying to it more grain than all the railways combined.

These favorable considerations are not advanced to prove the advisability of opening the Trent Valley Navigation, for that is already fully admitted, but to show to those who are less acquainted with the route than we who reside on these waters, the strong reasons there are for hastening the work. When the portion now under construction is completed, as will very shortly be the case, there should be no cessation of operations, but still more rapid progress. With this end in view there should be a sufficient appropriation and immediately it is voted the necessary steps should be taken to invite tenders for the next section or section.

MR. PARNELL should for his own sake ask Mr. Henry George to keep his mouth shut. Mr. George says he was present when the news of the Phœnix Park tragedy was received by Mr. Parnell, who, he alleges felt genuine sympathy for the fate of Lord Frederick Cavendish, but not for that of Mr. Bourke. Mr. Parnell may well pray to be delivered from his friend, if Mr. Mr. George is his friend.

THE Globe is very indignant at a minority candidate having a seat for a New Brunswick constituency. Why does it not display a little of its righteous indignation in a case in its own city, that of John Leys, the bogus M. P. P., who dishonestly sits by statute for Toronto, because he does not represent the majority of his constituency?

THE Globe says that the farmers are not properly represented in the Dominion Government. Yet they are better represented in the Ottawa Administration than in the Ontario Government, which the Globe considers perfect.

MR. SKINNER who moved to seat Mr. King for Queens, N. B., was a year ago a Ministerialist, but like Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Mitchell he turned Reformer because his vanity was hurt by a better man being preferred to himself.

WE read in the Globe that "the good do not all die young" and that the great often live to an old age. That's true. Sir John Macdonald is still living.

LINDSAY.

ACCIDENT.—A ten-year old son of Mr. Michael Fox of Ops, had the misfortune to break his ankle, by falling from a swing.

NEW FACTORY.—A button factory is about being established here. J. W. Wallace is at once to erect an extension northward about fifty feet from his woolen mills, for Mr. Nicolle and others, as a button factory. By July the building is expected to be ready for occupation.

LEG BROKEN.—On Sunday last Mr. David Rogers, nephew of Mr. John Cruess M. P. P., met with a painful accident in getting his leg broken by a kick from a heifer. The leg two years ago, and at that time had not properly knit. It is supposed that the ends of the bones will have to be scraped before they can be knit.

SMALL EXPLOSION.—On Wednesday morning Mr. A. B. Terry's bake-oven was almost demoralized. It appears that fire was put in the oven, and that some of the wood had been charged with gun powder. There were three small explosions in quick succession, which had they occurred at the same time, would have completely wrecked the oven; as it was, a number of bricks were knocked out of place. What kind of creatures have we got in this district?—Warder.

Our three flats are packed with NEW GOODS, ☞ and we can show MORE CLOTHING THAN THE WHOLE KIT OF YOU COMBINED, including the tail end of a few Dry Goods Stores that carry a few shoddy Suits. Energy will tell, and the people appreciate it. ☞ Our Business is not on paper; it is a reality, and the result of long, patient study and hard work.

READ, YOU BABY CLOTHIERS, WHAT THE CLOTHIER OF THE AGE IS GOING TO DO FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS, AND WHEN YOU READ, REFLECT, AND WHEN YOU REFLECT, COME AND BUY FROM HIM, FOR YOU CANNOT BUY FROM ANY WHOLESALE HOUSE IN CANADA AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES

LOT 1.—Mens Blue Serge Suits for $3.50, not, mark you, old faded out brown shoddy serge, such as you can buy elsewhere for $3.75, but a pure Indigo dye, warranted fast color, and to cost you $8.00 from any other dealer,

LOT 2.—Mens All Wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $4.00. This is a beautiful black and brown check, trimmed with a silk serge lining, and the lowest wholesale price of it is guaranteed to be $6.50. We show a dozen different patterns in this line to select from.

LOT 3.—Mens West of England and Scotch Tweed Suits at $5.50, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00. Are made and trimmed equal to custom work, and if made to order would cost you from $15.00 to $22.00. With this line of goods we throw you in 10 yards of Embroidery and one pair of Corsets. Such goods are too trifling for the Wonderful Cheap Man to sell, and are assigned to his gift Department.

LOT 4.—Mens Fine French Worsted Suits for $10.00 and $12.00, not backed goods, but pure worsted, worth $25.00 made to order. We have thousands of these goods to select from.

LOT 5.—Boys Suits from 98 cents per suit up. We really cannot afford anything out of our gift Department with this suit, but to make it interesting, and not disappoint the boy, we will throw in a Cap.

In Our HAT and CAP Department we sell a Fine Soft Felt Hat for 20 cents worth 80 cents, and a Fine Stiff Felt Hat, newest Style, for 75 cents worth $1.50.

In Our Furnishing GOODS and BOOT Department, suffise to say we stand unique, and are almost giving them away, if you doubt it, call and see if we dont give you something handsome without effecting your pocket. Workingmen try a pair of our 50 cent Cottonade pants, they are worth $1.00.

WE WANT THE WHOLE COUNTRY

To come and see what we are doing, therefore I WILL PAY RAILROAD FARE within a radius of 100 Miles of Peterborough to every person coming to Peterborough and purchasing $10 worth of Goods or upwards from me.

Remember, I have Removed from the old store in the Arcade Buildings, under the Opera House, and I am now located in the Store formerly known as the BON MARCHE. You cannot mistake my place. There are Four Life-size signs on front of Building, and see the name GOUGH, the Clothier, above them. Be not deceived by any catch-penny clothiers, but go straight to

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

The First Party Vote—A Good Ministerial Majority—A Victim of Riel—Imported Butter.

THURSDAY, April 28.—A number of questions were put to and answered by the Ministers.

VICEREGAL RESIDENCE.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Robillard, said it was not the intention to build a new residence for the Governor-General.

IMPORTED BUTTER.

Sir C. TUPPER, in reply to Mr. Hickey, declined to state prematurely if the duty on butter would be increased. If imported butter was suspected to be adulturated it would be analyzed.

A VICTIM OF RIEL.

Mr. WHITE, in reply to Mr. Barron, said Mr. Gilchrist killed at Frog Lake had been buried at the public expense. His relatives would receive due compensation for losses.

THE HOME RULE VOTE.

Mr. TAYLOR said he had voted for Mr. Davin's amendment, but his name had been accidentially omitted from the division list.

QUEEN'S, N. B.

Mr. SKINNER moved to substitute the name of Mr. King for Mr. Baird in the return for Queen's County, N. B. The papers before them showed that Mr. King had received the majority of votes, but the Returning officer had returned the minority candidate. He held that the duty of that officer was simply to count the votes and make his returns accordingly. He quoted precedents in favour of his view, dwelling most upon a municipal election case in England. He admitted that some of the duties of a returning officer were of a judicial character, but after allowing a poll they were only ministerial.

Mr. THOMPSON said Mr. Skinner's precedents went back to a period when the House decided such questions. Long ago, however, both the Imperial and Canadian Parliaments had given over to the courts the right to try such cases, and no precedent since then had been adduced. The only questions reserved by Parliament were those of qualification. Thus in the cases of O'Donovan Rossa and John Mitchell being convicted felons, the British Parliament declared that they were disqualified, Mr. Gladstone himself moving in the latter case. In the King's County, P. E. I. case, the Canadian House decided that the candidate returned was personally disqualified. In this case there might be a disqualification and they should be careful not to trench upon any one's rights. They had a committee especially competent to enquire into such questions, and he moved an amendment that the matter be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections to report to the House.

Messrs. Mills, Edgar, Ellis, Barron, Patterson (Essex) Choquette, Mitchell, Sutherland, Lister, Cartwright, Paterson (Brant), spoke in favour of the motion, and Messrs. Tupper (Pictou), Landry, Davin, Foster, Macdonald (Victoria, N. S.), Sproule and Girouard for the amendment. The lawyers occupied most of the time with the discussion of legal points. Mr. Patterson (Essex) insisted in judging for himself on the merits of the case in favor of Mr. King, and not leaving it to the courts. Mr. Lister used abusive language concerning the Minister of Justice and was called to order by the Speaker.

Mr. Thompson's amendment was put and carried by 109 to 77 on the following division:—

YEAS.—Audet, Bain (Soulanges), Bergeron Bergin, Bowell, Boyle, Brown, Bryson, Burns, Cameron, Campbell (Digby), Carling, Carpenter, Caron, Chapleau, Chisholm, Cockburn, Colby, Costigan, Coughlin, Coulombe, Couture, Curran, Dawson, Davis, Denison, Desjardins, Ferguson (Leeds and Grenville), Foster, Freeman, Gaudet, Girouard, Gordon, Grandbois, Guilbault, Guillet, Haggart, Hall, Hesson, Hickey, Jamieson, Jones, Kenny, Labelle, Landry, Langevin, Macdonald (Sir John), McCarthy, McCuila, McDonald (Victoria), McDougald (Pictou,) McDougall (Cape Breton), McGreevy, McKay, McKeen, McLean, McMillan (Vaudreuil), McNeill, Madill, Mara, Marshall, Masson, Mills (Annapolis), Moncreiff, Montague, Montplaisir, O'Brien, Perley (Assiniboia), Perley (Ottawa), Pope, Porter, Putman, Reid, Riopel, Robertson (Hastings), Robillard, Roome, Ross, Royal, Rykert, Scarth, Shakespeare, Shanly, Small, Smith (Montreal), Smith (Ontario), Sproule, Stevenson, Taylor, Temple, Therien, Thompson, Tisdale, Tupper (Cumberland), Tupper (Pictou), Tyrwhitt, Vanasse, Wallace, Ward, White (Cardwell), White (Renfrew), Wilmot, Wilson (Argenteuil), Wilson (Lennox), Wood (Brockville), Wood (Westmoreland), Wright.—109.

NAYS.—Aymot, Armstrong, Bain (Wentworth), Barron, Bechard, Bernier, Blake, Borden, Bourassa, Bowman, Brien, Campbell (Kent), Campbell (Renfrew), Cartwright, Casey, Casgrain, Charlton, Choquette, Cimon, Clayes, Coursol, De St. Georges, Dessaint, Doyon, Duchesnay, Dupont, Edgar, Eisenhauer, Ellis, Fiset, Fisher, Flynn, Gauthier, Geoffrion, Gigault, Gillmour, Godbout, Guay, Hale, Holton, Innes, Jones, Kirk, Landerkin, Lang, Laurier, Lavergne, Lister, Livingston, Lovitt, Macdonald (Huron) McIntyre, McMillan (Huron), McMullen, Mallory, Mills (Bothwell), Mitchell, Mulock, Paterson (Brant), Paterson (Essex), Perry, Platt, Rinfret, Robertson (Kings, P. E. I.), Robertson (Shelburne), St. Marie, Scriver, Semple, Skinner, Somerville, Sutherland, Trow, Turecot, Watson, Welsh, Wilson (Elgin), Yeo—77.

If this is to be to be taken as a test vote it will be seen that the Administration has a majority from every Province and Territory, except Prince Edward Island. The majority of "Nationalists" voted Conservative. The Ministerial majority in a full House would be about forty.

A Wild Canard.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 29.—The rumored matrimonial engagement of Sir Lionel Sackville West, British Minister, and Miss Mattie Mitchell, daughter of the Senator from Oregon, is authoritatively denied. It is regarded as a wild canard.

Mishap to the Edision Party.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 29.—Despatch from Barton, Fla., states that while Thomas A. Edison and a party of eight friends were standing on a pier at Nissimee Springs, the pier collapsed and precipitated all the party except Mr. Edision and a lady, into water. A number of residents who saw the accident rushed to the scene and saved those imperilled. Several of them were going down for the last time.

Foreign Missions.

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—The seventeenth annual convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church began here yesterday. Delegates are present from nearly fifty localities. One hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars was spent in mission work last year by the Society.

Gent's Tweed Hats made to order on the premises at Fairweather's Hat Store.

For Children Starving to Death.

On account of their inability to digest ordinary food, Scott's Emulsion can be digested and give strength and flesh when all other food fails. See what Dr. A. H. Peck, Penn. Med. College, Peticodiac, says: "I have used and prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and find it an excellent preparation, agreeing well with the stomach, and its continued use adding greatly to the strength and comfort of the patient." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

By ELIZA ARCHARD.

Copyrighted by American Press Association.

A new look came over his face, the look of the dying. It was one of those marvelous likenesses that sometimes settle in the human face at the last, when the soul is leaving the body. At this supreme moment traces of blood and far off kinship that were never seen before appear and stamp their mark on the face that death is taking for its own.

As Shirley saw this mysterious, ineffable look, an expression of horror came into her own countenance. All at once she started as if she had been struck. She grasped Edgerly's arm and shook him.

"Robert, Robert, quick! I think—I believe oh, I don't know what! For heaven's sake, call him, rouse him, ask him who he is!"

Edgerly laid his hand upon the tramp's shoulder. He roused him gently. He bent his ear down to the man's lips. It was almost a dead man's lips now. He said:

"In God's name, who are you?"

A smile of immortal beauty stole into the tramp's face. It glorified it beyond anything earthly. It was the farewell of a parting soul. He fumbled feebly at his breast with one hand, as if searching for something. The other hand clasped its stiffening fingers yet closer around Edgerly's. And with the immortal smile upon his face, with Robert's hand fast clasped in his, he whispered:

"I am your brother!"

CHAPTER XXII.

THE TRAMP'S STORY.

Let us gather up the tangled and broken threads and put them together again. We have not much else left to do now.

Rip was buried upon the hill, with the Carstones. Shirley and Brownie would have it so. Not one of that brave old race was ever laid more tenderly to rest, either, than the nameless one.

They found his dead fingers clasped about something beneath the breast of his ragged coat. It was a small black wallet, carefully fastened around his neck by a strong cord. It was not opened, but put aside for the time, and poor Rip was neatly dressed and buried upon the hill.

Brownie grieved greatly about his death.

"It was all my folly," she said. "I wanted to see the place where we picnicked that autumn day, just for old times' sake, Robert. I slipped out there early in the morning. I forgot all about the new railroad that crossed there, though I was walking upon the track. I can never forgive myself. Poor Rip! to die in that awful way, and I was the cause of it."

"I don't wonder it seems a terrible thing to you, Brownie," said her husband. "The worst for me is when I think how frightfully near it came to being you. That makes me turn cold. But, Shirley, I wonder what crazy whim got into the poor fellow's head that I was his brother—there when he was dying, you know!"

"Robert," answered Shirley, "it is time now to open that black silk bag he wore about his neck. I have kept it. I wish you to look into it first."

She put it into his hand. The wallet contained a dingy yellow leather note book, carefully protected from damp. There was something else, too, tied by a black ribbon. A sudden exclamation broke from Edgerly's lips.

"Why, Brownie," said he, "here is your forget-me-not ring, my mother's ring, that I put upon your finger the day we were engaged. What could have possessed the poor devil to keep that?"

Brownie clasped the precious ring with delight, looked at it fondly and passed it to Shirley.

"Isn't it a quaint, pretty thing?" said she.

"There's an inscription in it," said Shirley.

"Yes," said Robert. "My mother never would tell me what it meant. I've asked her many a time. It is the only thing I never could coax her to tell me."

Shirley read it and started to her feet.

"Read, only read Rip's papers!" said she.

The contents of the notebook were a strange medley. The spelling was as original as the ideas and sentences were. Preparing it had been the labor of years. The poor soul had built it slowly and painfully, a little at a time, as one might dig his way out through dungeon walls with his hands. Rip's literary accomplishments had been a matter of pride to him. The book was half diary, half moral and mental philosophy, from a vagabond's view. In it he gave such history of himself as he knew, circumstantially laid down. All through ran a vein of belief that he had been born to better things.

Such parts of the strange conglomerate as belong to this history will be laid before the reader. Not always, however, in the original spelling. That would cause it to be mistaken for the jokes of some great American humorist. It began as follows:

JOURNAL OF A TRAMP.

"I don't know where I was born. I don't know whose son I am. There ain't anything I do know mutch about. (I always knowed that word ought to be spelled mutch, but somehow I often find myself writing it much. But I asked Brownie Carstone, and she says yes, it is mutch.)"

"I remember that well," said Brownie. "It's been a hundred years ago, and I thought it was such fun to tell him wrong. Poor old Rip!"

The tramp's journal went on:

"Moll is the first I remember. There was something else, but I've give that up. I reckon I dreampt it, about heaven and the angels. But I know I've got good blood in me, anyhow."

The part of the history the reader is familiar with is here skipped. We take up Rip's story again at this point:

"I found old Moll again in Chesterton. I knew her by her one eye and her caved in nose. Her husband give her that. She says his name was Slugger. Moll keeps house. She hides goods that comes down chimney to her unbeknownst."

Then followed a record of aimless wanderings not a few. Sometimes, as long as a month or two, this outcast of humanity would settle down and work like a civilized man. Then suddenly, for no apparent reason, the vagabond spirit came upon him again, and he would up and away like a gypsy, recording simply in his journal that, on such a date,

"I took a notion to go on the tramp."

Here is something that will interest the reader:

"I took a lot of jewelry to Moll to keep safe, Moll looked over the swag. Among the bits of brass and things was a curious lookin' blue ring. No sooner had old Moll got her eyes on that than she took a fit. She grabbed my shoulder, and says she:

"'Rip, where'd you get that?'

"Says I, 'it's none o' your blessed business.'

"'Oh, very well,' says she, with her back up like, 'may be I knows things to your advantage, and may be I don't. May be I've seen that ring afore, and may be I hain't. May be you and that ring belonged together by rights, and may be you didn't.'

"'Well,' says I, 'a young lady give it to me, 'cause I was good lookin'.'

"'Rip,' says Moll, 'you lie.'

"Not a word more would she tell. I was sure she knowed something about my folks. I was always sure of that. But she was sulky that day.

"I got at her next day.

"'Moll, says I, 'you old rat, if you'll tell me about that ring I'll give you all the lot of swag.'

"She wouldn't open her head. I held up a little bottle of black stuff. That made her old cat's eye shine.

"'There,' says I, 'is somethin' that'll make you happier'n New Jerusalem. I'll give you that ff you'll tell me.'

"She grabbed for it. 'No you don't,' says I. 'Tell me about the ring first, Moll, Molly darling, Missiz Mary!'

"After while I got it out of her. It was a quare story.

"There was twin brothers of us. Our father was a rich man and a great nob. Moll's husband, Slugger, made his honest livin' by dividing rich people's goods with himself. My father was a rich man. Slugger saved them the trouble of sharing their goods with the poor by making the divvy himself. And he done it in the night, not to disturb 'em.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

Cardinal Manning on the Ceaseless Strife—The Duty of the Church.

LONDON, April 28.—Next Saturday's issue of the Tablet will contain a special article by Cardinal Manning, in which he will contend that unless the rights of labor can be denied the liberty of organization to protect them and the freedom founded upon them cannot be denied. Towards the end of the last century, the Cardinal says, the doctrines of political economy, under the plea of free contract broke up the old relations between the employer and the employed and the conflict between capital and labor then became perpetual. The power of capital is all but irresistible, for the poor must labour for the bread of life. Hunger lays the necessity upon them of labouring for the sake of their homes and themselves. When the law ceased to intervene, organizations for mutual defence straightway arose. The Knights of Labor and the British Trades Unions represented the rights of labour and the rights of the association for its defence. The conflict between capital and labour is more unequal. The freedom of contract, on which political economy glorifies itself, hardly exists. It is surely the Church's office to protect the poor and to protect their labour, which has built up the human commonwealth.

SUBSERVIENCY AND EXTRAVAGANCE

A more discreditable exhibition of party subserviency than was exhibited by the Grit members in voting down Mr. Meredith's resolution in favor of reasonable salaries by a straight party vote, has seldom been witnessed. It was utterly disgraceful on the part of men who profess themselves actuated by a desire to govern the Province on the principles of economy, and to oppose needless extravagance.—Toronto News (Indep)

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods. Without which none are genuine.

'GROMPTON CORSET CO.'

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Town Council.

A special meeting of the Town Council will be held on Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Drill.

At a meeting of the officers of the 57th Battalion held on Friday evening, it was decided to commence drill on May 10th.

Dr. Ryerson,

Of Toronto, will be at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, on Saturday, 7th May, for consultation on Eye, Ear, Throat and Nose cases.

Turnbull is now showing a Beautiful Range of Light Prints. Everybody admires them. The colors are warranted fast. See them.

Vagrants.

Dennis Slattery and Patrick Ryan, charged with vagrancy, were committed to gaol for terms of one month and six months respectively, at the Court this morning.

Saturday Excursions.

The Saturday market excursions were well patronized to-day. The incoming trains on the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railways brought large crowds to town.

The Dogslayers.

After to-day the members of the police force will be turned loose to slay all dogs not wearing the corporporation insignia. Mr. Macdonald will supply people having dogs they want to keep with the necessary tags on payment of the $1 fee.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. W. Gilbert, of Chicago, will speak at the young men's meeting to-night at 8 o'clock and will conduct the young men's meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. These meetings are conducted in an interesting manner, and are open to all young men.

No Superior.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"Last Monday Mr. J. J. Turner, sail, tent and awning maker, Peterborough, was in town making preparations to put up an awning in front of Mr. J. J. Daly's hotel, 'Congress Hall.' Mr. Turner has also an order for an awning for Mr. John Dobson, and is to replace the one in front of the Benson House with new canvas. For making an awning, a tent, or a sale, Mr. Turner has no superior in Canada."

The Horse Market.

This morning Mr. T. Cavanagh shipped 17 fine horses, bought in Otonabee, Smith and Monaghan, to Mr. Lefevre, of Montreal. The average price paid was $135 each. Mr. Cavanagh has received a contract from Mr. Cook of Montague, Michigan, to purchase 30 superior draught horses for shanty work. About seven years ago Mr. Cavanagh sent Mr. Cook three car loads of Peterborough horses, with which he was well pleased. No doubt Ted's experienced eye will pick out just the kind of horseflesh to suit the Yankee this time also.

THE CHOSEN FRIENDS.

The Society's aims and Objects—A Branch Inaugurated.

The inaugural meeting to establish a branch of the Order of Chosen Friends in Peterborough was held in the hall over China Hall on Friday evening. The attendance was not large.

Mr. C. P. Lennox, Deputy Supreme Councillor, occupied the platform for about three quarters of an hour in explaining the objects and working of the Society.

The principal aims of the Order, as set forth in the constitution are as follows:—"To unite in bonds of Fraternity, Aid and Protection all acceptable white persons of good character, steady habits, sound bodily health and reputable calling, who believe in a Supreme Intelligent Being, the Creator and Preserver of the Universe; to improve the condition of its membership, morally, socially and materially, by timely counsel and instructive lessons, by encouragement in business, and by assistance to obtain employment when in need; to establish a Relief Fund, from which members of this association who have complied with all its rules and regulations, or persons by such members lawfully designated, or the legal heirs of such members, may recive a benfit in a sum not exceeding three thousand dollars, ($3,000,) which shall be paid either when a member reaches the age of seventy-five years, or when, by reason of disease or accident, such member becomes permanently disabled from following his usual or some other occupation, or upon sotisfactory evidence of the death of such member, and when all the conditions regulating such payment have been complied with." Though there were quite a number of members enrolled the election officers did not take place. That, and other business, will be transacted at the adjourned meeting to be held next Tuesday evening.

Wonderful value, think of it, 72 inch white twilled sheeting, 22½ cents, 72 inch twilled unbleached sheeting 20 cent, and 1¼ white quilts 75 cents, at Sheppard's.

Licenses.

A meeting of the West Riding License Commissioner was held on Friday afternoon. There were present Messrs. R. Graham, T. Dolan and R. Walton. Mr. Dolan was appointed Chairman It was decided to grant druggist's licenses to Messrs. Wm. Walsh and John Mckee, Peterborough. The druggist's license for Lakefield will be considered at another meeting.

Personal.

Mr. W. E. Matthews, who is gone on a visit to England, will be absent about two months.

Mr. Joseph Gibson, who is to deliver addresses in the Opera House to-morrow evening and on Monday evening, will arrive on the C. P. R. train to-night. He will be met by a deputation of Royal Templars.

Provincial Appointments.

The Ontario Gazette announces the appointment of Col. Deacon, of Lindsay, as Police Magistrate of Victoria County, and of Mr. Frederick Mowat as Sheriff of Toronto. Mr. Frederick Mowat is a son of the Hon. O. Mowat.

Band Competition.

The Fire Brigade Band has decided to enter the band competition which is to take place under the auspices of the Dominion Organ Factory at Bowmanville on the 7th and 8th of June.

Returning Thanks.

Mr. C. Huffman wishes to thank Mr. C. B. Routley and Mr. Drake, of the C. P. R. Station, for their efforts to restore his child also to the ladies in the neighborhood who rendered such valuable assistence.

Division Court.

His Honor Judge Weller had twenty-four cases to dispose of at Friday's session of the Division Court. Nothing out of the run of the ordinary came up, however, and the complaints were all soon adjusted.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

The Progress of the Work Last Year—A Substantial Advance.

We take from the departmental blue book of the Minister of Railways and Canals the following extract from the report for last year, made by Mr. Tom S. Rubidge, then Engineer in charge of construction on the Trent Valley Navigation:—

SURVEYS.

It is submitted, that sufficient information has now been obtained to enable me to make a final report to the Chief Engineer. An estimate of the cost of construction of the entire line as surveyed has already been prepared, which, with the plans, &c., now in hand, will be forwarded with the report as soon as completed.

CONSTRUCTION.

Lakefield Dam.

This dam is situated at the outlet of Katchiwannoe Lake, controls the navigable reach extending upwards to Young's Point. The work comprises the main dam across the river, and a wing dam or waste-way in which is included the head gates to the Strickland mills. The main dam was completed last season, but principally in order to suit the convenience of mill-owners and persons interested in the water supply, it has, however, been commenced with their consent, and will now be prosecuted to completion. In connection with this work, the formation of a submerged raceway has also been authorized, facilities for water-works for fire purposes having been granted to the Municipality of Lakefield.

The contract was entered into with Mr. Charles Wynn, 9th March, 1884, to be completed 1st September.

Young's Point Dam.

Is situated between Clear and Katchiwannoe Lakes, and regulates and controls for navigation purposes, the levels of Clear and Stoney Lakes to the foot of the Burleigh Canal.

The work was completed last season, and fully answers the purposes for which it was constructed.

The contract was entered into with Mr. Charles Wynn, 23rd January, 1884, to be completed 1st December.

Burleigh Canal.

The work is designed to overcome the falls and rapids at Burleigh and Lovesick, and thereby complete the navigation between the Stoney Lake and Deer Bay reaches. It consists in the construction of two locks, combined, with bridge, regulating and other dams, &c., at Burleigh Chute, and also of a lock and regulating dams at Lovesick Rapids, and lateral dams across the several outlets from Deer Bay.

Since my last report extraordinarily rapid progress had been made, in view of the difficult character of the work, more particularly at Burleigh Chute, at which place the Lower Lock and entrance thereto have been completed, as well as the massive and complicated foundation walls of the Upper Lock, where, also, considerable progress has been made in the ordinary masonry of the lock walls.

The piers for the swing bridge are also completed, and the dams are all in such a forward state as will enable the work thereon to be continued during the coming winter.

At Lovesick, the progress of the work has been equally rapid and satisfactory, the lock walls being fully half finished, and the dams and other works here, in a similar condition to those at Burleigh Chute, thus leaving no room to question the ability of the contractor to complete his contract next season.

The contract was entered into with Mr. George Goodwin, 27th September, 1882, to be completed 1st September 1884. From various circumstances, chiefly from a desire to improve upon the original location, the work of construction was practically not commenced until after the completion of the Buckhorn by Mr. Goodwin. The lock gates for all the locks have been provided for, and together with the superstructure for the swing bridge on the colonization road will shortly be commenced.

The consequence of the channel of the chute having been selected as the site for the combined locks, that, at Burleigh Falls, is now the only available means of running timber and logs, and since the existing dam and slide at this station are in ruinous condition, it is now proposed to reconstruct both works on a different site from that now occupied by them, for which purpose a survey has been made, and the necessary plans prepared.

Buckhorn Canal.

Consists in a lock and short reach of canal and the improvement of the channel of Little Buckhorn Rapids, by which means the navigable waters of Deer Bay and Buckhorn Lake are now connected.

The contract was entered into with Mr. George Goodwin, 27th September, 1882, to be completed 1st September, 1884. The work was fully completed in December, 1884 A contract for lock gates has been awarded to Mr. George Goodwin, to be completed before the opening of navigation next season, and arrangements are being made for the construction of the swing bridge over the lock.

Fenelon Falls.

This work comprises two locks, combined, a headrace for dydraulic purposes, a short reach of canal, and other work in connection with a "draw" intended to be placed in the Victoria Railway Bridge. This canal is situated about the centre of the village of Fenelon Falls, and rapids of the Fenelon river, between Sturgeon and Cameron's Lakes.

The contract was entered into with A. F. Manning & Co., 14th October, 1882, to be completed 1st July, 1885. The work was completed in October, 1885, with the exception of the pivot and rest piers for the railway bridge, of which, for reasons stated in my last report, the contractors were relieved.

A contract for the construction of lock gates has been awarded to Mr. Charles Wynn, to be completed this season, and arrangements are also being made to place the swing bridge on Colborne street, across the Upper Lock.

I have the the honor to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
TOM. S. RUBIDGE,
Engineer in Charge.

FROM
J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

Mr. Joseph Gibson's Views on the Subject.

On Sunday evening Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, lectured in the Opera House on the subject, "Is Life Worth Living?" The Rev. E. H. Wallace, M.A., B.D., occupied the chair and briefly introduced the lecturer. In doing so he asked the audience to abstain from applause during the evening.

Mr. GIBSON said that whatever he said this evening would be with a due regard that to-day was the Lord's Day. This was a blessed day. It was a great factor in the strength of the people. Judging it from the lowest standard—a man can do more work in six days than he can in seven, and although he did not purpose to discuss the question to night, he believed that a workingman could do more work in 8 hours than he could in ten. Said he: "There is just about so much go in a man and when you take that go out of him he don't go worth a cent." As an Englishman he was proud of his country; but he did not propose to go into gush over the matter or to let pride of his nationality obscure his judgment. On undertaking to measure what makes this Empire great he would not measure its territorial extent, vast as that was; nor would he guage its greatness by the number of its hundreds of millions of population; nor would the measure be the measure of commerce and wealth; but it was by that law which bade all subjects observe the Lord's Day. This world was full of asking questions. The youth of the land continually ask questions. Asking questions showed that the questioner had an enquiring mind. If questioning be confined to a legitimate sphere it was a great source to gain information. Thoughtful men asked questions and among the questions asked the uppermost was that which was the subject of his theme this evening. After all our civilization and apparent success, our pleasures of life, is life worth living? And they asked the question with a degree of doubt. Some young men asked the same question—young men that go no further than living the butterfly life of the world. He would say, "Young man, so far as you are concerned, life is not worth living." Some gave as their reasons for the worthlessness of living this life the statistics regarding increasing crime. These, he could say were at least alarming. Others pointed to the poverty. In London from 150,000 to 200,000 people dragged a on day to day existence within the shadow rich men's houses. Others still felt that the abject drudgery of this life made it unendurable. He described ordinary routine of a housewife's everyday life and acknowledged that it was drudgery. He described the blacksmith's weary dull monotonous pounding on the anvil, and acknowledged that, with nothing higher than the aim of beating hot iron within his breast, that man was leading the life of a drudge. But take the blacksmith and let him consecrate every fifth blow to the missionary cause and his life is changed. He is no more contained within the narrow bounds of his smithy; his field of action is the world. Let the housewife be busy with projects of rearing up her children aright, let her be inspired with methods of doing good and her life is not the life of a drudge.

While people went on saying that the misery of this world rendered it worthless they did not look for the causes of this misery. He could say with truth that a large part of the misery is chargeable to the drink traffic. He did not come here to say a word against anyone in the business. His mission here was not to abuse people. But as far as the liquor traffic was concerned he thanked God that he hated it. He had reason to hate st. Nine years of his life was spent at home in a hotel. He believed that the great problem of the future was social, not political. Good government was assured inasmuch as the theory of responsible government had been worked out, and if the people had bad Government it was their own fault. What they wanted was to get rid of the liquor traffic someway. If the traffic could be got rid of it would be a greater thing for this Canada than all Sir John Macdonald or Edward Blake would or could ever possibly do. In speaking of what the effect of the traffic was upon Canada he said that every year $4,000 people died from the effects of liquor. It had been computed that an able bodied man, intelligent and knowing how to labour was worth $1,200 to to the community. Slaves in the South were valued at $1,000, so that the price put on free labor was not immoderate seeing that free labor was worth more than bond labor. Then according to this computation this traffic causes a loss to Canada every year of $5,000,000, in round numbers. He asked fathers and mothers if they valued their own flesh and blood. By the way he had seen some people rally to the polls he would judge that they did not. All families were in danger.. One family was just as likely as another to contribute one of its number as a sacrifice to the liquor traffic. Then why should they support the maintenance of a system like this. Here was the financial loss the state suffered, and the danger to which all were exposed. He was astonished to find that two of his boys went off to the woods with two other boys one day with a jug of whiskey. There was the danger. All were exposed. He described the ills that abided with the 30,000 children born yearly in London and Glasgow from debauched parents. Said he: "No man or woman can practice impurity without running the risk of cursing their kind." Some clever young men had the idea that they could drink and let it alone. After long experience he had come to this conclusion: It's just the clever, talented young men who are most in danger. It's always the best mechanic that suffers most. Take a fellow whose head and neck are the same size up, whose head isn't bigger than a person's fist, and not much more in it—that fellow can drink and drink, and never get drunk. There isn't enough material for the liquor to operate on. But the man of talent, of a social nature—the man having a soul—is in danger all the time.

He spoke for a short time on the enfranchisement of women, and closed with remarking that the hope of getting rid of the liquor traffic was in giving women the franchise.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I see by your paper that Mr. Seward and others are interesting themselves in promoting a concert to take place in the Rink on the occasion of Her Majesty's Jubilee. While admitting that a concert is a very desirable adjunct to the day's celebration, I cannot fall in with the scheme advanced by Mr. Seward and the gentlemen connected with him. I am sorry that suggestions offered by Mr. Miller in a recent communication were not taken up in the spirit in which they were conceived, for which I offer the following reasons. 1st. The occasion is one which all loyal subjects of Her Majesty should feel in duty bound to celebrate without being influenced by mercenary motives. 2nd, That in the prosperous town of ours there are a large number of poor people who would be debarred from enjoying the privilege of attending the concert, should an admission fee be charged. 3rd, Knowing that the concert was being conducted for the benefit of the public, and that no one would reap any benefit from its pecuniarly, it would infuse an enthusiasm into performers commensurate with the importance of the event we celebrate. Now, Mr. Editor, the Fire Brigade Band have already signified their willingness to render their services, and I have no doubt that the different musical organizations in the town will cordially cooperate in the scheme suggested by Prof. Miller, viz., to have a jubilee concert worthy of the name and day, and what I contend is the most important point is to have it absolutely free. It is true there might be a very small expense incurred in procuring sufficient music for the large number who would take part, which could be covered easily by voluntary contributions. If the leaders of the different musical organizations would meet together, all actuated by a common purpose, laying aside for the time all professional jealousies, we would have a jubilee concert which would be a credit to our town, and worth of the illustrious Lady in whose honor it is held. Cannot some of influenced citizens give their views on the subject? We have the talent. There is no better place than our beautiful Park, and all that is wanted to make a grand success is the encouragement and sympathy of the public.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

New Departments—Parliamentary Subheads—Scott Act Amendments—Banff National Park—Northwest Representation.

FRIDAY, April 29.—A number of private bills were introduced.

NEW DEPARTMENTS.

SIR J. MACDONALD, in introducing the bill respecting the Custom and Inland Revenue Departments, said he wished the second reading to be taken at the same time with the Trade and Commerce Bill. The idea was to make Custom and Inland Revenue subdepartment under Trade and Commerce with heads in Parliament but not in the Cabinet.

THE SCOTT ACT.

Mr. JAMIESON introcuced a bill to amend the Scott Act. The principal provisions were: to include British Columbia and provincial districts in other Provinces; to allow searches at night; to restrict dispensing; to allow deposit of petition in either Registry office in a county; to give half fines to private prosecutors and half to municipalities.

Mr. MILLS wanted the Government to take up the bill and taunted its members, especially Mr. Foster, with shirking responsibility.

THE SOLICITOR GENERAL.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced the bill for the appointment of a Solicitor-General who might be a member of either House and not necessarily of the Cabinet.

THE BUDGET.

Sir C. TUPPER, in reply to Sir R. Cartwright, said he would announce next week when he would make his financial statement.

DEPARTMENTAL CHANGES.

Sir. J. MADDONALD, in moving the second reading of the Trade and Commerce Department Bill, said he would explain it when they were considering the Customs and Inland Revenue Bill.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT spoke in favor of fewer Cabinet Ministers with under secretaries of state as in England.

Mr. MILLS opposed this view and the proposed changes in the Departments.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD said they were moving in the direction advocated by Sir R. Cartwright.

BANFF PARK.

Mr. THOS. WHITE moved the second reading of the Banff National Park Bill. In answer to Mr. Edgar and Sir R. Cartwright, he explained that the Park would extend 26 miles by 10, but included a lake 15 miles long. There would be no molopoly, but leases would be granted and regulations would be made to keep it respectable.

Mr. MITCHELL spoke strongly in favour of the reservation of this Park.

Mr. TROW was equally eulogistic.

Mr. MILLS of course objected, but after a little further discussion the Bill was read a second time.

NORTHWEST REPRESENTATION.

SIR J. MACDONALD moved the second reading of the bill to give to the Northwest Territories representatives by two Senators who must be residents. Mr. Blake was mistaken in supposing that this was not authorized by the act of the British Parliament.

Mr. MILLS objected to going the Northwest Territories representation in the Senate. He objected to the expense and to a Conservative Senate. However, as there was no restriction on the number of Northwest Senators, when the Liberals came into power they could appoint a score or more of their friends.

SIR J. MACDONALD thought it would be a long time before the people gave the power of doing this to Mr. Mills, whose mind seemed to turn naturally to such gerrymandering. The people had just re-expressed their trust in him and left abuse of the Senate to speculative political philosophers.

SIR R. CARTWRIGHT denied this and had heard people condemn the Senate. He was glad the Northwest would be represented, but thought that one Senator would be enough.

Mr. CHARLTON vilified the Senate till the Speaker had to rule him out of order. He then abused the Government and the Conservative party. He denied that he had received money for the elections from the United States.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD said that charge would be discussed later and the authority given. The Opposition were abusive because of their bitter disappointment at their defeat when they had fully expected a victory. Mr. Blake was as disappointed as any of them, and even when he was defeated he joined in the pretence of being successful to delude the electors who had not then voted. He read a telegram from Mr. Blake to British Columbia falsely claiming that he had triumphed. In Prince Edward Island public officials had been threatened to make them work and vote for the Reformers.

Mr. DAVIES admitted the disappointment of his party and complained that the Government meant to dismiss the officials who had opposed them in Prince Edward Island.

Mr. JONES said Reform officials had been prevented from voting in Nova Scotia and aid to railways had been promised

A member advised him to "hand down that flag," and the second reading was carried.

BISMARCK'S COURTESY.

LONDON, April 30.—A Berlin despatch says: Mr. Herbette, the French Ambassador, is reported to have expressed himself as in the highest degree gratified at the courteous treatment he, as the representative of his Government, has received at the hands of the German Chancellor and Foreign Office throughout the Schnaebeles controversy.

RUSSIAN INTRIGUE.

LONDON, April 30.—The Standard says it has reliable information that three Russian steamers have been for some time past, and are still engaged in transporting troops destined for Chardjui, Central Asia.

THE CRIMES BILL.

LONDON, April 30.—Parliament went into committee on the Crimes Bill last night. Dr. Commins, Liberal, moved that the Crimes Acts should not be retrospective. Mr. Healy, in supporting the motion, said he would advise his countrymen to refuse to answer summonses under the clauses of the act which were made retrospective. The amendment was negatived without a division.

THE PACIFIC MAIL ROUTE.

LONDON, April 30.— In the House of Lords last night, the Earl of Harrowby asked for information respecting the decision of the government on the proposal of the Canadian government to establish a line of mail steamers between Vancouver and China. The Earl of Onslow, parliamentary secretary of the Colonial office, replied that the committee to which the matter was referred had declined to recommend a subsidy of $500,000 for the proposed service of a steamer every three weeks, but was considering the advisability of granting a subsidy of $300,000 for a monthly service, Canada to contribute also. Lord Carnarvon urged that a subsidy be granted. He said that if England did not assist the enterprise the advantages of the route would pass into the hands of another power.

VATICAN AND QUIRINAL.

VIENNA, April 30.—The Tagblatt says: "The Vatican favors the following conditions for a reconciliation with the Quirinal:—First, the pope will advise the royal archducal and ducal families of Naples, Tuscany and Modena to renounce all claims to sovereignty in favor of the Holy See. Second, the Pope will crown Humbert king, granting him and his Catholic descendants territory in Italy "in fief." Third, the King will govern the whole kingdom with full temporal rights, but will acknowledge the Pope as suzerain, and pledge himself to rule according to the dictates of the Church. Fourth, the King will reside in Rome. Fifth, a territory including Leonine city and part of the Tiber shore will be alloted permanently to the Pope, with absolute ruling and proprietary rights. Sixth, a special convention will be concluded, fixing the amount Italy shall pay to maintain the papal household.

THE COLONIAL DELEGATES.

LONDON, April 30.—A banquet was given last night by the Colonial office to the delegates to the Colonial Conference. Sir Henry Holland, Colonial Secretary, presided. Among those present were the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Aberdeen, the Marquis of Lorne, Lord Rosebery, Lord Carnarvon, Mr. Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, and Lord Dunraven. Replying to the toast to his health, the Prince of Wales expressed great pleasure at having become acquainted with the Colonial delegates. No one desired more than he that the conference should succeed in binding the colonies in still closer union with the Empire. Lord Rosebery, in proposing the health of the delegates, said that though he was a strong party man on home affairs, he entertained no party feeling where the welfare of the Empire was concerned. He offered, fully and freely, his homage and congratulations to Lord Salisbury's Government for having initiated this conference, which, meeting in such a serious manner, could not fail of success. Sir Ambrose Shea made an appropriate reply to Lord Rosebery and toasted the chair.

O'BRIEN SAILS.

QUEENSTOWN, May 1.—William O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, and Mr. Kilbride, one of the tenants evicted from the Lansdown estate, sailed hence for New York to-day on the steamer Umbria. The Mayor and the Municipal Council of Queenstown and various other bodies presented Mr. O'Brien with addresses. A crowd of several thousand persons gathered to bid him farewell and he was called upon for a speech. In the course of his remarks Mr. O'Brien said he carried with him the full approval of the Irish people. He felt that when the liberal-loving Canadians heard a true account of Lord Lansdowne's cruelty to his tenants they would not tolerate being governed by such a man.

PALMER'S RAPIDS MURDERER.

How Gogolin Spends the Few Remaining Hours on Earth.

David Gogolin, the German who was sentenced to be hanged on the 6th of June, at Pembroke, for the murder of Minnie Wreckenthal, feels his position keenly, says the Equity. He eats very little food, barely enough to keep him alive. He says he wishes he was dead, then he would be all right. He raves in his sleep, but his ravings are in German. He can speak a little English, and tells his keeper God will not punish him for killing that woman. He is trying to justify himself by saying that the woman was worse than he was and provoked him to it. Gogolin belongs to the Lutheran Church. There is no Lutheran minister in town now; pity but what some pious German would come and talk to him about the awful crime he has committed in sending a poor woman into eternity without any preparation in such a cruel manner, besides leaving her motherless children in this cold-hearted world, and his own wife a widow and five fatherless children. His heart is still hard against the woman he killed and he says he will tell her after he is dead if he sees her. "Twas your fault Minnie Wreckenthal." His religious instruction has been neglected, his father having died when he was a child, and his mother when he was twenty. He has no relatives in the country, but two sisters in Germany. He has no wish to write to them or to his own family either. He cannot read or write himself, he came out from Germany nine years ago, his wife and his two children followed him two years later. In the daytime he talks very softly and rolls on the floor of his cell and seems to be repeating over some prayer or talking to himself. He appears to sleep well, but seems troubled in his dreams.

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, MAY 2, 1887.

THE MOWAT GRAB.

We do not believe that a man should be disqualified from office because he is related to a Cabinet Minister, if he is well fitted for the position. The qualifications of the candidate should be the test without reference to his parentage, his race or his creed. But the appointment by Mr. Mowat of his son as sheriff of Toronto has many bad features. It is thoroughly in keeping with his dishonest record but quite opposed to his hypocritical professions for himself and his slanders of his betters.

The fact that Mr. Mowat has kept this fat thing in his own family, throws a lured light upon some of the Premier's recent acts. The position is one that, being remunerated by fees, is notoriously overpaid, yet when Mr. Meredith, acting in the interest of the people of Ontario, advocated that the excess should go to the public, Mr. Mowat contemptously refused his consent. Had he then in contemplation to drop this egg into his own nest?

Again there is the fact that the excuse for this job is that it was perpetrated on the advice and recommendation of Mr. John Leys, the bogus M. P. P. for Toronto. It is well known that this Mr. Leys is an imposter, who does not represent the people of his constituency or a majority of them, but who for that very reason was pitch forked into his usurped seat by Mr. Mowat and his subservent following by an act of the Legislature, enacted expressly to frustrate the choice of the electors. Was the understanding by which he purchased his usurped position that he should use his patronage for the pecuniary benefit of the Mowat family?

Some of Mr. Mowat's friends, hoodwinked by his pharisaical hypocrisy, have been protesting in advance that he would not be guilty of such nepotism, which they then held would be disgraceful, even if they change their minds now. We attached little weight to these statements as to Mr. Mowat's honesty and magnanimity, feeling sure from his past record that he would either sell his patronage for votes as he did at Ottawa or keep it for himself and family as he did at Kingston. His dishonesty in grabbing patronage at Kingston for his own pecuniary benefit was so flagrant that it drew upon him the severest condemnation from the local organ of his party.

That Mr. Mowat should make his son Sheriff of Toronto may be very convenient for him and for his son, but an appointment by Mr. Mowat does not necessarily confer honour. The public are aware that Mr. Mowat has prostituted his official patronage by placing two notorious thieves in high office. He therefore cannot be accused of unduly elevating his son, whom we believe to be an honourable man, by coupling him with such favourites.

In its public aspect, apart from his snatching from the people the fair surplus of these excessive fees, the most important side of the matter is the exposure he has made of his hypocrisy and slanderous malevolence towards his political opponents. By his personal hired organ, if not by his own mouth, he has foully charged Sir John Macdonald with corruption and nepotism in regard to his son and his son's clients. Great as is the patronage Sir John controls, he has with highminded scrupulousness refrained from bestowing any of it upon his son. Mr. Macdonald is a lawyer, and we suppose is of age, so he is scarcely under the dictation of his father as to the clients from whom he shall accept business. Most assuredly business men or companies would not submit to a prohibition from Sir John as to entrusting their legal affairs to his son. Yet this self-denying statesman, the foremost man in the Dominion by the repeated choice of the people of Canada, is slandered and insulted by a Mowat.

Now we maintain that Mr. F. Mowat should not be disqualified for any position, for which he may be the fit candidate, because his father is Premier of Ontario, or even because his father is a dishonest hypocrite. But this does not alter the fact that Mr. Mowat has preserved for the pecuniary benefit of the family an overpaid position, when he had the opportunity of relieving the over-taxed people of the excessive burden, or that while prostituting his official patronage for personal advantage he has vilified better and honester men by falsely charging them with acting like himself.

IT WANTS MORE.

The Parliament of Canada has very liberally granted to newspapers the privilege of free transmission by the mails if posted from the office of publication. The Globe has been breaking the law by mailing its papers from any convenient office without payment, that is, it has been making the people of Canada pay a portion of its expenses without their consent or sanction. Because the Dominion Administration has pointed out its infraction of the law, at the expense of the people of Canada, the Globe is as abusive as other dishonest people when their lawlessness is exposed. In its attack it utters the untruth that it is excluded from the mails. It is as free to use the mails as any other person or corporation, if it complies with the law, and does not assume the right to tax other people without their consent. It has with other newspapers the boon of having the cost of carrying its papers, from the office of publication, paid for it by the people at large, and besides this privilege it has the same use of the mails in other respects as is allowed to other people. It is both ungrateful and dishonest when under cover of its privileges it attempts against the law to exact a further bonus from the taxpayer, and abuses the authorities for upholding the laws passed by Parliament for us all, in preference to those manufactured by the Globe for itself.

In 1874 when the Reformers were in power, and Mr. Pope was as now, Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, the newly elected Reformers were gazetted before the Conservatives. And now the London Advertiser demands that Mr. Pope should be punished by dismissal on the ground of partiality in the order of gazetting. Why did not the Advertiser ask its friend the Hon. David Mills, when he was in power, to dismiss Mr. Pope? If there is wrongdoing and it is punished, the punishment should follow the event speedily. But perhaps Mr. Mills and the Advertiser did not think then that Mr. Pope was an offender.

ROBBERS HOLD UP A TRAIN.

A Daring Deed on the Southern Pacific Railway.

San Francisco, April 28.—One of the most audacious, desperate and successful train robberies ever recorded occurred yesterday on the west bound train on the Southern Pacific Railway near Tuscon, Arizona. A special to the Evening Bulletin from Tuscon gives details of the affair as follows: "The western bound express, due here at 10.30 last evening, was stopped and robbed at Papago station, eighteen miles east of here, about 9.30. The number of men engaged in the robbery is variously estimated from five to eight. Col. Harper the engineer, when approaching Papago, was signalled by a red lantern to stop. He slowed down and as he approached the light he noticed obstructions on the track so placed that in case he failed to stop, the engine would spread the track and derail itself. Immediately on stopping a dozen or more shots were fired into the express car, and a man with a pistol in each hand boarded the locomotive and commanded Harper not to get down. The other robbers had in the meantime been prying open the express car, and failing to get open they placed a stick of giant powder under it and compelled Harper to light the fuse attached. This he was obliged to do, but to avoid being blown up the messenger opened the car and the robbers took possession. They then took charge of the car, uncoupled the engine, baggage and express car from the remainder of the train and made Harper get on the engine and pull ahead two lengths. This being done, Harper was again put off and the robbers took charge of the engine and pulled six miles towards Tucson. Here they killed the engine and left it. During the run the robbers went through the mail and express cars, but did not get more than $5000. Nothing was known here of the affair until midnight, when a telegram was received from Pantano, a brakeman having walked back eight miles to that place. None of the passengers were molested.

WAKE UP! WAKE UP!

All You High Price Would-be Clothiers.

GOUGH, the WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN RINGS OUT HIS ALARM BELL TO YOU

THIS WEEK he is going to hurl a tirade of prices at you that will besiege his place of business with anxious buyers, and break you all up. Our three flats are packed with NEW GOODS, ☞ and we can show MORE CLOTHING THAN THE WHOLE KIT OF YOU COMBINED, including the tail end of a few Dry Goods Stores that carry a few shoddy Suits. Energy will tell, and the people appreciate it. ☞ Our Business is not on paper; it is a reality, and the result of long, patient study and hard work.

READ, YOU BABY CLOTHIERS, WHAT THE CLOTHIER OF THE AGE IS GOING TO DO FOR THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS, AND WHEN YOU READ, REFLECT, AND WHEN YOU REFLECT, COME AND BUY FROM HIM, FOR YOU CANNOT BUY FROM ANY WHOLESALE HOUSE IN CANADA AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES

LOT 1.—Mens Blue Serge Suits for $3.50, not, mark you, old faded out brown shoddy serge, such as you can buy elsewhere for $3.75, but a pure Indigo dye, warranted fast color, and to cost you $8.00 from any other dealer.

LOT 2.—Mens All Wool Waterloo Tweed Suits for $4.00. This is a beautiful black and brown check, trimmed with a silk serge lining, and the lowest wholesale price of it is guaranteed to be $6.50. We show a dozen different patterns in this line to select from.

LOT 3.—Mens West of England and Scotch Tweed Suits at $5.50, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00. Are made and trimmed equal to custom work, and if made to order would cost you from $15.00 to $22.00. With this line of goods we throw you in 10 yards of Embroidery and one pair of Corsets. Such goods are too trifling for the Wonderful Cheap Man to sell, and are assigned to his gift Department.

LOT 4.—Mens Fine French Worsted Suits for $10.00 and $12.00, not backed goods, but pure worsted, worth $25.00 made to order. We have thousands of these goods to select from.

LOT 5.—Boys Suits from 98 cents per suit up. We really cannot afford anything out of our gift Department with this suit, but to make it interesting, and not disappoint the boy, we will throw in a Cap.

In Our HAT and CAP Department we sell a Fine Soft Felt Hat for 20 cents worth 80 cents, and a Fine Stiff Felt Hat, newest Style, for 75 cents worth $1.50.

In Our Furnishing GOODS and BOOT Department, suffise to say we stand unique, and are almost giving them away, if you doubt it, call and see if we dont give you something handsome without effecting your pocket. Workingmen try a pair of our 50 cent Cottonade pants, they are worth $1.00.

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

SHIRLEY CARSTONE

"Our house had a big yard, with trees. One night Slugger found a back gate open. He slipped in. He saw a woman carry something white out of the house and lay it down under a tree. Then she went back and brought out something else white and laid it down by the other. That was Slugger's time. He slips up along there, when out comes the woman agin, and lays down something else. Then she went in. Slugger watched, and she didn't come back. He slips up closer, and finds there two babies asleep and a box along with 'em. He lifts up the babies easy like. He has a pocket, useful in his perfession. He chucks the box in that pocket. Then he lights out, babies and box.

"He knowed the babies and he knowed their father.

"He was smart and lively, Slugger was. He dodges the police, and he slips along through alleys and side ways, and he brings the children home to Moll.

"'There,' says he, 'there's a pair of kids for you. A big reward 'll be offered for 'em.'

"It was a game thing to do, and a risky one. Slugger opened the box. It was a jewel box. Moll says it blinded her eyes to look at the things in it. She ain't never seen sich a sight since. Among the things was a curious lookin' blue ring. Slugger took up with a notion in a minit. He told Moll an awful row would be raised about the boys, and they couldn't be kept together. He'd take one and go over seas with it. The other he'd leave with Moll. That other was me. Luck was agin me from the time I was born.

"Slugger said he'd wait till the reward got stiff enough. Then he'd manage the business part from a safe ways off. He took the uncommon lookin' blue ring with him. It wasn't worth much, he said, and it would help prove that the babies was them jinoolne two babies that was lost.

"A ship went out on the tide that morning. Slugger knowed every ship. He could get aboard in onregular ways, when he pleased. So at 5 o'clock, before people was awake, my twin brother was in a ship, started over seas.

"Moll never laid eyes on her husband again. He had a pardner in London. Slugger was from London himself. She got a letter from his pardner three months after he went away. Slugger was dead. He had been shot breaking into a house. He was wounded, but dodged the police and got off to his den. They found him dead there. In the room with the dead burglar was a little boy. Slugger's pardner knowed the child had been kidnaped for a reward. He didn't know whose child it was.

"Slugger's pardner was in hiding himself, and didn't dast to come out and say anything. The kid was took to St. Hildegarde Foundling asylum. Some rich people adopted him after awhile. That was t'other young one. Luck was always agin me.

"Moll kept the letter. I've got it pasted in the back of my journal. But Moll didn't know the name of the father of them two kids, t'other young un and me. Slugger wouldn't tell her. He kep it to hisself for meanness. From all we can make out, Slugger held as much cussedness in his skin as any white man ever did. If he thought his wife wanted anything that was reason enough why she shouldn't have it. He had the right idees of trainin' females. Moll, the blamed ole idiot! why'n't she look into the newspapers! If it had been me! But women never reads newspapers. If they did, they'd know more.

"'Moll,' says I, 'will you swear to this?'

"'Yes,' says she, 'I will, if it won't get me into trouble. If it will, I'll swear I made it up out of my own head, every word of it.'

"'Are you dead sure this is that there same ring that was in the jewel box?'

"'Dead sure. Don't you see them letters and that date inside? Them wouldn't be in but one ring, would they?'

"The old woman made her oath to what she told me. I've got that pasted in the back of my journal, too. It always appeared to me that if a feller knowed for certain he had good blood in him, that he could make something of himself."

"'Then,' says I, 'Molly darling, take this and get drunker'n a biled owl. That there's for your trouble. It's a bottle full of laudanum. Bless ye, my child!'

"Next thing: How did that ring get on the finger of the young lady that gave it to me for being good lookin'? There was some unpleasant circumstances jined to that present. They would have worked agin me in the minds of people with a prejudice.

"About that time I heard of the death of a colored gentleman, an old friend of mine. It upset my nerves completely. I couldn't bear to go near the place where my friend had died. Change of scene was all that would restore my sperrits. I jumped the country.

"But I never got my mind off that there ring. I thought about it off and on for years. And by stiddy study I figgered the thing out at last. Light broke in on me. The young lady had a English sweetheart, which he's married to her now, blast his soul! The Englishman brought that ring over seas and gave it to her. How did the Englishman get it; when the last heard of it 'twas on a ribbon around the neck of t'other kid which wasn't me!"

After that there were breaks in Rip's story. The penmanship became dimmer and more unsteady. Yet through all the record there ran still the one purpose of discovering what his family had been.

At one point there was mention of a "lawyer feller," who turned out to be a precious rogue. Rip let him into the mystery as far as he knew. Then the lawyer threw Rip over and worked the mystery on his own account. Evidently he scented something worth taking trouble about. It appeared that he went to England. He copied from the St. Hildegarde asylum books the record of the admission of t'other kid, and his adoption afterward by an English country family. There was even mention and description of the ring found with the child. It was taken along with him by the family that adopted him. The lawyer investigated further, and satisfied himself here were both mystery and money worthy the most distinguished legal talent. He made legally certified copies of the information gained, and brought his papers back home.

Yet he miscounted. Rip, the ragged, the worthless; Rip the tramp, was not to be thrown over. He pursued the "lawyer feller" like a wolf. Where the lawyer knew one turn to take to hide his little game, the tramp knew ten ways to find it out.

Rip knew the hour the lawyer set foot in his home. He followed him and badgered him. The lawyer denied everything. But Rip became satisfied the attorney had important information. Set a thief to catch a thief. Quite true. After a time Lawyer Squeezit began to suspect he was being watched. He had about him some papers of value that he thought best to remove to a place of safety.

The St. Lawrence, between Montreal and Sorel, is now practically clear of ice. The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company's boats will probably commence running on Monday.

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by all Druggists 50 cents.

Breadstreet's reports a total of 178 failures throughout the country during the week ending April 29th, against 180 for the week previous. Twenty of the number were in Canada, three less than the preceding week.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.
